Tamkeen spends BD23.4m on training of over 17,000 Bahrainis as 5,000 secure jobs

Mohammed Darwish TDT | Manama

Tamkeen has said it trained more than 17,000 job-seekers between January 2024 and November 2025 at a cost of about BD23.4 million, as it looked to help Bahrainis into work and raise the skills of the local workforce.

In a reply to a question from MP Basema Mubarak, the Labour Fund said more than 5,000 Bahrainis found jobs after finishing training through Tamkeen-backed hiring and wage support schemes.

Tamkeen said these post-training job figures cover only people hired through its employment support and wage support programmes, and do not include those taken on by the public sector or those hired without such support.

Schemes

It said its employment and wage support schemes, led by the National Employment Programme and the wage support programme, supported more than 40,000 Bahrainis over the same period, with spending topping BD254 million.

More than 6,700 private-sector firms, across different sectors and sizes, also received support.

The fund said its training offer covered jobseeker training, on-the-job training, apprenticeships and other schemes.

To check whether people stay in work after support ends, Tamkeen said its oversight team contacts programme beneficiaries to confirm they are still employed.

MP Basema Mubarak

Based on those who responded, it said 88 per cent of workers backed through the National Employment Programme stayed in their jobs after the support period ended, while 12 per cent did not remain in the same role.

It linked those exits to moves into government jobs, job changes within the private sector, and the end of fixed-term contracts.

Tamkeen said complaints linked to pressure to resign, along with reports of unfair dismissal, are referred to the Ministry of Labour for investigation and verification, with the usual steps taken where unfair dismissal is proven.

The fund said it deals with breaches based on their type.

Violations

Administrative breaches, such as breaking support rules or its own policies, are handled under its approved violations bylaw for suppliers and beneficiaries, with penalties that can include recovery of funds, a ban on receiving support for a set period, or both.

Cases with suspected criminal elements—such as illegal or fictitious hiring, or wage manipulation—are referred to the bodies in charge, while Tamkeen said it keeps the right to apply administrative penalties once those bodies issue a decision.

It said it detects cases through inspections, refers proven cases to the Public Prosecution, recovers support sums, and bars offending firms from future support.

Breaches

It added that all breaches fall under the violations bylaw, which lists offences and the penalties tied to them.

Tamkeen said its oversight department works to protect Bahraini workers from unfair dismissal by requiring firms to follow Bahrain's labour law.

Where unfair dismissal is confirmed by the Ministry of Labour or the labour courts, it said the fund can recover support or bar the firm from further support, in line with the violations bylaw.

Celebrating health and wellbeing

TDT | Manama

The Director General of the PMO further highlighted the outstanding achievements of Bahraini athletes and their continued success at the re-

Al Mahmeed concluded by emphasising that sports form an integral part of Bahraini culture and should continue to be promoted through grass-roots community initiatives that raise awareness of the importance of physical activity across all segments of society.

The strong turnout reflected growing public awareness of sport's importance in daily life and reinforced its role as a pillar of a healthy, cohesive and dynamic society in the Kingdom of Bahrain.

Practical training programmes for needy families

Hasan Barakat
TDT | Manama

Behind every food basket delivered and every small business launched stands a story of resilience.

Kaaf Humanitarian, a Bahrain based non-profit-organisation, has built its work around these stories, focusing not only on aid but also on restoring confidence and stability to families facing hardship.

For many households, the first contact with Kaaf Humanitarian begins during a difficult moment, whether due to sudden financial strain, medical expenses or loss of income.

The organisation assesses each case carefully, ensuring support reaches those most in need while protecting their privacy and dignity.

But what sets Kaaf Humanitarian apart is what happens after the initial support.

Rather than allowing families to remain dependent on assistance, the organisation works with them to build something lasting.

Through practical training programmes, families are encouraged to rediscover their skills.

Kaaf Humanitarian's mission is simple yet powerful. Help in times of need, and then help people stand on their own feet.

Some begin producing traditional foods from their kitchens, others prepare incense or package honey, while some explore small home based ventures built around crafts or local recipes.

The training covers quality control, pricing and basic marketing, helping families understand not only how to produce but also how to sell.

The income generated from these projects belongs entirely to the families. For many, the first sale is more than a financial transaction.

It is a moment of regained confidence.

Bahrainis working in GCC states to contribute 1% toward unemployment insurance

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Bahrainis working in other GCC states would pay 1 per cent of their insured wage into unemployment insurance, with employers paying the same, under amendments to the GCC's unified system for extending social insurance cover that the Shura Council is due to discuss on Sunday.

The change forms part of a draft law attached to Decree No. 38 of 2025 approving a legal instrument to amend parts of the unified system that applies to GCC citizens employed outside their home country in any member state.

Shura Council committees said the move would add an unemployment insurance branch to the scheme and send extra cash into Bahrain's Unemployment Insurance Account, without having any direct effect on the state budget, either on public revenue or recurrent spending.

Impact

The Financial and Economic Affairs Committee said the main impact would be cash inflows to the Unemployment Insurance Account through deductions from the wages of Bahrainis working across the Gulf.

It described this as positive for the account, while stressing it would not change the budget balance.

The contribution rate is set at 1 per cent from the worker and 1 per cent from the employer, matching the percentage stated in Article 6 of Decree-Law No. 78 of 2006 on unemployment insurance, the committee said.

Representatives of the Social Insurance Organisation told the committee the core new addition was the unemployment insurance branch, while the wider set of amendments aims to update current procedures and improve efficiency, including by strengthening the technical channels used to collect contributions.

Procedures

They said GCC states have followed shared procedures for years, but the amendments seek updated mechanisms and improved collection methods.

They described the registration process under the system.

The Gulf employer submits the required documents to the insurance body in the state where the person works.

Dr Jameela Al Salman, Head of Shura's Services Committee

The unified system stems from GCC aims of closer co-ordination and integration among member states, and of protecting citizens' rights after retirement so they receive benefits as if they were in their home countries.

After the application is reviewed and officially approved, it is sent to the insurance authority in the worker's home state to complete the remaining steps.

Once final approval is issued, the employer begins deducting the contributions from the employee and transferring them to bank accounts designated for the system.

System

In a letter dated 19 January 2026, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said the unified system stems from GCC aims of closer co-ordination and integration among member states, and of protecting citizens' rights after retirement so they receive benefits as if they were in their home countries.

The ministry said this supports social stability for citizens working outside their states and encourages labour mobility within the bloc, citing a decision of the GCC Ministerial Council at its 162nd session on 28 November 2024.

The Bahrain Free Labour Unions Federation (Al Hurr) backed the draft law.

The General Federation of Bahrain Trade Unions said it viewed the bill as a positive step that would support workers' stability and protect their rights.

‘Humanitarian mission driven by compassion’

Hasan Barakat
TDT | Manama

A group of Bahraini women has quietly spent years rescuing abandoned and injured cats, funding every operation from their own pockets.

They describe this as a purely humanitarian mission driven by compassion rather than profit, working with the Bahrain Animal Protection Society.

Since 2008, the volunteers have dedicated their time and personal resources to saving domestic cats left behind by owners and street cats injured in road accidents, neglect or abuse.

Many cases involve severe medical conditions requiring urgent veterinary care. In the absence of a clear and comprehensive animal welfare law,

An abandoned cat with severe medical conditions receives an urgent veterinary care they say their work fills a painful gap.

Although their rescue efforts began nearly two decades ago, they launched an Instagram account only a year ago as cases surged beyond their capacity.

Social media, they explain, has become essential for raising awareness, encouraging a culture of kindness towards animals and finding sponsors willing to support urgent cases.

The group does not operate a formal shelter. Each rescued cat is first taken to a veterinary clinic for examination, vaccination and neutering to limit uncontrolled breeding.

The animals are then placed in private boarding facilities.

Some are temporarily housed in the rescuers own homes to reduce mounting accommodation costs.

More than 30 cats are currently spread across several boarding locations, with bills continuing to rise as new cases emerge almost daily.

Indonesia tests using toll roads as airforce runways

◆ The Indonesian air force is trialling the use of toll roads as back-up runways for its aircraft to help bolster the vast archipelago's defences, a deputy minister said. A demonstration of two military planes taking off and landing on a toll road was held on the western island of Sumatra on Wednesday. The roads would provide an alternative in the event military bases are attacked, deputy defence minister Donny Ermawan Taufanto said.

◆ China called Taiwan's leader Lai Ching-te a "war instigator" after he warned in an interview that Beijing would target countries in the region should it seize control of the self-ruled island. Lai said in his first interview with a global news agency since taking office in May 2024 that if China were to take Taiwan, Beijing would become "more aggressive" and would next turn its expansionist ambitions to Japan, the Philippines and other countries in the Indo-Pacific region. Beijing's foreign ministry accused Lai of provoking aggression, calling him a "war instigator".

Risk of Nipah spread low after cases in India, Bangladesh: WHO

◆ The World Health Organization has said the risk of the deadly Nipah virus spreading was low after three cases of infection were recently confirmed in India and Bangladesh. Nipah, which spreads from animals to humans, has no vaccine and a fatality rate ranging from 40% to 75%, according to the UN health body. "In the past few weeks, three cases of Nipah—two in India and one in Bangladesh—made headlines and caused concern about a wider outbreak," WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus told a press conference in Geneva.

Kim Jong Un entrenches daughter as likely heir, Seoul says

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un (L) and his daughter Kim Ju Ae participating in a tree-planting ceremony at the construction site of the Memorial Museum of Combat Feats at the Overseas Military Operations in Pyongyang

AFP | Seoul

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un has entrenched his daughter as heir apparent ahead of a landmark party conference, a South Korean lawmaker said yesterday after a briefing from Seoul's main intelligence agency.

The Kim family has ruled North Korea with an iron grip for decades, and a cult of personality surrounding their "Paektu bloodline" dominates daily life in the isolated country.

Kim's teenage daughter Ju Ae has long been seen as the next in line, a perception stoked by a string of recent high-profile outings.

South Korea's National Intelligence Service said Ju Ae has now been clearly "designated as a successor", lawmaker Lee Seong-kweun said after a parliamentary briefing with the spy agency.

The assessment was made "taking into account a range of circumstances -- including her increasingly prominent public presence at official events", he told reporters.

South Korea's spy agency said last year Ju Ae appeared to be the next in line after she accompanied Kim on a high-profile visit to Beijing.

Photos published ahead of a rare political congress in North Korea this month cemented that perception.

State media showed Ju Ae in January paying respects alongside her father at the Kumsusan Palace of the Sun, where the bodies of state founder Kim Il Sung and second-generation ruler Kim Jong Il lie in state.

Pyeongyang is due to hold a landmark party congress at the end of February -- its biggest political event -- where it is expected to lay out its foreign policy, war planning and nuclear ambitions for the next five years.

The National Intelligence Service said it would closely monitor Ju Ae's attendance, as well as the level of protocol accorded to her.

Trump ends immigration crackdown in Minnesota

AFP | Washington

President Donald Trump's pointman yesterday announced the end of an aggressive immigration operation in Minnesota that triggered large protests and nationwide outrage following the killing of two US citizens.

Thousands of federal agents including Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) officers conducted weeks of sweeping raids and arrests in what the administration claims were targeted missions against criminals.

"I have proposed and President Trump has concurred that this surge operation conclude," Trump official Tom Homan told a briefing outside Minneapolis. "A significant drawdown has already been underway this week and will continue through the next week."

The operation sparked tense demonstrations in the Minneapolis area, and the fatal separate shootings of Renee Good and Alex Pretti last month led to a wave of criticism.

Homan raised the prospect that the officers would move to another location but gave no details, as speculation is rife about which city might be targeted next.

Chairman of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Senator Rand Paul, Republican of Kentucky speaks while displaying a video of ICE operations in Minneapolis that lead to the killing of Alex Pretti

"In the next week, we're going to deploy the officers here on detail, back to their home stations or other areas of the country where they are needed. But we're going to continue to enforce immigration law," he said.

Campaigning against illegal immigration helped Trump get elected in 2024, but daily videos from Minnesota of violent masked agents, and multiple reports of people being targeted on flimsy evidence, helped send Trump's approval ratings plummeting.

The case of Liam Conejo Ramos, five, who was detained on January 20, also stoked anger.

Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey said the ICE operation "had been catastrophic for our neighbors and businesses, and now it's time for a great comeback."

"We will show the same commitment to our immigrant residents," he added.

Counting underway in first Bangladesh polls since deadly uprising

AFP | Dhaka

Counting was underway yesterday in Bangladesh's first election since a deadly 2024 uprising, with powerful political heir Tarique Rahman bullish about defeating an Islamist-led coalition.

Leading prime ministerial hopeful Tarique Rahman, 60, said he was "confident" his Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) -- which was crushed during the 15 years of ousted premier Sheikh Hasina's autocratic rule -- can regain power in the South Asian nation of 170 million people.

However, he faces a stiff challenge from a coalition led by the Muslim-majority country's largest Islamist party, Jamaat-e-Islami.

An electoral official opens a ballot box as counting starts at a polling station

Election Commission officials reported "a few minor disruptions" but top party leaders on both sides raised fears of threats, with the BNP's Rahman calling on people to vote so that "conspiracies will not succeed".

Jamaat chief Shafiqur Rahman, 67, mounted a disciplined grassroots campaign, hoping to form the first Islamist-led government in constitutionally secular Bangladesh.

Jamaat, which has campaigned on a platform of justice and ending corruption, senses its biggest opportunity in decades, with party leader Rahman saying it "will do whatever is required" to ensure a fair result.

"The early results indicate something positive", the Jamaat chief said, as counting continued.

BNP's Rahman has said he is "confident" of victory, and his advisor said the party would "secure a sweeping victory".

Canada probes mass shooter's past interactions with police, health system

AFP | Tumbler Ridge, Canada

Canadian police Wednesday identified the 18-year-old who carried out a mass shooting in a remote mining town, as authorities investigate the suspect's mental health and previous interactions with police and health care providers.

Police commander Dwayne McDonald said authorities still don't know the motive in Tuesday's mass shooting, a rare occurrence in Canada, which has strict gun laws.

The shooter -- who took her own life -- was known to have mental health issues.

McDonald identified the shooter, who killed her mother and stepbrother before shooting dead another six at a school, as Jesse Van Rootselaar, a transgender woman who dropped out of the targeted high school four years ago.

The shooter was known to police, and "we've begun the process of reaching out to" the public health care system to "understand what interactions may have taken place," British Columbia Premier David Eby told a news conference outside the Tumbler Ridge town hall late Wednesday evening. Authorities have said the shooter had previously held a firearms license which had lapsed and that weapons had previously been confiscated from her residence -- but were subsequently returned.

"I have a lot of questions. I know the people of Tumbler Ridge have a lot of questions," Eby said, adding officials want to do "all we can" to "prevent tragedies like this from happening again."

Russia blocks WhatsApp, pushes domestic app

Kremlin says WhatsApp violated laws as critics warn of surveillance and restricted communications

● Kremlin urges 100 million users to switch to Max

● Critics call it a potential surveillance tool

● Telegram also facing "phased restrictions"

AFP | Moscow

Russia has blocked the popular messaging service WhatsApp over its failure to comply with local legislation, the Kremlin said yesterday, urging its 100 million Russian users to switch to a domestic alternative.

Moscow has for months been trying to shift Russian users onto Max, a domestic messaging service that lacks end-to-end encryption and that activists have called a potential tool for surveillance.

"As for the blocking of WhatsApp... such a decision was indeed made and implemented," Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov told reporters.

Peskov said the decision was due to WhatsApp's "reluctance to comply with the norms and letter of Russian law".

"Max is an accessible alternative, a developing messenger, a national messenger. And it is an alternative available on the market for citizens," he said.

People use their smartphones while sitting on a bench at a metro station in Moscow

WhatsApp, owned by US social media giant Meta, said Wednesday that it believed Russia was attempting to fully block the service in a bid to force users onto Max.

"We continue to do everything we can to keep users connected," it said.

Critics and rights campaigners say the restrictions are a transparent attempt by the Kremlin to ramp up control and surveillance over internet use in Russia.

They also say it will make it harder for Russians to communicate abroad.

But Vilgelm, a 32-year-old engineer from Moscow, told AFP he believed the move would not isolate Russia.

"Given Russia's weight in international affairs and trade, it is unlikely we would get a North Korea situation, where everything is completely blocked," he told AFP.

Still, he finds it problematic that the authorities are "actively" promoting Max so aggressively.

"It all looks a bit too tempting," said Vilgelm, who, like most people AFP spoke to, only gave his first name.

'Carrier pigeons'

The government directed manufacturers to include Max on all new phones and tablets starting last September, and it claimed 75 million users by December.

Released by Russian social media giant VK last year, it has been touted as a "super app" similar to China's WeChat or Alipay, capable of doing everything from accessing government services to ordering a pizza.

Critics say the weak encryption, where messages are not scrambled between devices, means communications could be easily intercepted and read.

Some Russians told AFP they were forced to download it by their employers.

Many schools, which use chat apps to communicate with parents, have also switched to Max.

"In late December, we received a message from my daughter's homeroom teacher telling us that WhatsApp no longer worked at all," said one Muscovite, who refused to give her name.

"All communication related to the children's school activities would be conducted via the Max app," she added.

Russia's internet watchdog said Tuesday it would also slap "phased restrictions" on another popular messaging platform, Telegram, which it also accused of not complying with local legislation.

Zelensky slams IOC over helmet ban

AFP | Kyiv

Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelensky said yesterday that the decision to ban skeleton racer Vladyslav Heraskevych from the Winter Olympics for refusing to ditch a helmet depicting victims of the war with Russia plays "into the hands of aggressors".

Gestures of a political nature during competition are forbidden under the Olympic charter.

The International Olympic Committee said Heraskevych had failed "to adhere to the IOC athlete expression guidelines".

The athlete had insisted he would continue to wear the headgear, which carries pictures of Ukrainian sportsmen and women killed since Russian forces invaded Ukraine in 2022, in his event at the Milan-Cortina Winter Games.

The IOC said in a statement: "(The decision) was taken by the jury of the International Bobsleigh and Skeleton Federation (IBSF) based on the fact that the helmet he intended to wear was not compliant with the rules."

Ukraine's skeleton racer Vladyslav Heraskevych holds his helmet, which depicts victims of his country's war with Russia

A defiant Heraskevych posted on X: "This is (the) price of our dignity", alongside a picture of his helmet.

Zelensky took aim at the IOC. "The Olympic movement should help stop wars, not play into the hands of aggressors," the Ukrainian president said in a post on social media.

"We are proud of Vladyslav and of what he did. Having courage is worth more than any medal."

Athletes are permitted to express their views in press conferences and on social media, and the IOC had said on Tuesday it would allow Heraskevych to wear a plain black armband.

A further offer to allow him to carry his helmet into the mixed zone, where athletes talk to journalists after their race, was also rejected.

"Mr Heraskevych was able to display his helmet in all training runs," yesterday's IOC statement added. "The IOC also offered him the option of displaying it immediately after the competition when going through the mixed zone."

Heraskevych has the option to appeal to the Court of Arbitration for Sport but CAS told AFP it had not heard from him.

Coventry plea

IOC president Kirsty Coventry met with Heraskevych early yesterday in a last-ditch attempt to persuade him to change his mind before his competition started.

Coventry, a former Olympic gold medallist in swimming, was in tears after the meeting, according to video images.

"I was not speaking to him in that room as a president, I'm speaking to him as an athlete," she said.

"We have these rules in place to try and be fair and also to try and allow for us to do both things right -- to allow for athletes to express themselves, but also to allow for athletes to be safe."

Nearly 800 flights cancelled as German pilots and cabin crew strike

AFP | Berlin

Almost 800 flights in Germany affecting about 100,000 passengers were cancelled yesterday, Lufthansa said, as pilots and cabin crew staged a one-day strike over a pensions dispute.

Airports in Frankfurt, Berlin, Hamburg and Dusseldorf were particularly affected, according to their websites, but most flights at Munich took off as scheduled.

Lufthansa denounced the strike and its "extremely severe and disproportionate impact" on passengers.

The company said its main Lufthansa airlines as well as its Eurowings, Discover Airlines and cargo operations were affected.

"Lufthansa is doing everything it can to limit the impact on passengers," it added.

● Charles Leclerc powers Ferrari SF-26 car to a fastest lap time of 1min 34.273s while running the whole day

● F1 completes first three-day test session on Friday with BIC set to welcome fans from 11am to 7pm

Manama

Formula 1 Aramco Pre-Season Testing 2026 continued today at Bahrain International Circuit (BIC) in Sakhir with Ferrari's Charles Leclerc leading McLaren's reigning F1 Drivers' World Champion Lando Norris atop the timesheet.

Leclerc set the day's fastest time of 1min 34.273secs during the morning session, which took place in warm and sunny conditions. He was one of six drivers who was in their team's car for the full day – completing 139 laps in his SF-26 contender around BIC's 5.412-kilometre Grand Prix track.

Leclerc was 0.511secs quicker than Norris on testing's day two classification. Norris was the leader on opening day on Wednesday and continued to show strong pace in the MCL40 of the F1 Constructors' World Champions. He too tested the entire day, racking up 149 laps.

Oliver Bearman of Haas ranked third 1.121s from the top in his VF-26. Bearman was the lone driver in the cockpit for Haas today, completing 130 laps. George Russell in Mercedes's F1 W17 followed 1.193s back after running in the cooler evening session, while Isack Hadjar was in Red Bull's RB22 for his first action in Bahrain. He finished 2.288s from first as he was also at work the full day, although he registered just one lap in the morning.

Gabriel Bortoletto (+2.397s) in Audi's R26 was sixth-quickest testing under BIC's bright, state-of-the-art floodlights, Pierre Gasly (+2.450s) in Alpine's A526 finished seventh also going for the full day, Valtteri Bottas (+2.551s) in Cadillac's CA01 came eighth after being out on track in the evening, Alexander Albon (+2.956s) was ninth following his morning testing in Williams's FW48, and Nico Hulkenberg (+2.993s) was classified 10th after also being in action in the morning.

Completing the second day's classification from 11th to 16th, respectively, were Arvid Lindblad (+3.197s) for Racing Bulls, Carlos Sainz (+3.319s) for Williams, Liam Lawson (+3.744s) for Racing Bulls, Fernando Alonso (+3.975s) for Aston Martin, and Sergio Perez (+4.380s) for Cadillac.

Kimi Antonelli also got out on track today but only had three laps in the morning and didn't set a time.

F1 Aramco Pre-Season Testing 2026 continues Friday (Editor's note: 13 February) at BIC. It will be the final day of the first three-day session in Sakhir, which is to be followed by another three days of running next week from 18 to 20 February.

Friday is another day open to fans, who are the first in the world to witness in person the next generation of F1 cars in action ahead of the start of the 2026 FIA F1 World Championship.

BIC's gates are scheduled to open on Friday morning at 11am and close at 7pm.

F1's superstar drivers and their teams are busy trying to maximise their track running and gather valuable data ahead of the top flight's highly anticipated 'new era', featuring a host of transformative new regulations around a brand-new, more agile F1 car.

All those attending testing will also be able to enjoy a series of off-track attractions, including dynamic racing simulators, a Batak reaction game, and a stick catching game.

Aside from these, fans visiting BIC will have the chance to see a display of the new 2026 F1 car in its special Bahrain livery.

Tickets for the open days of F1 Aramco Pre-Season Testing 2026 cost BD10 for adults and BD5 for children per day. To buy tickets or to get more information, visit the circuit's official website bahraingp.com or call the BIC Hotline on +973-17450000.

There is also free access on both open days of the second Bahrain test on 19 and 20 February for all who purchased their tickets to the F1 Gulf Air Bahrain Grand Prix 2026 before 8 September last year.

BIC is also offering exclusive hospitality packages during the tests, featuring the best views of the action along with incredible, five-star cuisine and beverage selection. The hospitality lounge is located right above the F1 pit lane. Full details on BIC's hospitality offerings are available on bahraingp.com. The packages can be booked online or by calling +973-17451086.

The pre-season tests will pave the way for the start of the new F1 season in Australia from 6 to 8 March. The F1 battles will continue with races in China and Japan before heading to the Kingdom for the F1 Gulf Air Bahrain Grand Prix 2026 from 10 to 12 April – the fourth round of the 24-race world championship.

Tickets to the grand prix weekend are selling fast, with seats to the Turn 1 Grandstand already completely sold out and the Main Grandstand already 98 per cent sold. Tickets are also selling out quickly for the Beyon Grandstand, University Grandstand, and Victory Grandstand.

BIKC set for action-packed double-header this weekend in Bahrain Rotax MAX karting

Manama

Bahrain International Circuit (BIC) is all set for an exciting and action-packed weekend of grassroots motorsport when it hosts the sixth and seventh rounds – back-to-back – of the 2025/2026 Bahrain Rotax MAX Challenge (BRMC), the Kingdom's premier karting championship.

The very best local karting talents will be going wheel-to-wheel in their very own Rotax-powered machinery at Bahrain International Karting Circuit (BIKC) in Sakhir.

Round six is scheduled for tomorrow followed by the seventh meeting on Saturday.

Competitors will be battling it out along BIKC's 1.414-kilometre CIK-FIA track across five high-octane categories, including Micro MAX, Mini MAX, Junior MAX, Senior MAX, and DD2 MAX.

All are welcome to attend. Entrance to BIKC is free of charge.

A stacked field of some of Bahrain's leading karters are set to line up on the grid at BIKC.

In round six, set to battle in the Micro MAX class are Enzo Younes, Rashid Almahroos, Sami Ramiz Albundak, and Ahmed Almudahka.

The Mini MAX will see a field of Faisal Alnajjar, Leo Saruhan, Rayyan Najjar, Hassan Baqer, Rhys Daulat, Ehan Anjam, and Saish Chinchrekar.

The Junior MAX class will be spearheaded by last season's Mini MAX champion Shaikh Ahmed bin Saqer Al Khalifa, who will be going up against Leopold Juch, Jude Andrews, Bader Faisal, Luca Saruhan, Ryan Suckling, Sacha Rollett, and Liam Landy.

The Senior MAX once again

features the largest grid, with 18 competitors in round six, to be led by defending champion Tye Mejia. He will be racing Khaled Najjar, Luca Houghton, Mohammed Hilal, Mohammed Alhasan, Farhan Bin Shafeel, Yousif Alaali, Filipa Dorres, Musaad Albassam, Rashid Hilal, Demir Abali, Samy Landy, Karim Rizkallah, Vedant Menon, Ahmad Jawed, Griffin Mecklenburg, Nicola Mateo Frigg, and Samvel Hambardzumyan.

The DD2 MAX category will see Abdulqader Qasem, Rakan Alfayez, and Mohammed Almahroos take to the track.

Meanwhile, in round seven, the same fields will be suiting up in the Micro MAX and Senior MAX classes. In the Mini MAX, Hasan is not entered and Bader is not set to race in the Junior MAX.

The DD2 MAX, on the other hand, will see the additions of Mohammed Sajjad and last year's title winner Abdulla Sajjad.

The BRMC features a total of eight rounds in its 2025/2026 calendar. Following this weekend's double header, the championship finale will take place on 18 April at BIKC.

For more information on the BRMC or on other events and activities at BIC or BIKC, visit bahraingp.com, call the BIC Hotline on +973-17450000, or follow the circuit's official social media channels.
