Ariana Grande celebrates one year of 'Thank U, Next' song

Los Angeles

Ariana Grande

Singer Ariana Grande is super nostalgic as her song "Thank U, Next" has completed a year since its launch.

Grande on Saturday took to Instagram and shared throwback images from the shoot for the music video, wondering how quickly time flies, reports dailymail.co.uk.

"A year," she captioned the images.

In the first image, Grande is seen with her trademark long flowing topknot ponytail, chatting on a fluffy pink phone while exercising in front of her orange MacBook a la Elle Woods.

In November of 2018, "Thank U, Next", Next debuted at number one on the Billboard Hot 100, which meant it was Grande's first number one single of her career.

It was also nominated for Video of the Year at the 2019 MTV Video Music Awards.

Is Khloe Kardashian thinking of reconciliation with ex-boyfriend Tristan Thompson?

Los Angeles

Model Khloe Kardashian is facing mixed feelings for ex-boyfriend Tristan Thompson after the couple separated ways earlier this year.

On Sunday's episode of 'Keeping Up with the Kardashians', the 35-year-old star said she is confused after her former beau surprised her with several lavish gifts ahead of her 35th birthday.

Just days before her special day, Khloe admitted that her 28-year-old former boyfriend has expressed his desire to get back together.

"Lately Tristan has been telling me he's sorry and that he loves and appreciates me," she said on the episode.

"But right now, the most I can handle is co-parenting. I really believe that Tristan wants more than that but that's not what I'm about."

But that isn't stopping Thompson from trying to win her back. During a press trip to Connecticut, Khloe discovered a surprise diamond necklace from her ex.

In interview, Dakota Johnson says Ellen DeGeneres skipped her birthday party

Los Angeles

Ellen DeGeneres, known for hilarious interviews and on-set pranks on her show, had one of the most awkward conversations with actor Dakota Johnson recently.

The two of them on Wednesday (local time) talked about Johnson's birthday party which went viral on the internet.

According to Variety, the conversation between them commenced with a harmless chat, wherein DeGeneres wished the 'Fifty Shades of Grey' star a happy belated birthday. But she then asked her when specifically it was.

On which Johnson's demeanor seemed to stiffen. "It was October 4," she replied, with a tight smile.

"How was the party? I wasn't invited," DeGeneres said. After which 'The Peanut Butter Falcon' actor paused.

"Actually, no, that's not the truth, Ellen, you were invited," she said.

Responding to her claim, the ace host said, "Well, who wouldn't want to be invited to a party?"

"But I didn't even know you liked me," she said.

Dua Lipa announces second album with a tattoo

Los Angeles

Dua Lipa has revealed the title of her second album with new arm tattoo that read "Future Nostalgia".

On Sunday, the singer posted a picture of herself with the caption, "Swipe for album title".

The next picture showed a close-up of Lipa's left bicep, tattooed with the title of her upcoming album "Future Nostalgia".

On Saturday, the singer released the lead single "Don't start now" from her new LP.

Lipa released her eponymous debut album in 2017.

Salman: My father told me not to worry about 'Dabangg 3'

Mumbai

Actor Salman Khan says that his father and veteran screenwriter Salim Khan, who is usually critical of his work, has advised him not to worry about the outcome of his upcoming cop-action film, "Dabangg 3".

"My father is very critical about our movies. Most of the times, he straight away tells us, this film has gone Beta, forget about it. He used the same words for this film ('Dabangg 3') but in a positive manner, saying, forget about it, don't take stress over this film, don't let the success of this film get to your head, and work hard for the next film," said Salman.

Alia breaks down while talking about sister's depression

Mumbai

Actress Alia Bhatt, who is normally seen in a cheerful mood, broke down into tears while talking about her sister Shaheen Bhatt's battle with depression, saying she felt terrible as a sister for not understanding her plight.

At a recent event in Mumbai, Alia got emotional as she got on the stage along with her sister Shaheen to talk about mental health. They also discussed Shaheen's book "I've Never Been (Un) Happier".

Shaheen and Alia

Alia said that despite living with Shaheen all her life, she got to know about what her sister was going through only after reading the book.

"I felt terrible as a sister. I didn't put myself out there enough to understand her," Alia said.

"I have only believed that she is the most brilliant person in my family. To some extent, she has never believed that about her own self but that always broke my heart. I was sensitive but I feel guilty for not understanding as much as I should have," the actress added.

Taylor Swift spends Thanksgiving with beau Joe Alwyn in London

Los Angeles

Pop-singer Taylor Swift who was recently honoured as the Artist of the Decade during the American Music Awards, was spotted spending Thanksgiving with her boyfriend Joe Alwyn.

The 29-year-old star and Alwyn have been dating for about three years now but have continued to keep their relationship private and under wraps. An E! News source shared that this Thanksgiving, Swift travelled to London to spend the holiday with the 28-year-old actor.

"She arrived on Thursday from New York and is spending the weekend there," the source added.

Prior to leaving the country to be with her beau, Swift hosted her annual Friendsgiving party with model Gigi Hadid, Martha Hunt and Antoni Porowski.

"It's an annual tradition for Taylor to get together with close friends and do this," an E! News source shared. "Many have been at her gathering in years past. This year was intimate and casual, but they all had a great time."

Her friend Hunt shared a sweet picture of the two friends hugging it out for the 'gram on Thanksgiving, captioning the photo, "thankful for friends."

Hadid also shared a group picture of the lovely Friendsgiving celebration on her Instagram Story. "Friendsgiving this week :)," wrote the model on her picture. "Love you all sm."

Further, Hunt also reposted the Instagram story and added: "love and miss y'all already."

In October, Swift and Alwyn made a rare public appearance after the 'You Belong With Me' singer performed on Saturday Night Live, reported E! News.
