Bahrain, Malaysia pledge closer ties during historic Sakhir Palace talks

TDT | Manama

His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa yesterday reviewed Bahrain's close bilateral ties with Malaysia during talks with His Majesty King Sultan Ibrahim Ibni Almarhum Sultan Iskandar of Malaysia, in the presence of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister.

During the meeting at Sakhir Palace, their Majesties discussed ways to further strengthen bilateral cooperation for the benefit of both countries and peoples. They emphasised their shared commitment to expanding cooperation across various sectors and supporting joint efforts that promote mutual interests.

Following the meeting, an expanded session of talks was held with senior officials from both sides. His Majesty King Hamad said the historic visit would further strengthen the close and deep-rooted ties between Bahrain and Malaysia, building upon the generous invitation to King Sultan Ibrahim's Coronation last year.

"We are both strong advocates of peace in Gaza, the entry of humanitarian and reconstruction aid, and a two-state solution as the only lasting route to peace in the Middle East," HM added.

His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, yesterday held talks with His Majesty Sultan Ibrahim ibni Almarhum Sultan Iskandar, the Yang di-Pertuan Agong of the Kingdom of Malaysia. The meeting took place on the sidelines of the Royal Bahrain Concours, held at the Royal Golf Club. His Royal Highness affirmed that bilateral relations between Bahrain and Malaysia continue to go from strength to strength across a diverse range of sectors, under the leadership of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, and His Majesty Sultan Ibrahim ibni Almarhum Sultan Iskandar, the King of Malaysia. His Royal Highness commended Malaysia's comprehensive development and its distinguished standing on both the regional and global stages. The meeting also reviewed the latest regional and international developments, discussed issues of common interest, and explored ways to enhance cooperation that achieves the aspirations of both countries and their peoples. A lunch banquet was held in honour of His Majesty the King of Malaysia and the accompanying delegation's state visit to the Kingdom of Bahrain.

Both countries already enjoy strong cultural links and business opportunities. King Hamad noted Bahrain is committed to deepening collaboration in areas such as banking, fintech, tourism, agriculture, and infrastructure.

His Majesty King Sultan Ibrahim said Bahrain is an important partner for Malaysia, and expressed confidence in further strengthening economic cooperation in line with Bahrain's Economic Vision 2030.

MPs to vote on plan to add mental health, drug checks to pre-marital tests

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A proposal to expand pre-marital medical tests to include mental health assessments and drug-use screening will go before Parliament on Tuesday, though the Services Committee has advised against its adoption.

The amendment to Article 1 of Law No. 11 of 2004 would redefine “medical examination” for couples planning to marry, adding checks for mental health and unlawful drug use to the current focus on genetic and communicable diseases. The bill, submitted by MPs Basema Mubarak, Jaleela Alawi, Hanan Fardan, Dr Hesham Al Ashiri, and Mahmoud Fardan, aims to strengthen family wellbeing and public health.

Under current rules (Decision No. 2 of 2004), pre-marital testing covers sickle-cell anaemia, thalassaemia, hepatitis B, AIDS, and syphilis. The Ministry of Health and the Supreme Council of Health supported the goal but said mental health and drug-use assessments fall outside the law’s scope, which targets hereditary and infectious conditions. They noted that such tests are complex, require professional evaluation rather than lab analysis, and could raise privacy issues or yield false positives.

Citing these concerns, the Services Committee recommended rejection, adding that comparable laws elsewhere do not require such checks. Parliament is expected to debate the bill on Tuesday.

Bill seeks to fix school entry age at six by year-end

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A bill before Parliament on Tuesday would let children start Year 1 if they turn six by 31 December, ending confusion over school-age cut-offs. The Services Committee supports the change, saying it levels access for all families.

The government and Education Ministry, however, argue that current rules already cover this, noting schools can register children turning six by year-end if space allows. They say a 2018 rule and a 2022 Cabinet decision already widened early entry.

Even so, the committee wants the law clarified to fix entry at turning six anytime from the start of term to 31 December.

Private schools bill sets BD100,000 fines, tougher oversight

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will on Tuesday debate a bill introducing stricter controls on Bahrain’s private education sector, including fines of up to BD100,000 and jail terms of up to a year for serious offences.

The proposal, linked to Decree No (60) of 2025, sets a new framework for nurseries, schools and educational centres. Institutions would need a renewable three-year licence for each branch and must meet all safety, health and academic standards before opening. Schools would be required to maintain permanent pupil and financial records, adopt internal regulations, and have their Boards of Directors and Parents’ Councils approved by the Ministry of Education.

Curriculum rules would tighten, with ministry approval required for all programmes and changes. Materials must respect Bahrain’s religious, national and pan-Arab values. Even foreign and community schools would have to teach Arabic, Islamic Education, Social Studies and Citizenship Education. Digital learning will be allowed under forthcoming regulations.

Fees would face closer oversight, with any increase needing ministry approval. Annual accounts must be audited and filed with the Ministry. Inspectors will have broader powers to visit institutions, review records and order corrections. Penalties range from written warnings and temporary suspension to licence cancellation or fines up to BD100,000.

Criminal penalties target unlicensed teaching and fraud. Anyone providing education without a licence, filing false data or obtaining a licence by deceit could face up to a year in jail or fines between BD1,000 and BD100,000.

The Ministry of Education said the draft replaces the outdated 1998 law, improves investor confidence and strengthens transparency. It will also make licensing faster, tighten curriculum oversight and prioritise hiring Bahrainis.

The Services Committee has recommended the bill’s approval in principle, calling it a vital update for a sector that now serves nearly half of all students in Bahrain.

Parliament to vote on 24/7 patrols for King Hamad Highway

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will on Tuesday debate a proposal to keep police patrols on King Hamad Highway round the clock, following a rise in deadly crashes, illegal street racing and residents’ complaints.

The Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee backed the motion, tabled by MPs Lulwa

Al Rumaihi, Munir Surour and Bader Al Tamimi, urging the government to increase traffic and security patrols along the route day and night.

MP Lulwa Al Rumaihi said the road has become dangerous due to reckless drivers and unlawful racing, adding that cameras alone no longer deter offenders. Continuous patrols, she said, would curb accidents, catch violators and safeguard lives and property.

Interior Ministry officials told the committee that the General Directorate of Traffic already monitors the highway and enforces lane discipline for lorries, while new routes fall under the Works Ministry.

The committee unanimously recommended Parliament approve the motion.

SMART CITY EXPO WORLD CONGRESS

Sheikh Mohammed bin Ahmed Al Khalifa, Undersecretary for Municipal Affairs at the Ministry of Municipalities Affairs and Agriculture, took part in the Smart City Expo World Congress held in Barcelona from 4 to 6 November 2025. The event gathered government officials, municipal leaders, major tech firms, and global organisations to explore innovation in sustainable urban planning and digital transformation. The Undersecretary highlighted Bahrain’s commitment to building smarter, more sustainable cities and strengthening global partnerships to support this vision.

Court hears human trafficking case involving minor

TDT | Manama

The First High Criminal Court has taken up a human trafficking case involving an Asian girl under the age of 16, who was allegedly forced into prostitution by a compatriot after being deceived with promises of a lucrative overseas job.

Court files reveal that the victim travelled to Bahrain believing she had secured employment arranged by the second defendant. Upon arrival, the second and third defendants met her at the airport, took her to a flat, confiscated her passport, and locked her inside.

The victim was then forced to receive clients, with the first defendant bringing customers and collecting payments from the second and third defendants. Her attempt to escape was thwarted when the first defendant caught and returned her to the flat.

During questioning, the first defendant admitted that the victim had been brought to the hotel where he worked and housed in a room rented for prostitution, along with other girls.

The Public Prosecution charged the defendants with trafficking a minor, coercion, and exploitation for prostitution in March 2025. The court has scheduled a hearing for November 9.

Court awards BD 7,000 to assault victim with permanent disability

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A court has ordered a man to pay BD 7,000 in compensation to an assault victim who was left with a 12 per cent permanent disability. The defendant was also directed to cover court fees and costs, BD 90 for the medical committees’ deposit, and BD 500 in lawyers’ fees.

The civil judgment followed an earlier criminal case in which the defendant was prosecuted and fined BD 100. Court records show that ruling has become final and unchallenged, forming the basis for the civil court’s decision.

According to case papers, the defendant assaulted the claimant, causing multiple injuries and lasting impairment. The victim, represented by lawyer Salah Al Jaber, sought compensation for material and moral damages, including medical expenses and loss of income during more than five months of recovery.

The court, after reviewing the medical reports and the final criminal verdict, ruled in favour of the claimant and ordered the defendant to pay the stated amounts.

Lawmakers to debate plan to extend maternity leave

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will on Tuesday debate a proposal to extend maternity leave, with the Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee recommending approval.

The motion, tabled by MP Dr Ali Al Nuaimi, would keep the current two-month paid leave but allow mothers to add further periods under defined conditions. It aims to strengthen family stability, maintain workplace standards, and boost employee loyalty through fair, balanced provisions.

The Civil Service Bureau said maternity policy must balance family needs with operations and efforts to reach fiscal balance.

Under current law, female employees are entitled to 60 days of paid maternity leave, including allowances, starting from the date on a certified medical report, with an option to begin up to 15 days before the expected delivery. On return, mothers receive two paid nursing hours per day until the child turns two, and can take unpaid childcare leave for up to two years at a time—up to three times during their career—to care for a child under six.

The Bahrain Women Union supported a “fair and practical” extension that allows mothers to meet family responsibilities while sustaining work efficiency.

After reviewing all views, the Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee unanimously advised Parliament to approve the proposal, saying it strikes a fair balance between supporting working mothers and maintaining institutional productivity.

Bahrain advances global legal collaboration

Signs landmark MOUs, holds international judicial forums

TDT | Manama

The Kingdom of Bahrain reaffirmed its growing role as a hub for international legal cooperation with the signing of three landmark memoranda of understanding, coinciding with two major global legal events — The Kingdom of Bahrain-India: Pathways Towards Successful Commerce forum and The Future of International Commercial Courts conference. Organised by the Council for International Dispute Resolution, the Bahrain Chamber for Dispute Resolution (BCDR), and Global Justice Bay, the initiatives marked a milestone in Bahrain's advancement as a centre for judicial excellence and transnational justice.

The three MOUs were signed during the King Hamad Lecture for Neutral Justice, alongside the launch of the Bahrain International Commercial Court (BICC) — a bilingual institution established in partnership with Singapore — and the inauguration of Global Justice Bay.

The agreements included:

- An MOU between the BCDR and the Bahrain Law Society to enhance legal practice and dispute resolution expertise.
- An MOU between the BCDR and the Singapore Law Society to promote cross-border collaboration and professional development.

- An MOU between the Bahrain Law Society and the Singapore Law Society to deepen exchange and innovation within both legal communities.

At the Ritz-Carlton, Bahrain, the Council for International

Dispute Resolution hosted The Kingdom of Bahrain-India: Pathways Towards Successful Commerce forum, bringing together business, judicial, and government leaders from Bahrain, India, and the wider MENA region. Speakers included Dr Pinky Anand, newly appointed judge of the BICC, Hon. Shri Arjun Ram Meghwal, India's Minister of Law & Justice, and Justice Surya Kant, Chief Justice Designate of India.

The conference "The Future of International Commercial Courts: Towards Transnational Justice" followed, featuring keynote addresses by Chief Justice Sundaresh Menon of Singapore and Justice Chile Eboe-Osuji of the Caribbean Court of Justice.

Discussions explored the role of international commercial courts in advancing neutral, efficient dispute resolution and global business confidence.

Together, the agreements and events positioned Bahrain as a rising global centre for commercial justice, bridging Asia, the Middle East, and the international legal community.

MPs to discuss raising allowances for special-needs educators and support staff

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will debate a proposal on Tuesday to double the monthly allowance for staff working with persons with disabilities, raising payments to BD200 for teachers and specialists and BD100 for general staff. The move would extend the benefit to all personnel performing these duties, including in integration classes.

The amended motion, submitted by MPs Mohammed Al Maarifi, Mohammed Al Refai, Jaleela Alawi, and Mohsen Al Asboul, follows an earlier version returned to committee in January 2024. The new text focuses on increasing the allowance and widening eligibility.

The Services Committee supports the proposal, noting it would recognise teachers and specialists who educate, rehabilitate, and care for students with special needs. The Financial and Economic Affairs Committee described the cost as an investment in human capital, noting additional funds would be required without affecting other approved budgets.

Currently, eligible staff receive BD50 or BD100 under Prime Ministerial Decision 77 of 2013. BD100 is paid to those with a Special Education diploma plus a bachelor's, a bachelor's in Special Education, or related degrees like physiotherapy or psychology. BD50 applies to general civil service staff performing relevant tasks. The Civil Service Bureau and Ministry of Education oversee allowance rules, while capacity-building initiatives include scholarships, workshops, and training programs.

The Ministry of Social Development noted that implementation involves multiple government bodies and coordination will be detailed in the government memorandum if

Lawmakers push to give drivers longer window for discounted fine payments

Jameel Mulla Hassan, Committee Rapporteur

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Despite opposition in the upper chamber, a bill to extend the discount period for traffic fines returns to Parliament on Tuesday, with MPs citing financial pressures on citizens.

The proposal seeks to amend Article 56 of the Traffic Law, giving motorists who accept a settlement 30 days to pay half the minimum fine, replacing the current seven-day window. Supporters argue the longer period would ease households' budgets, encourage more drivers to settle fines, reduce the Traffic Court's workload, and save motorists time and legal costs.

The Shura Council rejected the bill in principle, while the government warned that extending the period could weaken deterrence, stressing that prompt settlement is essential for road safety. Under current law, drivers who settle within seven days pay half the minimum fine; payment within 30 days requires the full minimum, and settlements before the Public Prosecution cannot be less than a quarter of the maximum fine.

The Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee reviewed the Shura Council's objection on 5 May 2025. The Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee backed the council's legal reasoning but named MPs Jameel Mulla Hassan and Hassan Ibrahim as rapporteurs. The committee recommends Parliament insist on the longer payment window to support citizens under financial strain.

Southern Municipal Council backs digital screens for campaigns, ads

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A plan to install electronic screens for parliamentary and municipal campaign material, and for other commercial advertising, won majority backing from the Southern Municipal Council.

Council Chairman Abdulla Abdullatif, who put forward the screens plan, said the aim is to catch the eye of passers-by, allow quick updates to what is shown, encourage audience interaction, and cut visual clutter.

Southern Municipal Council session Wednesday

He added that candidates would be able to run their campaigns on the screens while traditional methods continue. He said national firms and the wider private sector could be invited to invest, and described the move as a first for the council.

Member Mubarak Faraj asked if wooden frames for roadside adverts would end if the plan goes ahead. The chairman replied that the idea is meant to improve campaigning and reduce clutter.

Member Khalid Shajra said large adverts have built up in certain spots in a random way, which harms the streetscape. He said a more modern method is needed, especially if offered at reasonable rates, which may draw people away from paper posters. He also noted that much of the world is turning to artificial intelligence and its uses.

Bahrain's GCC trade hits USD 2.1bn as growth momentum builds

Non-oil sectors expand 3.5% amid rising regional integration and robust digital transactions

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Bahrain's trade with Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries rose 15% in the second quarter of 2025 to USD 2.11 billion, up from USD 1.83bn a year earlier, according to the Bahrain Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

Saudi Arabia remained Bahrain's top trading partner, with bilateral trade reaching USD 942m, an increase of 9%. The United Arab Emirates followed with USD 835m, up 26%, reflecting stronger regional commercial ties.

The Chamber's quarterly report showed real GDP expanding 2.5% year on year, driven by a 3.5% rise in non-oil activity despite a 2.6% decline in oil output. Professional, scientific and technical services led growth at 12%, followed by wholesale and retail trade at 6.7% and real estate at 4.7%.

Financial and insurance activities contributed the largest share of GDP at 17%, ahead of oil at 14.8% and manufacturing at 14.2%. The report also cited the IMF's April 2025 outlook projecting 3.9% real GDP growth for emerging economies in 2026.

Trade with Qatar climbed 14% to USD 132m, Kuwait rose 11% to USD 106m and Oman increased 3% to USD 92m. The Chamber noted Bahrain's first-place global ranking for electricity production and ICT access in the Global Innovation Index 2025.

Digital transactions also grew strongly, with Fawri instant payments up 16% and point-of-sale transactions up 14% year on year.

China remained the Kingdom's top import source at USD 564m, led by smartphones worth USD 58m. The UAE ranked second with USD 364m, mainly gold bullion at USD 108m, followed by Australia (USD 331m), Brazil (USD 267m) and the United States (USD 257m).

Saudi Arabia was also the leading export destination at USD 716m, dominated by unwrought aluminium alloys worth USD 116m. The UAE received USD 471m, the United States USD 264m, the Netherlands USD 120m and Qatar USD 110m.

Unmanufactured aluminium ingots topped Bahrain's exports at USD 800m, followed by agglomerated iron ore and concentrates at USD 402m, and pure aluminium wire at USD 141m—underlining the Kingdom's industrial strength and regional trade momentum.

Muharraq Council to vote on 48-hour warning rule before municipal fines

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

The Muharraq Municipal Council will on Monday debate a plan requiring inspectors to issue and record a 48-hour warning before writing up any municipal offence.

The proposal follows public complaints that fines were being issued without notice. Supporters say the move would protect both residents and staff, reduce disputes and make enforcement more transparent. Although a ministerial reply last year confirmed a 48-hour grace period already exists, councillors want clearer procedures. Inspectors would notify violators by email, text and a site sticker showing the notice number, time issued and inspector's name. Each warning would be logged in the municipal system with a photo, starting the 48-hour countdown. Inspectors would revisit sites after the period ends to check compliance before issuing a fine. Immediate action would remain allowed for health or safety risks, with reasons documented.

The Ministry of Municipalities Affairs would audit warning and offence records to ensure fair application. If approved, the council will urge the ministry to adopt the system nationwide.

MPs to vote on VAT exemption for social and youth services

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will on Tuesday vote on a proposal to amend Bahrain's Value Added Tax (VAT) Law to extend the zero per cent rate to social-care services provided to social and cultural societies, clubs, and private bodies operating in youth and sports. The move follows a report from the Financial and Economic Affairs Committee recommending approval.

Under the proposed amendment, the zero per cent rate would apply to "the supply of social-care services and related goods and services to social and cultural societies and clubs, and to private entities working in the field of youth and sports."

MP Hanan Fardan, one of the bill's sponsors, said the change aligns with the principles of social justice enshrined in the Constitution. "Zero-rating these supplies supports community groups that deliver social care on a non-profit basis," she said.

However, the Ministry of Finance and National Economy, in coordination with the National Bureau for Revenue, has urged lawmakers to reconsider. The ministry cited Bahrain's obligations under the GCC's Unified VAT Agreement, the potential impact on VAT revenues used to fund social protection programmes, and the principle that zero-rating should remain limited to essential needs such as education, healthcare, new housing, and key food items. It also noted that eligible VAT-registered sectors can already reclaim tax through existing refund mechanisms.

The proposal was submitted by MPs Hanan Fardan, Dr Hisham Al Ashiri, Basema Mubarak, Mohsen Al Asboul and Hisham Al Awadhi. If approved, the amendment would take effect the day after its publication in the Official Gazette.

Parliament reviews Bahrain-Jersey tax treaty

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament has received a bill to ratify a Bahrain-Jersey tax treaty aimed at eliminating double taxation on income, following a royal decree issued on 29 October.

The agreement covers Bahrain's corporate income tax and Jersey's income tax, with scope to include similar future levies. It sets out how residents will receive relief for taxes paid in the other jurisdiction and includes a non-discrimination clause to ensure equal treatment of nationals and permanent establishments.

An article on information exchange obliges both sides to share data relevant to enforcing tax laws, with safeguards for confidentiality, public policy and bank secrecy.

Anti-abuse measures apply a principal-purpose test to prevent treaty shopping, though competent authorities may grant relief in justified cases.

The treaty also addresses capital gains, employment income, directors' fees and student payments. Gains from immovable property or permanent establishments may be taxed where they arise; other gains are taxed in the seller's state of residence.

For entry into force, both sides must complete domestic procedures. It will then apply to withholding taxes from 1 January of the following year, and to other taxes from the start of the next fiscal year. Either party may end the treaty after five years with six months' notice.

Shaping Bahrain's digital destiny: MPs to debate national AI strategy

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament will on Tuesday debate a proposal for a National Artificial Intelligence Strategy aimed at establishing a dedicated AI Centre, drawing investment, and building Bahraini expertise to improve public services and drive economic growth.

The initiative, submitted by MP Dr Munir Seroor, calls for a national plan to integrate AI across Bahrain's fastest-growing sectors, supported by investor incentives, training programmes, and clear governance rules to ensure safe and responsible use.

Supporters say the strategy would help deliver faster government services, create quality jobs for Bahrainis, boost investment, expand revenue sources, and promote sustainable development.

The Economic Development Board backs broader AI adoption, stressing coordination with the Information & eGovernment Authority (iGA) to achieve tangible results. The Ministry of Finance and National Economy says the proposal aligns with the Government Programme's focus on digital transformation and job creation. It cited existing examples such as advanced data modelling at the ministry, Bahrain Polytechnic's AI Academy, youth innovation contests, and AI-based urban monitoring at the Survey and Land Registration Bureau.

AI is a core part of the National Digital Economy Strategy under the Communications, IT and Digital Economy Strategy, and is being developed as an enabling pillar of Bahrain Economic Vision 2050. The iGA has already issued a National AI Policy and Ethics Guide.

The Ministry of Cabinet Affairs highlighted the need for strong public-private collaboration, while the Nasser Centre for Science and Technology said a unified AI plan would raise competitiveness, enhance service quality, attract investment, and create new employment opportunities.

Kingdom records lowest inflation in the Gulf

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Bahrain posted one of the Gulf's lowest inflation rates in 2025 at 0.3%, KAMCO Invest said in its October update. The consumer price index held at 101.7 year-on-year and rose 0.5% on the month. Five of twelve CPI groups fell, led by clothing, healthcare and recreation, while education and food edged higher.

Across the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC), inflation stayed subdued despite global supply disruptions. KAMCO Invest cited strong fiscal policy, higher oil output and currency pegs to the US dollar. Using IMF data, it put average GCC inflation at 1.7% for 2025 and 2% for 2026.

Saudi Arabia recorded 2.2%, the UAE 2.9%, Oman 0.9% and Qatar 0.1%. Since April, OPEC+ members have lifted production by about 2.9 million barrels per day, easing energy and transport costs. The US Federal Reserve cut rates by 25 basis points in October, with most Gulf central banks following to support growth. Globally, US inflation hit 3% in September, yet Gulf readings stayed mild, helped by steady energy markets and a 20% drop in global food prices from 2022 peaks, according to the UN Food and Agriculture Organization.

YOU
KNOW WHAT

In ancient Rome, inflation once got so bad that Emperor Diocletian issued a law in 301 AD setting maximum prices for over 1,000 goods and services – including a lion, which was priced at 150,000 denarii! The attempt to control prices failed, and the economy eventually collapsed under the weight of rampant inflation and black-market trade.

Seven hospitalized after suspicious package opened at US base

Media members (R) view an Army UH-60 Black Hawk helicopter at Joint Base Andrews, Maryland

AFP | Washington

Seven people were briefly hospitalized after a suspicious package containing a white powder was opened at the military base near the US capital that is home to Air Force One, the presidential jet, US media reported.

The CNN television network said initial tests of the unknown substance by a HAZMAT team found it not to be hazardous but an investigation was ongoing.

The individuals at Joint Base Andrews who were taken to hospital on Thursday were subsequently released, CNN said.

Fox News said some of them had reported experiencing headaches.

CNN, citing sources familiar with the investigation, said the package also contained what was described as “political propaganda.”

“Joint Base Andrews responded to an incident here today after an individual opened a suspicious package,” the base said in a statement to US media. “As a precaution, the building and connecting building were evacuated.

“Joint Base Andrews first responders were dispatched to the scene, determined there were no immediate threats, and have turned the scene over to Office of Special Investigations,” the statement said.

Joint Base Andrews in Maryland is a short drive from Washington and is used by senior US government officials.

President Donald Trump landed at the facility as recently as Wednesday on an Air Force One flight returning him from a business forum in Florida.

CNN said the package was opened in a building that houses the Air National Guard Readiness Center on the sprawling base.

UN warns of intensified Sudan hostilities

Paramilitaries endorse truce, but UN sees clear preparations for intensified fighting

- Government has not responded
- Violence spreads to Kordofan

AFP | Port Sudan

The United Nations warned yesterday of “intensified hostilities” ahead in Sudan, despite paramilitary forces endorsing a truce proposal from mediators after more than two years of war with the regular army.

“There is no sign of de-escalation,” UN human rights chief Volker Turk said in a statement.

“Developments on the ground indicate clear preparations for intensified hostilities, with everything that implies for its long-suffering people.”

On Thursday, the paramilitary Rapid Support Forces (RSF) said they had accepted a truce plan put forward by the United States, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and Egypt.

However, the government, backed by the army, has yet to respond to the US-led mediators’ proposal, and explosions rocked the army-controlled capital Khartoum yesterday.

The war in Sudan erupted in April 2023, pitting army chief Abdel Fattah al-Burhan against his former deputy, RSF commander Mohammed Hamdan Daglo.

It has so far killed tens of thousands of people, displaced nearly 12 million and triggered a hunger crisis.

Less than two weeks ago, the RSF captured the city of El-Fasher, the army’s last major stronghold in Darfur, giving it control of all five state capitals in the vast western region, in addition to parts of the south.

The army controls most of Sudan’s north, east and centre.

El-Fasher’s fall was accompanied by reports of mass killings, sexual violence and looting, drawing international condemnation.

Yale University’s Humanitarian Research Lab said on Thursday that satellite imagery collected earlier this week showed the RSF had blocked a key escape route used by civilians fleeing El-Fasher -- one of the city’s five main exits.

There are fears of further atrocities taking place as the conflict shifts into the oil-rich Kordofan region.

‘Stark warning’

Turk issued a “stark warning” yesterday about escalating violence in Kordofan -- a vast semi-arid area between Darfur and army-held Khartoum.

“Since the capture of El-Fasher, the civilian casualties, destruction and mass displacement there have been mounting,” Turk said.

Deadly Typhoon Kalmaegi ravages Vietnam, Philippines

AFP | Vietnam

Typhoon Kalmaegi churned across Vietnam yesterday, claiming five more lives after its devastating passage through the Philippines where the death toll rose to 188.

Kalmaegi unleashed record rainfall and flooding in the central Philippines this week -- sweeping away cars, trucks and shipping containers before lashing Vietnam.

“The roof of my house was just blown away,” said Nguyen Van Tam, a 42-year-old fisherman in Vietnam’s Gia Lai province where the storm made landfall late Thursday.

“We were all safe, (but) the typhoon was really terrible, so many trees fallen,” he said, adding that his boat had survived intact.

Vietnamese authorities were still assessing the damage yesterday, but the environment ministry reported five dead, and 57 houses collapsed in Gia Lai and neighbouring Dak Lak.

Nearly 3,000 more had their roofs blown off or were damaged, it said, while 11 boats or ships sank.

Vo Thi Danh, 43, watched from higher ground as Kalmaegi ripped through Nhon Hai fishing

A resident records the debris of a structure destroyed in high winds on their phone village in Gia Lai, splitting boats into kindling and sweeping away the small seaside house where she lived with her family.

“The waves were so high, swallowing in the whole house,” she told AFP in tears as she surveyed the rubble. “The house totally collapsed, nothing left.”

It was one of seven homes clustered together in the fishing village that were reduced to chunks of concrete and twisted metal.

In the streets along Gia Lai’s Quy Nhon beach, AFP journalists saw rescue workers and soldiers working with residents to clear uprooted trees, remove debris and collect sheet-metal roofs blown away in the night.

The state power company said 1.6 million clients lost electricity as the typhoon smashed the central coast, but service to a third of them had been restored by yesterday morning.

Vietnam is in one of the most active tropical cyclone regions on Earth and is typically affected by 10 typhoons or storms a year.

Kalmaegi was the 13th of 2025 and hit the country with sustained winds of up to 149 kilometres (92 miles) per hour, according to the environment ministry.

Scientists warn that storms are becoming more powerful due to human-driven climate change. Warmer oceans allow typhoons to strengthen rapidly, and a warmer atmosphere holds more moisture, meaning heavier rainfall.

Fast-moving Kalmaegi had already swept northwest toward Laos by morning with significantly weakened winds, but heavy rain was still forecast for much of Vietnam’s central coast, the national weather bureau said.

The storm was next forecast to hit Thailand, which issued a warning yesterday for heavy rainfall and flooding starting in the northeast and spreading to the rest of the country.

Relentless rains

Kalmaegi had initially battered the islands of Cebu and Negros in the Philippines before swooping back out to sea.

Floodwaters described as unprecedented rushed through the hardest hit Cebu province’s towns and cities, where the hunt for missing people continues.

Philippine authorities raised the death toll to 188, with 135 still missing.

US flight chaos deepens

FAA orders flight reductions at 40 major airports due to the ongoing government shutdown

- Hundreds of flights canceled across the US
- Disruption hits during peak travel season

AFP | Washington

Hundreds of flights were canceled across the United States yesterday after the Trump administration ordered reductions to ease strain on air traffic controllers who are working without pay amid congressional paralysis on funding the US budget.

Forty airports were due to slow down, including the giant hubs in Atlanta, Newark, Denver, Chicago, Houston and Los Angeles.

With Republicans and Democrats in a bitter standoff over spending priorities, including over healthcare, Congress has ground to a standstill, leaving the entire federal funding spigot closed. Vast numbers of government employees, including vital airport staff, are working either without pay or are at home furloughed, waiting for the now nearly six-week crisis to end.

The impact remained unclear early yesterday, with the flight reductions due to take effect gradually, starting at four percent and rising to 10 percent next week if Congress still hasn't reached a funding deal.

More than 800 flights scheduled for yesterday were canceled, according to tracking website

A traveler sits on his luggage as he waits at Newark Liberty International Airport in Newark, New Jersey

FlightAware, which would be more than the previous three days combined.

Aviation analytics company Cirium said three percent of US flights had been canceled so far.

The upheaval means ordinary Americans are now directly aware of the impacts from the fight in Washington, where the funding shutdown began October 1, increasing pressure on both parties.

"This isn't about politics, it's about assessing the data and alleviating building risk in the system," said US Transportation Secretary Sean Duffy, pushing back against criticism that the order aims to increase pressure on Democrats to end the shutdown.

Fears of accidents

The most affected airports so far were Chicago O'Hare, Hartsfield-Jackson in Atlanta, Denver and Dallas-Fort Worth, according to data analyzed by AFP.

American Airlines said in a statement that its scheduled reduction amounted to 220 flight cancellations each day.

Delta Airlines said it was axing about 170 flights scheduled for yesterday, while broadcaster CNN reported Southwest Airlines cut around 100 flights set for that day.

KNOW WHAT

FAA Administrator Bryan Bedford said he was unaware of any prior situation in his 35-year career where such drastic measures were needed due to a government shutdown teriorating," said FAA Administrator Bryan Bedford.

Peak travel season

The reduction measures come as the country enters its busiest travel time of the year, with the Thanksgiving holiday just weeks away.

Millions of Americans are likely to face travel chaos amid a shortage of air traffic control personnel, although President Donald Trump's administration sought to reassure people that flying remains safe.

"It's safe to fly today, tomorrow, and the day after because of the proactive actions we are taking," Duffy said on social media late Thursday.

But many in high-stress aviation-related jobs are now calling in sick and potentially working second jobs in order to pay their bills, Duffy said Wednesday.

Leaders turn up the heat on fossil fuels at Amazon climate summit

Leaders and delegation heads pose for the family photo at the Leaders Summit ahead of the COP30 UN climate conference in Belem

AFP | Belem

World leaders will meet for a second day of climate talks in the Brazilian Amazon yesterday after fiery speeches and renewed criticism of Big Oil marked the opening session.

Dozens of ministers and several heads of state and government, including those of Spain, Germany and Namibia, will meet in Belem just before the United Nations' (UN) annual two-week conference, COP30, which starts on Monday.

Evidence of the climate crisis, driven largely by the burning of fossil fuels and deforestation, has never been clearer: the past 11 years have been the hottest on record and marked by intensifying hurricanes, heat waves and wildfires.

UN chief Antonio Guterres and a series of national leaders said on Thursday that the world will fail to keep global warming below 1.5C, the Paris Agreement's primary target set a decade ago, but said they have not yet given up on its fallback goal of 2C.

The absence of leaders from the world's biggest polluters, including the United States, where President Donald Trump has dismissed climate science as a "con job," cast a shadow over talks, but also catalyzed calls for greater mobilization.

India Can Play Key Role in Global Rare Earth Supply Chain, Says World Energy Council Chief

TDT | Agencies

India has the potential to become a key player in the global rare earth supply chain if it develops strong refining and processing capabilities, Adnan Amin, Chairman of the World Energy Council and former CEO of COP28, said.

Speaking in an exclusive interaction with ANI, Amin noted that rare earth minerals are widely available across the world, including in India, but the challenge lies in building the industrial capacity needed to process them. "Rare earth minerals are not that rare. The real issue is how to refine and process them into usable elements for the energy transition," he said.

Reflecting on China's dominance in the sector, Amin said the country has spent the past 25 years investing in rare earth processing and establishing a strong industrial ecosystem. "Recent trade disruptions and geopolitical tensions have created a perception of monopoly, but countries like India can play a major role in diversifying supply chains," he added.

Amin said several nations, including the United States and Japan, are now working to secure and diversify sources of rare earths. "India has the possibility, but again, it's about developing the industrial capacity for processing and refining — that will be at the crux of this," he said.

He also highlighted the growing importance of artificial intelligence (AI) in shaping the future of the energy industry. Comparing its impact to the mobile revolution, Amin said AI could transform energy planning and efficiency, particularly in developing nations. "AI offers a unique opportunity for countries like India to make their energy infrastructure more efficient and to bridge towards a cleaner, smarter future," he said.

Taichi Watarai clinches double pole for PCCME season-opening round

● #50 crew of Antonio Fuoco, Miguel Molina, and Nicklas Nielsen power Ferrari 499P Hypercar to the top of the overall timesheet

● WEC pit walk and autograph session to highlight fan experience activities on Saturday

● Off-track fun continues for entire family all throughout Saturday at BIC

Manama

Ferrari AF Corse wrapped up the World Endurance Championship's (WEC) practice programme today by setting the fastest lap in the third and final session of the Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain at Bahrain International Circuit (BIC) in Sakhir.

Their #50 crew of Antonio Fuoco, Miguel Molina, and Nicklas Nielsen in their Ferrari 499P Hypercar set the pace with a quickest lap time of 1min 49.725secs in the afternoon runs.

The stage is now set for qualifying and Hyperpole later today, starting at 4pm with the LMGT3 contenders. The Hypercar field will then get on track at 4.40pm to determine the starting grid positions for Saturday's Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain, the eighth and final round of the 2025 WEC. The endurance racing spectacle is scheduled to flag off in daylight conditions at 2pm, with the chequered flag coming down under lights at night at 10pm.

BIC is scheduled to open its gates to the public on Saturday at 10.30am and close at 10pm.

Race-goers will be able to take part in a pair of exciting fan-engagement activities on Saturday, to be held as part of the pre-race build-up.

From 11.45am to 12.35pm, they can go for a pitwalk and see the WEC teams up close in their garages, hard at work tuning up their contenders before lining up on the grid. During this time, fans will also be able to meet their favourite drivers, take pictures with them, and have memorabilia signed during the WEC autograph session, set to take place between 11.50am and 12.20pm. These experiences are included in the ticket price and can be enjoyed at no extra cost.

All those attending the WEC spectacle will also be able to experience the open paddock – an offering unique to BIC's annual WEC event. Fans will be able to cross the BIC tunnel from the vending area and access the paddock, which is where the WEC's star drivers and their teams call home for the duration of the meeting.

With the WEC being one of the most prestigious series in all of motor racing, tickets for the Le Mans-inspired event offer tremendous value for an occasion of its calibre – rates that cannot be matched anywhere else for a world championship meeting under the Federation Internationale de l'Automobile (FIA).

Grandstand seats cost just BD5.5 for adults and BD2.75 for children. They can be bought online at bahraingp.com or by calling the BIC Hotline on +973-17450000.

Hospitality packages are also available to enjoy the event from BIC's luxurious suites. These are priced at BD290 per person, excluding VAT.

Ferrari AF Corse's #50 Hypercar pipped Toyota Gazoo Racing's #7 crew of Mike Conway, Kamui Kobayashi, and Nyck de Vries by a mere 0.012secs to first place on today's third practice classification in their GR010-Hybrid.

AF Corse's #83 trio of Robert Kubica, Yifei Yi, and Philip Hanson finished third 0.339s behind in their Ferrari 499P.

Aston Martin Thor Team's #009 crew of Alex Riberas, Marco Sorensen, and Roman de Angelis, who led the WEC field in the first two practices in their Valkyrie Hypercar, followed in fourth 0.410s adrift, while Cadillac Hertz Team Jota's #12 crew of Alex Lynn, Norman Nato, and Will Stevens in their Cadillac V-Series.R came fifth 0.427s back.

Leading the LMGT3 class were Iron Lynx's #61 Martin driven by Martin Berry, Lin Hoderius, and Maxime Martin. They had a best lap time of 2:03.158 in their Mercedes-AMG GT3.

Akkodis ASP Team's pair of Lexus RC F LMGT3s followed right behind. The #78 triumvirate of Arnold Robin, Finn Gehrtsitz, and Ben Barnicoat were 0.376s back, and the #87 trio of Petru Umbrurescu, Clemens Schmid, and Jose Maria Lopez were 0.447s from the leaders.

Vista AF Corse's #21 crew of Francois Heriau, Simon Mann, and Alessio Rovera in their Ferrari 296 LMGT3 placed fourth 0.582s adrift, while TF Sport's Tom van Rompuy, Rui Andrade, and Charlie Eastwood in their #81 Corvette Z06 LMGT3.R were 0.602s from the pace-setters.

Watarai clinches double pole for PCCME season-opening round

Taichi Watarai secured double pole today morning for the opening round of the 2025/2026 Porsche Carrera Cup Middle East (PCCME), being held as part of this weekend's events in the Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain at BIC.

Watarai clinched the leading grid position for the meeting's first race, to be held later this evening, after clocking a fastest lap of 2:03.247 in qualifying. He then took pole for race two on Saturday after posting the best second-fastest time of the session of 2:03.350.

This evening's opening race of the new campaign is scheduled for a 5.45pm start, while tomorrow's second event will begin at 11am.

Set to start race one alongside Watarai on the front row is Alexandra Vateva, who had a mark of 2:03.609 in qualifying. The pair are competing in the PCCME's Pro category.

Set to start first amongst the ProAm runners is Banky, who set a quickest lap of 2:03.795, while in front of the Masters category will be Krister Andero, whose best qualifying lap was 2:04.890.

For race two, Cedric Chassang will be on row one beside Watarai. His second-best time in today's qualifying was 2:03.895, and he is also the leading starter in the ProAm class. Andero took pole once again for the Masters with a second-fastest lap time of 2:05.229.

Off-track fun continues all throughout Saturday at BIC

Fans attending Saturday's events in this year's Bapco Energies 8 Hours of Bahrain can continue to enjoy all the off-track family entertainment on hand at the circuit, making for a fun day out.

There is an exclusive outdoor area for kids where they can enjoy multiple live performances filled with magic and adventure. These feature popular tales such as The Little Mermaid, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, and Jack and the Magical Beanstalk.

An outdoor play area also has much for youngsters to do, including a car-themed inflatable castle, a kids' train ride, merry-go-round swings, an inflatable obstacle course, and mini cars for endless fun. There is also face painting, hair-braiding stations, and so much more.

For those looking for more extreme entertainment, stunt shows will leave fans in awe, headlined by returning world-famous stuntmen Terry Grant and Lee Bowers, along with freestyle motocross (FMX) stunt bikers.

A monster truck show will also keep fans on edge, while – in an amazing first for BIC – fans will be getting into the monster truck itself for an unbelievable passenger experience.

There are also plenty of roaming entertainers from all over the world who are setting a vibrant, festival-like mood at BIC, including drummers, artists, magicians, Pop the Balloon Man, and much more.

Furthermore, race enthusiasts have the chance to test their skills in state-of-the-art simulators, along with a challenging speed-reaction game.

For the full schedule of all the off-track entertainment on Saturday, check BIC's social media channels.
