Parliament reviews government draft law restricting overseas transfers by charities

Bahrain tightening existing rules on fundraising and donations from abroad

Mohammed Darwish

TDT | Manama

A draft government law that would bar charities and other licensed bodies from sending money raised for public causes overseas without ministerial consent is being examined by Parliament's Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee.

The bill amends parts of the law on raising funds for public purposes.

It sets stricter checks on fundraising and on receiving money from inside and outside Bahrain, and widens the list of breaches and penalties linked to that work.

Duties

It also adds new duties on reporting and gives the Ministry of Social Development new tasks linked to risk checks.

Under the proposed text, no sums collected for public purposes may be transferred to any person or body outside Bahrain

Hassan BuKhammas, Chairman of Parliament's Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee

unless the Minister of Social Development gives approval.

The bill also deals with cases where a licensed body receives a cash donation for public purposes without prior permission.

Value

It would have to notify the ministry within seven working days of receipt, stating the value of the donation, what it is for and the donor's details.

The ministry would then have 30 days to tell the receiving body if the donation is accepted or refused, based on how far it fits public-purpose aims.

If that time runs out with no reply, the donation would be treated as refused.

BD1,000

Fine for transferring collected money abroad without the Social Development Minister's consent.

Reports

The executive rules would set the terms for accepting donations, how they may be spent and what reports must be filed.

Under the proposal, no sums collected for public purposes may be transferred to any person or body outside Bahrain unless the Minister of Social Development gives approval.

Where a fundraising permit is granted, the bill would require a detailed report within 30 days after the permit ends, or from the date the body is told the donation has been accepted.

The report would need to list the total collected and where it went, backed by supporting papers.

If fundraising runs for more than a year, the report would be filed each year.

Rules

The executive rules would also define how spending is checked.

The bill would make it an offence to accept donations from abroad without permission from the Ministry of Social Development.

It sets a penalty of jail and/or a fine of up to BD1,000 for anyone who breaks that rule, or who transfers collected money abroad without the minister's consent and in line with the rules in place.

It also allows the court to order confiscation of funds collected outside the legal rules, with those sums to be directed to charitable work approved by the ministry.

Two new articles are included. One assigns the Ministry of Social Development responsibility for analysing risks tied to those licensed to raise funds, including spotting potential terrorist-financing risks and taking steps to reduce them, with updates in line with the National Risk Assessment report.

Fine

The second allows an administrative fine of up to BD10,000 for breaches of the law, its executive rules and any decisions issued under it.

In setting the amount, the bill says account should be taken of the seriousness of the breach, any gain made and the harm caused.

A ministerial decision would specify which breaches trigger the fine and how much each one carries.

MPs call for 'urgent' debate on monitoring vape, tobacco shops

Alarm voiced over rising use of nicotine products among students and young people

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

MPs have filed for a general debate in Parliament to question the government on how it monitors vape and tobacco shops and keeps nicotine products out of children's hands.

The request, submitted under Article 68(b) of the Constitution and the Council's Rules of Procedure, asks the Ministry of Health and other relevant bodies to explain how retailers are policed, how the legal age of 18 is enforced, and what steps are taken to stop sales to minors.

MP Mohammed Moosa, chair of Parliament's Public Utilities and Environment Committee, has also taken other steps on the issue, including a draft law and a parliamentary question.

Amendment

His proposed amendment to Bahrain's anti-smoking and tobacco law would raise penalties for selling cigarettes and tobacco products to anyone under 18, with fines between BD1,000 and

BD3,000.

It would also allow a month-long closure for a first offence, with permanent closure if the violation is repeated.

In their request, the MPs cite rising use of vapes and other nicotine products among students and young people.

Complaints

They refer to complaints from parents and reports from the ground that some retailers sell to minors without proper age checks.

YOU KNOW WHAT

The MPs want the Ministry of Health and other relevant bodies to explain how retailers are policed, how the legal age of 18 is enforced, and what steps are taken to stop sales to minors.

MP Mohammed Moosa

Duo jailed and fined over tax and customs violations

High Criminal Court orders defendants’ permanent deportation from Bahrain after serving sentences

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Two men have been sentenced to three years in prison after a court found them guilty of evading value added tax and breaking customs disclosure rules at Bahrain International Airport.

The High Criminal Court also fined the first defendant BD102,711 and ordered him to pay the evaded tax in the same amount.

The second defendant was fined BD207,044 and told to pay the evaded tax in the same amount.

Breach

Both men were sentenced to a further three months in prison for breaching the system used in customs areas to declare money and valuables.

The court ordered their permanent deportation from Bahrain after they serve their sentences and ruled that the seized items be confiscated.

The case began after Customs Affairs reported two suspects who tried to take high-value watches out through the customs area without declaring them, according to prosecutors.

Suspicion

Customs officers said they grew suspicious of the pair and asked if they had anything to declare. They denied it.

A search then uncovered four expensive watches hidden in a way meant to avoid detection.

Investigators questioned the customs officers involved and later interrogated the two defendants.

They told investigators they were engaged in an economic activity involving buying luxury watches in Bahrain and reselling them abroad.

The unit handling the case then contacted the National Bureau for Revenue to check the pair’s VAT refund activity.

The bureau found 182 refund transactions linked to the defendants, with total refunds of BD309,755.

Refunds

The NBR concluded the refunds had been taken without entitlement because the men were running an economic activity, placing them outside the tourist VAT refund scheme set by law.

The case was then referred to court.

Private school ordered to pay BD6,750 for unlawful dismissal

● Employee removed from her job on 28 May 2025 without warning, written notice, or lawful reason

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A private school has been ordered to pay BD6,750 to a former employee after the High Labour Court found her dismissal was unlawful.

The school had claimed she leaked “school secrets”.

The court said it did not prove that claim, and described the matters raised against her as workplace or administrative issues that did not meet the legal test for dismissal.

Contract

The claimant, represented by lawyer Sanad Bucheeri, joined the school in March 2024 as a receptionist and typist on a two-year fixed-term contract, earning BD450 a month.

She was dismissed on 28 May 2025. Her lawyer said she was removed from her job without warning, written notice, or a lawful reason.

The school asked the court to reject the case.

Duties

It argued it had proper grounds to end the contract, saying the employee breached key duties by sharing confidential details linked to internal inquiries and harming the school’s reputation.

The school also accused her of failing to follow instructions, letting unauthorised people into the printing room, spreading false rumours about staff, and encouraging a colleague to leave.

It further argued she was not entitled to notice pay because she had been told on 8 May 2025 that her contract would be ended, and said she left work on 1 June 2025 without justification.

Cheque

The school said she received a cheque for BD346,250 for annual leave pay and refused to collect her end-of-service certificate.

Bucheeri disputed the school’s account, saying there had been no proper formal investigation and no prior notice in line with the law.

He argued the internal inquiry record did not amount to a lawful reason for dismissal and maintained his client’s claim.

Defence

The court heard witnesses from the school, who repeated the same defence.

In its ruling, the court said the school ended the employee’s service on 28 May 2025 without producing written proof that she had been given prior notice. Instead, it relied on verbal notice, according to its first witness.

The court also found the alleged conduct, even as recorded in the internal inquiry, did not amount to leaking work secrets, causing serious harm to the employer, or breaching core duties.

Termination

It treated the termination as an unlawful ending of a fixed-term contract.

The judgment ordered the school to pay BD6,300 in compensation for ending the fixed-term contract without lawful cause, plus BD450 in notice pay, and to cover court costs and legal fees.

Construction worker faces trial over forged medical certificates

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A 28-year-old Asian construction worker has been put on trial accused of forging medical certificates and submitting them to a development company as genuine.

The High Criminal Court adjourned the case to 6 January 2026 and ordered that the defendant remain in custody.

Prosecutors say the defendant produced four sick-leave certificates during 2024 and 2025, made to look like official Ministry of Health paperwork, then used them to explain time away from work.

The court postponed the hearing to allow the parties to review the file, respond, and obtain a copy of the case papers.

Certificates

The firm’s human resources manager told the court the defendant handed in four certificates said to be issued by a health centre.

After checks, the company found that only one was authentic, while the rest were not, the witness said.

The manager added that the defendant signed the documents and passed them to the accountant.

An accountant at a contracting company linked to the development firm said his job includes logging attendance.

Testimony

He testified that the defendant missed four days, three in 2024 and one in 2025, and that he received medical certificates from him, apart from one day when he could not remember if a certificate had been submitted.

A family medicine specialist at the health centre testified that the certificate dated 3 December 2024 was genuine, saying he scanned its barcode and confirmed it in the system.

He told the court the other certificates, dated 18 November and 12 December 2024, and 9 January 2025, were fabricated, pointing to differences in writing style, spacing, and formatting, as well as a mismatch in the diagnosis field.

Attendant

The doctor added that the disputed certificates included the name of a health centre attendant, which he said does not appear on authentic certificates, where only an attendant code is used.

He also said the doctors’ names shown on the documents were not correct and did not belong to staff at the health centre said to have issued the certificates.

Prosecution notes cited a letter from the Ministry of Health stating the defendant attended the health centre on 3 December only and was granted sick leave on that date alone.

The defendant told prosecutors that the dates on the certificates related to him, according to the case file.

Woman gets 15-year jail term for drug trafficking

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A 27-year-old Asian woman has been sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined BD10,000 after the High Criminal Court found she brought more than two kilos of marijuana into Bahrain to sell.

The court also ordered her deportation after she serves the sentence and ruled the seized drugs be confiscated.

Prosecutors said the woman, during 2025, imported and possessed marijuana with intent to trade, outside the cases allowed by law.

The arrest followed a search at Bahrain International Airport in the early hours of 4 October 2025.

A senior customs officer told the court he was on duty at about 12.10am when a large backpack passing through the X-ray drew his attention.

He said he saw dense material inside, sitting among clothes, and marked the bag for a closer check.

Account

A second customs officer backed that account. He said the bag was opened in the woman’s presence and she was asked if she wanted to declare anything before the search.

MPs push for long-delayed Buri housing project as backlog grows

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

An urgent proposal calling on the government to add a housing project for Buri residents to the village's detailed master plan has been submitted to Parliament.

The sponsors cited a long backlog of housing applications and noted that no new housing scheme has been introduced in the area since 2016.

The request asks for the plan to be amended while work on the design is still under way.

Backers

The backers say the detailed plan covers more than 65 per cent of Buri, and they want a housing scheme written into it for local families.

The proposal was submitted by MPs Dr Muneer Seroor, Mohammed Al Ahmed, Hassan Ebrahim, Ali Al Nuaimi and Basema Mubarak.

They asked that it be placed on the agenda under new business, approved by the Council, and then sent to the government.

Memorandum

In an accompanying memorandum, the sponsors said the government is preparing a large redevelopment plan for Buri built around several tracks, including transport links.

They said it includes the main station for the Bahrain Metro and a national public transport network, along with an urban and cultural route, farming and natural areas, and land for public uses such as housing, health, logistics, education and cultural facilities.

They said the project is planned over roughly 5,000 square metres, but does not include a housing scheme reserved for Buri residents.

Applications

The sponsors cited 215 applications recorded by the village's community committee from people who registered their details, with some cases dating back more than 23 years. They also said Buri has not had a housing project for around a decade, with the last scheme delivered in 2016 and limited to 21 units.

In remarks attached to the proposal, MP Seroor put the number of housing requests at more than 275.

Investors

The sponsors said the master plan classifies land near the village for residential use, which they said would be open to investors and buyers regardless of where they live, unless a portion is set aside for Buri residents through the plan.

MP Seroor described Buri as a place with farmers, historic freshwater springs and old mosques, and said the redevelopment plan shown so far lacked a housing project for local people.

Partner

He said adding one would "complete the new planning and make the citizen a true partner in development".

The proposal also suggests that building a housing scheme may be easier now that land has been acquired for the master plan, and says the Ministry of Housing and Urban Planning could work with the private sector to deliver it.

Commercial registry sale case dismissed over invalid contract

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A bid to recover BD24,000 from the sale of a sole proprietorship's commercial registration has been rejected by the High Civil Court after the judges found the underlying sale contract was never notarised and carried no legal weight.

The claimant told the court he agreed to sell the commercial registration for BD30,000 and that the buyer paid BD6,000, leaving BD24,000 outstanding.

He asked for an order compelling the defendant to pay the balance.

The court said the sale of a business is a formal act and does not take effect by agreement alone.

It must be notarised before a notary public, recorded in the commercial register and a summary published in a local newspaper. Both parties accepted in court that the contract had not been notarised.

On that basis, the judges ruled the sale agreement attached to the case was absolutely void and produced no legal effects between the parties or against others.

The court said it must address that point on its own initiative because it concerns public order.

The claimant had relied on a copy of a private sale agreement which, according to the court, referred to transferring the commercial registration to the defendant and settling the remaining amount when a new commercial registration was issued.

Lawyer Sara Atiq, representing the defendant, argued the claimant had departed from what was agreed by arranging the share split at 1 per cent for himself and 99 per cent for her client, despite the deal being for a full transfer.

She also submitted that the contract at issue was not notarised and asked for the case to be dismissed, saying the claimant had not transferred the business at 100 per cent.

The court said a void contract cannot be used as a basis for a claim, and anything built on it is void as well.

MPs seek fix for Waqf recognition gaps

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament has backed an urgent request for the government to review the status of some Waqf endowments and deal with legal and administrative gaps linked to their recognition and management.

The proposal asks for a full review of endowments facing problems with documentation and legal recognition.

It also calls for clear steps to stop the same disputes arising again and to strengthen trust in how Waqf assets are run and protected.

Complaints

MP Hanan Fardan said the move followed repeated public remarks and complaints about the absence of a clear, approved way to recognise some historic endowments.

In some cases, she said, that gap had led to land being treated as state property and handled under the usual rules, a situation she said had raised 'legitimate public concern' and needed a root-and-branch fix.

MP Hanan Fardan

The explanatory note says Waqf endowments are assets held for religious, social and charitable purposes, and should be managed and kept in a way that serves those aims and the public interest.

It argues that piecemeal fixes, or leaving the issue unresolved, does not match the state's duty to protect endowments, or Parliament's oversight role in tracking legislative and administrative shortcomings.

The proposers are MP Hanan Fardan, Basema Mubarak, Maryam Al Dhaen, Jalal Kadhem and Ali Al Nuaimi.

Private sector to join Bahrain's 2026 UN goals review

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Bahrain will bring private companies into the preparation of its third Voluntary National Review, due to be submitted in July 2026, as part of the Kingdom's work towards the UN Sustainable Development Goals.

In a written reply to a question from Shura Council member Dr Mohammed Ali, the Ministry of Sustainable Development said delivering the 2030 Agenda was a shared task that required work across government, business and civil society, with plans shaped to each country's needs.

The ministry said the Government Programme for 2022-2026, titled "From Recovery to Sustainable Growth", sets out a framework for cooperation between the government, the legislature and the private sector.

Responsibilities

It added that delivery bodies are assigned responsibilities within their areas and that progress is tracked through monitoring mechanisms linked to the goals.

It described its own role as a supporting and coordinating body that represents Bahrain in international settings, gathers material needed for that work by drawing on the efforts of delivery agencies, and monitors performance on sustainable development indicators through the National Information and Population Team.

It said it also raises recommendations to relevant ministerial committees based on the indicator results, to steer policy and programmes towards areas that need improvement, while keeping track of international developments connected to the goals.

The ministry said it is designed to complement bodies that run projects directly, and that it supports private sector involvement by sharing international practice in sustainability and by mapping challenges and opportunities.

As examples, it pointed to work in 2023 with the Central Bank of Bahrain during the drafting of environmental, social and corporate governance disclosure guidance, ahead of mandatory disclosures by financial institutions and listed companies by the end of 2024.

It said it also helped organise a closed discussion that brought together International Monetary Fund representatives and local banks to examine ways for the financial sector to speed progress towards the goals.

Tesla sales slip as it loses EV crown to China’s BYD in 2025

Washington, United States

Tesla yesterday reported lower sales than expected in the fourth quarter of 2025, ceding its position as the world’s biggest electric vehicle company in annual sales to Chinese auto giant BYD. The American company led by Elon Musk logged 418,227 deliveries in the final three months of the year, taking its full-year sales figure to around 1.64 million EVs. A day prior, BYD reported that it sold 2.26 million EVs last year. Analysts had expected Tesla’s sales in the final quarter to slow less, to 449,000, according to a FactSet consensus. Industry watchers have noted that it will take time for EV demand to reach a level of equilibrium in the United States after the elimination of a $7,500 US tax credit at the end of September 2025. But even before that, Tesla had seen sales struggle in key markets over CEO Musk’s political support of US President Donald Trump and other far-right politicians. Tesla has also been grappling with rising competition from BYD and other Chinese companies, and from European giants. On Thursday, Shenzhen-based BYD, which also produces hybrid cars, unveiled record EV sales in the past year.

Stock markets rose yesterday, the first trading day of 2026, with London’s benchmark FTSE 100 index reaching 10,000 points for the first time. After indices smashed records in 2025, ending with double-digit annual gains, London continued the trend in early new year deals. The capital’s top-tier index -- featuring the likes of energy group BP, telecoms firm Vodafone and banking giant HSBC -- gained more than 1% to reach an all-time high of 10,046.25 points soon after the start of trading Friday. It later cooled but was still showing a gain of 0.6 percent compared with the close on Wednesday. “The FTSE 100 hit the 10,000 jackpot level immediately after rounding off a tremendous year for UK shares,” noted Dan Coatsworth, head of markets at AJ Bell trading group. The index climbed more than 21% in 2025, the biggest gain for 16 years, helped in large part by cuts to British interest rates alongside reductions to borrowing costs by the US Federal Reserve as global inflation retreated. Helping the FTSE 100 to its new record Friday was another solid gain to the share price of gold miner Fresnillo, whose Briefing.com’s O’Hare said Friday’s “news should be encouraging to investors who are worried that overall AI investment could be on the verge of stalling or turning”. The dollar made a bright start to 2026, rising against the euro, yen and pound sterling. Oil prices slid, having lost nearly 20% last year on an over-supplied market.

Norway closes in on objective of 100% electric car sales

Oslo, Norway

Norway came close to its objective of selling only zero-emission cars in 2025, with electric vehicles accounting for 95.9 percent of new registrations. Although Norway is western Europe’s largest exporter of petroleum products, it has led the shift to electric vehicles, setting a non-binding target of selling only zero-emission vehicles in 2025 -- then years ahead of the neighbouring European Union. A record 179,549 personal vehicles were registered in 2025, beating the previous high set in 2021, the Norwegian Road Federation (OFV) said on Friday. Electric vehicles accounted for 97.6% of sales in December. “While car sales are traditionally strong at the end of the year, there is no doubt the VAT tax change on January 1, 2026 spurred many people to buy a new electric vehicle before the end of the year,” OFV director Geir Inge Stokke said in a statement. The Norwegian government decided to lower the exemption from VAT tax from 500,000 kroner ($49,600) to 300,000 kroner from the start of 2026. The elimination of the exemption, initially planned for 2027, is expected to be pushed back to 2028.

News in brief

◆ A 6.5-magnitude earthquake shook Mexico City and southwestern Guerrero state yesterday, sending people rushing into the streets but causing no serious damage, according to preliminary reports. President Claudia Sheinbaum was forced to evacuate the presidential palace during her regular morning press conference, along with the journalists in attendance, when the earthquake alert sounded. The Seismological Service said that the earthquake's epicenter was situated 14 kilometers (nine miles) southwest of San Marcos, in the southern state of Guerrero, about 400 kilometres from Mexico City. The US Geological Survey said the quake struck around 8:00 am east of Acapulco, a major port and beach resort. Sheinbaum said there were no immediate reports of major damage in either Mexico City or Guerrero.

The decades-old border dispute between the Southeast Asian neighbours erupted into military clashes several times last year, with fighting in December killing dozens of people and displacing more than one million on both sides. The two countries agreed a truce on December 27, pledging to freeze troop movements and end the three weeks of clashes. On Friday, Cambodia's Information Minister Neth Pheaktra told AFP that the Thai military has started its "illegal annexation of Cambodian territory into Thailand, especially at Chouk Chey village".

Trump again defends his health, cognitive skills

AFP | Washington, United States

US President Donald Trump on Friday touted his "perfect health" and cognitive skills, one day after publication of an interview in which the 79-year-old defended his fitness for office amid scrutiny over his well-being.

"The White House Doctors have just reported that I am in 'PERFECT HEALTH,' and that I 'ACED' (Meaning, was correct on 100% of the questions asked!)", for the third straight time, my Cognitive Examination, something which no other President, or previous Vice President, was willing to take," Trump posted on his Truth Social platform.

The Wall Street Journal on Thursday published an interview with Trump -- who at 79 is the oldest person to assume the US presidency -- in which he blamed aspirin for large bruises on his hand and denied falling asleep during televised meetings.

Trump also changed his previous statement about receiving an MRI scan in October, saying it was instead a quicker CT scan.

Trump has based much of his political image on projecting vigor -- whether through his frequent interactions with journalists, constant social media posting, or AI memes depicting him as a superhero.

However, the first year of his second term in office has raised growing questions.

His right hand shows persistent bruising, often covered with thick makeup and at times a bandage, and his ankles have appeared swollen.

On occasion, Trump has clearly struggled to keep his eyes open, including during an Oval Office meeting with health representatives in November.

Trump told the Journal that he wasn't dozing, just relaxing.

"I'll just close. It's very relaxing to me," he said. "Sometimes they'll take a picture of me blinking, blinking, and they'll catch me with the blink." In his post on Friday, Trump added that any presidential or vice presidential candidate should be required to take a "strong, meaningful, and proven" cognitive exam.

"Our great Country cannot be run by 'STUPID' or INCOMPETENT PEOPLE!" he wrote.

Angelina Jolie visits Egyptian side of Gaza's Rafah crossing

Jolie said she was "honoured" to meet aid volunteer

US actress Angelina Jolie speaks to employees of aid agencies at the Egyptian Rafah border crossing, part of her visit to the North Sinai Governorate to inspect aid entering the Palestinian Gaza Strip

AFP | Rafah, Egypt

Hollywood star Angelina Jolie yesterday visited the Egyptian side of the Rafah crossing into Gaza, where she spoke with members of the Red Crescent and truck drivers ferrying humanitarian aid, AFP journalists said.

Accompanied by an American delegation and greeted by former and current officials, Jolie said she was "honoured" to meet aid volunteers at the crossing.

A Red Crescent volunteer told the Oscar winner that "there are thousands of aid trucks just waiting" at the border crossing.

According to local media, the actor and former special envoy for the UN refugee agency made the visit to see the condition of injured Palestinians transferred to Egypt and to look into aid deliveries into the devastated territory.

Jolie and the Egyptian authorities have yet to officially comment on the visit.

The Rafah border crossing was set to be reopened under the ceasefire in effect in Gaza since October, but has so far remained closed.

In a joint statement on Friday, Egypt and six other countries including Saudi Arabia "urged the international community to pressure Israel, as the occupying power, to immediately lift the constraints on the entry and distribution of essential supplies" to Gaza.

In early December, Israel announced that the Rafah crossing would be opened only for those wishing to leave Gaza, prompting Cairo to swiftly deny that it had approved such a move.

Jolie, one of Hollywood's most iconic figures, stepped down from her role as special envoy for the United Nations refugee agency at the end of 2022 after more than 20 years of service, saying she wanted to work on broader humanitarian issues.

MSF calls Israeli ban a 'grave blow' to Gaza aid

AFP | Jerusalem, Undefined

International charity Doctors Without Borders yesterday condemned a "grave blow to humanitarian aid" after Israel revoked the status it needs to operate in Gaza for refusing to share Palestinian staff lists.

Israel on Thursday confirmed it had banned access to the Gaza Strip to 37 foreign humanitarian organisations for refusing to share lists of their Palestinian employees.

Doctors Without Borders (MSF), which has 1,200 staff members in the Palestinian territories, the majority of them in Gaza, said in a statement that "denying medical assistance to civilians is unacceptable under any circumstances".

The medical organisation argued that it had "legitimate concerns" over new Israeli requirements for foreign NGO registration, specifically the disclosing of personal information about Palestinian staff.

It pointed to the fact that 15

A Palestinian woman holds a child wearing a perspex protective mask as she speaks to a member of staff at the Doctors Without Borders or Medecins Sans Frontieres (MSF) clinic, in the al-Rimal neighborhood of Gaza City

MSF staff had been "killed by Israeli forces", and that access to any given territory should not be conditional on staff list disclosure.

"Demanding staff lists as a condition for access to territory is an outrageous overreach," the charity said.

MSF also denounced "the absence of any clarity about how such sensitive data will be used, stored, or shared", charging that Israeli forces "have killed and wounded hundreds of thousands of civilians" in Gaza during the course of the war.

It also charged that Israel had "manufactured shortages of basic necessities by blocking and delaying the entry of essential goods, including medical supplies".

Israel controls and regulates all entry points into Gaza, which is surrounded by a wall that began to be built in 2005.

The ban, which came into effect on December 31, 2025 at midnight, has triggered widespread international condemnation.

Prominent humanitarian organisations hit by the Israeli ban include the Norwegian Refugee Council (NRC), World Vision International and Oxfam, according to an Israeli ministry list.

Seven killed as Saudi coalition strikes separatist fighters in Yemen

The deaths are the first from coalition fire

● STC said it was in a “decisive and existential” war

● Saudi sources confirmed the strikes were carried out by the Saudi-led coalition

● STC seized much of Hadramawt, bordering Saudi Arabia

AFP | Mukalla, Yemen

Air strikes killed seven separatist fighters in Yemen yesterday, according to an official with the group, as a Saudi-led coalition hit back against a sweeping advance by the Southern Transitional Council.

The deaths are the first from coalition fire since the secessionist STC seized swathes of Hadramawt and Mahra provinces last month.

Following the strikes, a military spokesman for the STC said it was in a “decisive and existential” war with Saudi-backed Yemeni forces, characterising it as a fight against radical Islamism.

Mohammed Abdulmalik, head of the STC in Wadi Hadramaut and Hadramaut Desert, said seven air strikes hit the Al-Khasah camp, killing seven and wounding more than 20.

UAE confirms its last forces have left Yemen: statement

Dubai, United Arab Emirates

The United Arab Emirates confirmed its last troops had left Yemen and called for de-escalation.

“The UAE concluded the presence of its counterterrorism forces,” a government official said, adding it “remains committed to dialogue, de-escalation, and internationally supported processes as the only sustainable path to peace”.

Further strikes targeted other sites in the same region, he added.

The air raids came shortly after pro-Saudi forces launched a campaign to “peacefully” take control of military sites in Hadramawt.

“This operation is not a declaration of war, nor an attempt to escalate tensions,” Hadramawt governor Salem Al-Khanbashi, also leader of the province’s Saudi-backed local forces, was quoted as saying by the Saba Net news agency.

“This operation does not target any political or social group,” he said, adding that it “aims to peacefully and systematically hand over military sites”.

Saudi sources confirmed the strikes were carried out by the Saudi-led coalition, which also nominally includes the UAE and was formed in 2015 to fight the Iran-backed Houthi rebels in Yemen’s north.

A source close to the Saudi military warned: “It will not stop until the Southern Transitional Council withdraws from the two governorates.”

The STC seized much of Hadramawt, bordering Saudi Arabia, and neighbouring Mahra last month.

Also on Friday, the Saudi ambassador to Yemen, Mohammed Al-Jabir, said the STC had blocked a Saudi delegation from landing at Aden airport, accusing the group of “intransigence”.

According to the Flightradar24 tracking website, no planes have taken off or landed at Aden airport for more than 24 hours, although the ministry did not officially announce its closure.

Swiss bar blaze suspicions fall on sparklers waved by staff

AFP | Crans-Montana, Switzerland

Moments before flames and smoke engulfed the bar in Switzerland where 40 people died, staff were seen holding aloft sparklers stuck in Champagne bottles, videos posted online showed.

The mini-fireworks were being waved near the basement bar’s low wooden ceiling, covered in thin soundproofing fabric, according to the images on social media.

One video showed the ceiling catching alight and the flames spreading quickly -- but revellers initially continuing to dance, unaware of the death trap they were in.

A young man is seen attempting to extinguish the flames with a large white cloth.

Authorities investigating the deadly blaze said they suspected that “sparklers or Bengal candles” sparked the fire.

Witness accounts later relayed to various media said the sparkler parade was a regular “show” for patrons in the bar, which typically drew a young crowd.

The flames spread with terrifying speed in the bar, in the

The entrance of the bar Le Constellation where a fire ripped through the venue during New Year's Eve celebrations

Swiss luxury ski resort town Crans-Montana, which was packed with New Year’s Eve partygoers.

The video which showed the ceiling catching fire went on to capture a scene of panic: people scrambling and screaming in the dark as smoke and flames around them grew bigger.

‘Explosion’

Elliot Alvarez, a local who had been at a next-door bar with friends, told AFP: “We received a call from a friend who was clearly panicked on the phone and explained that there had apparently been an explosion.”

When he and his friends arrived at the scene, they found the place crawling with emergency responders and “people on the ground being treated, people coming out, burned”.

Police commander Frederic Gisler told reporters that “the red alarm, which mobilises the fire department, was triggered” immediately when authorities were alerted to the situation.

Passers-by shortly, before 1:30 am (0030 GMT) on Thursday, had seen smoke coming out of the centrally located bar and called the emergency services.

Less than a minute later, at 1:32 am, the first police patrols arrived on the scene. Firefighters and other emergency workers also rushing in.

At that time, inside the bar, flames had engulfed the basement. Smoke was everywhere, also filling the first floor, according to videos.

Outside, bystanders could see flames, later describing scenes of chaos as people tried to break the windows to escape and others, covered in burns, poured into the street.

Young patrons in the bar, disoriented by the smoke and panic, tried to escape through the front door, causing a crush at the exit.

‘Crying for help’

Nathan, who had been in the bar before the blaze, saw burned people streaming out of the site. “They were asking for help, crying out for help,” he said.

Adrien, a young vacationer from Dijon, France, described on TikTok how he “saw people breaking windows with chairs”. “They were in a terrible state, covered in blood, their clothes melted ... It was a catastrophe.”

Leandre, who was outside, told the Blick newspaper of the “very sad” scene, with “people burned beyond recognition”.

“We tried to rescue them as best we could ... tried to cover them, because they had no clothes left,” he said.

Students of New Millennium School experience Bahrain's rich animal and agricultural heritage at Mara'ee 2025

Manama

The Grade 5 students of New Millennium School, Bahrain had an enriching and memorable educational visit to Mara'ee 2025, Bahrain's premier animal and agricultural exhibition showcasing the Kingdom's advancements in livestock, farming, and sustainable agricultural practices.

The visit offered students a unique opportunity to explore Bahrain's diverse agricultural landscape. They interacted with experts, viewed various livestock breeds, and learned about modern farming techniques, animal care, and the importance of sustainable food production. The hands-on displays and live demonstrations helped students connect classroom learning with real-world applications, making the experience both educational and enjoyable.

One of the highlights of the trip was the students' interaction with local farmers and exhibitors, who shared insights on innovative technologies used in Bahrain's agricultural sector. Students were fascinated by the exhibits featuring native and international animals, mechanised farming tools, and the Kingdom's efforts to enhance food security.

Teachers accompanying the students noted that the visit broadened their understanding of agriculture's role in the nation's development. The field trip not only strengthened their science and social studies learning but also encouraged curiosity, environmental awareness, and appreciation for Bahrain's agricultural heritage.

Expressing his gratitude, Principal Dr Arun Kumar Sharma thanked the leadership and governance of the Kingdom of Bahrain for providing students with such an enriching opportunity. He acknowledged the nation's commitment to education, innovation, and sustainability, emphasising that initiatives like Mara'ee 2025 play a vital role in shaping informed, environmentally conscious future citizens.

Chairman Dr Ravi Pillai and Managing Director Mrs Geetha Pillai extended their greatest appreciation to the organisers of Mara'ee 2025 for their hospitality and for providing students with an engaging and informative experience.

The event proved to be an inspiring platform, fostering learning beyond the classroom and igniting young minds with a deeper understanding of agriculture and sustainability.

Venus Williams gets Australian Open wildcard aged 45

Will compete in the main draw at Melbourne Park

● Williams is a five-time Wimbledon champion

● Australian Open singles finalist in 2003 and 2017

AFP | Melbourne, Australia

Seven-time major singles champion Venus Williams was handed a wildcard to the Australian Open aged 45 on Friday, becoming the oldest woman ever to play at the season-opening Grand Slam.

The American, who has played only a limited number of singles matches in recent years, will compete in the main draw at Melbourne Park for the first time since 2021.

"I'm excited to be back in Australia and looking forward to competing during the Australian summer," said Williams.

"I've had so many incredible memories there and I'm grateful for the opportunity to return to a place that has meant so much to my career."

Williams is a five-time Wimbledon champion and also won two US Opens.

She was an Australian Open singles finalist in 2003 and 2017.

Williams, a four-time Australian Open doubles champion, is set to begin her preparations for the January 18-Feb 1 tournament at the Auckland Classic next week, having returned to the circuit at the US Open last year after a 16-month break.

She will then head to the Hobart International immediately before Melbourne.

Two-time Grand Slam champion and fellow American Coco Gauff said it was "incredible" to see Williams still turning up for tournaments.

"She's a legend of the sport, so it will be cool to see her back in action," she said.

"It's incredible the longevity of her career. She's one of the people I looked up to, so looking forward to seeing her back on court."

Venus Williams will become the oldest woman to play at the Australian Open since Japan's Kimiko Date, who was 44 when she lost in the first round in 2015.

Man City charge stalls at Sunderland, Liverpool held by Leeds

City had won eight consecutive games to end 2025

● Liverpool boss Arne Slot bemoaned his side's lack of "individual special moments"

AFP | London, United Kingdom

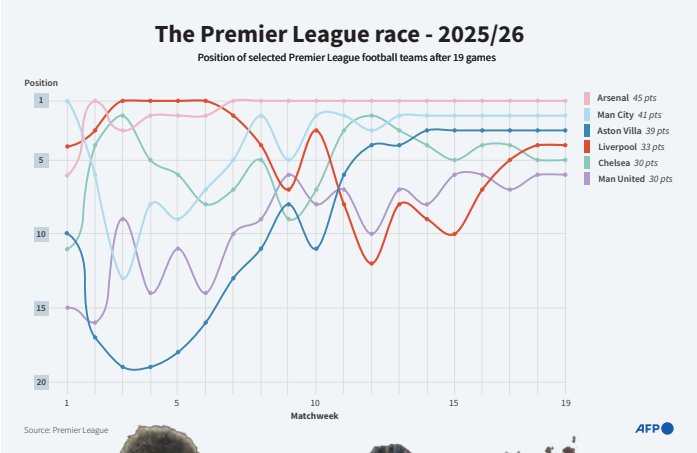

Manchester City trail Arsenal by four points at the top of the Premier League after failing to end Sunderland's unbeaten home record in a 0-0 draw on Thursday, while Liverpool were also held by Leeds.

In a goal-shy start to 2026, three of the four New Year's Day fixtures ended without a goal as Tottenham also played out a 0-0 draw on Thomas Frank's return to Brentford.

City had won eight consecutive games to end 2025 and cut the gap on the Gunners to just two points.

But they were unable to respond to Arsenal's impressive 4-1 demolition of third-place Aston Villa on Tuesday despite creating a host of chances against a depleted Sunderland.

The Black Cats were without six players at the Africa Cup of Nations plus influential centre-back Dan Ballard due to injury.

Leeds United's English defender #02 Jayden Bogle (L) challenges Liverpool's English striker #73 Rio Ngumoha (R) during the English Premier League football match between Liverpool and Leeds United at Anfield in Liverpool, north west England

Bernardo Silva had a City goal ruled out for offside just six minutes in.

Sunderland goalkeeper Robin Roefs was in inspired form to deny Erling Haaland and Josko Gvardiol, while Savinho blasted a glorious chance over.

But City could not find the breakthrough as Sunderland preserved their record of not losing in 10 games at the Stadium of Light since returning to the top flight.

"It's a mystery," said City boss Pep Guardiola on his side's inability to score. "We created a lot, especially in the second half. "We take the point, it's a long way (to go)."

Liverpool boss Arne Slot bemoaned his side's lack of "individual special moments" as the English champions struggled to break down a resilient Leeds in a goal-less draw at Anfield.

The Reds were toothless in attack without the absent Mohamed Salah and Alexander Isak and were only saved from defeat late on by a tight offside call.

Despite scoring in the last six games, Dominic Calvert-Lewin started on the bench as Daniel Farke had one eye on the visit of Manchester United to Elland Road on Saturday.

Calvert-Lewin thought he had extended his scoring streak

'Boring' Tottenham

Frank was given a hero's reception back at the club he returned to the top flight for the first time in 74 years and established as a Premier League force.

The Dane has not found it tougher to make an impact at Tottenham and they produced another display devoid of attacking inspiration.

The visiting Spurs fans chanted "boring, boring Tottenham" in the closing stages, while Frank was booed after the full-time whistle.

"Definitely, we don't create enough," admitted Frank. We need to continually work on that."

A stalemate leaves both sides still separated by just one point with Brentford in ninth and Spurs 12th.

Crystal Palace boss Oliver Glasner said his depleted side are in "survival mode" after a 1-1 draw against Fulham extended their winless run to six games.

Jean-Philippe Mateta's first goal in eight games opened the scoring for Palace, but Fulham captain Tom Cairney's fine strike rescued a point for the visitors.

when he prodded in 10 minutes from time but had strayed just beyond the last defender.

A draw extends Leeds' unbeaten run to six games and takes them seven points clear of the relegation zone.

Stokes urges England to stick with McCullum despite Ashes defeat

England's head team coach Brendon McCullum (L) sits with player Zak Crawley during a team training session at the SCG in Sydney

AFP | London, United Kingdom

Ben Stokes has urged England chiefs to keep faith with "Bazball" architect Brendon McCullum despite a stinging Ashes defeat in Australia.

The five-match series was billed as the ultimate test for the regime of captain Stokes and head coach McCullum, who joined forces in 2022, promoting an ultra-attacking brand of cricket.

England arrived in Australia with high hopes but went 3-0 down after just 11 days of cricket before ending their 15-year winless streak Down Under with victory in Melbourne.

The teams will meet for the final Test in Sydney on Sunday, with questions swirling over McCullum's position.

Stokes wants to remain in harness with the former New Zealand batter, warning against kneejerk changes.

"There is no doubt in my mind that me and Brendon are the right people to carry on doing this for the near future," Stokes said in comments carried by British media.

"I can't see there being someone else who I could take this team (with) from where we are now to even bigger heights. We're both pretty keen on carrying on doing what we are doing."

Spurs forward Johnson completes Palace switch

AFP | London, United Kingdom

Brennan Johnson yesterday completed a move from Tottenham to Crystal Palace for a reported fee of £35 million ($47 million).

The Wales international, 24, has signed a four-and-a-half-year deal at Selhurst Park.

The forward, who fell out of favour under Thomas Frank at Spurs despite being the London club's top scorer last season, is set to make his debut for Palace in their Premier League match against Newcastle at St James' Park on Sunday.

"I'm really excited and I'm really happy," said Johnson, who is Palace's record signing. "Crystal Palace are such a great club, one that I've always admired."

"It's a great time for me to be here and join the journey that this club is on."

Palace manager

Oliver Glasner said: "Brennan will give us options in our attacking play with his pace and goalscoring ability."

Johnson finished with 18 goals last season and scored the winner in the Europa League final against Manchester United to end Tottenham's 17-year wait for silverware.

However, he has largely been a back-up to Mohammed Kudus since Frank replaced Ange Postecoglou.

The transfer will be a huge boost to Glasner, who said his threadbare side were in "survival mode" following Thursday's 1-1 draw with Fulham.

FA Cup holders Palace, 10th in the Premier League table, travel to Newcastle eager to end a six-match winless

Nigeria police charge driver in fatal Joshua crash with dangerous driving

British boxer Anthony Joshua

AFP | Lagos, Nigeria

Nigerian police yesterday charged the driver of a car carrying British boxer Anthony Joshua that was involved in a fatal crash with "reckless" and "dangerous driving causing death".

Adeniyi Mobolaji Kayode, 46, was also charged with driving without a valid "driver's licence" and "driving without due care and attention, causing bodily harm and damage to property", Oluseyi Babaseyi, a spokesman for the police in Ogun state, told AFP.

He was granted a five million naira bail ($3,500) but will remain in detention until he meets bail conditions, Babaseyi said.

Kayode was driving the boxer and two of his friends, Latif Ayodele and Sina Ghami, on a busy highway linking Lagos and Ibadan in southwest Nigeria when the Lexus SUV in which they were travelling rammed into a stationary truck on Monday.

Nigerian police and state officials said that Ayodele and Ghami died at the scene, while Joshua and the driver sustained minor injuries.

The Traffic Compliance and Enforcement Agency (TRACE) in Ogun state, where the accident occurred, told AFP earlier in the week that its preliminary investigations showed that the vehicle was moving at an excessive speed and had burst a tyre before the crash.
