Bahrain calls for dialogue with regional 'friends and partners' for peace, security and prosperity

Dr Al Zayani attends Asian forum with Foreign Affairs Ministers in Kazakhstan

Nur-Sultan | Kazakhstan

Bahrain has stressed the importance of collective regional action to overcome challenges and achieve genuine security and development.

Foreign Affairs Minister Dr Abdullatif bin Rashid Al Zayani said that this can be done through constant dialogue with regional friends and partners.

"The past 18 months have once again highlighted the vital role of regional and international cooperation, and the critical importance of working together to address common challenges," said Dr Al Zayani.

He was speaking in the sixth Conference on Interaction and Confidence Building Measures in Asia (CICA) Ministerial Meeting, which started yesterday in the Republic of Kazakhstan.

The event is being held under the patronage of President Kassym-Jomart Tokayev of Kazakhstan, chaired by the Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs of Kazakhstan, Akan Rakhmetulin, and in the presence of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs of CICA member states, and the participation of CICA Executive

Dr Al Zayani said he was delighted to participate in this important meeting in Nur-Sultan, expressing appreciation for the distinguished efforts made by Kazakhstan's Ministry of Foreign Affairs to organise the meeting.

Director, Kairat Sarybay.

At the opening session of the meeting, Al Zayani said: "Indeed, recent years have demonstrated beyond any doubt that, in an increasingly complex and interconnected world, genuine and sustainable security and development is only possible by working together with regional friends and partners."

He noted that the COVID-19 pandemic has also reaffirmed Bahrain's longstanding principles and values which guide its policies, "values which have always been part of our Bahraini culture, and which have been given renewed momentum by the vision of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa."

Foremost among these values, the minister pointed out, are the importance of coexistence, dialogue and mutual respect as the essential foundations of relations between states and peoples, and the bedrock of enduring peace, security and prosperity.

"That is why Bahrain believes in the importance of regional forums such as CICA, because we are convinced that they are ideal venues to put these principles into practice, and to demonstrate the value of genuine regional cooperation in bringing real, practical benefits to Asia's countries and peoples," said Dr Al Zayani.

"It is why, for example, Bahrain will shortly assume the Chair of the Asia Cooperation Dialogue, providing further opportunities to bring our region closer together, while recognising the unique strengths of each of these forums."

Al Zayani lauded Asia's potential, diverse and abundant resources, dynamic and resourceful peoples, technical expertise combined with its rich heritage and culture.

"We are convinced, also, that by harnessing this potential through greater contacts and cooperation, we can enhance all our lives - bringing genuine security, lasting prosperity, and real opportunity for all our peoples," he noted.

TDT | Manama

Nearly three-quarters of the Bahraini youth, around 74%, are optimistic about the future despite challenges of our times, including the pandemic, saying "our best days are ahead of us."

Likewise, a majority of them, at 70%, believe their voice matters to their leadership, an increase of 10 percentage points over 2020.

These are some of the top findings of the 13th Annual ASDA BCW Arab Youth Survey, released yesterday by ASDA

BCW, the leading public relations consultancy in MENA, which also revealed the astonishing resilience and hopefulness of young Arab men and women across the region.

Now in its 13th year, the largest study of MENA's largest demographic, its 200 million plus youth, polled 3,400 Arab citizens aged between 18 and 24 in 50 cities and territories in 17 countries from June 6-30, 2021.

Optimism for a better life

The pandemic cost MENA economies an estimated $227 billion last year, pushing some countries to the brink of bankruptcy.

However, when asked whether they believed their best days were either ahead of them or behind them, an astonishing 60 per cent of young Arabs, expressed optimism in the future – the highest level of positivity in five years.

The survey report, themed "Hope for the Future," based on the findings, further highlight the optimism of young Arabs with nearly half (48%) also saying they 'will lead a better life than their parents,' the highest percentage in three years.

Nearly three-quarters (72%) of young Arabs – similar to the positive sentiment among Bahraini youth – said their voice matters to their country's leadership.

In addition, half of respondents said their country's economy was heading in the right direction and most expected a full economic recovery by 2022.

Increased trust in government

Today, more young Arabs trust their government to address their priorities, according to the survey.

Nearly three-quarters (72%) of young Arabs – similar to the positive sentiment among Bahraini youth – said their voice matters to their country's leadership.

Even in North Africa and the Levant region, which witnessed significant social unrest in recent years, many young Arabs now believe their opinions matter to their governments.

News in brief

Bus crash in rugged Nepal district leaves 28 dead ♦ At least 28 people died yesterday in western Nepal after the bus they were on skidded off a mountain road and fell hundreds of meters (yards) into a gorge, authorities said. The accident in the remote and rugged Mugu district also left at least 15 injured, local administrator Rom Bahadur Mahat said. It is not clear what caused the crash or how many passengers were on board. Officials feared that the death toll could rise as rescue operations were still underway.

Beirut blast probe suspended as judge issues arrest warrant ♦ A probe into the catastrophic Beirut port explosion was frozen yesterday for the second time in less than three weeks after two politicians wanted for questioning filed a new complaint against the lead investigator Judge Tarek Bitar. The investigation has been facing obstacles since Bitar sought to question some of the most powerful people in Lebanon on suspicion that they knew about the chemicals but did nothing to avert the disaster. Bitar is under enormous pressure from groups that have accused his probe of political bias and mounting a smear campaign against him.

Strong quake rattles Crete, minor damage but no casualties ♦ A powerful earthquake rattled Crete yesterday, causing minor damage on the Greek island in the Mediterranean, and the tremor was felt as far away as Cyprus. There were no immediate reports of casualties after the magnitude 6.3 tremor, which the Athens Geodynamic Institute said was centred at sea about 23 km (14 miles) east of the village of Zakros in eastern Crete.

Greenpeace protests against France's uranium exports to Russia ♦ Greenpeace activists protested outside the headquarters of one of France's state-owned nuclear companies, calling for the country to stop all exporting and plans to export its reprocessed uranium to Russia. Environmental activists sat in hazmat suits beside dummy radioactive waste containers in front of Orano's offices just south of Paris, in a photo Greenpeace shared on Twitter.

New Austrian leader under fire in parliament, mocked as Kurz's puppet ♦ Opposition parties attacked Austria's new Chancellor Alexander Schallenberg yesterday over his ties to his predecessor Sebastian Kurz, who quit over corruption allegations, while activists outside parliament mocked him as Kurz's puppet. Kurz, 35, quit as chancellor under pressure from his junior coalition party, the Greens, after prosecutors placed him and nine others including close aides under investigation on suspicion of various degrees of bribery, corruption and breach of trust.

15 dead after heavy rain, floods in China coal region

● Heavy rains in province known for coal mining come amid mounting concern over energy supplies as the country heads into winter

Reuters | London

At least 15 people have died during unseasonably heavy rain and flooding in north China's Shanxi province earlier this month, local officials said yesterday, after the normally dry region received three months' rain in one week.

The flooding hit the coal-rich landlocked region during a nationwide energy crunch, and after record floods killed more than 300 people in central Henan province in July.

At least 60 coal mines in the province -- one of China's top coal-producing regions -- had temporarily closed due to the floods, but now all but four have returned to normal operation, local emergency management official Wang Qirui said at a press conference.

Wang said around 19,000 buildings were destroyed by the extreme weather, with 18,000 others "seriously damaged".

"Fifteen people died due to the disaster, and three people remain missing," he added.

At least 1.75 million residents across the province have been affected by the floods, with 120,000 safely evacuated, according to Wang.

Photos published yesterday by local state newspaper Shanxi Evening News showed traffic police carrying school-

Several regions across China have been hit by unprecedented flooding this year.

Thousands were evacuated in the Hubei and Sichuan provinces this summer because of torrential rain.

And more than 300 people were killed in central China's Henan province last month after record downpours -- a year's worth of rain in three days.

Experts say freak weather events such as heavy floods and punishing droughts are becoming increasingly common because of climate change.

North Korea is 'root cause'

Kim Jong Un says US,

● North Korean leader says Pyongyang is only increasing its military as 'war deterrence' and not to start a conflict

Reuters | Washington

North Korean leader Kim Jong has blamed the United States for tensions on the peninsula and accused the South of hypocrisy, state media reported yesterday, as he opened an exhibition showcasing his nuclear-armed country's weapons.

The US is the "root cause" of instability, he said in an address to the "Self-Defence 2021" display, according to the official Korean Central News Agency.

Pyongyang is under multiple international sanctions over its banned nuclear weapons and ballistic missile programmes, which have made rapid progress under Kim.

In 2017, it tested missiles that can reach the whole of the continental United States and carried out its most powerful nuclear explosion to date, and Pyongyang says it needs its arsenal to protect itself against a US invasion.

Analysts say North Korea is seeking to normalise its status as a nuclear power.

The Biden administration has repeatedly stated that it has no hostile intent towards Pyongyang, but Kim said: "I am very curious if there are people or countries who believe that."

11 dead in Philippines storm

AFP | Manila

At least 11 people were killed and seven others were missing after heavy rain across the Philippines flooded villages and triggered landslides, authorities said yesterday.

Severe Tropical Storm Kompasu drenched swathes of the most populous island of Luzon on Monday as it swept across the archipelago nation towards the South China Sea.

Six people were killed and two missing in landslides in the landlocked mountainous province of Benguet, and one person drowned in the province of Cagayan, the national disaster agency said.

Four people were killed as flash floods hit two towns on

Rescuers evacuate residents from their homes near a swollen river following heavy rains brought about by Tropical Storm Kompasu in Gonzaga town, Cagayan province, north of Manila the western island of Palawan, where five other people are still missing, officials added.

The coast guard said its personnel involved in the rescue effort also recovered three other bodies in the northern province of Ilocos Sur, but the disaster agency could not immediately confirm if the deaths were related to the storm.

"Eleven municipalities were flooded but it subsided this morning," Cagayan provincial information officer Rogelio Sending told AFP.

Major highways and bridges were flooded, he said, but the water was retreating yesterday as the storm bore down on the Asian mainland.

"Around seven to eight barangays (villages) are still flooded... due to clogged drainage or lack of drainage," said Earl Timbancaya, a disaster officer in the city of Puerto Princesa on Palawan.

"But it's subsiding now."

The Philippines is hit by an average of 20 storms and typhoons every year, which typically wipe out harvests, homes and infrastructure in already impoverished areas.

Because a warmer atmosphere holds more water, climate change increases the risk and intensity of flooding from extreme rainfall.

Cleric Sadr wins Iraq

Reuters | London

Shi'ite Muslim cleric Moqtada Sal-Sadr's party was the biggest winner in an Iraqi election on Monday, increasing the number of seats he holds in parliament, according to initial results, officials and a spokesperson for the Sadrist Movement.

Former prime minister Nouri al-Maliki looked set to have the next largest win among Shi'ite parties, initial results showed.

Iraq's Shi'ite groups have dominated governments and government formation since the U.S.-led invasion of 2003 that toppled Sunni dictator Saddam Hussein and catapulted the Shi'ite majority tions for believing that it is not hostile," he added, according to KCNA, but insisted that the North's weapons were for self-defence and not aimed at any particular country.

Pictures carried by state media showed Kim at the exhibition in front of the gigantic intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) revealed at a night-time military parade last year.

He was also shown sitting smoking with senior officials and officers, and huge photo portraits of the leader in military uniform hung in the exhibition hall.

His address came after North Korea in recent weeks tested a long-range cruise missile, a train-launched weapon, and what it said was a hypersonic warhead.

In 2018, Kim became the first North Korean leader ever to meet a sitting US president at the headline-grabbing Singapore summit.

But the talks process has been largely at a standstill since a second meeting in Hanoi the following year collapsed over sanctions relief and what Pyongyang would be willing to give up in return.

The Biden administration has said it is willing to meet North Korean officials at any time or place, without preconditions, in its efforts to seek denuclearisation.

Kim's comments and the show itself were intended to justify Pyongyang's nuclear and missile programmes as "part of its right to self-defence", said Park Won-gon, professor of North Korean Studies at Ewha Womans University.

"North Korea held the exhibition on purpose to claim that their weapons development programmes are no different from those of other countries," he said.

curity allies and the United States stations around 28,500 troops in South Korea to defend it against its neighbour, which invaded in 1950.

The South and the United States held joint military exercises in August. The wargames always infuriate Pyongyang, which decries them as preparations for invasion.

Seoul is itself on a multi-billion-dollar drive to step up its military capabilities, successfully testing its first submarine-launched ballistic missile in September -- putting South Korea among an elite group of nations with proven SLBM technology -- and revealing a supersonic cruise missile.

Last week, Pyongyang and Seoul reconnected their cross-border hotline in a sign of thawing ties, with only a few months left in office for South Korea's pro-engagement President Moon Jae-in.

But Kim accused Seoul of "reckless ambition" and a "two-faced, illogical" attitude.

Malik vote, former PM close behind

and the Kurds to power.

Sunday's election was held several months early, in response to mass protests in 2019 that toppled a government and showed widespread anger against political leaders whom many Iraqis say have enriched themselves at the expense of the country.

But a record low turnout suggested that a vote billed as an chance to wrest control from the ruling elite would do little to dislodge sectarian religious parties in power since 2003.

A count based on initial results from several provinces plus the capital Baghdad, verified by local government officials, suggested Sadr had won more than 70 seats, which if confirmed could give him considerable influence in forming a government.

However, Sadr's group is just one of several that will have to enter negotiations to form a coalition capable of dominating parliament and forming an administration, a period of jockeying for position that may take weeks or longer.

Sadr broadcast a live speech on state TV claiming victory and promising a nationalist government free of foreign interference.

Bolsonaro accused of 'crimes against humanity' at ICC

Jair Bolsonaro
Reuters | Brasilia

Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro was accused yesterday of "crimes against humanity" at the International Criminal Court (ICC) for his alleged role in the destruction of the Amazon, the first case seeking to explicitly link deforestation to loss of life.

Planet-warming greenhouse gas emissions from burning and industrial-scale agriculture in the Amazon are higher than the total annual emissions of Italy or Spain. Deforestation in the region already releases more CO2 than the rest of the Amazon can absorb.

Indian Words in the English Language

JOEL INDRUPATI

"He saw a great juggernaut of stars form in the sky and threaten to roll over and crush him...".

These words, in Ray Bradbury's classic 'Fahrenheit 451' made me think of how Indian words are still embellishing English.

'Juggernaut' and 'wheels' used together would mean an overwhelming force of circumstances from which one simply cannot escape.

With its origins in Shree Jagannath Temple at Puri, in India's east coast state of Odisha, and in its thousand-year-old annual Hindu chariot-festival, the term has achieved immense literary significance.

It is an allegorical reference to gigantic temple chariots, believed to have crushed devotees under large powerful wheels. Once the ratha-yatra (chariot-journey) starts, there is no stopping it; even if crowds of devotees thronged its path, and came in its way.

The exaggerated accounts of deaths of devotees under Jagannath's wheels, and the apocryphal stories of pilgrims in devotional ecstasy throwing themselves onto its path hoping to achieve moksha (salvation), gave rise to the term 'juggernaut wheels'.

In the 1953 dystopian novel by Ray Bradbury, I could feel the protagonist Guy Montag's emotions as he runs wild, as a fugitive, chased by sophisticated government machinery, political and technological, unable to escape the weighty wheels of inexorable circumstances.

On investigation, I found out that Charles Dickens had used the term 'juggernaut', much earlier, in 'The Life and Adventures of Martin Chuzzlewit' published in 1844.

And so did Robert Louis Stevenson in 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde'. And even H G Wells, and H W Longfellow.

'Juggernaut' is but one simple example, from thousands of Indian words and phrases which enrich English literature.

Last year, in 2020, the tenth edition Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary added 26 new Indian English words like 'dabba', 'shaa-di', and 'hartal' which mean box, marriage, and a protest-march respectively.

In 2015, Shashi Tharoor the Indian politician had jokingly said in an Oxford Union debate that, during their rule of India, the British had looted many things including the word 'loot'.

And he is right. Hindi words like 'loot, jungle, bazaar, bungalow, tiffin, verandah, shampoo, chutney and gym' are all commonplace in English now.

Etymology lovers might find it interesting to read 'Hobson-Jobson', a dictionary compiled by Colonel Henry Yule and AC Burnell.

The dictionary's subtitle is: "A glossary of colloquial Anglo-Indian words and phrases and of kindred terms etymological, historical, geographical and discursive".

In their work, which consists of over 2000 Anglo-Indian entries, the authors write about a copper coin.

In ancient India, the coin was called a 'dumree'. And it was common, long before British Raj time, for people in India to say: 'No, I won't give a dumree!' referring to something of insignificant value.

The English in India apparently shortened 'damree' into 'dam', and it was soon spelt as an already existing word 'damn'!

'Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn'. When Rhett Butler says this to Scarlett O'Hara, in the movie 'Gone with the Wind', he probably has no idea of the phrase's Indian connection.

'Old Blighty' is Great Britain. A 'wilaa-yati' or 'bilaa-yati' in Hindi and Urdu means 'a foreigner'. When Indian soldiers of the First World War referred to their British counterparts in this way, the Britons found it a 'cushy' term to use. Yes. 'Cushy' too, is derived from the Hindi word 'kushi' for happiness.

Pyjamas, dungarees, and bandanas in clothing; thugs, dacoits and loots in crime; curry, tandoori and chutney in food; avatar, karma and nirvana in religion; pundit, guru and mantra in education...

There is no stopping the juggernaut wheels of Indian words from foraying into the English language.

Actress Kristen Stewart, who portrays Princess Diana in the new biographical drama film 'Spencer', says it was a nerve-wracking experience, and the anxiousness led her to develop a pain in her jaw.

Kristen Stewart

Stewart told BBC News: "I had TMJ (her jaw stayed shut) to the point where I was like, completely locked up. I was like, 'Huh, I guess I'm really nervous' - I was really tripping out until we started."

She shared that she didn't actually know a huge amount about the Royal Family before she accepted the role, reports femalefirst.co.uk. Stewart said: "I didn't have the most developed or defined relationship with the Royal Family in generally. I didn't grow up following the sort of saga. Obviously I do live on planet earth, and her impact was so immense and emotional, even for somebody who was seven when she passed away."

England 'stronger' after 2016 World T20 heartbreak, says Jordan

AFP | London

Chris Jordan says England's 2016 World Twenty20 final heartbreak against the West Indies made them a stronger team as Eoin Morgan's side seek redemption in this year's tournament.

England had one hand on the trophy in Kolkata before Carlos Brathwaite smashed Ben Stokes for four consecutive sixes to win the match for the Caribbean side.

Three years later England became world champions in the 50-over format and they are among the favourites for this year's T20 World Cup in the United Arab Emirates and Oman, starting on Sunday.

Jordan conceded only eight runs in the penultimate over of the 2016 final, leaving the West Indies needing 19 off six balls bowled by Stokes and he admonished himself for prematurely thinking the game was over.

"I'll never take myself to that place again," said the 33-year-old seamer. "I definitely won't be thinking that way after bowling the 19th over until it's fully, fully over."

"We tend to laugh about it now, but we definitely came out stronger for it as a unit."

"I wouldn't say it haunted us too much. Someone has to come up victorious and for something like that to be done in the last over, you can't write that."

Jordan believes England, the top-ranked T20 side, now make "clearer" decisions in crunch moments, which he said helped during the victorious 2019 World Cup campaign.

"The team was on autopilot," he said. "In any situation you saw the game slow down a little bit and everyone came up with an informed and correct decision."

Medvedev powers through at rain-hit Indian Wells

Reuters | Indian Wells

US Open champion Daniil Medvedev "put the pressure on" to earn his 50th win of the season at the weather-hit ATP/WTA Indian Wells, defeating Filip Krajinovic 6-2, 7-6 (7/1) in the third round on Monday night.

The 25-year-old Russian delivered a dynamic performance in a second-set tiebreaker to pull away from the Serb and increase his match record to 50-10 this season.

"It was a really tough match," Medvedev told AFP. "The first set I got lucky in a few moments. The second set I started well, but he raised his level."

"I am happy I managed to fight on every point and get it to a tiebreak. I was super solid in the tiebreak and really put the pressure on."

World No. 2 Medvedev moves on to the round of 16 where he will face Bulgaria's Grigor Dimitrov, who cruised past American Reilly Opelka 6-3, 6-4 during a windy day session.

Medvedev has been ranked second in the world since early in the year and says his goal is to one day be No. 1, which is held by Novak Djokovic. Medvedev defeated him in the US Open final.

"Since I was six I dreamed

Daniil Medvedev hits a shot against Filip Krajinovic about being number one," Medvedev said. "But he is the real No. 1 this year. He won three Grand Slams. That is the reality."

"It is one of my goals. I just need to win a hell of a lot of matches and Grand Slams."

Play was delayed for about an hour in the night session before the start of Medvedev's match after heavy rain and gusting winds swept through the Palm Springs, California area.

The worst of the bad weather arrived in the middle of the first evening match between Coco Gauff and Paula Badosa.

Action resumed after a small army of volunteers helped dry the main stadium court at the Tennis Garden.

Organizers then had to shuffle the schedule, postponing some doubles matches and moving others to empty courts to get them started sooner.

Medvedev beat Djokovic in the US Open final last month to prevent the Serb from becoming the first man since the legendary Rod Laver to win all four Grand Slams in the same year.

In his US Open victory speech, Medvedev said he forgot to get his wife an anniversary gift. He said Monday that winning a first Grand Slam title was all she had asked for.

"I love my wife," he said. "She played tennis until she was 18. We have a saying in Russian -- one boat in the journey. It was a better gift for her, than even for me, that I won the US Open."

Elsewhere in the men's draw, Argentina's Diego Schwartzman defeated Daniel Evans of Britain 5-7, 6-4, 6-0 and Casper Ruud of Norway rallied to beat South Africa's Lloyd Harris 6-7 (4/7), 6-4, 6-4.

Top seed ousted

In the women's draw, top seed Karolina Pliskova and defending champion Bianca Andreescu both crashed out.

Pliskova lost in straight sets to unseeded Beatriz Haddad Maia 6-3, 7-5 in a third round match.

Playing on one of the outer courts, Brazil's Haddad Maia jumped out to a 3-1 lead in the second set before the Czech picked up her game.

Haddad Maia fought back, clinching the match on her second set point when Pliskova flubbed a backhand off the top of her racquet.

Lucky loser Haddad Maia moves on to face Estonia's Anett Kontaveit in the round of 16.

The red-hot Kontaveit continued her fine run by ousting Andreescu 7-6 (7/5), 6-3.

Kontaveit, who is seeded 18th, stretched her win streak to eight straight matches and continued her domination over Andreescu, winning all three career matches over the Canadian.

"I have been feeling really well on the court," said the 25-year-old Kontaveit. "I have a lot of confidence."

Fans favour Jose Torres to prevail over Ali Bagautinov ahead of BRAVE CF 55 clash

Reuters | London

BRAVE Combat Federation will return to Russia on November 6 to host another electrifying live event—this time around in the bustling city of Rostov-on-Don. From top to bottom, the 11-bout card is loaded with some of the best mixed martial artists on the planet. As the much-awaited extravaganza draws near, fans across the globe share their thoughts on one of the most anticipated contests at BRAVE CF 55.

In the main event, hometown favourite Ali "The King Puncher" Bagautinov is set to lock horns with Jose "Shorty" Torres of the United States in the last semifinal match-up of the BRAVE Flyweight World Title Tournament. According to the latest fan poll conducted on the organization's official website, 70 percent of the fans believe that the American dynamo will have his hand raised in triumph against Bagautinov.

The 29-year-old native of Chicago, Illinois previously held the flyweight and bantamweight belts in a North American promotion. He was also a champion in the amateur ranks, winning the 135-pound category at the IMMAF World Championships two years in a row.

Replicating the same success on the global stage is the next target of Torres, but it will be no easy task as Bagautinov has been in the game for more than a decade and has a wealth of fight experience on his resume.

Aside from that, Bagautinov will have his countrymen behind him on fight night, which will most likely put pressure on Torres to perform to the best of his ability. The winner of the said encounter will earn a seat in the tourney finals to square off with the highly-touted Velimurad Alkhasov to determine the first-ever BRAVE CF Flyweight World Champion at a yet-to-be-announced event.

Inspired by Rocky Balboa, Shorty Torres releases poster for upcoming BRAVE CF 55 bout in Russia

In 1985, Rocky Balboa travelled across the world to land in Russia in order to take on the biggest challenge of his career on Christmas Day. Across the ring, Ivan Drago was the Soviet boxer who had killed his former opponent and friend Apollo Creed during an exhibition match months prior. After a 15-round war, Rocky knocks out Drago within seconds on the clock and delivers an inspiring speech about change to a previously hostile crowd who's now in the middle of a standing ovation... and then, roll credits.

The plot of Rocky IV, the fourth installment in the successful Sylvester Stallone movie's franchise, took millions to theatres in the 80's and touched the hearts of many others since then, including the young Jose "Shorty" Torres. So much so that, when he had the chance, Torres didn't think twice about reenacting what is one of his favourite movies.

The similarities are there in fact, except, of course, for the whole revenge part of it. Shorty is about to leave his hometown of Chicago, roughly 800 miles away from Rocky's Philadelphia, and go all the way to Russia to take on the biggest challenge of his career, one that can have huge implications in his future.

Torres, who even got himself a Rocky-inspired poster for the bout, will face Ali "Puncher King" Bagautinov in the main event of the evening of BRAVE CF 55, on November 6, in Rostov-on-Don, Russia. The winner of this much-anticipated Flyweight bout will move to the prestigious BRAVE CF Flyweight World Title against Velimurad Alkhasov.

But in order to see if Torres is Rocky or Apollo in this story, we'll have to wait a few weeks more.

Bahrain concede late goal in loss to Kiwis

Substitute Niko Kirwan scores with two minutes remaining in regular time to lift Oceania giants New Zealand to hard-earned 1-0 victory in international friendly match

● Bahrain and New Zealand play highly competitive affair that was decided only in the game's final minutes

● Friendly match marked end of senior men's national team's latest training gathering supervised by head coach Helio Sousa

TDT | Manama

Bahrain conceded a goal with two minutes left in regular time in a 0-1 loss to Oceania giants New Zealand last night in an international friendly match at the National Stadium in Riffa.

Both sides had quality chances to score in either half, but neither could break the deadlock until substitute Niko Kirwan headed home from close range in the 88th minute.

It was a highly competitive affair for both national teams, who were meeting for the first time since their infamous play-off for a spot at the 2010 FIFA World Cup, which the Kiwis won 1-0 on aggregate after home-and-away matches.

The friendly was the second for both teams in a week. The Bahrainis had previously played Caribbean side Curacao in a match they won 4-0, while the Kiwis won their match against the Curacaoans 2-1.

Bahrain have used the exhibition games as part of their preparations for their upcoming competitions, including the FIFA Arab Cup 2021 this November and December as well as the start of qualifying for the AFC Asian Cup 2023 early next year.

New Zealand had the majority of chances to open the scoring in the first half, with Elijah Just and Callum McCowatt coming closest. Abdulla Yusuf, Sayed Redha Issa and skipper Sayed Dhiya Saeed had the best opportunities for the hosts, but could not convert.

After a goalless first 45, Chris Wood had a free kick that beat the wall but was saved by Bahrain goalkeeper Ebrahim Lutfallah early in the second half.

Ali Madan then had a long effort on target that was coolly collected by opposing goalkeeper Michael Woud.

Mohammed Jassim Marhoon came on after the hour-mark for Bahrain and immediately made an impact, creating two quality chances but was unable to finish.

The Bahrainis stepped up their attack over the game's closing stages and should have come away with a draw, but a momentary lapse in defending was enough for the Kiwis to take advantage.

Liberato Cacace supplied a precision cross from the left of the pitch to a waiting Kirwan deep in the box, and he made no mistake with his header which was enough to separate the two sides.

Bahrain head coach Helio Sousa started the match with a first 11 that included Lutfallah; Ahmed Bughammar, Abdulla Al Hazza, Hazza Ali and Issa in defence; Ali Madan, Mohammed Abdulwahab, Ali Haram, Komail Alaswad and Saeed in a five-man midfield; and Abdulla Yusuf as the lone striker.

Last night's match marked the end of Bahrain's latest training gathering under Sousa, which was held over the past two weeks.

The FIFA Arab Cup 2021 will be held in Doha, with the participation of 16 national teams. It will kick off on November 30 and continue until December 18. Bahrain are in Group A, which also features hosts Qatar, Iraq and Oman.

Bahrain will then be one of 24 teams from across Asia that will be competing in the AFC Asian Cup 2023 qualifiers, which will be in its third round. These matches will be held starting January/February next year.

Bahrain national team skipper Sayed Dhiya Saeed, who started last night's friendly match against New Zealand, has joined the exclusive FIFA Saeed was presented with a special shirt commemorating the occasion by national team manager Abdulla Al Buainain prior to kick-off.

According to the official list of the FIFA Century Club available online, Saeed became the 11th Bahraini player on the list.

The others are Salman Issa, Mohammed Hussain, Sayed Mohammed Adnan, Mohammed Salmeen, Abdulla Al Marzooqi, Hussain Baba, Fawzi Aaish and Hussain Ahmed, along with Sayed Mohammed Jaafar and Ismaeel Abdullatif, both of whom are still regular call ups to the national team.

COVID-19 stance could rule F1 medical car driver out of races

Reuters | London

Formula One medical car driver Alan van der Merwe risks missing more races, after his absence from Sunday's Turkish Grand Prix, due to his decision not to get vaccinated for COVID-19.

Van der Merwe, 41, and F1 doctor Ian Roberts tested positive independently for the coronavirus ahead of the race and did not travel to Istanbul, with the FIA's Formula E crew standing in.

Both had been in the medical car at the previous Russian Grand Prix in Sochi.

The South African said on Twitter it was the second time he had contracted COVID-19 and he had not been vaccinated for personal reasons.

"From what we understand, there are a couple of countries that you probably won't be allowed to enter ... unless you're vaccinated," Formula One's race director Michael Masi told reporters on Sunday.

Alan van der Merwe in action

"You need to comply with those requirements to enter the country and from that perspective the FIA obviously has to respect the country's requirements to get in, as will all the teams and everyone else."

Van der Merwe explained his position before the weekend, indicating he had received abuse on social media for his stance and would block those making personal attacks or wishing him fired.

"I am fully aware that I will potentially be less employable or that my freedom of movement will be restricted based on my choices," he said on Twitter.
