Bahrain's Foreign Minister yesterday expressed the keenness of the Kingdom on continuing its brotherly ties with Qatar, saying that the "doors are still open for dialogue."

Bahrain, Dr Abdullah bin Rashid Al-Zayani, has invited our brothers in Qatar for talks on multiple occasions to settle "outstanding issues."

However, "the State of Qatar has not responded to the calls made by the Kingdom of Bahrain so far," said the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Bahrain took the initiative following the decision made at Al Ula, the minister said, adding that Kingdom wants stability, growth and prosperity to prevail in the region.

"It's not right to leave pending matters without taking action," the minister said.

"Therefore, the responsibility rests with the brothers in Qatar who failed to acknowledge the invitations addressed to them by the Kingdom," the minister said, stressing the need for talks on matters including Bahraini fishermen, maritime coordination, aviation and others.

"We still hope Qatar will respond to Kingdom's call to settle contentious issues through dialogue and direct negotiations," the minister said.

The minister also appreciated the response of Qatar to Bahrain's decision to allow entry to all GCC citizens using ID cards or passports without any prior arrangements.

The minister was speaking during a meeting with editors of local newspapers.

On GCC security, the minister, citing the directive of HM King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa and HRH Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, said it is a great challenge that requires close cooperation.

"It's for which the summit of the Gulf Cooperation Council has called for financial and monetary unity between member states by 2025," the minister stressed.

In this regard, the minister also pointed out that peace, sustainable development, and human rights are the pillars of Bahrain's foreign policy.

The minister also stressed the importance of the speech made by HM the King at the Jeddah Summit, which highlighted the need for stabilising energy prices and supporting initiatives aimed at exporting grain and wheat.

Bahrain, the minister said, believes that sanctions are not a way to solve problems.

"Solutions to problems can form only at the dialogue table and through peaceful efforts."

The minister also expressed his satisfaction at the restarting of grain export from Russia and Ukraine.

Affordable housing now more attractive

● Ministry doubles minimum financing, expands upper limit

● Upper age limit raised from 35 to 40 years

TDT | Manama

The Ministry of Housing yesterday announced doubling the minimum financing available for housing beneficiaries from BD19,000 to BD40,000.

The ministry has also increased the ceiling of the maximum finance amount from BD60,000 to BD70,000.

The move aims at raising the number of beneficiaries of housing services.

The previous scheme allowed obtaining finance based on an applicant's monthly income and paying 25% of the salary. "This will be raised to 30% of even 35% of income, given the maximum amount does not exceed BD70,000."

Financing is now available for six different purposes, including buying a house, land, building, extending an existing building, buying and building on the land, and purchasing a building and then renovating it.

In the previous scheme, financing was limited to construction on land owned by a beneficiary. Buying a home or financing renovations were complimentary services.

The new scheme further allows beneficiaries to mortgage common shares in a property as a guarantee for the banks instead of providing separate documents for the property.

Financing is not limited to the housing bank but includes participating banks now, allowing beneficiaries to secure additional funds.

A newly created category in the Mazaya programme now allows beneficiaries greater flexibility to choose the most appropriate financing to purchase or build a house, buy land or buy and build on a plot.

The ceiling of finance is determined considering beneficiaries' age and deduction rate.

The age limit has also been raised from 21 to 40 years, against the current scheme where it's 21 to 35 years.

Electricity and Water Authority (EWA) Chairman Kamal bin Ahmed Mohammed met with the main partner of operations at Haya Power & Desalination Company (AI Dur II IWPP) located in Al Dur and ACWA Power Board of Directors Chairman Mohammad Abdullah Abunayyan. EWA chairman stressed the keenness to move forward towards developing the electricity and water sector by adopting initiatives and programs that ensure the growth of electricity and water consumption and attract investments to the sector, in line with Bahrain's urban, industrial, and commercial expansion.
