Amber Heard not fired from 'Aquaman 2': Report

IAN S | Los Angeles

Hollywood actress Amber Heard has not been fired from the upcoming sequel to the superhero film franchise Aquaman, contrary to reports last week that suggested that the 34-year-old star has been sacked from her role.

As per a Screenrant report, prominent journalist Ryan Parker, without giving details, confirmed that the reports about Heard being firing from Aquaman 2 were

Last week, reports suggested that Heard will not be returning for the sequel because of her bitter and public spat with ex-husband Johnny Depp

"inaccurate".

"Told by a reliable source that reports of Amber Heard being fired off 'Aquaman 2' are inaccurate," he wrote on Twitter

Last week, several reports suggested that Heard, who plays Jason Momoa's love interest Mera, will not be returning for the sequel because of her bitter and public spat with ex-husband, actor Johnny Depp.

This is not the first time that reports of Heard not returning to the DCEU franchise have surfaced. Last year, similar reports surfaced in November, but she had slammed such talk.

Gal Gadot expecting third child with husband Jaron Varsano

Fox | Los Angeles

Gal Gadot is pregnant with her third child with husband Jaron Varsano.

The "Wonder Woman" actress, 35, announced the news Monday morning on her social media channels.

"Here we go again," she captioned a photo of herself, Varsano, and their two daughters, Alma, 9, and Maya, 3, touching her small baby bump.

The couple married in 2008.

Gadot previously gushed about motherhood to Baby magazine.

"[Alma] thinks [acting] is cool but it's not that great to her," she explained. "I'm just 'mum'. She doesn't pay so much attention. Even when I'm talking to someone about Wonder Woman, she tries any which way she can to change the topic! But she has certainly learned that every woman is a wonder woman."

She literally says that which I love!"

"I was very nervous as a young mother," admitted the "Fast & Furious" star.

"With Maya, I'm able to enjoy it all much more. I've also seen that having a second child changes the dynamics of your family, and I have to make sure that Alma still gets a lot of love and attention from me even though I'm spending so much time with Maya. But Alma is curious, and she loves her little sister. It's a beautiful time for our family," Gadot said.

And she also praised her husband for his support.

"He's the best. I love every moment I spend with him and my daughters," she said.

"He is also a very successful businessman and is very involved in that. But even though we are both busy with our work, family life comes first.

I am a very, very happy woman who can hardly wait to come home to my family every time I finish work on a film."

Taylor Swift calls out Netflix's 'Ginny and Georgia' for 'deeply sexist joke' about her

ANI | Washington

American singer and songwriter Taylor Swift recently fired back at Netflix's 'Ginny & Georgia', criticizing the show for a line in the script that was a "deeply sexist joke" about her.

According to E! News, the tenth episode of the new series featured a scene where a female character tells another woman, "What do you care? You go through men faster than Taylor Swift."

Not long after, the word got back to Swift, and "Respect Taylor Swift" started trending on Twitter.

The Grammy winner tweeted, "Hey Ginny & Georgia, 2010 called and it wants its lazy, deeply sexist joke back." She added, "How about we stop degrading hard-working women by defining this horse s--t as FuNnY?"

Swift, who released her documentary Miss Americana on Netflix last year, had a few words for the streaming service, too. "Also, @netflix after Miss Americana this outfit doesn't look cute on you," she wrote. "Happy Women's History Month I guess."

After reading her response, several of Swift's fans praised the artist for speaking out. One of her followers tweeted, When Taylor Swift stands up for herself she's also standing up for all women across the world."

"She is done with the misogyny & the slut shaming. I'm so proud of her for standing up for herself & leaving no words unspoken. This is still happening after years, YEARS of it before...RESPECT TAYLOR SWIFT," tweeted another follower.

Ellie Goulding

Ellie Goulding used hubby Casper Jopling's coat to hide pregnancy

IAN S | London

Singer Ellie Goulding reveals she used her husband Casper Jopling's coat to hide her pregnancy for the first six months, to keep the news private.

Chatting on a British cookery chat show, Ellie was asked how her pregnancy is going and how she hid it. "It's different. I stole my husband's coat for about six months, the soon-to-be mother revealed, according to dailymail.co.uk

The singer, who is currently eight months pregnant added that lockdown helped the couple keep the pregnancy a secret.

"But that was really just in the shops, I didn't go anywhere else. Out on walks, I just kept it covered up. It wasn't really that hard, though, because of lockdown, I haven't really seen anyone," she said.

Tom Holland credits Zendaya with helping him adjust to fame

ANI | Washington

Actor Tom Holland, widely known for playing the lead role in the 'Spider-Man' franchise, opened up about his struggle to adjust to fame and revealed how his co-star and actor Zendaya helped him adapt to the life in the spotlight.

As per People Magazine, in a new cover story for British GQ's April issue, Holland opened up about training for his new Apple TV+ movie 'Cherry' as well as how he has adjusted to fame since becoming a household name after playing the lead role in 'Spider-Man' movies.

The actor said, "I used to come across sometimes as a bit of a d--- to fans, mainly as I was always so surprised that they'd want a picture with me or signature or whatever. I'd have the typical Londoner reaction, one of instant suspicion: 'Why are you talking to me?'," the actor said.
