Deepfake creators face jail, hefty fines

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Fake videos made with AI would carry jail terms and fines of BD3,000 to BD10,000 under a Shura bill that criminalises producing or altering audio-visual material which exposes people to contempt or harms the reputation of families.

The proposal, lodged by Ali Al Shehabi, First Deputy Chairman Jamal Fakhro, Dr Mohammed Ali Hassan, Khalid Al Maskati and Dalal Al Zayed, would add a new Article 10 bis to Law No 60 of 2014 on information-technology crimes.

It targets anyone who produces or falsifies visual or audio material with intent to circulate, transfer, distribute, send, publish or make it available by any means or IT system, where the act renders another liable to contempt or punishment, affronts honour, injures the reputation of families or pursues an unlawful purpose.

Punishment

Courts may order imprisonment, a fine within the stated range, or both.

Al Shehabi said advances in artificial intelligence now allow users to generate lifelike video and voice clones, known as deepfakes, and argued that legislation is needed to curb misuse that infringes privacy and rights.

The Shura Council's Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee, chaired by lawyer Dalal Al Zayed, found the bill constitutionally and legally sound and sent its view to the Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee for primary study.

Measure

An explanatory memo states the measure sits alongside existing offences in Law No 60 of 2014, including Article 8 on data manipulation to seize property and Article 10 on producing or sharing pornographic material, and is distinct from Penal Code provisions on misuse of communications.

The text adds that, once enacted and published in the Official Gazette, the law would take effect the following day.

Fishermen first

MPs push for national plan to protect Bahraini livelihoods and marine wealth

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

MPs have tabled an urgent plan to balance the care of Bahrain's marine wealth with the livelihoods of Bahraini fishermen and ask for quick government steps to keep one of the country's oldest trades on a firm footing.

Speaker Ahmed Al Musallam

The proposal also aims to cut shrimp-fishing licences, revive Tamkeen aid for fishermen and add petrol support, coupled with a national plan to set clear rules for fishing and keep fish stocks steady so Bahrainis can stay in the trade.

The move is led by Speaker Ahmed bin Salman Al Musallam, with Mohammed Al Olaiwi, Abdulwahid Abdulaziz Qarata, Dr Hisham Ahmed Al Ashiri and Ali Al Dosari as co-sponsors

They ask the government to act at once to fix the lot of fishermen and seafarers and to protect the income tied to these long-standing crafts.

Practical steps

The text sets out practical steps. Licence numbers would fall, with fair payouts to those who leave the job by choice.

That is aimed at curbing the leasing of permits to expatriate workers.

Professional crews

Bahrainis would be allowed to sail with professional crews without a "Mayad" card so skills pass on and a new line of Bahraini skippers comes through.

Recreational fishing would be reined in to avoid clashes with professionals, with hobbyists limited to rod-and-line use in line with rules in nearby states.

Fishermen's groups would take part in reviewing any fixes to ensure the measures match the day-to-day needs of those on the water.

The proposal also calls for reactivating Tamkeen aid for fishermen and adding petrol support within the fuel scheme, while letting fishermen and seafarers keep working for now as they sort their status.

Shura to debate one-year lease rollover cap

Committee objects

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Lease rollovers would be capped at one year under a bill that a Shura Council committee wants the chamber to reject on Sunday, saying current procedures already cover such cases.

The draft rewrites Articles 28 and 34(a) of the Law on the Property Rent Law (Law 27 of 2014) and adds a new Article 28 bis.

It is pitched as a way to balance landlord and tenant rights, set a clear route for paying or handing back what is owed when a landlord will not accept it, and limit any statutory extension of an expired lease to a single year regardless of the original term.

Change

After reading Parliament's decision, a legal memo and the Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee's view that the text is sound in law and under the Constitution, the Public Utilities and Environment Committee said the change is not needed.

It pointed to the Civil and Commercial Procedures Law (Decree-Law 12 of 1971), which already sets tender-of-performance and deposit rules that courts use in practice.

Those rules give tenants a working method to settle rent or return premises when a landlord declines to take them.

The committee also noted that the lease law protects both sides while leaving room for party choice.

Writing

It cited Article 35(a), which bars a landlord from seeking to evict a tenant from a home within three years of handover, or seven years for commercial, industrial, professional or craft use, unless both sides agree in writing.

Making a one-year rollover

a hard rule would cut against the civil law principle that a contract is the law between the parties.

On practice, the committee referred to Court of Cassation rulings that a tenant meets the duty to return premises by putting them at the landlord's disposal so they can be taken and used without hindrance, even if the keys are not collected.

Registered letter

If the landlord refuses, the tenant may send a registered letter with acknowledgement of receipt and, if needed, ask a Lower Civil Court judge to appoint a custodian.

These steps sit within the procedures law.

Government bodies took the same line in talks.

The Ministry of Justice, Islamic Affairs and Waqf said courts already use the procedures law in such cases, showing the present framework is enough.

The Survey and Land Registration Bureau also joined the discussions.

Parliament tweaked parts of the text to answer concerns about leases shorter than a year, yet the committee said the same legal and practical issues remain.

The committee recommends rejection in principle. The full Council is due to debate the bill on Sunday.

African driver jailed for causing fatal accident

Two years behind bars and set to face permanent deportation

Rehab Mohammad
TDT | Manama

The First High Criminal Court has sentenced an African national to two years in prison and ordered his permanent deportation after serving his term, for causing the death of two workers and injuring others in a fatal traffic accident.

The court found the defendant guilty of involuntary manslaughter and reckless driving, which resulted in the crash. One of the injured victims sustained a fractured leg and minor head bleeding.

During its closing arguments, the Public Prosecution demanded the maximum penalty, stating that the defendant's actions showed gross negligence and disregard for human life, emphasizing that the verdict should serve as a deterrent to similar reckless behavior.

Overtaking maneuver

Investigations revealed that the defendant, who was driving a bus carrying workers after a night shift, attempted an illegal overtaking maneuver at around 6:35 a.m., entering the opposite lane and colliding head-on with a truck traveling in its proper direction.

The impact resulted in the immediate death of two passengers and severe injuries to two others, in addition to extensive damage to both vehicles.

The prosecution confirmed that all elements of the crime were established, supported by clear evidence and witness testimony, leaving the defendant fully responsible for the tragic outcome.

International drug trafficking network members on trial

Rehab Mohammad
TDT | Manama

The First High Criminal Court has begun hearing the case of an international drug trafficking network accused of selling and using narcotics in Bahrain.

The gang consists of four defendants — a Bahraini man, a Bahraini woman, an Arab national, and an Asian national.

During the latest hearing, the Bahraini defendant denied trafficking drugs but admitted to personal use, a confession echoed by the Bahraini woman.

According to the Public Prosecution, between 2025 and 2026, the defendants were involved in possessing and trafficking heroin and cannabis with intent to sell, in violation of Bahrain's anti-narcotics laws.

Syndicate

They were also found to be working for an international drug syndicate operating from outside the Kingdom.

Further charges were brought against two of the defendants for trafficking marijuana and methamphetamine, while the Bahraini defendants were charged with possessing hashish, methamphetamine, and pregabalin for personal use.

The first defendant, who has a prior conviction, was additionally accused of possessing heroin, morphine, marijuana, and cannabis for consumption.

MPs push to set up public maternity hub

State takeover of Riffa's Royal Hospital for Women and Children will upgrade healthcare

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

MPs have tabled an urgent plan for the state to buy the Royal Hospital for Women and Children and turn it into a public maternity and specialist hospital serving Riffa and nearby towns.

The motion, lodged by Bader Saleh Al Tamimi with four colleagues, says a state-run site in the south would give families nearer care and spare them the cost of private treatment.

It names Riffa and its surroundings as fast-growing areas, with new housing such as Khalifa Town adding to demand.

Submission

The submission argues that bringing the hospital under the Ministry of Health would narrow gaps in access between governorates, noting the Southern Governorate is the largest by land area.

A Riffa base, it adds, would take strain off Salmaniya Medical Complex and the Maternity Hospital.

Backers point out the hospital had specialist teams and modern kit in obstetrics and paediatrics.

State purchase

They say state purchase would let mothers and children be seen closer to home, with births and follow-up care needing quick attention.

The proposal states that turning the site into a public hospital would also ease the financial load on citizens who now turn to higher-cost private hospitals.

Stage set for Jewellery Arabia and Scent Arabia 2025

Proposal for smart tracking devices in commercial vehicles

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Commercial vehicles and trucks in Bahrain would be fitted with smart tachographs under a proposal from MP Maryam Al Dhaen.

The in-cab units would log speed, distance, driving and rest periods, and sleep hours.

Data would be recorded continuously, giving regulators a clear read on driver behaviour and any breaches such as speeding or long stints at the wheel linked to fatigue and crashes.

Al Dhaen said the system is widely used in advanced markets to set drivers' hours and monitor performance.

She argued it would lift road safety, cut accidents tied to tiredness or excess speed, encourage safer habits, and give the authorities firm, data-based ground to shape road-freight policy and improve operating efficiency.

Her explanatory note points to European rules as the model.

Passenger and freight carriers there are required to install tachographs under EU Regulation No. 165 of 2014, which sets out how speed, time and braking are recorded as core tools for workplace and road safety.

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

An urgent proposal to place Bahraini dentists who completed the four-year 'Trainee Dentist' programme in permanent posts was approved by Parliament, after some were left without jobs when their contracts expired.

The move covers dentists who finished a Health Ministry-accredited scheme, worked in ministry hospitals and health centres on fixed-term terms for four years, then were not appointed.

It seeks to place them in established roles rather than see trained staff leave the service.

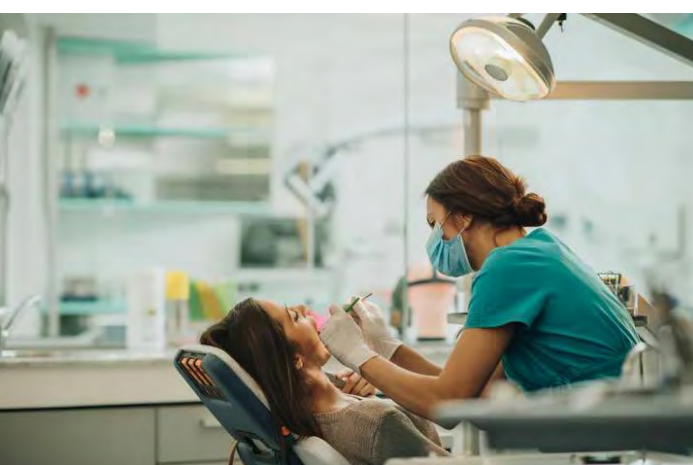

Supporters cite an ongoing need for dentists in public and private clinics.

Qatari firm to invest $29.7 billion in Egypt coastal development

AFP | Doha

A sovereign wealth fund said Thursday it will invest $29.7 billion in a tourism and residential development project on Egypt’s northern coast -- as the country seeks investments to boost a faltering economy.

Egypt, mired in its worst economic crisis in decades, is betting big on its 3,000 kilometres (1,800 miles) of coastline as a revenue source.

The project in the Alam al-Roum area, in Egypt’s Matrouh Governorate, will span “4,900 acres... extending across a coastline of 7.2 kilometres of the pristine Mediterranean shoreline”, a statement from the Qatari Diar company said.

It will include luxury residences and tourism facilities including a marina and golf courses, the statement said.

The investment marks a further step in the warming of ties between the two countries after a low point when Egypt, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain imposed a three-year diplomatic and economic blockade on Qatar beginning in 2017.

They demanded Doha cut ties with the Muslim Brotherhood and its sister organisation Hamas, and downgrade relations with Iran.

In 2024 the UAE said it would inject $35 billion in foreign direct investment into Egypt, including $24 billion that would go to developing the Ras al-Hikma area west of Alexandria on the Mediterranean coast.

The enduring appeal of India's national song

HIS EXCELLENCY VINOD K JACOB

Throughout its civilizational journey, India has been a land of songs and even today, songs continue to capture the national ethos. Songs reflect the popular trends of the times. They also entertain and inculcate values in society in equal measure.

One such tuneful melody is India's national song, "VANDE MATARAM" written by Bankim Chandra Chatterjee on 7 November 1875. It first appeared in the literary journal BAN-GADARSHAN as part of his novel ANANDAMATH in a serialized manner and subsequently as a standalone book in 1882.

VANDE MATARAM, which was set in the late 19th century when India was under British colonial rule, vividly expressed an awakening spirit and sense of unity and self respect among all Indians. Over time it evolved into a sort of paean of respect and devotion to the nation.

As a result of the popularity and influence of VANDE MATARAM, it was given the status of "India's national song" in January 1950 by the first President of India, Dr. Rajendra Prasad. He accorded VANDE MATARAM the same status as JANA GANA MANA which was designated as the national anthem of India.

In the past nearly eight decades, VANDE MATARAM has risen in prominence in the Indian social and cultural milieu. It continues to hold a special place of honour in official ceremonies, public events and educational institutions.

This year marks the 150th anniversary of VANDE MATARAM and it gives me immense pride and satisfaction to recall its illustrious trip through history.

Typhoon hits Vietnam after killing 140 in Philippines

Kalmaegi, one of the world's deadliest this year, forces thousands to evacuate

● Winds reach up to 149 km/h

● Region already hit by deadly floods

AFP | Gia Lai

Typhoon Kalmaegi made landfall yesterday in Vietnam's already storm-battered central belt, where thousands have been evacuated from areas in the path of one of the world's deadliest cyclones this year.

Kalmaegi cut a path of destruction through the Philippines this week, killing at least 140 people and leaving another 127 missing after unleashing devastating floods.

It crashed into central Vietnam late yesterday, packing sustained winds of up to 149 kilometres (92 miles) per hour with much faster gusts, the environment ministry said.

"The wind is so so strong, nothing can resist," Vu Van Hao, 48, told AFP as he surveyed the shards of windows shattered by the storm in the lobby of a hotel in Gia Lai province.

"We here have never experienced such strong wind like this. It's a natural disaster, what can we do?"

The typhoon hit as central Vietnam was still reeling from more than a week of flooding and record rains that killed at least 47 people and submerged centuries-old historic sites.

"This is a huge typhoon with terrible devastating capacity," said Pham Anh Tuan, a top provincial official in Gia Lai, where state media said over 7,000 people had been evacuated as of Wednesday night.

In Gia Lai's coastal area of Quy Nhon Nam, an AFP reporter saw officials knocking doors warning people to flee before the typhoon hit.

Elderly women and children were among dozens of people sheltering yesterday at a school, carrying mats, pillows and blankets.

"I am not young anymore and I don't want to risk my life," said Tran Thi Nghia, 56, who left her one-storey home at the urging of authorities.

Vietnam is in one of the most active tropical cyclone regions on Earth and is typically affected by 10 typhoons or storms a year,

'National calamity'

Kalmaegi slammed into the central Philippines on Monday, battering the islands of Cebu and Negros before swooping back out to sea.

Floodwaters described as unprecedented rushed through Cebu province's towns and cities, sweeping away cars, riverside shanties and even massive shipping containers.

In Liloan, a town near Cebu City where 35 bodies have been recovered, AFP journalists saw cars piled atop each other by floodwaters and roofs torn off buildings as residents attempted to dig out the mud.

Yesterday, President Ferdinand Marcos declared a "state of national calamity", a move allowing the government to release funding for aid and impose price ceilings on basic necessities.

More than 500,000 Filipinos remain displaced.

Rushing to leave

Before the storm hit Vietnam, top leader To Lam said he had cut short a session of the ruling Communist Party's central committee so officials could rush home to areas likely to be af-

Some residents in the typhoon's path piled onto motorbikes carrying water, clothes and other basic necessities before speeding away from their modest steel-roofed homes.

"I experienced only one huge typhoon in this area my whole life," said a 53-year-old man who gave his name as Thanh, intending to ride out the storm in his concrete home.

"I am only afraid of heavy rains that may bring huge floods," he added, saying he would send his children to stay with relatives.

Schools closed yesterday and Friday in Gia Lai and Quang Ngai provinces and at least five airports were shuttered, authorities said, while dozens of flights have been rerouted.

Engine fell off us cargo plane before deadly crash: Officials

AFP | Washington

The death toll from a cargo plane crash in the southern US state of Kentucky rose to 12 on Wednesday, with investigators saying the accident was caused by one of the engines catching fire and detaching during takeoff.

The McDonnell Douglas MD-

11, operated by package delivery giant UPS and bound for Hawaii, crashed at 5:15 pm (2215 GMT) Tuesday, shortly after departing from Louisville Muhammad Ali International Airport.

It exploded into flames as it plowed into businesses adjacent to the airport, killing multiple people on the ground. A three-person crew was aboard.

"I'm deeply saddened to share that the death toll has risen to 12, with several individuals still unaccounted for," Louisville Mayor Craig Greenberg said on X.

Kentucky Governor Andy Beshear called the tragedy "heartbreaking" and "unimaginable."

The National Transportation Safety Board sent teams to Louisville to investigate the accident. NTSB member Todd Inman told reporters that investigators had reviewed closed-circuit airport footage "which shows the left engine detaching from the wing during the take-off roll."

US cuts flights amid shutdown

US officials will cut flight capacity by 10 percent at 40 busy air traffic areas starting Friday

● Flight capacity cut by 10%

● Affects 40 busy US areas

● International flights not affected

AFP | Washington

US officials said the scheduled capacity for flights would be cut by 10 percent in 40 busy air traffic areas nationwide on Friday as the longest government shutdown drags on. Federal agencies have been grinding to a halt since Congress failed to approve funding past September 30, with some 1.4 million federal workers, from air traffic controllers to park wardens, still on enforced leave or working without pay.

"There is going to be a 10 percent reduction in capacity at 40 of our locations," Transportation Secretary Sean Duffy told a White House news briefing on Wednesday, adding that the cuts would come into effect on Friday.

Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) chief Bryan Bedford said the reductions would be at "40 high traffic environment markets."

The official list of affected airports is expected to be published later yesterday but, according to US media outlets, flights will be reduced at some of the busiest airports in the nation, including Chicago, Dallas, Los Angeles, New York, Miami and Washington.

Delta Airlines planes are seen on the tarmac as flights are cancelled at Orlando International Airport in Orlando, Florida

International flights would not be affected by this measure, a source speaking on condition of anonymity told ABC News.

Flight reductions will begin at 4 percent on Friday and gradually reach 10 percent, media outlets reported.

AFP contacted the Department of Transport and FAA seeking more details about the airports that would be affected.

United Airlines issued a statement on social media that said "long-haul international and hub-to-hub flights will not be impacted."

More than 10,000 flights to or from the United States experienced delays last weekend, according to the tracking service

FlightAware.

The government shutdown became the longest in US history on Wednesday, eclipsing the 35-day record set during President Donald Trump's first term.

Airport workers calling in sick rather than working without pay -- which led to significant delays -- was a major factor in Trump bringing an end to that 2019 shutdown.

'Jeopardy'

More than 60,000 air traffic controllers and Transportation Security Administration officers are now working without pay, and the White House has warned that increased absenteeism could create chaos at check-in lines.

House Speaker Mike Johnson said in late October that five percent of flight delays had been the result of staffing shortages but that number had now increased to more than 50 percent.

He warned at the time that the "longer the shutdown goes on, and as fewer air traffic controllers show up to work, the safety of the American people is thrown further into jeopardy."

However, Democrats and Republicans have both remained unwavering over the main sticking point in the shutdown: health care spending.

Democrats say they will only provide votes to end the funding lapse after a deal has been struck to extend expiring insurance subsidies that make health care affordable for millions of Americans.

Republicans insist they will only address health care once Democrats have voted to switch the lights back on in Washington.

Trump has sought to apply his own pressure to force Democrats to cave by threatening mass layoffs of federal workers and using the shutdown to target progressive priorities.

He repeated on Tuesday his administration's threat to cut off a vital aid program that helps 42 million Americans pay for groceries for the first time in the scheme's more than 60-year history, even though the move was blocked by two courts.

The White House later clarified that it was "fully complying" with its legal obligations and was working to get partial Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program payments "out the door as much as we can and as quickly as we can."

Israel strikes Hezbollah targets in Lebanon

AFP | Beirut

Israel struck Hezbollah targets in southern Lebanon yesterday as the group rejected the prospect of direct political talks between the countries and vowed to defend itself.

The Israeli military confirmed a new series of strikes had begun after warning civilians to evacuate certain buildings in three Lebanese villages: Taybeh, Tayr Debba and Aita al-Jabal.

An Israeli strike had already killed one person, according to the Lebanese health ministry. The Israeli military said it had targeted a Hezbollah construction team.

Israel and Lebanon agreed to a ceasefire in November last year, under a deal backed by the United States, France and international mediators, but Israeli strikes on Hezbollah have continued as it accuses the group of trying to rebuild its forces.

"We will not allow Hezbollah to rearm themselves, to recover, build back up its strength, to threaten the state of Israel," Israeli government spokeswoman Shosh Bedrosian told reporters, accusing the group of "continuous terrorist activities."

At the same time, Hezbollah

A crane removes the wreckage of car from the site of an Israeli drone strike that targeted a vehicle in the southern Lebanese village of Doueir(file photo)

lashed out at Lebanon's leadership, rejecting suggestions that it might be time to begin direct political talks with Israel.

A source close to Hezbollah's political leadership told AFP the declaration followed recent US and Egyptian pressure on Lebanon's leaders to open direct negotiations.

Lebanon and Israel are still technically in a state of war, but all the recent armed conflicts with Israel were fought by Hezbollah, not the Lebanese military.

The only diplomatic contact between Israel and Lebanon is through a ceasefire monitoring mechanism, which includes the United States, France and the United Nations.

This body meets regularly at the headquarters of the UN force in southern Lebanon but the Lebanese and Israeli parties do not directly communicate with each other.

Disarmament drive

Hezbollah was the only movement in Lebanon that refused to disarm after the 1975-1990 civil war, first claiming it had a duty to liberate territory occupied by Israel, and then to continue defending the country.

In an open letter to the Lebanese people and their leaders, Hezbollah said it rejected "any political negotiations" between Lebanon and Israel and that such talks would "not serve the national interest".

Hezbollah is backed by Iran, which also fought its own war against Israel earlier this year.

"We reaffirm our legitimate right... to defend ourselves against an enemy that imposes war on our country and does not cease its attacks," Hezbollah added.

The group nevertheless said it remained committed to a ceasefire reached with Israel last year, after months of hostilities that escalated into an all-out war.

Israel warned last week it could intensify operations in Lebanon against Hezbollah and Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has accused the group of trying to rearm, after it suffered staggering losses in the last war.

BMW R&T tops second WEC practice session at BIC

Manama

BMW R&T dominated the scene last night after setting the fastest time in the second free practice session for the Bapco Energies Bahrain 8 Hours at the Bahrain International Circuit, the “Home of Motorsport in the Middle East,” the eighth and final round of the 2025 World Endurance Championship. The team’s No. 20 trio of René Rast, Robin Frijns, and Sheldon van der Linde, driving the BMW M V8 hypercar, recorded the fastest time in the 90-minute session, held under the state-of-the-art floodlights of the Bahrain International Circuit.

The team’s fastest lap time was 1 minute 48.780 seconds, the fastest of the day after the second of three free practice sessions held this week at Sakhir. The Aston Martin Thor No. 009 crew of Alex Riberas, Marco Sørensen, and Romain de Angelis – who topped the first free practice session earlier yesterday – followed with the fastest lap, just 0.262 seconds behind the leaders in their Aston Martin Valkyrie hypercar. The Peugeot Total Energies No. 93 trio of Paul di Resta, Mikkel Jensen, and Jean-Éric Vergne finished third, 0.421 seconds off the pace in their Peugeot 9x8, while the Toyota Gazoo Racing No. 7 crew of Mike Conway, Kamui Kobayashi, and Nyck de Vries rounded out the top four, 0.562 seconds behind in their GR010 Hybrid. Julian Andlauer, Mathieu Jaminet, and Lorin Heinrich, driving the No. 5 Porsche 963 Hypercar, completed the top five in the overall standings, finishing 0.638 seconds behind the leader in the World Endurance Championship category. Manama

Aston Martin Thor Team set a blistering pace yesterday in the opening practice of the Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain at Bahrain International Circuit (BIC) in Sakhir.

The 2025 FIA World Endurance Championship's (WEC) highly anticipated season-finale has gotten underway at 'The Home of Motorsport in the Middle East' and BIC will be welcoming fans today and tomorrow for two days of action-packed racing and colourful family entertainment.

Aston Martin Thor Team's #009 crew of Alex Riberas, Marco Sorensen, and Roman de Angelis, behind the wheel of their Aston Martin Valkyrie Hypercar, were the early aggressors of the race weekend, topping the timesheet in the first 90-minute session along BIC's 5.412-kilometre track.

They posted a fastest lap time of one minute 49.697 seconds.

A second 90-minute WEC practice will be held later today, after which a 60-minute session will take place on Friday. That will be followed by qualifying and Hyperpole later in the day, which will set the grid for the Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain on Saturday, set to flag off at 2pm.

BIC is scheduled to open its gates to the public on both days of the race weekend at 10.30am. On Friday, gates will close at 6.30pm, and on Saturday at 10pm.

Race-goers on Saturday will be able to take part in a pair of exciting fan-engagement activities, to be held as part of the pre-race build-up.

From 11.45am to 12.35pm, they can go for a pitwalk and see the WEC teams up close in their garages, hard at work tuning up their contenders before lining up on the grid. During this time, fans will also be able to meet their favourite drivers, take pictures with them, and have memorabilia signed during the WEC autograph session, set to take place between 11.50am and 12.20pm. These experiences are included in the ticket price and can be enjoyed at no extra cost.

All those attending the WEC spectacle will be able to experience the open paddock – an offering unique to BIC's annual WEC event. Fans will be able to cross the BIC tunnel from the vending area and access the paddock, which is where the WEC's star drivers and their teams call home for the duration of the meeting.

most prestigious series

Tickets are still available for the Le Mans-inspired event. The WEC is one of the most prestigious series in all of motor racing, and tickets offer tremendous value for an occasion of its calibre – rates that cannot be matched anywhere else for a world championship event under the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile (FIA).

Grandstand seats cost just BD5.5 for adults and BD2.75 for children for both days of racing and family entertainment. They can be bought online at bahraingp.com or by calling the BIC Hotline on +973-17450000.

Hospitality packages are also available to enjoy the event from BIC's luxurious suites. These are priced at BD290 per person, excluding VAT, for the two days.

Classified behind Aston Martin's pace-setters in WEC's practice one today were AF Corse's #83 trio of Robert Kubica, Yifei Ye, and Philip Hanson, who were 1.455s behind in their Ferrari 499P Hypercar. Aston Martin Thor Team's #007 crew of Harry Tincknell, Tom Gamble, and Ross Gunn made it two Valkyries in top three, going 1.941s from their teammates.

Peugeot TotalEnergies' #93 trio of Paul di Resta, Mikkel Jensen, and Jean-Eric Vergne, driving their Peugeot 9X8 Hypercar, were classified fourth 2.014s from the top, while Ferrari AF Corse's #51 triumvirate of Antonio Giovinazzi, Alessandro Pier Guidi, and James Calado completed the Hypercars' top five 2.044s behind the leaders.

In the LMGT3 category, Proton Competition's Bernardo Sousa, Ben Tuck, and Benjamin Barker in their #77 Ford Mustang LMGT3 went fastest in the session with a top lap of 2:02.681.

Akkodies ASP Team's #87 crew of Petru Umbrurescu, Clemens Schmid, and Jose Maria Lopez in their Lexus RC F LMGT3 were second-quickest a mere 0.056s off the pace, while their teammates Arnold Robin, Finn Gehrsitz, and Ben Barnicoat in the #78 Lexus completed the top three 0.384s back.

Team WRT's #46 crew of Valentino Rossi, Ahmad Al Harthy, and Kelvin van der Linde in their BMW M4 LMGT3 ranked fourth 0.480s back, while The Bend Team WRT's Yasser Shahin, Timur Boguslavskiy, and Augusto Farfus in their #31 BMW were fifth 0.628s behind.

The WEC field will return for a second practice this evening.

Sumich quickest in Porsche Carrera Cup ME practice

Caleb Sumich from Australia was quickest today morning in the first practice session of the Porsche Carrera Cup Middle East's (PCCME) 2025/2026 season-opening round, being held as part of the weekend's events in the Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain at BIC.

Sumich posted a fastest lap time of 2:03.409 in 14 laps of work. Saud Al Saud from Saudi Arabia followed on the times

The PCCME field will be back on track for a second practice session today afternoon.

Fans attending WEC weekend to enjoy plenty of off-track attractions

Fans attending this weekend's Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain have plenty to look forward to off the track. The entertainment attractions include a wide selection of activities and shows for young children, making for a fun family day out.

BIC has set up an exclusive outdoor area for kids where they can enjoy multiple live performances filled with magic and adventure. These feature popular tales such as The Little Mermaid, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, and Jack and the Magical Beanstalk.

An outdoor play area also has much for youngsters to do, including a car-themed inflatable castle, a kids' train ride, merry-go-round swings, an inflatable obstacle course, and mini cars for endless fun. There is also face painting, hair-braiding stations, and so much more.

For those looking for more extreme entertainment, stunt shows will leave fans in awe, headlined by returning world-famous stuntmen Terry Grant and Lee Bowers, along with freestyle motocross (FMX) stunt bikers.

A monster truck show will also keep fans on edge, while – in an amazing first for BIC – fans will be getting into the monster truck itself for an unbelievable passenger experience.

There are also plenty of roaming entertainers from all over the world who are setting a vibrant, festival-like mood at BIC, including drummers, artists, magicians, Pop the Balloon Man, and much more.

Furthermore, race enthusiasts have the chance to test their skills in state-of-the-art simulators, along with a challenging speed-reaction game.

For the full schedule of all the off-track entertainment this weekend, visit BIC's social media channels.

More information on the WEC season finale and other events and activities at BIC are also available at bahraingp.com or by calling the BIC Hotline.
