Gossip corner

RIHANNA,
WE LOVE YOU
BUT WHAT IS THIS???

With another successful collection at New York Fashion Week and the launch of her new beauty brand, Rihanna is seemingly taking over the fashion world. But one particular item that featured in the singer's Fenty x Puma Spring/ Summer 2018 show has left fans very confused. Not everyone was on board with the heeled flip flops that appeared on the catwalk during New York Fashion Week last week - with one person branding them as 'ugly as hell'. Even some of the most committed Rihanna fans were unconvinced, saying they 'support everything' the singer does, aside from the statement heels. The bizarre shoe - which comes in a range of colours - features a thick ankle strap and a block heel, while looking like a classic flip flop at the front. Sure as celebrities they hold the power to influence us readily with whatever they throw at us but sometimes a fine line needs to be drawn and we think it might be a little too soon or too crazy for fashionistas to adapt this new look, just yet. What do you think?
