The defendant was questioned and admitted the charge.

She said she transports children to kindergartens and schools without a licence from the competent authorities and does so using her private car, which is not licensed for trans-

Prosecutors took statements from the child's relatives, the kindergarten director and the owner.

On the evidence, the Prosecution ordered that the defendant be remanded and referred to the

Rehab Mohammad
TDT | Manama

The First High Criminal Court has begun hearing the case of an Asian company official accused of causing the death of a fellow Asian worker, who fell from a height of approximately 25 meters at a construction site. During the hearing, the defendant appeared in court and denied all charges brought against him. The court scheduled the next session for November 16 to hear the defense, after granting the defendant's lawyer access to the case files.

Negligence

According to the Public Prosecution, the incident occurred on May 6, 2024, when the defendant, through professional negligence, failed to comply with safety standards and occupational regulations, leading to the fatal fall. Prosecutors charged the defendant with causing death by negligence, citing multiple safety violations, including the failure to provide or properly secure scaffolding, neglecting to ensure fall protection systems were in place, and allowing work at height without adequate safety measures.

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Unions called for a BD700 minimum wage and a push to bring unemployment to zero as the General Federation of Bahrain Trade Unions opened a two-day conference on decent work and social development.

The event is held in co-operation with the Friedrich Ebert Foundation and the Building and Wood Workers' International, with His Excellency Yousif bin Abdulhussain Khalaf, Minister of Legal Affairs and Acting Minister of Labour, in attendance.

In opening remarks, Secretary-General Abdulqader Al Shehabi linked the agenda to the Second World Summit for Social Development in Qatar, which aims to end poverty, provide decent work for all and advance social inclusion.

He said these aims rest on security, peace and respect for human rights and basic freedoms, and urged regular talks between employers and workers to handle rapid shifts in production

Al Shehabi said Bahrain shows formal progress yet a real setback in the labour market, pointing to higher unemployment, rising public debt and climbing living costs.

He said a joined-up plan is needed, adding that unions help keep workplaces steady and can bring in investment, while rising union membership shows stronger awareness of organised labour's role in the economy.

Carlos Antonio, Assistant Secretary-General of the Building and Wood Workers' Interna-

He pointed to rising global joblessness and said more than one billion people live below the poverty line, about 10 per cent of the world's population.

Antonio urged joint effort towards the Sustainable Development Goals and bringing younger people into the cause, and ended by urging attention to climate justice in the Middle East, especially in construction.

Shura approves Makkah anti-corruption convention

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

The Shura Council yesterday agreed, on an urgent basis, to a draft law ratifying the Makkah Convention on anti-corruption cooperation among member states of the Organisation of Islamic Cooperation, and sent it to the Speaker to refer to the Prime Minister before submission to His Majesty the King.

The convention is built to speed up cooperation between law-enforcement bodies through fast exchanges of information and enquiries, to prevent, detect, investigate and prosecute covered crimes, and to recover illicit proceeds.

Committee rapporteur Hamad Al Nuaimi said: “Ratification shows Bahrain's will to fight corruption and keeps the national legal framework in line with the Constitution and existing laws, and with the aims of Vision 2030.”

He added: “It widens technical help, training and the sharing of skills and experience among OIC states, which will raise the capacity of national anti-corruption bodies.”

Shura member Ejla Bubshait supported the approach but asked: “Has the convention set out the reasons that justify the exchange of information without a prior formal request, and has it clarified which types of information would not require one?”

Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee head Dr Ali Al Rumaihi said: “The convention, initiated by the brotherly Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, fits with related international agreements. We heard from the Interior, Foreign Affairs and Justice ministries, and we recommend approval.”

Shura session in progress

On the clause in question he said: “The text allows information-sharing without a prior formal request; it does not compel it. The aim is to speed up procedures.”

Shura member Shaikh Ahmed

Al Khalifa said: “Corruption affects commercial and government bodies in many countries. We need constant audit work, above all on finances. Some people exploit their posts for personal gain at the public's expense. That harms performance and calls for stronger oversight and accountability.”

Shura member Dr Ali Al Haddad said: “The convention aligns with constitutional principles that uphold justice and

Remembrance Day

The British Embassy in the Kingdom of Bahrain yesterday commemorated Remembrance Day, an annual observance honouring military and civilian victims who lost their lives in past and present wars and conflicts. The ceremony, held in the embassy's garden in Manama, was attended by officials, diplomats, students, religious leaders, members of the armed forces, and representatives of the diplomatic and expatriate communities.

Extra housing land sought for Muharraq's Sixth Constituency

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Additional land for housing in Muharraq's Sixth Constituency is being sought to cut waiting times that in many cases have stretched to 18 to 20 years and to keep families close to their communities.

A parliamentary proposal urges the Ministry of Housing and Urban Planning to set aside more state land for local projects so residents can secure lasting housing solutions without moving away from their social and geographic ties.

According to the explanatory memo, the constituency has seen a sharp rise in unfulfilled applications in recent years, particularly under the “Land and Loan” programme. The long delay has weighed on families and runs against national aims to support household stability and fair chances for citizens.

China halts ban on export to US of some dual-use metals

AFP | Beijing, China

China suspended an export ban to the United States that had targeted gallium, germanium and antimony, metals crucial for modern technology, Beijing's commerce ministry announced Sunday in a further de-escalation of the trade war with Washington. The restrictions banned the export of so-called dual-use goods, materials that can have both civilian and military applications. Imposed in December 2024, the ban will now be suspended until November 27, 2026, Beijing's commerce ministry said in a statement.

US President Donald Trump (L) and China's President Xi Jinping

The announcement comes after leaders Xi Jinping and Donald Trump met on October 30 in South Korea and agreed to walk back some punitive measures imposed during their tit-for-tat tariff escalation. At one point, duties on both sides had reached prohibitive triple-digit levels, hampering trade between the world's two largest economies and snarling global supply chains. Throughout the trade war, China has sought to leverage its chokehold over the critical minerals underpinning everything from smartphones to advanced military technology. Gallium, germanium and antimony are not classed as rare earth elements but are crucial for entire sectors of the economy. China accounts for 94% of the world's production of gallium -- used in integrated circuits, LEDs and photovoltaic panels -- according to a report by the European Union published in 2024. For germanium, essential for fibre optics and infrared, China makes up 83 percent of production. Antimony is used both in battery technology and by the arms industry to reinforce armour plating and ammunition. In its brief statement, the commerce ministry also announced the easing of restrictions on exports of graphite-related products, which had likewise been banned under the controls on dual-use goods. These are the latest de-escalation measures taken by Beijing since the Xi-Trump meeting. On Wednesday, China announced that it would extend the suspension of additional tariffs on US goods for one year, keeping them at 10%.

During the visit, Alba Ladies planted trees and irrigated plants across the college's campus, while also distributing saplings to students to promote environmental awareness and sustainability. This initiative, part of a series of community-driven activities leading up to Bahraini Women's Day in December, reflects Alba's pledge to planting 6,000 trees annually -- within and beyond its premises -- in support of Bahrain's national goal of achieving carbon neutrality by 2060.

BAB and The Business Year sign strategic MoU for Bahrain Financial Sector Special Report

Manama

The Bahrain Association of Banks (BAB) and The Business Year (TBY) have signed a strategic Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to collaborate on the production of "Bahrain Future of Finance", a forthcoming special report dedicated to Bahrain's financial sector.

The agreement reflects a shared commitment to strengthen local and international understanding of Bahrain's banking and financial landscape and reinforce the Kingdom's position as a regional hub for innovation and financial excellence.

The MoU was signed by Mrs. Zeeba Askar, Chief Executive Officer of the Bahrain Association of Banks and Clara Corominas Rührup, Country Director of The Business Year in Bahrain.

Under the partnership, TBY and BAB will combine BAB's institutional expertise and broad membership network with TBY's global research platform to deliver comprehensive coverage of the banking industry within the wider financial ecosystem. The report will feature exclusive interviews with sector leaders, analysis of regulatory and market trends, and editorial designed to highlight the banking industry's central role in Bahrain's economic diversification and sustainable growth.

Clara Corominas Rührup said: "This partnership with the Bahrain Association of Banks is foundational to our work. It enables us to convene senior voices across retail, corporate, and investment banking with depth and credibility, and to carry that narrative to an international audience. With BAB's collaboration, the 'Bahrain Future of Finance' report will capture the sector's achievements, its innovation pipeline, and the practical steps that can accelerate competitiveness and growth."

Mrs. Zeebar Askar, the CEO of BAB, added: "The financial sector is a cornerstone of Bahrain's economy, and this partnership with The Business Year is a strategic opportunity to amplify its story. By combining our institutional knowledge and network with TBY's global reach, we will deliver a comprehensive report that not only showcases the Kingdom's strengths in banking, and FinTech but also provides a forward-looking roadmap for innovation and sustainable growth as a regional financial hub. The special report 'Bahrain Future of Finance' will provide a concise, decision-ready view of the financial sector, capturing the current moment, setting priorities for the years ahead, and bringing together the voices of top decision-makers and industry leaders. Addressed to policymakers, business leaders, investors, and regulators, the report will highlight Bahrain's international strengths and benchmark its GCC positioning across banking, capital markets, and fintech; present fresh data and insight to surface policy levers that can accelerate private-sector growth; and outline a practical roadmap through 2026 and beyond, emphasizing Bahrain's cross-border advantage as a cost-efficient base to originate, service, and scale across the GCC.

Myanmar junta says demolishing 150 scam hub buildings

Yangon, Myanmar

Myanmar's military said Sunday it was demolishing nearly 150 buildings in a crackdown on a notorious internet scam compound bordering Thailand -- including a gym, a spa and a karaoke parlor.

Sprawling fraud factories have boomed in war-torn Myanmar's loosely governed border regions, housing workers targeting unsuspecting internet users with romance and business cons worth tens of billions of dollars annually.

Many workers are trafficked into the internet sweatshops, but others go willingly to the compounds which are often furnished with luxury amenities for criminal bosses and their high-earning staff.

Last month Myanmar's military announced a raid on infamous scam centre KK Park -- discovering more than 2,000 scammers and sending 1,500 people fleeing over the border to Thailand.

US air travel could 'slow to a trickle' as shutdown bites: transport secretary

AFP | Washington, United States

Air travel in the United States could soon "slow to a trickle," authorities warned Sunday as thousands more flights were cancelled or delayed and passengers faced chaos triggered by the federal government shutdown. Transportation Secretary Sean Duffy said the number of flights being snarled or cut would multiply if the funding impasse between Democrats and Republicans continues while Americans gear up to travel for the Thanksgiving holiday later this month. "It's only going to get worse," Duffy said on CNN's "State of the Union," a Sunday news talk show.

"The two weeks before

Thanksgiving, you're going to see air travel be reduced to a trickle."

On Sunday morning, more than 1,330 cancellations were recorded for flights within the United States and to and from the US, according to data from FlightAware, a flight tracking platform.

Airports that were particularly hard hit included the three New York City area airports, Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, and Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson Airport.

Duffy warned that many Americans planning to travel for the November 27 holiday "are not going to be able to get on an airplane, because there are not going to be that many flights that fly if this thing doesn't open back up."

'Massive disruption'

Sunday marked the 40th day of the record shutdown and the third day of flights being reduced at airports nationwide, after the Trump administration ordered reductions to ease strain on air traffic controllers working without pay.

"We're going to see air traffic controllers, very few of them coming to work, which means you'll have a few flights taking off and landing," Duffy told Fox News Sunday.

"You're going to have massive disruption (and) a lot of angry Americans."

Duffy sought to blame Democrats for the high-stakes political standoff, but Senator Adam Schiff said Republicans were rejecting a "reasonable" compromise deal to end the shutdown.

"And the result from the Senate Republicans was 'no,' from the House Republicans 'we are staying on vacation,' and from the president 'I'm going out to play golf,' and that's where we are while people are hurting," Schiff said.

When asked whether Democrats would turn around and vote with Republicans, Schiff, a California Democrat, indicated that the issue of healthcare subsidies remained a sticking point in negotiations.

"No, I certainly hope it isn't going to happen if millions of people are going to retain their health coverage and not have to pay these exorbitant premium increases," Schiff said on ABC's "This Week with George Stephanopoulos."

"We need to end this. We proposed something, I think very reasonable. It was a compromise. Certainly wasn't everything I want, which is a permanent extension of the tax credits," he said, urging Republicans to allow "more time to work on this and reopen the government."

◆ Tiny tsunami waves hit

Japan's northern Pacific coast on Sunday after an offshore earthquake, the national weather service said. The first tsunami hit the northern city of Miyako at 5:37 pm (0837 GMT), but it was so small that the Japan Meteorological Agency said it could not measure its size. Later, ports in Kuji and Ofunato, located in the same region, saw waves as high as 20 centimetres (less than eight inches), while smaller waves reached other ports in Iwate, the meteorological agency said. The quake struck around 5:03 pm (0803 GMT) in waters off Iwate, according to the Japanese agency which initially estimated its strength at magnitude 6.7 but later revised it to 6.9. The US Geological Survey measured the quake as magnitude 6.8.

"Pakistan remains committed to (the) resolution of bilateral differences through dialogue," the foreign ministry said in a statement. Israel receives remains believed to be officer killed in 2014 war

● If confirmed, Goldin would be the 24th deceased hostage whose remains have been returned

● Goldin's body has been held in Gaza since his death

● Goldin, 23, was part of an Israeli unit tasked with locating and destroying Hamas tunnels

AFP | Jerusalem, Undefined

Israel said it had received yesterday the remains of a hostage that Hamas said were those of Israeli officer Hadar Goldin, killed more than a decade ago in the 2014 Gaza war.

Israeli forensic experts were determining the identity of the remains after they were brought to Israel.

If confirmed, Goldin would be the 24th deceased hostage whose remains have been returned by Hamas since the start of the ceasefire on October 10 that has halted the latest war in Gaza, which broke out in October 2023.

"Israel has received, via the Red Cross, the coffin of a fallen hostage that was transferred to IDF and Shin Bet personnel inside the Gaza Strip," the prime minister's office said.

Hamas' armed wing, the Ezzedine Al-Qassam Brigades, said earlier it had found Goldin's remains in a tunnel in Rafah the day before.

Goldin's body has been held in Gaza since his death. Until now, Hamas had never acknowledged his death nor possession of his remains.

Israeli media reported on Saturday that Israel had allowed Hamas and Red Cross personnel to search in an area under Israeli control in Rafah to locate Goldin's remains.

"Lieutenant Hadar Goldin fell in heroic combat during Operation Protective Edge" in 2014, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said at the weekly cabinet meeting on Sunday.

"His body was abducted by Hamas, which refused to return him throughout this entire period."

li unit tasked with locating and destroying Hamas tunnels when he was killed on August 1, 2014, just hours after a 72-hour humanitarian ceasefire took effect.

Israeli government spokeswoman Shosh Bedrosian said Goldin had been killed in an ambush.

Previous efforts to retrieve his remains through prisoner swaps had failed.

"The return of his (Goldin's) body, after an 11-year delay, carries great significance," said Israeli columnist Amos Harel in the left-leaning Haaretz newspaper.

"It will close a painful chapter and send a message that Israel's commitment to leaving no soldier behind remains steadfast."

Samah Deeb, displaced from northern Gaza to central Gaza, remained apprehensive even as Hamas returned hostages.

"We still feel like hostages to the situation," Deeb, 33, told AFP.

"The next stage of the ceasefire, which involves disarmament of Hamas and administration of the Strip worries us.

"I want my children to have a dignified life, for schools and education to return, and for us to live in a proper home, not a tent or temporary shelter."

Her views were echoed by Mohammed Zamlout, another displaced Gazan.

"We want Israel's withdrawal. We want to return to our destroyed homes, begin reconstruction, rebuild infrastructure and schools, and restore life for our children," he said.

Israel listed Goldin among the deceased hostages whose remains it is seeking to repatriate under the ongoing US-brokered ceasefire deal to end the latest Gaza war.

At the start of the truce, Hamas was holding 20 living hostages and the bodies of 28 deceased captives.

It has since released all the living hostages and returned 23 remains of the deceased in line with the ceasefire terms.

In exchange, Israel has released nearly 2,000 Palestinian prisoners that had been in its custody and returned the bodies of hundreds killed in Gaza.

Apart from Goldin, four hostage bodies -- three Israeli and one Thai -- remain to be returned from Gaza, all of them seized during the October 2023 attack.

Hostage buried

Meanwhile, the family of Staff Sergeant Itay Chen laid him to rest on Sunday after his body was handed over just days ago.

Chen, a dual Israeli-US national, was working at the border with the Gaza Strip when Hamas and its allies attacked Israel on October 7, 2023.

The Israeli military announced his death in March 2024, saying he had died in combat and his body had been taken to Gaza.

"In those harrowing moments, Itay revealed the quiet heroism that defines true courage, the willingness to face unthinkable danger so that others may live," US special envoy to the Middle East Steve Witkoff said in a video eulogy released by Chen's family.

Hamas's attack resulted in the deaths of 1,221 people on the Israeli side, mostly civilians, according to an AFP tally based on official Israeli figures.

The Israeli military's retaliatory campaign has since killed 69,176 Palestinians, also mostly civilians, according to Gaza's health ministry.

The ministry, whose figures are considered reliable by the UN, does not specify the number of fighters killed within this total.

Ukraine scrambles for energy after Russian attacks

AFP | Kyiv, Ukraine

Around 100,000 people were still without power in the northeastern Ukrainian region of Kharkiv, Kyiv authorities said Sunday, a day after Russia's latest attacks on energy infrastructure.

Moscow, which has escalated attacks on Ukraine's infrastructure in recent months, launched hundreds of drones at energy facilities across the country overnight into Saturday.

Some of these strikes affected the Kharkiv region, home to Ukraine's second biggest city, Restoration Minister Oleksiy Kuleba said.

"Time is needed to restart the equipment. Currently, around 100,000 consumers remain without electricity, water, and heating," Kuleba said.

Ukraine's energy minister Svitlana Grynchuk said the wave of attacks, which killed four people, marked "one of the most difficult nights" for Ukrainian energy since the Russian invasion began.

In the Poltava region, one of the most affected, power was mostly restored on Sunday. But damaged equipment left parts of its main city still in the dark, local authorities said.

State energy operator Ukren-ergo implemented scheduled power cuts, allowing to balance the system, in most Ukrainian regions. Russia has targeted the power and heating grid throughout its almost four-year invasion, destroying a large part of the key civilian infrastructure.

UK minister says claims BBC misled viewers with Trump edit 'incredibly serious'

AFP | London, United Kingdom

A UK government minister yesterday described as "incredibly serious" allegations over the way the BBC edited clips of US President Donald Trump in a flagship documentary programme.

U.S. President Donald Trump

The comments by Culture, Media and Sport Minister Lisa Nandy came as the broadcaster said its chair Samir Shah would provide an explanation to a parliamentary committee on Monday.

Media outlets, including the BBC, reported Sunday that the response was expected to include an apology.

The concerns regard clips spliced together from sections of the US president's speech on January 6, 2021 that made it appear he told supporters he was going to walk to the US Capitol with them and "fight like hell".

In the undoctored clip, however, the president urged the audience to walk with him "and we're going to cheer on our brave senators and congressmen and women".

At the time, Trump was still disputing President Joe Biden's election victory, in the vote which saw him ousted after his first term in office.

"The BBC chairman will provide a full response to the Culture, Media and Sport Committee on Monday," a BBC spokesperson said.

The edit was included in a documentary entitled "Trump: A Second Chance?", which was broadcast by the BBC the week before last year's US election.

'Bias' allegation

Nandy said the Trump edit was one of a number of concerns about editorial standards at the

BBC. "It isn't just about the Panorama programme, although that is incredibly serious, there are a series of very serious allegations made, the most serious of which is that there is systemic bias in the way that difficult issues are reported at the BBC," she told BBC television in an interview.

Nandy added that she was concerned about a tendency for editorial standards and the language used in reports to be "entirely inconsistent" whether it be on "Israel, Gaza... trans people or on this issue about President Trump".

The licence fee-funded broadcaster earlier this year issued several apologies for "serious flaws" in the making of another documentary, "Gaza: How To Survive A Warzone", broadcast in February.

In October it accepted a sanction from the UK media watchdog for the "materially misleading" programme whose child narrator was later revealed to be the son of Hamas's former deputy minister of agriculture.

Palestinians recount 'black hole' of Israeli detention

AFP | Jerusalem, Undefined

Denied contact with his lawyer for months, now freed Palestinian prisoner Shady Abu Sedo said he lost all sense of time while he was held in Israeli jails during the war in Gaza.

The 35-year-old resident of the Palestinian territory was arrested in March 2024, five months into the war sparked by Hamas's October 7, 2023 attack on Israel.

Abu Sedo, a photojournalist, said he was arrested while working at Al-Shifa hospital in Gaza City and detained at Sde Teiman prison, a military facility in Israel used to hold Gazans during the war.

At the time of his arrest the Al-Shifa complex was at the centre of the war, with humanitarian organisations accusing Israel of rights violations while Israel accused Hamas of using it and other civilian facilities as command centres.

Abu Sedo was held under Israel's "unlawful combatants" law, which permits the detention of suspected members of "hostile forces" for months on end without charge.

A b u

Sedo said he was repeatedly confronted with claims from the Israelis that "they had killed our children, our women and bombed our homes".

"So, when I saw (my children), honestly, it was a shock," he told AFP by telephone after his release to Gaza on October 13 under the US-brokered ceasefire.

"Imagine, 100 days from five in the morning until 11 at night, sitting on your knees, handcuffed, blindfolded, forbidden to speak or talk," Abu Sedo said. "You don't know the time, you don't know the days, you don't know where you are."

"After 100 days of torture, they took me for interrogation to confirm my identity. They tortured me without knowing who I was," he said, describing eye and ear injuries.

Then came a transfer to Ofer military prison in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, where he said conditions were "beyond imagination".

During his incarceration, Abu Sedo was able to speak with his lawyer only twice.

He said he hadn't been charged and that his detention had been "automatically extended" without explanation. The Israeli military declined to comment on his case.

The Israel prison service says all inmates "are held according to legal procedures, and their rights including access to medical care and adequate living conditions are upheld".

'Unlawful combatants'

According to the Red Cross, the term "unlawful combatant" refers to someone who "belongs to an armed group, in a context where either the individual or the group do not fulfil the conditions for combatant status."

The term emerged in the United States after the September 11, 2001 attacks, when the administration of George W. Bush used it to justify the detention of terrorism suspects.

It was introduced into Israeli law in 2002 and denies protections typically granted to detainees and prisoners of war.

Israel then amended the law at the start of the Gaza war.

Under the revised legislation, prisoners can be detained for 45 days without an administrative process, compared with 96 hours previously.

Prisoners can be held for 75 days without a court hearing, up from 14 days, and this can be extended to 180 days.

In July 2024, Amnesty International demanded the law be repealed.

It said the legislation served to "arbitrarily round up Palestinian civilians from Gaza and toss them into a virtual black hole for prolonged periods without producing any evidence that they pose a security threat".

'Months to get appointment'

In late October, Israel issued an order banning the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) from visiting prisoners held as "unlawful combatants".

In practice, that will make law the status quo that has prevailed since the beginning of the war in Gaza.

The ICRC says it has not been allowed to visit detainees in jail since then, save for pre-release interviews conducted under ceasefire and prisoner exchange deals. Several rights groups have denounced what they say is a form of incommunicado detention for Palestinian prisoners, hampering the legal defence of detainees.

Israel holds around 1,000 "unlawful combatants" in military and civilian prisons, according to several NGOs.

For these detainees, "the lawyer is their only connection to the outside world," said Naji Abbas of Physicians for Human Rights. The rights group says that 18 doctors and dozens of other health professionals from Gaza are still languishing without charge in Israeli prisons.

"It takes months to get an appointment. We visit them but we have a lot of difficulties," said Abbas, adding that such visits often lasted less than half an hour.

The truce, which came into effect on October 10, saw 20 living hostages returned by Hamas to Israel in exchange for approximately 2,000 Palestinian prisoners.

Syrian president arrives in US for landmark visit

The United States plans to establish a military base near Damascus

● Sharaa is expected to seek funds for Syria

● Trip comes after his landmark visit to the United Nations in September

AFP | Washington, United States

Syria's President Ahmed al-Sharaa arrived in the United States on Saturday for a landmark official visit, his country's state news agency reported, a day after Washington removed him from a terrorism blacklist.

Sharaa, whose rebel forces ousted longtime ruler Bashar al-Assad late last year, is due to meet US President Donald Trump at the White House on Monday.

It's the first such visit by a Syrian president since the country's independence in 1946, according to analysts.

The interim leader met Trump for the first time in Riyadh during the US president's regional tour in May.

Washington's envoy to Syria, Tom Barrack, said earlier this month that Sharaa would "hopefully" sign an agreement to join the international US-led alliance against the Islamic State (IS) group.

The United States plans to establish a military base near Damascus "to coordinate humanitarian aid and observe developments between Syria and Israel," a diplomatic source in Syria told AFP.

Syrian Foreign Minister Asaad al-Shaibani (Top-CL) and Syria's President Ahmed al-Sharaa (Top-CR) posing with representatives of Syrian-American organizations in Washington DC.

The State Department's decision Friday to remove Sharaa from the blacklist was widely expected.

State Department spokesman Tommy Pigott said Sharaa's government had been meeting US demands including on working to find missing Americans and on eliminating any remaining chemical weapons.

"These actions are being taken in recognition of the progress demonstrated by the Syrian leadership after the departure of Bashar al-Assad and more than 50 years of repression under the Assad regime," Pigott said.

The spokesman added that the US delisting would promote "regional security and stability as well as an inclusive, Syrian-led and Syrian-owned political process."

The Syrian interior ministry announced on Saturday that it had carried out 61 raids and made 71 arrests in a "proactive campaign to neutralise the threat" of IS, according to the official SANA news agency.

It said the raids targeted locations where IS sleeper cells remain, including Aleppo, Idlib, Hama, Homs, Deir ez-Zor, Raqqqa and Damascus.

After his arrival, Sharaa met with representatives from Syrian organizations in Washington, according to his country's official media.

The Syrian foreign minister posted a social media video, filmed before Sharaa's departure, of him playing basketball with CENTCOM commander Brad Cooper and Kevin Lambert, the head of the international anti-IS operation in Iraq, alongside the caption "work hard, play harder."

Transformation

Sharaa's Washington trip comes after his landmark visit to the United Nations in September -- his first time on US soil -- where the ex-jihadist became the first Syrian president in decades to address the UN General Assembly in New York.

On Thursday, Washington led a vote by the Security Council to remove UN sanctions against him.

Formerly affiliated with Al-Qaeda, Sharaa's group, Hayat Tahrir al-Sham (HTS), was delisted as a terrorist group by Washington as recently as July.

Since taking power, Syria's new leaders have sought to break from their violent past and present a moderate image more tolerable to ordinary Syrians and foreign powers.

The White House visit "is further testament to the US commitment to the new Syria and a hugely symbolic moment for the country's new leader, who thus marks another step in his astonishing transformation from militant leader to global statesman," International Crisis Group US program director Michael Hanna said.

Sharaa is expected to seek funds for Syria, which faces significant challenges in rebuilding after 13 years of civil war.

In October, the World Bank put a "conservative best estimate" of the cost of rebuilding Syria at $216 billion.

Super Typhoon Fung-wong makes landfall in Philippines

AFP | Manila, Philippines

Super Typhoon Fung-wong slammed into the Philippines' eastern seaboard on Sunday, the national weather service said, after killing at least two people and forcing more than a million to evacuate.

The storm, with a radius spanning nearly the whole of the Philippines, made landfall in Aurora province on the main island of Luzon at 9:10 pm (1310 GMT), the state forecaster reported.

Fung-wong is expected to bring wind and heavy rain to swathes of the archipelago nation, which just last week saw more than 220 people killed by Typhoon Kalmaegi.

Earlier Sunday, one of the already storm-stricken provinces in the central Philippines recorded the first known death from the new typhoon.

Rescuer Juniel Tagarino in Catbalogan City told AFP the body of a 64-year-old woman attempting to evacuate had been pulled out from under debris and fallen trees.

Houses amid surging floodwaters as Super Typhoon Fung-wong hit the coast in Pandan, Catanduanes province

"The wind was so strong and the rain was heavy... According to her family members, she might have forgotten something and went back inside her house," Tagarino said.

The civil defence office later confirmed a second death, a person who drowned in a flash flood on Catanduanes island.

In Aurora, where the eye of the storm made landfall, government worker Aries Ora was boarding up his home in Dipaculao town with steel sheets and wooden boards.

"What really scares us is that the expected landfall is at night," the 34-year-old told AFP earlier on Sunday.

"Unlike previous typhoons, we won't be able to clearly see the movement of the wind and what's happening around us."

Further north, in Cagayan province, people sheltering in an evacuation centre told AFP that fear of flooding had convinced them to leave their homes.

"We often suffer flooding in our home, so when we were told to evacuate, we evacuated, because we would be trapped," said Loretta Salquina.

"The typhoon might blow away our roofs... We're safer here." Schools and government offices have been ordered closed on Monday across the main island of Luzon, including the capital Manila, where nearly 300 flights have been cancelled.

'The ground was shaking'

Catanduanes, a small island that the state weather service said could take a "direct hit", was already being lashed by wind and rain early Sunday, with storm surges sending waves hurtling over streets and floodwaters rising in some areas.

"The waves started roaring around 7:00 am. When the waves hit the seawall, it felt like the ground was shaking," Edson Casarino, 33, a resident of Catanduanes' Virac town, told AFP.

Video verified by AFP showed a church in the town surrounded by floodwaters that reached halfway up its entrance.

Flooding was also reported in southern Luzon's Bicol region, according to civil defence deputy administrator Rafaelito Alejandro, who later confirmed the preemptive evacuation of nearly 1.2 million people nationwide.

In Guinobatan, a town of about 80,000 in the region's Albay province, verified video showed streets transformed into a raging torrent of floodwaters.

Typhoon Fung-wong is expected to bring at least 200 millimetres (eight inches) of rain to many parts of the country, according to government meteorologists.

Scientists warn that storms are becoming more powerful due to human-driven climate change. Warmer oceans allow typhoons to strengthen rapidly, and a warmer atmosphere holds more moisture, meaning heavier rainfall.

HH Shaikh Isa bin Salman chairs REHC High Committee Meeting

Manama

His Highness Shaikh Isa bin Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Minister of the Prime Minister's Court and Chairman of the High Committee of the Rashid Equestrian and Horseracing Club (REHC), chaired the meeting of the REHC High Committee.

His Highness highlighted the Kingdom's continued advancement in the field of equestrian sports, achieved through the support of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa and the directives of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister.

His Highness emphasised the importance of implementing forward-looking development plans and programmes that enhance the quality and competitiveness of horse racing, further strengthening the Kingdom's position across various sporting sectors.

His Highness Shaikh Isa bin Salman underscored the importance of collective efforts to advance Bahrain's global standing in horse racing and its success in hosting prestigious equestrian events, as the Kingdom marks the inauguration of the 2025/2026 racing season.

His Highness extended his best wishes for success to all participants and REHC personnel in achieving the Kingdom's development goals in the equestrian field.

During the meeting, the committee reviewed the progress made in implementing the REHC's master development plan, which includes the development of the main platform and the enhancement of infrastructure. These initiatives form part of the Club's efforts to create a welcoming environment for participants and spectators alike, in line with the Kingdom's ongoing development of the horse racing sector and to build upon the successes achieved in hosting local and international championships.

Regarding the Club's organisation of the seventh edition of the Bahrain International Trophy (Gr 2), scheduled to be held on Friday, 14 November 2025, the Committee reviewed the ongoing preparations and organisational arrangements for this prestigious international event. The review came as part of efforts to enhance organisational performance by harnessing all available capabilities and resources to ensure the success of the event, build on the achievements of previous editions, and further reinforce Bahrain's global standing in the equestrian arena.

The Committee also reviewed mechanisms to enhance investment opportunities that support financial sustainability, strengthen the REHC's capacity to implement plans and projects, and advance developments related to administrative and organisational matters.

Idrisov Dominates Ferreira as KHK Fighters Shine at BRAVE CF 101

Bahrain's Magomed Idrisov capped off an action-packed weekend for BRAVE Combat Federation with a dominant win over Brazil's Marciano Ferreira in the main event of BRAVE CF 101: KHK Legacy Night at Khalifa Sports City Arena. Idrisov controlled the action from start to finish, using crisp striking and relentless grappling pressure to secure a unanimous decision victory. Despite his strong showing, the KHK representative was self-critical afterward.

"I don't think I was at my best tonight," Idrisov said post-fight. "But I'm proud to represent Bahrain and KHK. The fans gave me energy. I'll come back sharper next time." Ferreira, who had suggested before the bout that a win could set up a meeting with Muhammad Mokaev, will be bitterly disappointed with the missed opportunity. The co-main event ended quickly as Ramazan Gitinov, another standout from KHK Team Bahrain, made light work of Turkey's Nursultan Asker. Gitinov showed his world-class grappling, securing a first-round rear-naked choke to move to 6-0.

Meanwhile, Moroccan striker Youssef Boughanem extended his MMA record to 5-0, stopping Anthony Zeidan in the opening round of their 73kg catchweight contest. The Muay Thai veteran dropped Zeidan before finishing with strikes, though a brief moment of controversy arose when a follow-up kick appeared to land after the knockdown. "It wasn't intentional," Boughanem said. "He was already out. I fight for Brave Nation, for my five kids, and I want my brother to get a BRAVE contract too."

earned a first-round TKO against Montazer Muhammad, while his brother Khalifa Janahi followed with a stunning knockout over Ahmed Waheed Ahmed. "My brother is ten times better than me," Khalifa said after the win. "My opponent disrespected me at weigh-ins, so I gave my answer in the cage."

In a heated India vs. Pakistan matchup, Punyajit Likhari and Aqib Awan battled to a technical draw after an accidental eye poke ended the fight in the third round. Speaking to The Daily Tribune, Likhari said, "He used the eye poke as an excuse to quit." Awan, however, had a different view. He told TDT, "I'm disappointed because I felt the fight was going my way. Still, I respect him. The India-Pakistan rivalry didn't matter, this was just two fighters doing their job."

New Zealand edge West Indies by nine runs in tense third T20

AFP | Nelson

Seamer Kyle Jamieson held his nerve in the final over for a second straight game to seal a nine-run victory for New Zealand over the West Indies in a tense finale to the third T20 international yesterday.

The visitors threatened to surpass New Zealand's 177-9 in Nelson but were dismissed for 168 when Romario Shepherd was caught in the deep off the penultimate ball for a career-best 49.

New Zealand took a 2-1 lead in the five-game series, following a match that emulated the pattern of the first two, with the chasing team falling just short.

West Indies' hopes appeared

New Zealand's Mitchell Santner, Michael Bracewell and Ish Sodhi celebrate dashed at 88-8 in the 13th over before Shepherd and fellow seamer Shamar Springer began striking the ball cleanly to the boundary.

The pair combined for 78 off just 6.3 overs before Springer was splendidly caught and bowled by Jacob Duffy for 39 with an over remaining.

Messi leads Miami into MLS playoff matchup with Cincinnati

Lionel Messi scored two goals and assisted on two by Tadeo Allende to spark Inter Miami in a 4-0 rout of Nashville on Saturday to advance in the MLS Cup playoffs.

Argentine icon Messi opened the scoring in the 10th minute, added another goal in the 39th and set up compatriot Allende's goals in the 73rd and 76th that sealed Miami's triumph.

"I want to congratulate Leo for the game he played," Miami coach Javier Mascherano said. "He was the first one who guided us in high pressure. To see him press like that at 38 years

Alcaraz makes winning start to ATP Finals

AFP | Turin

World No.2 Carlos Alcaraz made a solid start to the ATP Finals in Turin yesterday with a 7-6 (7/5), 6-2 win over Alex de Minaur.

It is the first time that the Spaniard had won his opening match at the finals. He lost to Alexander Zverev and Casper Ruud in the last two years.

It was not all plain sailing. Leading 4-1 and pressing for 5-1 in the first set, Alcaraz suffered a sudden dip, struggling with his first serves and allowing De Minaur to come back to level the score.

Trailing 3-1 and then 5-3 in the tiebreak, Alcaraz rediscovered his touch to level and then break De Minaur to win the first set.

In spite of dropping his service early, the second set was more straightforward as Alcaraz raced away to claim his fifth victory in as many meetings with De Minaur.

Bezzecchi wins Portuguese MotoGP

Starting from pole, the Italian controlled the race for his second win of the season

- Alex Marquez finishes in second place
- Pedro Acosta completes the podium in third

AFP | Portimao

Aprilia rider Marco Bezzecchi produced the perfect ride on a testing Algarve International Circuit to win the Portuguese MotoGP yesterday.

Starting from pole, the 26-year-old Italian controlled the 25-lap race from start to finish ahead of Alex Marquez (Ducati-Gresini) and Pedro Acosta (KTM).

After a frantic opening lap in which Franco Morbidelli slid off the track, Bezzecchi took total control and never allowed Marquez to close.

The Italian finished 2.583 seconds in front of Marquez who recovered from a mistake in qualifying to claim his 12th podium of the season.

For the second day running, Marquez was kept on his toes throughout by 21-year-old Acosta who finished second behind

Acosta narrowed the gap in the closing laps and finished just half a second further back.

"I'm very happy, it was a fantastic race for me," said Bezzecchi who on Saturday finished third in the sprint.

"I was super afraid about Pedro and Alex but motivated to get a win.

"This morning I felt better. Yesterday evening we worked very hard to find that little ex-

Aneesa Al Mahmood: "Representing Bahrain in Dressage is a Dream Come True"

Aneesa Al Mahmood aboard her horse, Handsome
Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

The countdown is on to the FEI Asian Championships 2025, set for November 24 to December 7 at the Thai Polo and Equestrian Club in Pattaya, Thailand. The event will gather Asia's top riders across Dressage, Para Dressage, Jumping, Eventing and Endurance—and, for the first time, Bahrain will have representation in the Dressage arena through Aneesa Al Mahmood.

Speaking exclusively to The Daily Tribune, Al Mahmood described her selection as "a dream come true" and a moment years in the making. "It's something we've been working towards for a very long time, and to finally see it happen feels unreal," she said. "To represent Bahrain at this level fills me with pride. I hope it opens doors for more riders from Bahrain and the region to believe it's possible."

Al Mahmood is currently based in the Netherlands, training under acclaimed classical masters Rien and Inge van der Schaft. Their influence, she says, has been transformative. "They've helped me refine the smallest details—balance, feeling and harmony—but also patience and clarity," she explained. Observers note that such grounding in classical technique could prove decisive as she steps into continental competition.

Her passion for the sport dates back to watching the 2008 Olympics as a young girl, an experience that sparked a lifelong pursuit. "That feeling never left me," she said. "The connection with the horses still gives me the same spark."

At the centre of her preparations is Handsome, the horse she credits as her true partner. "He has such a big heart and always gives me his all," Al Mahmood said, expressing gratitude to Shaikha Noora bint Hamad Al Khalifa and the Alfursan team for their support. "Keeping him happy and confident is the key to going into the arena as one team."

Beyond Pattaya, Al Mahmood hopes to help build stronger foundations for Bahraini dressage. "With the right basics, passion and dedication, Bahraini riders can go far," she said.
