Kylie Jenner donates $750,000 to women empowerment organisation

Los Angeles

American model and beauty star Kylie Jenner has donated a whopping amount of $750,000 to a women's empowerment organisation called 'Nest of Love'.

Kicking off the 17th season of the 'Ellen DeGeneres Show,' the 22-year-old star appeared on Monday's episode with her mother, Kris Jenner.

Kylie made the episode more special than what it already was after she gave a whopping amount to the organisation. After both the reality TV personalities got to know about the group's inspiring work, the famous mother-daughter duo wanted to help out and give back.

Kylie gifted the organisation with $150,000 and $100,000 for Samantha. Not just this, apart from the heavy price, each member of the female group took home a Kylie Cosmetics Birthday collection and ... something even bigger.

"We are giving you each $50,000," Kylie shared with the organisation's members. "Each one of you.. Each of you for the amazing things you guys do."

She added, "You guys are so amazing."

Additionally, the 63-year-old Kris who is also the manager of her daughter praised the Florida-based group for their hard work and sincere efforts.

When Kerry Katona thought she was 'going to die'

Kerry Katona

Los Angeles

Singer Kerry Katona recently experienced a terrifying flight experience.

In her "new!" magazine column, the "Right Now" fame singer has recalled a terrifying incident on her recent holiday to Thailand, where the plane seemed to stop abruptly mid-air and she thought she was going to die, reports "metro.co.uk".

She wrote: "We flew home from Thailand last week and I swear to God, I thought we were going to die - I'm not exaggerating. We were halfway into the flight and the plane dropped.

"My stomach was in my mouth, Heidi was screaming and Ryan looked like he'd passed out."

Jennifer Lopez and Alex Rodriguez

Alex Rodriguez drops hint about his and Jennifer Lopez's wedding plans

Los Angeles

Former MLB player Alex Rodriguez revealed some major details about his and actor-singer Jennifer Lopez's wedding plans.

During his appearance on 'Strahan, Sara and Keke' on Tuesday, Rodriguez talked about their wedding plans. He admitted to co-hosts Michael Strahan, Sara Haines, and Keke Palmer that the 'Hustlers' actor is taking the reins on the decision-making.

"When you think about wedding plans and Jennifer is your partner, all you do is...you do a lot of nodding," he quipped. "I don't know where the location is, I don't know what I'm wearing, I don't know when it is. I'll just show up."

However, he finally revealed a big clue when the co-hosts played a fun game to get the 44-year-old star to share more.

"I got one clue for y'all. One wedding clue... Are you guys ready," Rodriguez teased and leaned into the camera for a dramatic effect. "It's gonna be a long flight."

While he didn't share much details about the exact location of his and Lopez's wedding, he did reveal that it was not going to be in Dubai, like Keke guessed. "I'm not gonna get into that," he said.

However, one thing is sure that they will get married in a church. Back in July, the 'Medicine' singer revealed that she wanted to do something special and different than what she has done with her previous marriages.

Antonio Banderas used his heart condition to prepare for role in 'Pain and Glory'

Los Angeles

Spanish actor-producer Antonio Banderas opened up about how he used his medical condition in 2017 to prepare for his upcoming film 'Pain and Glory.'

According to People, the actor made complete use of the pain from his heart attack.

The 59-year-old star spoke to People about the experience of using a personal matter for the film, and how his director, Pedro Almodovar, helped him with his preparations.

"It changed me in certain ways. Yeah, and Pedro detected that.

He saw it and said, 'Don't hide this thing that you have now after your cardiac problem, don't hide it. I think the character can use that because the character is filled with pain and a lot of diseases and solitude and loneliness,'" Banderas said. Banderas said he "knew exactly what he was talking about," explaining, "Because after you have a heart attack you receive an amount of information about what life is about that is very difficult to describe in words. It just set up a new way of understanding life itself."

Adele, Kunis the reason behind Kutcher's 'spite' mustache

Los Angeles

Actor Ashton Kutcher has been sporting an interesting scruff above his upper lip, and his wife Mila Kunis and singer Adele happen to be the reasons behind it.

Back in May, the "That '70s Show" actor had debuted the look, which he is still rocking, reports eonline.com. Is it for a role, host Jimmy Fallon asked Kutcher about facial hair.

"No, this is for real life. It's kind of crazy. I never intended to have this. I don't think I'd look good with it, but I'm keeping it," said the actor.

The idea came when he and Kunis were preparing for friend Adele's 31st birthday bash. On the day of the party, his wife approached him and revealed the theme would be 1970s New Year's.

He wore bell bottoms and paired them with boots, a vest and a scarf tied around his neck.

"I'm looking in the mirror and I've got a beard going and I'm like, 'Oh, I'm going '70s stache. It's gonna happen,'" Kutcher said.

Jennifer Aniston returns to TV after 15 years

Los Angeles

Actor Jennifer Aniston who was last seen on the small screen in 'Friends' is back with 'The Morning Show' after 15 years.

Aniston won millions of hearts with her portrayal as the spoiled 'daddy's girl'-turned-businesswoman and mother, Rachel Green, on the NBC sitcom 'Friends'. Since the award-winning show concluded for a decade-and-a-half, Aniston starred in countless films. And now, she is returning to TV to take on an entirely different role.

She will both star in and executive produce Apple TV+'s original series 'The Morning Show', which debuts on November 1. The show will take viewers through the dynamics of a news programme that is faced with sexual misconduct allegations against one of its hosts.

"Acting and at the same time producing was intense for Jen," People quoted a source.

Aniston is teaming up with her co-star Reese Witherspoon, who guest-starred on 'Friends' as her bratty younger sister, Jill, in 2000.

Vested interest for me to do 'Dream Girl': Ayushmann

Mumbai

Actor Ayushmann Khurrana says there is a vested interest for him to take up "Dream Girl", which is a massy rom-com.

"I'm all for great commercial cinema that allows me to reach out to a much wider audience base and engage with them. I realised that by doing such masala movies, I'm actually widening the reach for my other films that I often do to spark a social conversation," he said.

"If they like me in such commercial Bollywood cinema, they will most probably come back to see a project that could be extremely relevant and topical and important for people to see and ponder over. That would give me the fulfilment I seek by being an artiste. So yes, there is a vested interest for me to do 'Dream Girl' because by doing so, I can pull a lot more people for my socially relevant films," added the "Article 15" actor.
