

Public Prosecution Honors Women on Bahraini Women's Day

His Excellency Dr. Ali bin Fadl Al-Buainain, the Attorney General, honoured the female members and affiliates of the Public Prosecution under the theme, "Bahraini Women... Excellence - Creativity - Innovation". The tribute recognized their fruitful efforts and distinguished contributions in judicial and administrative work. The Attorney General expressed pride in the active presence and achievements of Bahraini women in the Public Prosecution, noting their excellence in specialized roles such as forensic science experts, digital evidence analysts, and medical device engineers. He highlighted these successes as evidence of their competence and vital role in developing the work system. Dr. Al-Buainain also commended the support from the Supreme Council for Women, led by HRH Princess Sabeeka bint Ibrahim Al Khalifa, for advancing women's status

MIT and AWC Forge Strategic Alliance for Water Security in Bahrain

MI Technical Trading Company (MIT), a leader in Bahrain's water purification sector, announced a significant partnership with AWC, a global specialist in advanced membrane treatment chemistry and digital tools. As AWC's official distributor in Bahrain, MIT will enhance the local availability of high-performance Reverse Osmosis (RO) and Nanofiltration (NF) chemical solutions for municipal and industrial water treatment across the Gulf region. The collaboration focuses on solving persistent membrane system issues like scaling, biofouling, and low recovery. Crucially, the partnership supports sustainable operations and the Water Positive initiative by enabling accurate scaling prediction and reducing overall chemical use, minimizing the water and energy footprint in this water-scarce region. The details were briefed at a press meeting held at the Wyndham Grand Manama, attended by MIT Managing Director, Muhammed P.K., and AWC Global Sales Director, Matt Armstrong
