

Tatum to star in 'Bloodlines'

Actor Channing Tatum is set to produce and star in a film based on author Melissa Del Bosque's upcoming book 'Bloodlines'.

'Bloodlines: The True Story of a Drug Cartel, the FBI, and the Battle for a Horse-Racing Dynasty' follows two FBI agents one of the them a rookie as they work to take down members of a drug cartel wrapped up with quarter horse racing in Texas.

Tatum, 37, is producing through his production company along with 'Fifty Shades of Grey' producer Michael De Luca.

Jonathan Herman will adapt the screenplay for the film. No director is yet attached to the project. (TOI)

HUGH JACKMAN IN AWE OF ZENDAYA

Los Angeles

Actress Zendaya of "Spider-Man: Homecoming" fame says actor Hugh Jackman was impressed by seeing her stunt work on the set of their upcoming musical "The Greatest Showman".

In the film, about showman P.T. Barnum and the creation of his iconic circus, Zendaya plays the role of a trapeze artist. Zendaya trained for months in order to perfect the acrobatic skill, reports ew.com.

"I got to accomplish something and try a new skill I never thought I'd ever do in my whole life, but I did it. Scratch that off the bucket list," she said.

The actress is still amazed that "The Wolverine" star is wowed by her. (IANS)
