Regulatory agility and fast-paced policy reforms are powering Bahrain’s fintech transformation, Her Excellency Noor bint Ali Al Khulaif, Minister of Sustainable Development and Chief Executive of Economic Development Board (EDB), said, stressing that the Kingdom’s flexible framework is helping new technologies move from concept to operation within months.

Speaking at a press meet at the venue of Fintech Forward 2025 yesterday, the Minister said Bahrain’s lighter touch regulatory environment, led by the Central Bank of Bahrain (CBB), allows startups to test their technologies for up to a year under the national sandbox initiative. “This two-way conversation between innovators and regulators ensures that we stay agile and responsive to market change. When there’s a demand for reform, the eco-system acts together,” she said, citing how trust law updates were completed within a month following consultation with the private sector.

Bahrain’s model, she noted, ensures that emerging technologies have “a higher chance of success, and that success translates directly into jobs.” The system, which combines innovation with oversight, has helped position Bahrain as a regional leader in fintech governance and talent-driven growth, she explained.

Global Testbed

During the press meet, in which Bader Sater, CEO of Bahrain Fintech Bay, and Dalal Buhejji, Executive Director of Business Development at Bahrain Economic Development Board (EDB), were also present, it was also revealed that Bahrain has been selected by Google to pilot next-generation instant payment technology, targeting the first international transactions by 2026. The project aims to enable near-instant cross-border remittances, a development that could redefine the region’s payment infrastructure. Bahrain’s accessibility to regulators and decision-makers, coupled with its small but advanced financial ecosystem, made it the ideal testing ground for global fintech players, Bader

In 2017, Bahrain launched one of the earliest fintech regulatory sandboxes in the GCC, enabling startups to test innovations under supervision before licensing.

Sater revealed.

Her Excellency the Minister said Bahrain’s century-old banking legacy and highly skilled workforce continue to attract international institutions. The financial sector is now 70 per cent Bahraini, with strong female participation and a growing base of tech-trained professionals. “We’re proud that our people are not only shaping the sector at home but also leading it across the GCC,” she said.

Global banks have recently chosen Bahrain for digital banking and innovation hubs, with one bank alone planning to recruit 1,000 coders over the next decade for its new tech centre, she noted, adding that upskilling programmes led by Tamkeen are ensuring that the local workforce remains competitive in a rapidly evolving sector.

Fintech Growth Sectors

H.E. Al Khulaif said Bahrain continues to expand its financial ecosystem through digital assets, wealth management, and insurtech. The Kingdom remains one of the few global jurisdictions with comprehensive crypto and digital asset regulations. Having all financial verticals under one regulator allows us to move quickly and coordinate sector growth, she said.

AI and Future Focus

Turning to future priorities, H.E. Al Khulaif said Bahrain is already embedding artificial intelligence in education, workforce training, and digital services. The government has issued ethical AI guidelines and launched training programmes targeting 50,000 Bahrainis by 2030. She described artificial intelligence as a major disruptor and said Bahrain is positioning itself to lead regional transformation through early adoption, training, and innovation partnerships. Further, the Minister noted that upcoming events such as Gateway Gulf 2025 in November will expand investment opportunities, including in Islamic fintech, AI, and other emerging technologies.

Bahrain’s fintech story, once experimental, is fast becoming the region’s blueprint for innovation with purpose.

Bahrain-US military and defence ties

His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince, Deputy Supreme Commander of the Armed Forces, and Prime Minister, highlighted that the longstanding partnership between the Kingdom of Bahrain and the US continues to advance across all fields, particularly within military and defence. HRH Prince Salman made the statement as he met yesterday with Vice Admiral Curt A. Renshaw, the newly appointed Commander of the United States Naval Forces Central Command, the US Fifth Fleet, and the Combined Maritime Forces, at Riffa Palace. HRH the Crown Prince and Prime Minister affirmed the Kingdom’s commitment to further strengthening joint cooperation and coordination and emphasised the importance of building upon the achievements of existing agreements, most notably the Comprehensive Security Integration and Prosperity Agreement (C-SIPA). He extended his best wishes to Vice Admiral Renshaw for success in carrying out his duties. His Highness Shaikh Isa bin Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Minister of the Prime Minister’s Court, also attended the meeting.

Bahrain-UNESCO close partnership

His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, affirmed that the close partnership between Bahrain and UNESCO reflects the Kingdom of Bahrain’s commitment to making culture, education, and technology key pillars of its progress and comprehensive development. HRH Prince Salman was speaking as he met yesterday with Audrey Azoulay, Director-General of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). He affirmed the importance of strengthening cooperation with international organisations to realise the Kingdom’s desired goals of progress and development. HRH the Crown Prince and Prime Minister noted that the UNESCO King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa Prize for the Use of Information and Communication Technologies in Education stands as a testament to two decades of cooperation between Bahrain and UNESCO. His Royal Highness stressed that this partnership, highlights the Kingdom’s commitment to academic excellence and the furthering of educational outcomes, innovation and opportunity worldwide.

Upgrading healthcare programmes

Clean energy shift

MP calls for study on small nuclear reactors to power Bahrain

● Study underway

Mohammed Darwish

Twelve-month study sought to test small, safe nuclear reactors for Bahrain's grid, as MP Dr Munir Seroor moves to add SMRs to the power mix under the clean-energy plan.

The proposal asks the relevant bodies to run a country-wide feasibility study within a year, covering technical, economic and environmental factors, and to work with international organisations and states with know-how.

Supply

Findings would guide any later decision on placing SMRs in Bahrain's supply.

Seroor says the aim is to shore up energy security by widening sources and easing reliance on natural gas, with demand rising on the back of population and economic growth.

He argues SMRs fit small and mid-sized countries: compact units that can be built on tight sites, with high safety margins, passive cooling, near-zero carbon output and the ability to match power and desalination needs. He notes this fits Bahrain's environmental pledges.

SMR schemes

The lawmaker adds that SMR schemes need smaller outlays than large reactors, which makes a full feasibility review the next step.

Expected gains include greater self-reliance in power, lower economic risk, new clean-energy investment and skilled jobs in nuclear engineering and high-tech fields, as well as a stronger regional standing on sustainable energy.

Seroor calls for a joint team from the Ministry of Electricity and Water, the Ministry of Environment and the Sustainable Energy Authority to oversee the work and liaise with partners in South Korea, Canada, Russia and the United Arab Emirates.

Analysis

The study would deliver a full technical, economic and environmental analysis within 12 months.

The submission says SMRs suit Bahrain's geography, noting they require neither vast land parcels nor abundant cooling water.

Waste heat could be used for desalination, cutting gas use and helping build future fiscal buffers, in line with Bahrain Vision 2030 and a lower-emissions economy.

The MP adds that SMR schemes need smaller outlays than large reactors, which makes a full feasibility review the next step.

Regional examples

Seroor points to regional examples, including the UAE's Barakah plant for power generation and emissions cuts, Saudi plans to use SMRs as part of its energy diversification, and civil nuclear projects in Jordan and Egypt focused on electricity and water.

He concludes that the step aims to place Bahrain among states adopting safe, sustainable power generation while supporting economic self-reliance and environmental protection.

Bahrain-Bangladesh cooperation

His Excellency Yousif bin Abdulhussain Khalaf, Minister of Legal Affairs and Acting Minister of Labour, commended the close cooperation between the Kingdom of Bahrain and Bangladesh across various domains, reflecting the mutual commitment to further strengthening coordination in areas of shared interest. Khalaf was speaking as he received H.E. Mohammed Rais Hasan Sarower, Ambassador of Bangladesh to Bahrain. The Bangladeshi Ambassador affirmed his country's keenness to continue enhancing bilateral cooperation with the Kingdom. He wished Bahrain continued progress and prosperity.

Psychiatry conference

The third edition of the Bahrain Psychiatry Conference opened under the patronage of Her Excellency Dr. Mariam Adhbi Al Jalahma, Chief Executive Officer of Government Hospitals. Organised by the Government Hospitals in cooperation with Education Plus, the two-day conference is being held at the Gulf Hotel on October 9-10, in conjunction with World Mental Health Day. In her opening remarks, Dr. Al Jalahma emphasised Bahrain's keenness to continue strengthening its mental health system in line with national health plans and strategies, noting that mental health is a core component of comprehensive healthcare. She highlighted the Government Hospitals' commitment to supporting initiatives aimed at raising community awareness, enhancing knowledge, and promoting the exchange of expertise across health disciplines, commending the efforts of national medical professionals in this field.

MP Al Dhaen: UNESCO–King Hamad bin Isa Prize embodies shift from education to empowerment

TDT | Manama

MP Dr. Maryam Al Dhaen has affirmed that the 2025 edition of the UNESCO King Hamad Bin Isa Al Khalifa Prize for the Use of ICT in Education represents one of the most influential initiatives in the global educational landscape. It not only honours innovative projects but also embodies a deep Bahraini philosophy that views education as a cornerstone for human development and empowerment for the future. Dr. Al Dhaen noted that the award, which bears the name of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, has never been merely symbolic. Rather, it is a comprehensive strategic vision launched by Bahrain two decades ago to emphasise that investing in digital knowledge is the truest investment in humanity. Technical goal She added that integrating technology into education is not a technical goal, but a civilisational and human project that paves the way for knowledge justice. The lawmaker highlighted that Bahrain’s hosting of the award ceremony for the first time outside UNESCO’s headquarters in Paris marks a moment of national pride and global recognition of the Kingdom’s leading role in advancing digital education and fostering academic innovation. This milestone, she said, reflects a journey spanning over a century—from the establishment of formal education in Bahrain to today’s digital transformation, which stands as one of the pillars of the nation’s visionary leadership. Dr. Al Dhaen stated that the prize, in both essence and impact, reflects a transformation of education from its traditional concept to a dynamic system based on interaction, creativity, and critical thinking. What distinguishes the prize, she added, is its ability to combine technology with values, and knowledge with humanity—aligning with the UN Sustainable Development Goals 2030, which emphasize inclusive, equitable, and quality education for all. She further noted that the supervision of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, over the award ceremony underscores Bahrain’s continued commitment to its civilisational mission—one that prioritizes empowering minds before structures and harnesses artificial intelligence and modern technologies in the service of humanity. Intellectual model Dr. Al Dhaen concluded that Bahrain presents an intellectual model redefining the relationship between education and development, and between technology and human values. The continuation of this award, she said, reflects a royal vision that sees every learner as a potential leader and every piece of knowledge as a responsibility toward the future.

TRA Bahrain Launches Consultation on Direct-to-Device Satellite Services to further enhance Mobile Coverage

Manama

The Telecommunications Regulatory Authority (TRA) has announced the launch of a public consultation on a landmark proposal to authorize Satellite Direct-to-Device (D2D) services in the Kingdom of Bahrain. This initiative represents a major step in reinforcing Bahrain's position as one of the best-connected nations in the world.

The proposal is a key element of TRA's strategy to position Bahrain as a global leader in connectivity and digital innovation.

By enabling standard mobile phones to connect directly to satellites in areas beyond terrestrial network coverage, the TRA aims to ensure that no citizen, resident, or visitor is ever without access to essential communication services.

Philip Marnick, General Director of the TRA, commented:

"Broadband and mobile connectivity are essential; we all rely on them every day. This consultation marks a significant step towards a future where every part of Bahrain is within reach. We aim to ensure that

Philip Marnick, General Director of the TRA

Bahrain continues to enjoy world-leading connectivity at globally competitive prices. The introduction of Direct-to-Device satellite services is not just about technology; it is about safety, economic opportunity, and national resilience. By pioneering this service, we reaffirm Bahrain's commitment to being at the forefront of the digital world, ensuring everyone remains connected wherever they are."

Under the proposed framework, licensed Mobile Network Operators (MNOs) in Bahrain would be able to partner with global satellite operators to provide seamless coverage. This model enables a standard mobile handset to automatically switch to a satellite network for emergency SMS, low-speed data, and, in later phases, voice services when available.

Mr. Marnick added: "Bahrain already enjoys full nationwide 4G and 5G coverage, but this new service will be transformative, especially for those working at sea, and during any potential network disruptions. It will strengthen maritime safety, support critical economic sectors, and deliver greater reliability and resilience across the Kingdom's communications infrastructure."

The TRA has published a consultation paper on its website outlining the proposed licensing framework, including a draft schedule for inclusion within the Individual Mobile Telecommunications Licence (IMTL). The Authority invites all interested parties, including licensees, industry stakeholders, and members of the public, to review the document and submit their feedback.

North Korea is set to host top officials from China and Russia to mark 80 years under the ruling Workers’ Party, a celebration that is expected to feature a massive military parade showcasing its latest advanced weaponry.

Planning for the spectacle, which could begin as early as yesterday, has been shrouded in secrecy, with South Korea’s military saying the North may stage the parade at night.

It comes as North Korea’s leader Kim Jong Un has been emboldened by the war in Ukraine, securing critical support from Russia after sending thousands of North Korean troops to fight alongside Moscow’s forces.

Last month, Kim appeared alongside Chinese President Xi Jinping and Russian leader Vladimir Putin at an elaborate military parade in Beijing.

Chinese Premier Li Qiang will lead the Chinese delegation to this week’s 80th anniversary celebrations, while the deputy head of Russia’s Security Council, Dmitry Medvedev -- a key Putin ally -- will also be in Pyongyang.

The grand event will be a “public spectacle that materialises the strategic consolidation of the China-North Korea-Russia axis,” Seong-Hyon Lee, a visiting scholar at the Harvard University Asia Center, said.

“More strategically, Kim is demonstrating his worth as a partner. By displaying advanced weaponry and a powerful military, he is telling Beijing and Moscow, ‘I am not a client state; I am a valuable and capable ally,’” Lee said.

Analysts expect the parade to showcase a new solid-fuel intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) that could put the US mainland within Pyongyang’s reach, as well as new drones and hypersonic weapons aimed at threatening US forces.

Macron seeks new PM to end France crisis

French president has 48 hours to name a successor after Lecornu’s shock resignation

● Lecornu quits after weeks of gridlock

● New premier will be Macron’s eighth in office

● Austerity budget sparks ongoing government standoff

AFP | Paris

French President Emmanuel Macron was yesterday racing to find a new prime minister within a two-day deadline after the resignation of outgoing premier Sebastien Lecornu tipped the country deeper into political crisis.

The presidency said late Wednesday that Macron would name a new prime minister within the next 48 hours, indicating the appointment would come by Friday evening at the latest.

A declaration seemed unlikely yesterday, with foreign ministers in Paris for talks on plans to help Palestinians after the Gaza war, then Macron due to attend a ceremony in the evening honouring a late justice minister who ended capital punishment.

An announcement of a new prime minister looked more likely on Friday, and could even include a cabinet lineup, a source close to the president said. Lecornu told French television in an interview on Wednesday evening that he expected a new premier to be named -- rather than early legislative elections or Macron’s resignation -- in order to resolve the crisis.

Unless Lecornu is reappointed, the new premier will be the eighth of Macron’s presidency.

‘Roll up its sleeves’

Lecornu resigned early Monday after less than a month in office but Macron gave him up to Wednesday evening to find a way out of months of deadlock over an austerity budget.

Lecornu’s two immediate predecessors were ousted by the legislative chamber in a standoff over the spending plan.

The president “will name a prime minister within 48 hours”, the presidency said, adding a “path was possible” to agree a budget by the end of the year.

The escalation of the crisis has turned into the worst political headache for Macron since he came to office in 2017, with close allies deserting a head of state who now appears increasingly isolated.

Former premier Edouard Philippe said that Macron himself should step down and call snap presidential polls.

But Lecornu insisted the president should serve out his mandate until 2027, saying it was “not the time to change the president”.

Hungary’s Laszlo Krasznahorkai wins Nobel literature prize

● Honored for compelling and visionary dystopian works

AFP | Stockholm

The Nobel Prize in Literature was yesterday awarded to Laszlo Krasznahorkai, considered by many as Hungary’s most important living author whose works explore themes of postmodern dystopia and melancholy.

The Swedish Academy honoured him “for his compelling and visionary oeuvre that, in the midst of apocalyptic terror, reaffirms the power of art.”

“I’m very happy, I’m calm and very nervous altogether,” the author told Swedish broadcaster Sveriges Radio.

“It is my first day as a Nobel prize winner,” he said.

The Academy highlighted Krasznahorkai’s first novel published in 1985, “Satantango”, which brought him to prominence in Hungary and remains his best-known work.

The Academy called it “a literary sensation”.

Krasznahorkai is “a great epic writer in the Central European tradition that extends through Kafka to Thomas Bernhard, and is characterised by absurdism and grotesque excess,” the Academy said.

“But there are more strings to his bow, and he also looks to the East in adopting a more contemplative, finely calibrated tone.”

“The result is a string of works inspired by the deep-seated impressions left by his journeys to China and Japan,” it said.

Krasznahorkai was among those mentioned as a possible winner in the run-up to the prize.

The permanent secretary of the Academy, Mats Malm, said

Krasznahorkai described his distinctive, demanding prose as “reality examined to the point of madness,” a reflection of his relentless search for meaning amid chaos and artistic desolation he had managed to contact the newest laureate to inform him.

“I just reached Laszlo Krasznahorkai on the telephone on a visit in Frankfurt, where he was,” he said.

“We have started to discuss things, about arrangements in December (for the prize ceremony in Stockholm), but not come so far yet.”

Israel confirms all parties have signed the first phase of a Gaza ceasefire and hostage deal in Egypt

● Hostage releases to begin within 72 hours

● Israel to free hundreds of Palestinian prisoners

● Trump to visit Jerusalem, possibly Gaza

AFP | Sharm el Sheikh

Israel said yesterday that all parties have signed the first phase of a Gaza ceasefire and hostage release deal, in a major step to end a war that has killed tens of thousands of people.

The agreement in Egypt follows a 20-point peace plan for Gaza announced last month by US President Donald Trump, after more than two years of war sparked by Hamas's October 2023 attack on Israel.

Trump was expected to be in Jerusalem on Sunday, the office of his Israeli counterpart said, after the US leader said he might also go to Egypt and consider going to Gaza.

With Israel's security cabinet due to meet from 1400 GMT, a ceasefire was to take hold in devastated Gaza "within 24 hours", government spokeswoman Shosh Bedrosian said.

"The final draft of phase one was signed this morning in Egypt by all parties to release all the hostages," she told journalists.

"Now phase one stands very clear: all of our hostages, the living and the deceased, will be released 72 hours later, which will bring us to Monday," she said.

At 1500 GMT, Israel's full cabinet will meet to approve the deal, under which the military should withdraw from Gaza and release hundreds of Palestinian prisoners in exchange for the hostages.

The deal also envisions a surge of aid into Gaza, where the UN has declared famine.

The Israeli army said it was preparing to pull back troops in Gaza, in line with the agreement. Trump's plan also calls for the disarmament of Hamas and for Gaza to be ruled by a transitional authority headed by the US president himself, though these points have yet to be addressed in discussions.

A source within Hamas told AFP the group will exchange 20 living hostages all at the same time for nearly 2,000 Palestinian prisoners as part of the deal's first phase.

'Tears of joy'

The announcement sparked joy in Gaza, much of which has been flattened by bombardment and most of whose residents have been displaced at least once over the past two years.

"Honestly, when I heard the news, I couldn't hold back. Tears of joy flowed. Two years of bombing, terror, destruction, loss, humiliation, and the constant feeling that we could die at any moment," displaced Palestinian Samer Joudeh said.

In Israel, thousands of people gathered in a Tel Aviv square to celebrate, some holding photos of hostages still in Gaza and waving Israeli and US flags.

Many wore stickers reading:

The final draft of phase one was signed this morning in Egypt by all parties to release all the hostages. Now phase one stands very clear: all of our hostages, the living and the deceased, will be released 72 hours later, which will bring us to Monday

GOVERNMENT SPOKESWOMAN SHOSH BEDROSIAN

"They're coming back."

"We have been waiting for this day for 734 days. We cannot imagine being anywhere else this morning," said Laurence Ytzhak, 54.

The deal was thrashed out in indirect negotiations behind closed doors in a conference centre in Sharm El-Sheikh, an Egyptian resort town on the Red Sea.

While Arab leaders including Palestinian president Mahmud Abbas said they hoped the ceasefire would lead to a permanent solution to the Israel-Palestinian conflict, there was no indication the talks were addressing any of the deeper issues at stake.

'With God's help'

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said he would bring the hostages home "with God's help", while Hamas has submitted a list of Palestinian prisoners it wants released from Israeli jails in the first phase.

The list names 250 Palestinians sentenced to life imprisonment and 1,700 others arrested by Israel since the war began, according to the Hamas source.

High-profile inmate Marwan Barghouti -- from Hamas's rival, the Fatah movement -- is among those the group wanted to see released, according to Egyptian state-linked media.

However, when asked by a journalist at a briefing whether Israel had agreed to release Barghouti, government spokeswoman Bedrosian said: "I can tell you at this point in time that he will not be part of this release."

The talks were taking place under the shadow of the second anniversary of the October 7, 2023 Hamas attack, which resulted in the deaths of 1,219 people, mostly civilians, according to an AFP tally based on official Israeli figures.

The group also took 251 people hostage into Gaza, where 47 remain, including 25 the Israeli military says are dead.

Israel's retaliatory campaign in Gaza has killed at least 67,183 people, according to the health ministry in the Hamas-run territory, figures the United Nations considers credible.

The data does not distinguish between civilians and combatants but indicates that more than half of the dead are women and children.

Gaza's civil defence agency, a rescue force operating under Hamas's authority, reported several strikes on the territory after the announcement of the deal.

'The fighting must stop'

Pressure to end the war has escalated massively in recent weeks, and a UN probe last month accused Israel of genocide, a charge the government rejected as "distorted and false".

Hamas has also been accused of committing war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Countries around the world welcomed the deal, with UN Secretary General Antonio Guterres saying: "The fighting must stop once and for all."

500 US troops deploy in Chicago ahead of court hearing

AFP | Chicago

Five hundred US troops deployed in the Chicago area yesterday as part of President Donald Trump's hardline immigration crackdown, despite strenuous objections of local leaders seeking a judge's order to block the mobilization.

District Judge April Perry was set to hold a hearing on the issue, a day after Trump called for jailing the Democratic governor of Illinois and mayor of Chicago for resisting his military-backed mass deportation and anti-crime campaign.

The government argues the troops are needed to protect federal agents during immigration raids in the Democratic stronghold, the third-largest city in the United States, which the Trump administration depicts in exaggerated and lurid terms as "a war zone."

A US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) facility in the Chicago suburb of Broadview "has been the target of actual and threatened violence," requiring "assistance from the Department of War," the Trump administration said in a court filing late Wednesday.

Local elected officials were seeking to "second-guess" Trump's judgement, the filing said.

"But responsibility, and accountability, for those decisions should rest with the political branches of the federal government, not this Court," the filing argued.

National Guard troops were seen entering the Broadview facility overnight, local media reported yesterday.

The deployment includes 200 National Guard troops from Texas and 300 from Illinois, the US Army Northern Command said in a statement Wednesday evening. They have been mobilized for an initial period of 60 days.

Perry's decision will be closely followed, as Trump has said he could invoke the rarely used Insurrection Act -- which allows the president to deploy the military within the United States to suppress rebellion -- if courts or local officials are "holding us up."

Sustainability at BBK: A Vision-Driven Journey of Growth with Regional Impact

ALI AL-ANSARI, BBK SUSTAINABILITY MANAGER

Last week in Muscat, I had the privilege of accepting the "Most Improved ESG Sustainability Report" award on behalf of BBK at the Middle East Investor Relations Association (MEIRA) Annual Conference 2025. Standing among leaders from across the financial and investment sectors, I was joined by two of my esteemed colleagues—Mohamed Alaali, Chief Strategy and Sustainability Officer, and Ahmed AbdulQudoos, Head of Group Corporate Secretariat. It was a moment of pride, reflection, and deep gratitude. This recognition is more than just an award—it's a powerful affirmation of BBK's steadfast commitment to sustainability. It marks a pivotal milestone in a journey that began not with fanfare, but with a quiet, resolute belief: that our responsibility towards the environment and society must be embedded in everything we do. At BBK, sustainability is not a trend. It's a promise. A promise to future generations that we will do better, be better, and lead with purpose. Years ago, this promise sparked a transformation—one that turned a sense of duty into a bold strategy, and a strategy into a culture that now thrives in every corner of our organization. Through deliberate action, BBK has reduced its carbon footprint, embraced energy-efficient innovations, and expanded its role in green finance. But behind every initiative lies a deeper conviction: that true success is measured not just in profits, but in the positive, lasting impact we create for people, communities, and the planet. Our Sustainability Report 2022–2024 captures this journey. It's not just a document—it's a testament to our values. It reflects our progress in governance, ethics, risk management, and social responsibility. It showcases our efforts to manage greenhouse gas emissions, assess climate impact, and invest in community development. But most importantly, it highlights the heart of our sustainability journey: our people. We believe that empowering individuals is the foundation of lasting change. That's why we've invested in employee well-being, training, and career growth. We've championed youth and women, supported community initiatives, and nurtured a culture of inclusion and care. These are not just programs—they are expressions of our belief in human potential. Receiving this award was no easy feat. The judging panel conducted a rigorous evaluation, assessing our report's clarity, accessibility, and alignment with global standards like GRI, SASB, and TCFD. They examined how deeply ESG principles are woven into our governance and risk frameworks. Their recognition is a profound validation of the years of dedication and integrity that have shaped our path. Yet, we see this achievement not as a destination, but as a milestone. The road ahead is filled with both challenges and opportunities, and BBK is ready to meet them with courage and conviction. We are building a financial system that is resilient, inclusive, and purpose-driven—one that places sustainability at its very core. What makes this moment truly special is the transformation it represents. At BBK, sustainability is no longer a separate initiative, it is part of our identity. It shapes how we think, how we act, and how we serve. It's the lens through which we view growth, innovation, and impact. To the incredible team at BBK—thank you. Your passion, professionalism, and perseverance have made this possible. And to our stakeholders, partners, and community—I offer my heartfelt gratitude. This award is not the end of our journey. It is a powerful beginning. Together, we will continue to lead with purpose, create long-term value through responsible banking, and embrace the promise of a more sustainable tomorrow. (The views and opinions expressed in this article are those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the official policy or position of the Daily Tribune)

Bahrain hosts F4 Saudi opener

2025 Aramco F4 Saudi Arabian Championship Launches with Opening Round in Bahrain

● Season opener at Bahrain International Circuit today

TDT | Manama

The spotlight turns to the Bahrain International Circuit today, as it hosts the opening round of the 2025 Aramco F4 Saudi Arabian Championship. The series, part of the FIA-sanctioned single-seater entry-level championships, is promoted by ALTAWKILAT Motorsport under the supervision of the Saudi Automobile and Motorcycle Federation (SAMF) and will run from October to December, featuring rounds at both the Bahrain International Circuit and the Jeddah Corniche Circuit.

The opening round will bring together 14 drivers competing in Tatuus Abarth F4 G2 (T421) cars, standardized and approved by the FIA. Designed to meet the latest international safety and performance standards, these cars ensure a level playing field that allows pure talent and technical ability to take center stage. The Aramco F4 Saudi Arabian Championship represents more than a racing series; it is a pathway for emerging Saudi talent aspiring to build a future in motorsport. Young drivers, engineers, and technicians gain access to comprehensive development programs that include media training, and communication skills, enabling them to sharpen their capabilities both on and off the track. The series serves as the first professional step toward a racing career, as many of today's Formula 1 drivers began their journeys in Formula 4. Building on this foundation, the championship aligns with the Saudi Automobile and Motorcycle Federation's ongoing

The championship uses identical Tatuus Abarth F4 G2 cars, designed to the latest FIA standards, to ensure the competition highlights driver talent rather than technical advantages mission to expand the Kingdom's motorsport ecosystem. By creating a safe, professional, and globally recognized environment, the series offers rising Saudi drivers the opportunity to compete alongside international talent, gain exposure, and refine their abilities through direct competition. This experience strengthens Saudi Arabia's position as a fast-growing hub for motorsport development and excellence.

The championship calendar features five rounds in total, offering a dynamic season that showcases both regional and international circuits. The Bahrain International Circuit will also host the second round on October 15-16, before the action moves to the Jeddah Corniche Circuit, the world's fastest street circuit, for the third round on November 10-11. The fourth round will take place on November 14-15, leading to an exciting conclusion with the final round on December 5-6, once again at the Jeddah Corniche Circuit.

Djokovic battles into Shanghai semis

Novak Djokovic

AFP | Shanghai

Novak Djokovic looked far from his best yesterday but dispatched Belgium's Zizou Bergs 6-3, 7-5 to set up a Shanghai Masters semi-final against tournament surprise package Valentin Vacherot.

The 38-year-old Serbian, the highest-ranking player left standing, is getting ever closer to a fifth title in the Chinese financial hub despite struggling physically throughout the week.

Next in the crosshairs of the 24-time Grand Slam champion is world number 204 Vacherot, a qualifier from Monaco who battled back from a set down to stun Holger Rune 2-6, 7-6 (7/4), 6-4.

"Maybe at times (I was) a little too passive but Zizou is a great player, a very talented player, he has some great shots," Djokovic said.

Sokolov surges ahead at Bahrain Amateur Open

100 Players Tee Off At Royal Golf Club

● Sokolov dominates opening round

● Top 10 qualify King Hamad Trophy

TDT | Manama

Daniil Sokolov produced a masterclass over 54 holes to claim a strong lead at the seventh Bahrain Amateur Open, which kicked off at the Royal Golf Club. The Qatari carded rounds culminating in a seven-under-par total of 65-66-66, leaving runners-up Issa Abou El Ela of Egypt and Sweden's Adrian Larsson trailing by a single stroke at six under.

The three-day, 54-hole tournament, contested by over 100 players from Bahrain and across the Middle East, Europe, and beyond, also serves as a qualifying event for the King Hamad Trophy. The top 10 finishers, excluding Bahrain's national team members, will earn a berth in the November event, while the winner secures a place in the 2026 Bahrain Championship on the DP World Tour.

Among the Bahraini contingent, former champions Ali Al Kowari, Khalifa Al Meraiisi, and Ahmed Alzayed performed solidly. Al Kowari finished eighth at two under, Al Meraiisi in a share of 11th at one under, and Alzayed also tied 11th. Youth players are meanwhile competing for national team selection for the Asian Youth Games, which will be held later to green proved decisive. He avoided any bogeys over the final round and showed remarkable putting under pressure, contrasting with the minor errors that cost Larsson and Abou El Ela key strokes. Jonathan Selvaraj (UAE), Salehaleh Al Kaabi (Qatar), and Jay Mullane (United Kingdom) all finished four under, sharing fifth place.

Action continues today at the Royal Golf Club and will conclude tomorrow.

Bahrain youth handball team prepares for AYG

Hedin's squad begins local and overseas training

● Training starts next week locally

● Bosnia camp scheduled ahead

● Islamic Solidarity Games in November

TDT | Manama

Bahrain's national youth handball team is preparing for the third Asian Youth Games, to be held in the kingdom from October 22-31. The men's handball event will take place from October 19-30 at the Umm Al Hassam Sports Hall, starting before the official opening. The team is also preparing for the Islamic Solidarity Games in Saudi Arabia in November.

Local training will start next week at Umm Al Hassam Hall. After that, the squad will travel to Bosnia for an overseas camp.

Swedish coach Robert Hedin and national assistant Ali Husain will lead the sessions.

The Asian Handball Federation revised the Youth Games draw after India, Qatar, and Uzbekistan withdrew, reducing the number of participating teams from 14 to 11, and prompting a change in the competition format from four groups to two, in line with AHF COC Regulations. The revised draw took place on September 8 at the Gulf Hotel, with at-tendees including Ali Mohamed Isa Abdulla Eshaqi (AHF Vice President), Yousef Duaij (Chairman of Executive Committee for the Games), Ahmed Mohammed Abdulghaffar (Vice Chairman), and Ganesan Sundaram Moorthy (OCA Sports Director).

Group A includes Bahrain, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Maldives, and Hong Kong-China. Group B includes Kuwait, I.R. Iran, P.R. China, United Arab Emirates, Thailand, and Kazakhstan.

India's Gill out to avoid 'mental fatigue' from constant cricket

India's captain Shubman Gill (L) shakes hands with his West Indies' counterpart Roston Chase

AFP | New Delhi

Shubman Gill said yesterday that his biggest opponent could be "mental fatigue" after the India Test captain recently took over charge of the 50-over side.

Speaking ahead of Friday's second Test against the West Indies in New Delhi, the Gill conceded that it was a challenge to play all three international formats, but that was what drove him.

"Physically most of the time I feel fine, but sometimes there is mental fatigue because when you are constantly playing," Gill told reporters.

"There is obviously a certain expectation that I have from myself."

India lead the two-match series 1-0 after they hammered the visitors by an innings and 140 runs inside three days in the first Test.

Immediately after play ended on day three, Gill was named to succeed Rohit Sharma as ODI captain, adding to the 26-year-old's workload.

"I think that is the challenge about being able to play all the formats for India," said Gill.

"And I want to play and succeed in all the formats for the country, and win ICC titles."

Gill, who made his Test debut in December 2020, took over as Test skipper in May from Rohit.

He was India's leading scorer in the drawn five-Test series in England with 754 runs.

Bahraini players dominate Asian U-16 tennis semifinals

TDT | Manama

Bahraini players Ahmed Al Sayed and Hashem Al Tubli both advanced to the semi-finals of the Asian Federation Under-16 Tennis Championship, securing a strong presence for the host nation in the boys' singles draw. Meanwhile, the girls' singles event is guaranteed to feature at least one Bahraini finalist.

Top seed Ahmed Al Sayed continued his dominant run in the boys' singles, defeating Saudi opponent Abdulaziz Al Tamimi in a commanding quarter-final performance, 6-0, 6-4. Al Sayed will now face Ali Al

Ahmad in the semi-finals, after the Saudi player ended the tournament run of Ahmed's brother, Talal Al Sayed, defeating him 6-1, 6-2 in the quarter-finals.

National team player Hashem Al Tubli delivered another impressive result, halting the advance of Australia's Jayden Rebelo in a competitive quarter-final, 6-2, 6-3. Al Tubli is set to meet Saudi player Ahmed Sarouji, who upset fifth-seeded Indian Parth Sani 6-1, 6-2.

In the girls' singles, the semi-final draw ensures a Bahraini presence in the final. Sofia Bader earned her semi-final spot with a resounding victory over top seed Salma Farajallah, 6-2, 6-3, and will face compatriot Mariam Al-Abbasi. In the other semi-final, Bahrain's Gharam Issa will meet second seed Fatima Al-Baajri of Saudi Arabia.

Bahrain also excelled in the doubles competition, guaranteeing a team in the final. The duo of Ahmed Al Sayed and Talal Al Sayed advanced to the semi-finals after defeating Saudi Arabia's Mohammed Al Nemer and Kazem Al Sairafi 6-2, 6-1. They are scheduled to face an all-Bahraini team, Hashem Al Tubli and Redha Hassan, who won their quarter-final match in a tie-break finish, 7-5, 7-6(5). The semi-final matches across all categories are scheduled for today, Saturday, at the Bahrain Tennis Federation courts.
