Bahrain tops Gulf and ranks second across Arab world for economic freedom

Finance Ministry report highlights Kingdom's business growth in third quarter of 2025

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Bahrain has been ranked first in the Gulf and second in the Arab world among countries with the highest levels of economic freedom, the Ministry of Finance and National Economy said in its economic quarterly report for the third quarter of 2025.

The report cited the Fraser Institute's 2025 Economic Freedom of the World index, which compares 165 countries using five measures: regulation, sound money, freedom to trade internationally, size of government and the legal system.

Bahrain placed first in the Arab world on the regulation measure, the ministry report said, while GCC states led the sound money and size of government measures.

Results

The ministry said the results point to the strength of Bahrain's economic and financial frameworks and the outcomes of its economic policies.

It said the rankings show a business setting built around flexibility and competition, supported by strong economic and financial systems, helping Bahrain retain a high standing among freer economies in the region and beyond.

The report added that Bahrain's progress on international indices matches ongoing work to develop the economic setting and raise the performance of regulatory frameworks in line with global measures of economic freedom.

In a related section, the same quarterly report said Bahrain stood out in the World Bank's Business Ready (B-READY) report, described as the updated replacement for the earlier Doing Business report and designed to give a wider view of business settings around the world.

The ministry report said B-READY gauges how prepared business settings are by gathering and analysing data on trade and investment attraction across 101 countries in the current stage.

It is built around three main areas, regulatory frameworks, public services and operational efficiency, and covers 10 detailed fields across the business cycle.

Resolution

Bahrain ranked third worldwide in dispute resolution, scoring 74.05 out of 100, the report said, pointing to the standards applied in handling legal and commercial disputes.

The report said Bahrain also led the Arab countries included in B-READY in four of the 10 fields: utilities services, labour, dispute resolution and corporate insolvency.

Bahrain also led the Arab countries included in the World Bank's Business Ready (B-READY) in four of the 10 fields: utilities services, labour, dispute resolution and corporate insolvency.

It added that Bahrain recorded strong results on the efficiency of regulatory frameworks and the ease of complying with laws and instructions in force.

Services

The report also cited the practical use of public services available to firms as an indicator of the strength of Bahrain's economic setting and its ability to support economic and investment activity, while providing conditions that help improve business performance for firms of different sizes and sectors.

Found in Bahrain mass grave

3,300-year-old 'fayence mask' discovered at Al-Hillah site

TDT | Manama

The Bahrain Authority for Culture and Antiquities (BACA) has announced a rare archaeological discovery at the Al-Hillah site in southern Bahrain: a decorated ceramic mask, known as a "fayence mask," dating back more than 3,300 years.

The mask was found in a mass grave containing the remains of two women from the ancient Dilmun civilization, alongside an infant.

This remarkable find is considered one of the rarest in the Kingdom, representing only the second mask of its kind discovered to date.

The announcement was made by archaeologist Mashael Al Shamsi during her presentation at the symposium "Archaeology of the Arabian Gulf: Between Discovery and Preservation," organised by BACA in cooperation with the General Secretariat of the Cooperation Council for the Arab States of the Gulf.

Study

Al Shamsi said that the mask requires further in-depth study, as it remains one of the few such artifacts that has not yet been extensively researched.

She noted that a specialised scientific study is underway,

Archaeologist Mashael Al Shamsi shows the rare 'fayence mask' artifact which will examine the mask alongside associated artifacts, including beads and funerary objects.

The ongoing excavations are focused on layers dating back to the Middle Dilmun period.

The research team is preparing a comprehensive study to document the findings and explore their significance in understanding the cultural and social context of the era.

Other discoveries at the site include seashell rings.

H.E. Dr. Alexey Skosyrev, Ambassador of the Russian Federation to the Kingdom of Bahrain

As 2026 exposes deepening fractures in the global order, Russia argues that selective application of international principles and growing reliance on coercive economic and technological tools are accelerating fragmentation and undermining trust in established systems. In conversation with Mahir Haneef, His Excellency Dr. Alexey Skosyrev, Ambassador of the Russian Federation to the Kingdom of Bahrain, outlines why a more inclusive, multipolar framework grounded in mutual respect and dialogue is, in Moscow's view, essential to navigating an increasingly divided world.

As we move through 2026, the global landscape feels less like a shared space and more like a map of fractures. For decades, we used a familiar vocabulary – common values, international norms, and legal precedents – to describe our world. Today, those words seem to carry less weight. The erosion of the old order began when the fundamental principle of ‘indivisible security’ was simply ignored. Some actors began to believe that their own safety could be built by compromising the security of others. We see now that this was a dead end. It didn't bring stability; it only led us toward the fragmentation we are living through today. This is why we are seeing a shift into what is called ‘sovereign pragmatism’. It is visible everywhere. Countries are increasingly moving outside traditional channels to protect their own paths. This movement in the direction of a multipolar world is fueled by a growing skepticism toward the old ‘rules-based’ system.

I'd say that much of this doubt stems from the selective application of international principles. When certain countries act decisively in one conflict but remain silent in another, it exposes double standards that erode the legitimacy of the established order.

Across the ‘Global Majority’ – the nations that represent the bulk of planet's population – there is a firm desire for a system that feels more inclusive.

This is why we see states diversifying their alliances and looking inward to secure their own food, energy and technology.

Economic cooperation reflects the same evolution. Trade and finance are no longer neutral spaces but instruments of leverage. Sanctions and regulatory pressure have become routine features of international economic life. Technology is reinforcing these divides. Digital infrastructure, data governance, and artificial intelligence have become strategic assets, shaping new lines of competition.

It's a complicated world, and the big question whether we can navigate this era of fragmentation without losing our way. It will take a new kind of diplomacy – one that is agile, patient and deeply rooted in mutual respect and cooperation in an increasingly multi-polar world. We must ensure that the dialogue about our future has a seat for everyone, not just a select few. Russia is fully committed to this inclusive vision and stands ready to work closely with our Bahraini friends across various international platforms, including the UN Security Council, where Bahrain became a non-permanent member on January 1.

The Bahrain Cricket Federation (BCF) hosted the ICC Men's T20 World Cup Trophy Unveiling Gala last night at the Crowne Plaza Hotel, marking a landmark moment for cricket in the Kingdom.

The prestigious event was held as part of the DP World ICC Men's T20 World Cup Trophy Tour currently taking place across Bahrain.

Sri Lankan cricket legend Angelo Mathews attended the gala as guest of honour, adding international stature to the occasion.

Mathews, captained Sri Lanka in all three formats, was warmly welcomed by officials, players and members of Bahrain's rapidly growing cricket community.

Speaking to The Daily Tribune, Mathews praised Bahrain's cricket journey, describing the Trophy Tour as a significant initiative for the sport in the Kingdom.

He said his visit to Bahrain was a special moment in his career.

“This is a great initiative for cricket, and being in Bahrain for the first time has been one of the best moments in my journey,” Mathews said.

He added that bringing the World Cup trophy to the Kingdom sends a powerful message about Bahrain's ambitions in international sport.

Addressing the gathering, Mohammad Mansoor, Chairman of the Bahrain Cricket Federation, said the arrival of the trophy represents more than a celebration, calling it a clear statement of intent.

He highlighted BCF's vision of building a complete cricket ecosystem – from schools and grassroots programmes to elite international competition.

Mansoor outlined the Federation's long-term goals, including the development of world-class cricket infrastructure, the strengthening of youth and women's pathways, and the creation of a fully homegrown national team capable of qualifying for future ICC Cricket World Cups. He also stressed cricket's role in driving sports tourism, economic value and global visibility for Bahrain.

Mohammed Shahid, CEO of KHK Sports and Advisor to the Bahrain Olympic Committee, told The Daily Tribune that the Trophy Tour reflects the Kingdom's steady progress in cricket development.

“Bringing a World Cup to Bahrain is a dream, and we are on the right path to achieving it. As someone deeply involved in sport in the Kingdom, I am proud to see the progress of this movement,” Shahid said.

The three-day Trophy Tour, organised in cooperation with the International Cricket Council (ICC), ends today. It has taken the iconic trophy to major public locations including Water Garden City, The Avenues Mall and Dana Mall, alongside visits to cultural landmarks and extensive school outreach programmes aimed at inspiring young people.

The presence of Mathews has further energised Bahrain's cricket community.

Shura to weigh money laundering law changes and BCCI vote rules

Package proposal aims to protect Bahrain’s financial and economic system from misuse

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Three draft laws are due before the Shura Council today, with members set to debate changes to Bahrain’s anti-money laundering rules, controls on trade in endangered wildlife, and the way votes are allocated in Bahrain Chamber of Commerce and Industry elections.

First on the agenda is a Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee report urging approval of Decree-Law No. 36 of 2025, which amends Decree-Law No. 4 of 2001 on the prohibition and combating of money laundering and terrorist financing.

The committee said the update is meant to keep pace with changing methods used for laundering and illicit financing, including the financing of the proliferation of weapons, and to match standards issued by the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) as well as requirements linked to the national risk assessment, ahead of the next periodic review.

Changes

The committee said the changes also respond to gaps that emerged in day-to-day use of the 2001 law.

It pointed to updated definitions in Article 1, including the ‘implementing unit’ and the ‘proceeds of crime’.

It said Article 2 would expand the scope of the money laundering offence, while Article 3 would strengthen confiscation rules so they cover both the proceeds of crime and the tools used in it, while protecting the rights of bona fide third parties.

Approach

The committee described the approach as aiming to deter wrongdoing while preserving lawful rights.

It also said the schedule attached to the decree-law would be updated to cover newer activities and sectors, including virtual asset service providers.

The report also refers to the addition of Article 4 bis, which the committee said confirms the Financial Intelligence National Centre (FINC) as the implementing body and gives it wider powers to conduct enquiries, carry out financial analysis and coordinate with other bodies.

Delay

It would also be able to request a halt or delay to suspicious transactions.

The committee referred to stronger arrangements for cooperation and information sharing with counterpart units abroad, saying the package aims to protect Bahrain’s financial and economic system from misuse and strengthen confidence in its legislative and regulatory framework.

Members are also due to take up a Public Utilities and Environment Committee report backing a draft law amending Article 3 of Law No. 5 of 2021 on regulating and monitoring international trade in endangered species of wild fauna and flora.

The draft law accompanies Decree-Law No. 57 of 2025.

Amendment

The committee said the amendment would let the Supreme Council for Environment amend and update the annexes attached to the 2021 law, which hold the national lists of protected species, with special attention to those most at risk of extinction.

It framed the change as part of efforts to protect biodiversity and conserve wildlife.

In its explanation, the committee noted that the 2021 law has three annexes. Annex 1 covers species that are endangered, or likely to be affected, where trade must be strictly controlled to avoid putting survival at risk, with trade in specimens allowed only in exceptional cases.

Species

Annex 2 covers species that are not necessarily endangered

YOU KNOW

The update is meant to keep pace with changing methods used for laundering and illicit financing, including the financing of the proliferation of weapons now but could become so if trade is not strictly controlled, to prevent exploitation that would harm their survival. Annex 3 covers species that any party identifies as needing cooperation with other parties to control trade.

The committee said giving the power to amend these annexes to the Supreme Council for Environment would strengthen its ability to regulate cross-border trade, including export, re-export, import and the introduction of living organisms, animal or plant, alive or dead, described in the law as ‘specimens’ of the species listed in the annexes.

Push for Al Budaiya Road development project

● Works Minister signs agreement

TDT | Manama

The Ministry of Works signed an agreement to implement the Al Budaiya Road development project, following the completion of technical bid procedures by the Tender Board, as part of ongoing efforts to upgrade infrastructure and enhance the efficiency of the road network in the Kingdom of Bahrain.

His Excellency Ibrahim bin Hassan Al Hawaj, Minister of Works, said the ministry will commence preparatory works to address service diversions and related requirements after completing the remaining contractual and administrative procedures, in coordination with the relevant authorities, ahead of the start of the main construction works.

The minister explained that the project responds to urban growth and population density in the area, and aims to accommodate increased traffic volumes in line with national development objectives to enhance quality of life through sustainable infrastructure.

The project spans 6.7 kilometres, extending from its intersection with Shaikh Khalifa bin Salman Highway in the east to its junction with Janabiya

Road in the west.

Studies

It is based on detailed traffic studies prepared by the ministry in accordance with the recommendations of the Traffic Council, with the aim of improving traffic flow and increasing the road’s capacity to meet current and future demand.

The development works are expected to enhance traffic safety, increase capacity, and improve access to adjacent areas.

The project includes widening the road to three lanes in each direction, upgrading intersections, constructing pavements, service roads and parking areas, establishing a rainwater drainage network, relocating and protecting underground services, installing street lighting, providing traffic safety features, and carrying out landscaping works.

NPRA launches overseas Bahraini passport replacement service via eGovernment Portal

TDT | Manama

The Ministry of Interior announced that, in cooperation with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, a new electronic service has been launched, enabling Bahraini citizens residing abroad to replace their passports through Bahrain’s embassies and consulates via the National eGovernment Portal, Bahrain.bh, in a step that supports digital transformation.

Interior Ministry Undersecretary for Nationality, Passports and Residence Affairs (NPRA), His Excellency Shaikh Hisham bin Abdulrahman Al Khalifa, said the service allows citizens to submit their applications electronically and receive their new passports, while the old ones are cancelled, at any of Bahrain’s embassies or consulates abroad, without the need to send the old passport back for cancellation.

This streamlines procedures and saves time, effort and cost.

Transactions

The service is exclusively for citizens abroad, with all transactions processed directly through diplomatic missions.

Prosecutors appeal verdict over embezzlement case

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Prosecutors have appealed a court ruling that jailed the owner of an investment company for embezzling investors’ money but ordered him alone to repay the sums linked to the final two sham deals, saying the law was applied wrongly.

The Public Prosecution said the First High Criminal Court convicted and sentenced the company’s chief executive and two board members to prison for taking part in the embezzlement tied to those last two transactions, worth BD320,000, yet did not order them to repay any of the stolen funds.

Limiting repayment to the company owner, it said, was a legal error that warranted an appeal.

High Commercial Court orders man to repay BD24,000 after failed US horse import

● Deal collapsed after BD50,000 partial payment

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A Bahraini man has been ordered to pay back BD24,000 after a judge heard he took BD50,000 to buy horses from the United States but never delivered them.

The High Commercial Court also told him to cover court costs and a contribution towards the claimant's lawyers' fees.

The claimant said he handed over the cash after agreeing that the defendant would source and import two horses from the US.

But the animals never arrived and, despite repeated attempts to get his money back, he was repaid only BD26,000, leaving BD24,000 unpaid.

Complaint

The court heard that the claimant later filed a complaint at a police station on Thursday.

After that, the defendant accepted that he still owed BD24,000, but the claimant said payment did not follow.

In his court claim, the buyer asked for the related criminal report to be added to the case and for the matter to be sent for investigation.

Evidence

He said witness evidence would show the defendant took BD50,000 for the purchase and import of horses and then failed to follow through.

He also sought interest at 10 per cent from the due date until full payment, as well as fees and costs.

The defendant replied by arguing that Bahraini law should not apply because the attached contracts said the governing law was that of the US State of Illinois.

He also claimed he acted only as a go-between.

Investigation

He, too, asked for the case to be sent for investigation, which the court ordered.

A witness said the claimant paid BD50,000 in full for two horses to be brought from the United States, but nothing was delivered.

The witness said the defendant stalled when challenged, and that the claimant later contacted the US company the defendant claimed to represent.

Link

The company told the claimant the defendant had no link to it, and that the horse contracts he produced were fabricated.

In its ruling, the court rejected a challenge to its jurisdiction, saying the defendant is a Bahraini citizen living in the Kingdom.

Testimony

It found the claimant dealt with the defendant as the seller of the horses and paid him BD50,000, as backed by witness testimony, then recovered BD26,000.

The court ruled BD24,000 remained due and said the defendant failed to meet his obligation under the agreement, noting that contracts are meant to be honoured in good faith.

Brew, smell, and serve: AI steals the show at CES 2026

AFP | Las Vegas, United States

I took over CES 2026, powering coffee machines to brew the perfect espresso, a device to create your perfect scent, and ball-hitting tennis robots that make you forget it’s human against machine. Alexa, make me an espresso. German group Bosch presented a new feature for its fully automated 800 Series coffee machine (sold from $1,700) that can be synchronized with Amazon’s Alexa voice assistant. After a short night’s sleep, users can order a double espresso with voice commands only, and the coffee maker will deliver.

Some 35 different espresso options are available. “We’re one of the first manufacturers to really lean in with AI,” explained Andrew de Lara, spokesperson for Bosch. The century-old company, positioned at the high end of the market in the United States, wants to gradually bring AI into the kitchen, notably through its Home Connect mobile app, which already allows users to control several appliances remotely. Scent of AI South Korean company DigitalScent has developed a machine, already available in some airports, that creates a personalized fragrance based on your mood and preferences. Once you have picked your preferences, it releases a scent that gives you an idea of the final result. You can then make adjustments before making your final decision. Once you have placed your order, the machine uses AI to produce a virtually unique fragrance in a matter of seconds, choosing from a range of over 1,150 combinations. The fragrance is contained in a small, portable vial, costing

$3 to $4, according to a spokesperson. Game, set, AI Several start-ups unveiled new-generation ball machines powered by artificial intelligence. While Singapore-based Sharpa already offers a convincing humanoid table tennis robot with a reaction time of just two hundredths of a second, there is no equivalent on the market for tennis. A few days ago, China’s UBTECH posted a video online of its Walker S2 robot playing rallies with a human, but at a slow speed and without any real movement. UBTECH’s robots are designed for industrial use rather than tennis courts and, in all likelihood, the video was produced solely to demonstrate the agility of the Walker S2 to attract business customers. While we wait for the humanoid robot that can volley at the net, another Chinese company, Tenniix, is marketing a robot that sends balls at speeds of up to 75 miles per hour (120.7 kilometers per hour). It has 10 different shots, some with spin, and even a lob that reaches eight meters high.

Ethiopia begins construction of Africa’s biggest airport: PM

Addis Ababa, Ethiopia

Ethiopia yesterday started building what the prime minister says will be Africa’s biggest airport when completed in the town of Bishoftu, southeast of the capital Addis Ababa. The massive travel hub is expected to cost around $12.7 billion and eventually be able to handle some 110 million passengers a year at full capacity. Construction is expected to take five years. Partly financed by national carrier Ethiopian Airlines, the Bishoftu hub is expected to replace the capital’s Bole Airport, which can handle up to 25 million passengers annually. Prime Minister Abiy Ahmed on Saturday announced construction of “the largest aviation infrastructure project in Africa’s history” had begun.

“This multi-airport strategy aims to future-proof Ethiopia’s role as Africa’s leading air transport gateway,” he said in a post on X. He added the project will strengthen Ethiopian Airlines’ global competitiveness, enhance African connectivity, expand trade and tourism corridors and position Ethiopia as a major intercontinental hub.

The project includes a multi-lane motorway to link the new facility to the capital and a 38-kilometre high-speed railway which Abiy said would reach speeds of up to 124 mph (200 kph). The African Development Bank has earmarked $500 million towards the project and Ethiopian authorities are in talks to raise further tranches with the Asian Development Bank, the European Investment Bank and the US Development Finance Corporation. Ethiopia hopes to attract foreign tourism despite the ongoing armed conflict in its two most populous regions -- Amhara and Oromia -- with Bishoftu located in the latter. The future airport, which will sit on a 35 square kilometre site, has already seen the displacement of 2,500 farmers who were re-housed last year at a cost of $350 million, Ethiopian Airlines CEO Mesfin Tasew Bekele said in November.

Ethiopia is the only African country that was never formally colonised, successfully resisting European rule during the Scramble for Africa, most notably by defeating Italy at the Battle of Adwa in 1896.

News in brief

◆ The UN Security Council will meet tomorrow to discuss Ukraine, a revised scheduled showed, after Kyiv's mayor urged residents to leave the capital due to mass heating outages caused by Russian strikes. "The Russian Federation has reached an appalling new level of war crimes and crimes against humanity by its terror against civilians," Ukrainian ambassador Andriy Melnyk said in a letter to the Security Council seen by AFP on Friday. The latest strikes left half of the residential buildings in Kyiv without heating in sub-zero temperatures, Mayor Vitaliy Klitschko said. The Kremlin also confirmed firing an Oreshnik ballistic missile on Ukraine for the second time since the war began in February 2022. "The Russian Federation regime officially claims that it used an intermediate-range ballistic missile, the so-called 'Oreshnik', against the Lviv region," the ambassador's letter continued. "Such a strike represents a grave and unprecedented threat to the security of the European continent."

UN Security Council plans emergency meeting on Ukraine Monday

◆ NASA crewmembers aboard the International Space Station (ISS) could return to Earth as soon as Thursday, the US space agency said, after a medical emergency prompted the crew to return from their mission early. "NASA and SpaceX target undocking Crew-11 from the International Space Station no earlier than 5pm ET on Jan. 14, with splashdown off California targeted for early Jan. 15 depending on weather and recovery conditions," the agency said in a post on X. Details of the medical evacuation, the first in ISS history, were not provided by officials, though they said it did not result from any kind of injury onboard and that the unidentified crewmember is stable and not in need of an emergency evacuation. The four astronauts on Nasa-SpaceX Crew 11 have been on their mission since August 1. These expeditions generally last around six months, and the crew was already due to return to Earth in the coming weeks.

◆ US President Donald Trump on Friday again suggested the use of force to seize Greenland as he brushed aside Denmark's sovereignty over the autonomous Arctic island. "We are going to do something on Greenland, whether they like it or not," Trump said at a White House meeting with oil executives looking to benefit in Venezuela, where the United States last week overthrew the president. "I would like to make a deal, you know, the easy way. But if we don't do it the easy way, we're going to do it the hard way," Trump said when asked of Greenland. Trump says controlling the mineral-rich island is crucial for US national security given the rising military activity of Russia and China in the Arctic.

New UK death after storms, 100,000 French homes without power

A man was killed after a tree fell on a caravan in England after record winds brought by Storm Goretti, as 100,000 homes in France were still without power on Saturday. Some 15 people have died in weather-related accidents this week across Europe as gale-force winds and storms caused travel mayhem, shut schools, and cut power to hundreds of thousands in freezing temperatures. The storm barrelled through southwestern Cornwall and parts of Wales overnight Thursday to Friday, with gusts of up to 160 kilometres per hour (100 miles per hour) downing trees and leaving tens of thousands of homes without power. A man was found dead in the town of Helston in Cornwall on Friday after a tree fell onto a caravan, UK police said. "Tragically, a man aged in his 50s was located deceased within the caravan," Devon and Cornwall police said in a statement. Most of the UK remains under a weather warning for snow and ice on Saturday, the Met Office national weather agency said, warning that black ice could cause "disruption" in Scotland and northern England. Heavy snowfall followed by the storm meant that some 250 schools in Scotland were closed for the much of the first week back after the Christmas break. Around 28,000 homes were still without power at the start of the weekend in southwestern England and the Midlands, according to the network operator National Grid. Storm Goretti also ploughed through other parts of northern Europe, with nearly 100,000 homes in France still without power on Saturday morning.

AFP | Paris, France

Rights groups expressed alarm yesterday that Iranian authorities were intensifying a deadly crackdown under cover of an internet blackout on the biggest demonstrations in the Islamic republic in over three years after another night of mass protests. The two weeks of protests have posed one of the biggest challenges to the theocratic authorities who have ruled Iran since the 1979 Islamic revolution, although supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei has expressed defiance and blamed the United States. Following the movement's largest protests yet on Thursday, new demonstrations took place late Friday, according to images verified by AFP and other videos published on social media. This was despite an internet shutdown imposed by the authorities, with monitor Net-blocks saying early Saturday that "metrics show the nationwide internet blackout remains in place at 36 hours". Amnesty International said it was analysing "distressing reports that security forces have intensified their unlawful use of lethal force against protesters" since Thursday in an escalation "that has led to further deaths and injuries". Iranian Nobel Peace Prize winner Shirin Ebadi warned on Friday that security forces could be preparing to commit a "massacre under the cover of a sweeping communications blackout". Norway-based Iran Human Rights group has said at least 51 people have been killed in the crackdown so far, but warned the actual toll could be higher. It posted images it said were of corpses of people shot dead in the protests piled on the floor of Alghadir hospital in eastern Tehran. "These images provide further evidence of the excessive and lethal use of force against protesters," IHR said. Iranian authorities are using the "most blatant tools of repression", prize-winning filmmakers Mohammad Rasoulof and Jafar Panahi said. 'Seize city centres' In Tehran's Saadatabad district, people banged pots and chanted anti-government slogans including "death to Khamenei" as cars honked in support, a video verified by AFP showed. Other images disseminated on social media and by Persian-language television channels outside Iran showed similarly large protests elsewhere in the capital, as well as in the eastern city of Mashhad, Tabriz in the north and the holy city of Qom. In the western city of Hamedan, a man was shown waving a shah-era Iranian flag featuring the lion and the sun amid fires and people dancing. In the Pounak district of northern Iran, people were shown dancing round a fire in the middle of a highway, while in the Vakilabad district of Mashhad, a city home to one of the holiest shrines in Shiite Islam, people marched down an avenue chanting "death to Khamenei". Reza Pahlavi, the US-based son of Iran's ousted shah, hailed the "magnificent" turnout on Friday and urged Iranians to stage more targeted protests on Saturday and Sunday. "Our goal is no longer just to take to the streets. The goal is to prepare to seize and hold city centres," Pahlavi said in a video message on social media. 'Big trouble' Pahlavi, whose father Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was ousted by the 1979 revolution and died in 1980, added he was also "preparing to return to my homeland" at a time that he believed was "very near". Iran's army said in a statement that it would "vigorously protect and safeguard national interests" against an "enemy seeking to disrupt order and peace". National security council chief Ali Larjani said in comments broadcast late Friday that "we are in the middle of a war", with "these incidents being directed from outside". The Norway-based Hengaw rights group said it had confirmed five Kurdish men had been shot dead by security forces in the western city of Kermanshah on Thursday and another man, a former bodybuilding champion, killed in the northern city of Rasht on Friday. On Saturday, the start of the working week in Iran, one man in Tehran said he was unable to check his work email. "This is the price to pay before the victory of the people," he said. US President Donald Trump again refused on Friday to rule out new military action against Iran after Washington backed and joined Israel's 12-day war against the Islamic republic in June. "Iran's in big trouble. It looks to me that the people are taking over certain cities that nobody thought were really possible just a few weeks ago," Trump said.

YOU KNOW WHAT

The nationwide protests in Iran that began in late December 2025 were sparked by deep economic hardship – especially soaring inflation, a collapsing national currency, and rising living costs – and quickly spread from Tehran's Grand Bazaar to cities across most of the country.

'American? No!' says Greenland

Europeans have been scrambling to come up with a response

AFP | Nuuk, Denmark

Greenland's political parties said they did not want to be under Washington as US President Donald Trump again suggested using force to seize the mineral-rich Danish autonomous territory, raising concern worldwide.

The statement late Friday came after Trump repeated that Washington was "going to do something on Greenland, whether they like it or not".

European capitals have been scrambling to come up with a coordinated response after the White House said this week that Trump wanted to buy Greenland and refused to rule out military action.

"We don't want to be Americans, we don't want to be Danish, we want to be Greenlanders," the leaders of five parties in Greenland's parliament said in a joint statement.

"The future of Greenland must be decided by Greenlanders."

"No other country can meddle in this. We must decide our country's future ourselves -- without pressure to make a hasty decision, without procrastination, and without interference from other countries," they underscored.

Julius Nielsen, a 48-year-old fisherman in the capital Nuuk, told AFP: "American? No! We were a colony for so many years. We're not ready to be a colony again, to be colonised".

A Danish colony until 1953, Greenland gained home rule 26 years later and is contemplating eventually loosening its ties with Denmark.

Many Greenlanders remain cautious about making this a reality.

"I feel like the United States' interference disrupts all relationships and trust" between Denmark and Greenland, said Inaluk Pedersen, a 21-year-old shop assistant.

The coalition currently in power is not in favour of a hasty independence. The only opposition party, Naleraq, which won 24.5 percent of the vote in the 2025 legislative elections, wants to cut ties as quickly as possible but it is also a signatory of the joint declaration.

"It's time for us to start preparing for the independence we have fought for over so many years," said MP Juno Berthelsen in a Facebook post.

According to a poll published on Saturday by Danish agency Ritzau, more than 38 percent of Danes think the United States will launch an invasion of Greenland under the Trump administration.

Trump pitches Venezuela oil to US majors -- and hits skepticism

AFP | Washington, United States

US President Donald Trump pressed top oil executives Friday to invest in Venezuela's vast reserves, but was met with a cautious reception -- with one major CEO dismissing the country as "uninvestable" without sweeping reforms.

Trump told the industry leaders that his administration -- not Caracas -- would decide which firms are allowed to operate in Venezuela following the stunning capture of president Nicolas Maduro.

"We're going to be making the decision as to which oil companies are going to go in... (we're) going to cut a deal with

"But now you have total security. It's a whole different Venezuela," he added.

CAPTAIN'S CORNER

Delivering a quality workspace

CAPTAIN MAHMOOD AL MAHMOOD

It is a race for maximum convenience. Around the world today, we are seeing e-commerce and transport platforms like Uber, Alibaba and Careem add food, grocery and even pharmacy and laundry deliveries to their service list. In sprawling mega-cities such as Cairo, there are even dedicated door-to-door delivery services for domestic delivery. You can call for a package of Mum's home-made meal to be delivered to somebody living an hour away across traffic jams. You can send vital documents for signature and get it back without wasting time going yourself.

In Bahrain too, the number of delivery services within the Kingdom and across many service tracks -- from food to groceries to even medicines have been increasing. Where once the space was dominated by one or two brand names, today many companies are working the space.

This is both, an advantage and a disadvantage for all stakeholders. Let me admit that we cannot curb the starting of yet another delivery company -- that is the law of free enterprise and commerce. Customers and merchants both benefit from the competition in this sector and so do delivery companies.

However, as members of our Parliament have been stressing, we need to lay down rules that will ensure the safety of the delivery chain. There should be proper training for delivery personnel, safety helmets, speed limits and, in our extreme climate, cool-off zones in summer and warm gear in our short winters. Working hours should be regulated and these people must be assured of a minimum salary and comfortable housing even if it is dormitories.

To speak only about speeding delivery men causing accidents and eyeing this sector for Bahrainisation targets is short-sighted. There is no evidence that our Bahraini youth want to spend all hours delivering stuff in difficult weather and circumstances and even less statistical evidence that delivery personnel cause more accidents than others.

Let us frame a proper reference for our suggestions and encourage the growth of this new business scenario.

Alcaraz beats Sinner in sold-out South Korea exhibition match

AFP | Incheon, South Korea

Carlos Alcaraz beat great rival Jannik Sinner in a light-hearted sell-out exhibition match in South Korea on Saturday ahead of the Australian Open.

Eight days before the Melbourne Grand Slam and in their first appearances this year, the Spanish world number one won 7-5, 7-6 (8/6) in front of an enthusiastic 12,000 crowd in Incheon.

Neither will play competitively until the Australian Open, where Italy's world number two Sinner is the defending two-time champion.

South Korean organisers have not said how much the two players earned, but reports in Italy suggest each could pocket more than $2 million for the match that lasted one hour and 47 minutes.

It was not always entirely serious, the smiling duo treating a packed house to some trick shots between their legs, drawing cheers, and reacting to calls from the crowd by making heart gestures.

Carlos Alcaraz became the youngest man in history to reach world No. 1 in the ATP rankings when he claimed that top spot in 2022 at just 19 years old by winning the US Open, marking the first time a teenager had reached No. 1 since the rankings began in 1973.

son playing together. We started the season playing together," Alcaraz said on court afterwards.

"So hopefully this season is going to be such a good one like last year. You deserve the best."

Alcaraz and Sinner have taken a stranglehold on men's tennis over the past two years, splitting all four Grand Slam titles between them in 2024 and 2025.

"It was a close match so a little bit of tension also," said Sinner.

"We were just happy to be here for the first time, seeing something new. It made us feel at home and we felt it on the court."

Arch competitors on the court but good friends off it, Alcaraz has the upper hand in their rivalry and came into the exhibition boasting a 10-6 head-to-head record.

They will be the favourites when the Australian Open starts in Melbourne on January 18, when the serious work begins.

Alcaraz, who at 22 is two years younger than Sinner, has never gone beyond the quarter-finals at the first Grand Slam of the year and it is the only major he has failed to win.

Semenyo scores on debut as Man City storm into FA Cup

TD | agencies

Manchester City began their FA Cup campaign in emphatic fashion as new signing Antoine Semenyo marked his debut with a goal in a crushing 10-1 victory over League One side Exeter at the Etihad Stadium yesterday.

Just a day after completing his £65 million ($87 million) move from Bournemouth, Semenyo was among the scorers as City ran riot. Erling Haaland started the match but was surprisingly not on the scoresheet before being withdrawn at half-time.

Rico Lewis struck twice, while Max Allegre, Rodri, Tijjani Reijnders, Nico O'Riley and Ryan McAidoo also found the net. Exeter added to their misery with two own goals.

Manchester City's English defender #91 Stephen-Nevin Mfuni (L) and Manchester City's Portuguese midfielder #20 Bernardo Silva connect with the ball at the same time during the English FA Cup third round football match between Manchester City and Exeter City at the Etihad Stadium in Manchester, north west England on penalties after a 1-1 draw in an all-Premier League clash. Goalkeeper Robin Roefs was the hero, saving all three Everton spot-kicks to send the Black Cats into the fourth round.

Premier League strugglers Wolves continued their revival by hammering Shrewsbury

6-1, inspired by a hat-trick from Jorgen Strand Larsen to extend their unbeaten run to four games.

Fulham scored three times in the final half hour to secure a 3-1 win over Middlesbrough at Craven Cottage, while Burnley had little trouble against Championship opposition as they swept past Millwall 5-1.

Brentford claimed a comfortable 2-0 victory away to financially troubled Sheffield Wednesday.

Tottenham manager Thomas Frank will be hoping to ease pressure on his position when his side host in-form Aston Villa later on Saturday, while Liam Rosenior takes charge of Chelsea for the first time in the evening kick-off away at Charlton.

Holdovers Crystal Palace stunned by Macclesfield in biggest ever FA Cup shock

Macclesfield, United Kingdom

Crystal Palace's defence of the FA Cup came to an embarrassing end as they were beaten 2-1 by sixth-tier Macclesfield on Saturday in the biggest shock in the competition's history.

The 117 places that separate Premier League outfit Palace from Macclesfield of the National League North in the English football pyramid is the most ever overcome by an underdog in FA Cup history.

Captain Paul Dawson and

Isaac Buckley-Ricketts scored either side of half-time to secure a famous victory for a club that were forced to reform in 2020 after being wound up for unpaid debts.

"I can't believe it, we never thought we would be in this position," said Macclesfield manager John Rooney, the younger brother of former England captain Wayne Rooney.

"I didn't think it was possible but there is that little bit of hope that anything can happen on the day."

Macclesfield are also still coming to terms with the death of forward Euan McLeod, who died aged 21 less than a month ago, after a car accident when he was travelling home after a match.

Crystal Palace boss Oliver Glasner, who has been linked with the vacant managerial post at Manchester United, made six changes but his starting line-up still included England internationals Marc Guehi and Adam Wharton.

TDT | Manama

Late VAR call leaves Red Wolves fuming in 1-1 draw

Hussain Maskati
TDT | Manama

Defending champions Muharraq were left frustrated in the Nasser Bin Hamad Premier League after being held to a 1-1 draw by A'ali in the early kick-off of Matchweek 11 at Khalifa Sports City, missing a valuable opportunity to apply pressure at the top of the table in a match overshadowed by late refereeing controversy.

The Red Wolves' afternoon began in dramatic fashion in the third minute when Hussain Jameel was sent off for a high boot to the head of A'ali's Mussab Omar. The challenge was a last-ditch attempt, with Omar poised to head the ball towards goal, leaving Muharraq to play the majority of the contest with ten men.

Despite the numerical disadvantage, the champions controlled large spells and were rewarded on the hour. Brazilian duo Juninho and Arthur Rezende combined once again, continuing a partnership that has proven decisive throughout the season. Juninho intercepted a loose ball and fed Rezende, who produced a moment of quality by curling an effort from distance that left the goalkeeper rooted.

A'ali found their response just over ten minutes from time. A quickly taken set-piece was worked wide to Moroccan winger Riad Idouguiguine, whose inch-perfect delivery to the far post picked out centre-half Michel Rocha, who was left unmarked to tap in the equaliser.

Tensions boiled over in the dying moments. Nandinho's men felt they were denied a clear penalty when Hussain Abdulkarim appeared set to tap in after a sliding challenge from Mussab Omar. Despite a VAR review, the decision stood, prompting furious protests from Muharraq's players, bench and officials on the pitch.

The frustration carried beyond the final whistle, with Muharraq later boycotting the post-match press conference.

and leaving a note that read: "Refereeing committee, how long will this continue?" — a pointed response to what they believe has been a pattern of decisions going against them.

The draw leaves Muharraq second on 24 points, ahead of Riffa only on goal difference, while A'ali move into fifth with 13 points. Elsewhere in Matchweek 11, Al Malkiya and Sitra played out a goalless draw at Shaikh Ali bin Mohammed Al Khalifa Stadium. Al Malkiya remain fourth on 19 points, while Sitra remain ninth with 12 points.

League action now pauses before the Nasser Bin Hamad Premier League returns on Tuesday with Matchweek 12.

India's Gill calls it 'destiny' after shock T20 World Cup snub

AFP | Vadodara, India

Test and ODI skipper Shubman Gill on Saturday said he respected the Indian selectors' shock decision to drop him from the squad for the T20 World Cup on home soil, calling it "destiny".

The 26-year-old will lead the one-day team in three matches against New Zealand starting Sunday in Vadodara before many of India's players head into a five-match T20 series.

Indian selectors surprisingly axed the batsman from the T20 squad after he scored only 291 runs in his past 15 matches in the game's shortest format at an average of 24.25.

"Firstly, it is my belief that in my life, I am where I am supposed to be. Whatever is written in my destiny, I will have it," Gill told reporters.

"As a player I want to win games for my team, but having said that, I respect the selectors' decision. I wish the T20 team the very best. I hope that they win the World Cup."

India, led by Suryakumar Yadav, are the defending champions in the T20 World Cup which takes place in India and Sri Lanka between February 7 and March 8.

Before that, India will play 50-over matches against New Zealand with the spotlight on stalwarts Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma.

Kohli and Rohit play only the ODI format since retiring from T20s, following the World Cup triumph in Barbados in 2024, and Test cricket.

Gill said the presence of the two greats was invaluable for any captain.

The 37-year-old Kohli and Rohit, 38, have been in top batting form in international and domestic cricket, scoring centuries and runs to turn back the clock.

Meanwhile, New Zealand's ODI captain Michael Bracewell is keen to make the most of the Indian conditions ahead of the T20 World Cup.

Bracewell said he will name the playing XI at the toss but confirmed fast bowler Kristian Clarke will make his international debut in the ODI opener.
