Priyanka Chopra Jonas’ daughter thinks she’s a princess

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Priyanka Chopra Jonas’ three-year-old daughter “insists” her name is Moana. The 42-year-old actress described Malti Marie - who she has with husband Nick Jonas - as “such a girly girl” and a huge fan of princesses, in particular the titular character from the 2016 movie Moana and its 2024 sequel, and she introduces herself with an extra moniker in tribute to her idol. Speaking on Good Morning America, Priyanka Chopra Jonas yanka said: “She introduces herself as Malti Marie Moana Chopra Jonas. She insists she’s Moana. She insists it’s her name, like officially her name in school. She says, ‘I’m Malti Marie Moana.’ “ The Heads of State star’s daughter loves to play dress up in Priyanka’s closet. She said: “She loves coming into my closet, wearing my shoes, seeing my dresses. She was with us when we were getting dressed for the Met Gala, and she put on my gloves and my hat and she said, ‘Mama and Gaga are going to a ball, just like Cinderella.’ “ Nick recently admitted Malti isn’t impressed by his fame and loves it when he plays Moana with her. He told People magazine:

“She wants to play Moana and Maui with me, and that means more to me than anything else, is that time with her. And just the fact that I’m just Dad when I’m home, it means a lot. “The best part about being a dad is you could feel like your coolest self on top of the world, and she just doesn’t care at all.” Up until last weekend, the Jonas Brothers singer had been starring in The Last Five Years on Broadway and has been enjoying “quiet family time” with Priyanka and Malti during their time in New York.

Andrew Garfield jokingly calls fan ‘sick’

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Andrew Garfield told a fan who sent a raunchy tweet about him that she was “sick”. The 41-year-old actor appeared nervous during a Q+A after a screening of his drama We Live in Time during Glastonbury 2025 when he came face-to-face with the woman, who was behind an infamous post on X about wanting him to “smash a laptop on [her]”, which he had read out during an interview with BuzzFeed back in 2021.

In a video posted to Reddit, Andrew fidgeted in his chair and admitted: “I can’t look at you in the eye.”

After receiving “informed consent” from the fan to share how they “know” one another, Andrew explained to the audience: “I had to read a bunch of tweets about me being kind of, sexually objectified online, basically, and one of them, which got me big, was, ‘I want Andrew Garfield to smash a laptop on me.’

“And that is in the room with us tonight.”

As the audience laughed, Andrew praised the woman for coming up with “one of the more creative sex acts I can imagine.”

However, he added: “I haven’t imagined participating in that. I’m not — I refuse. But I’m happy to meet you, and you’re very creative — and sick. You’re sick.”

During the BuzzFeed segment, Andrew read out thirst posts shared on Twitter, which is now known as X.

The messages included, “I’d let him eat crackers in bed” and “Andrew Garfield is literally the daddy of all daddies”, and the Social Network star

Beyonce stops show due to scary prop malfunction

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

Beyoncé had to stop her concert when she almost fell out of a flying car.

The 43-year-old singer was performing the first of her two Cowboy Carter shows at the NRG Stadium in Houston, Texas on Saturday (28.06.25) when one of her props functioned and began to tilt in mid-air.

Beyoncé - who appeared to be wearing a harness and was holding onto one of the cables attached to the car in a TikTok video of the incident - was singing 16 Carriages while sitting on top of a red convertible when it began to lean at a sharp angle in the air.

She said into her microphone: “Stop, stop, stop, stop, stop.”

The music was cut and the Texas Hold ‘Em singer looked down at the ground and up again before smiling to the cheering crowd.

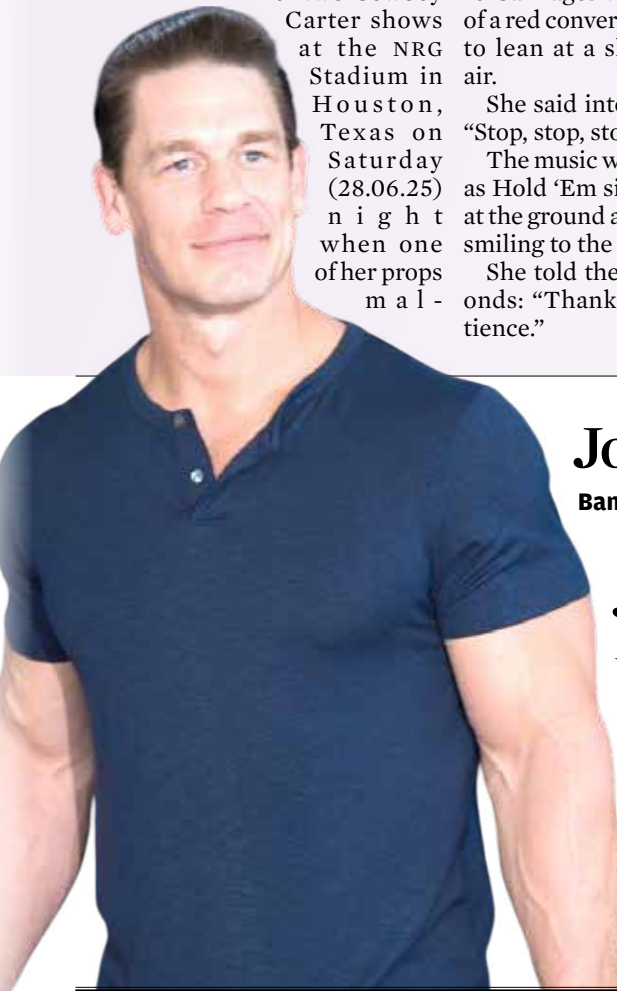

She told them after a few seconds: “Thank y’all for your patience.”

The car was then lowered and stopped tilting as it came closer to the ground, allowing Beyoncé to sit back in her original position as the lights went off.

Beyoncé “briefly” left the stage before returning to finish her performance.

She then came back to finish the song and told the crowd: “If ever I fall, I know y’all would catch me.”

This isn’t the first malfunction Beyoncé has experienced during her Cowboy Carter tour.

John Cena reveals ‘number one passion’ - but it’s not acting or WWE

Bang Showbiz | Los Angeles

John Cena has insisted his wife is his “number one passion”.

The 48-year-old actor and WWE icon - who is retiring from wrestling in December this year - insisted Hollywood won’t become the most important thing in his life when he hangs up his boots for the final time, as he always prioritises his partner Shay Shariatzadeh.

He told Extra: “My number one passion is my wife. Absolutely, that is first on the list.

“I’d say right behind that is my health so I can be the best husband to my wife.”

Despite his looming retirement, the Heads of State actor insisted he will always be part of WWE in some capacity as long as they want him.

He added: “This is my final year in the WWE. I’m retiring this year. We’re about halfway through, so I look forward to officially closing the book on in-ring competition.

“I will forever be an ambassador of the WWE. I’ll be part of that family till they ask me to leave.”

JOHN CENA

as a professional wrestler knowing that his Hollywood career has hit new heights, but he doesn’t take it for granted.

He said: “I know how hard it is to get any sort of role. I saw some footage today, which was one of my first roles as a background actor and man, it really warmed my heart.

“I don’t carry any guilt or shame when I see that, because I got to be on screen, I got to learn a little bit about the business.

“It allowed me to reflect on how far I’ve come, so, gosh, I just want to make the most of the chances that people take on me.”

Meanwhile, the current Undisputed WWE Champion insisted storytelling in WWE is “more adaptable” than movies and other TV shows.
