region 5.5-magnitude earthquake shakes eastern Egypt

A 5.5-magnitude earthquake struck eastern Egypt early Monday, sending tremors across the country and into parts of Israel, Jordan and Lebanon, according to monitoring agencies.

Egypt's National Research Institute of Astronomy and Geophysics (NRIAG) said the quake hit at 3:00 am local time, about 40 kilometres north of Suez, revising its initial estimate from 5.2 to 5.5. The German Research Centre for Geosciences (GFZ) recorded a magnitude of 5.4 at a depth of 10 kilometres, while the US Geological Survey later assessed it at magnitude 5.0.

Residents reported feeling the tremor across Cairo, El-Arish near the Gaza border, and parts of southern and central Israel, including Beersheba and areas near Jerusalem. Shaking was also reported in Jordan and Lebanon.

Egyptian Health Minister Khaled Abdel Ghaffar ordered emergency response plans to be activated nationwide and instructed ambulance services to remain on maximum alert. Authorities evacuated three families from a damaged building in Cairo's Rod al-Farag district, while the Egyptian Red Crescent responded to reports of a collapsed balcony near the epicentre in Suez and urged residents to avoid unsafe buildings.

The Health Ministry confirmed only one injury linked to the earthquake.

Although earthquakes are relatively rare in Egypt, the country's deadliest modern quake occurred in October 1992, when a magnitude 5.8 earthquake killed more than 500 people and displaced thousands.

In Israel, many Android users received automatic earthquake notifications after the operating system detected widespread simultaneous ground movement. The Israel Geological Survey clarified that the alerts were generated by Android's detection system and were not official warnings issued by the IDF Home Front Command.

GCC Secretary General congratulates staff on master's degrees

GCC Secretary General Jassem Mohamed Albudaiwi met with General Secretariat staff members who recently earned master's degrees through a scholarship programme in the People's Republic of China.

During the meeting at the General Secretariat headquarters in Riyadh on Monday, Albudaiwi congratulated the graduates on their academic achievement and praised their dedication, wishing them continued success in their careers. He reaffirmed the General Secretariat's commitment to developing and empowering its workforce through higher education and professional development. Albudaiwi said the knowledge and expertise gained by the graduates would strengthen the work of the General Secretariat, support the implementation of joint programmes and initiatives, and contribute to advancing Gulf cooperation.
