Tana Duggar has a dream for J herself but isn't rushing into

The "19 Kids and Counting" star recently sat down with her mother, Michelle, to speak with Us Weekly about her dating life.

Duggar, 30, said that she hopes to marry one day, as many of her siblings have done before her.

"I'm not that worried," she said. "Yes, I long to be married and one day I think that will come, but I think ... I'm just also just trying to stay busy On," admitting that relawith whatever comes along tionships with "a number of my path."

The former reality star, who also appeared in the "19 Kids" spinoff "Counting On," said been in relationships, that right now, she's "making the most" of her time you want to label it as. as a single woman, though she sometimes feels "a little always end in marmore pressure" to get married.

"I think if I sit there and I'm like, 'Oh no, I'm not talk to someone, married' and just [get] all worried about it," Duggar admitted, adding: "It makes things way worse." Luckily, Duggar has a marriage very close to her that she can look up to in her parents' union.

"They're quick to forgive and to make, really try to make things right," Duggar explained to the outlet. "The genuine love that they still have for one another ... this young love and they still have that, you know, today. I think that's rare to see couples that are their age and been married that long."

Michelle, 53, and Jim Bob, 54, married in 1984.

Per Us Weekly, Duggar had previously addressed her dating life in a 2019 episode of "Counting guys" ĥaven't "worked
