Demi Moore puts relationships over work

IAN S | Los Angeles

Actress Demi Moore says she has changed her life and shifted her priorities over the last seven years.

The 56-year-old actress opened up about it while speaking to Gwyneth Paltrow and Arianna Huffington at the 2019 In Goop Health summit, reports people.com.

Moore said she has shifted her priorities to refocus on her health and the people around her in the "last seven years".

"My relationships are more important, and what I do comes second," she said.

She no longer looks outwards for validation. "What does it matter what anyone thinks?" she said. "Nothing is that bad."

This new outlook came after "my health took me down", Moore said, referencing her 2012 collapse at her home. The mother of three was hospitalised after the incident and entered a rehab treatment for addiction and an eating disorder.

Beckinsale 'really happy' with Pete Davidson

IAN S | Los Angeles

Actress Kate Beckinsale is reportedly "really happy" with Pete Davidson as their budding romance continues to heat up.

"She's very happy with Pete," a source close to the actress, 45, told people.com.

"They have really similar senses of humour and she's always laughing with him."

They have been spotted spending time together in recent months after they hit it off at a Golden Globes afterparty in January.

On Saturday, Davidson addressed the romance - and the 20-year age gap - for the first time on "Saturday Night Live".

During the end of Davidson's appearance on Weekend Update, Colin Jost asked if his co-star had any new life developments "like a new girlfriend". Davidson was initially reluctant but soon opened up about Beckinsale.

Evan self harmed during abusive relationship

PTI | Los Angeles

Evan Rachel Wood has revealed that she used to self harm when she was involved in an abusive relationship.

She opened up about the abuse on Twitter Monday, using the #IAMNotOk hashtag in an attempt to raise awareness about domestic violence. "Two years into my abusive relationship. I resorted to self harm. When my abuser would threaten or attack me, I cut my wrist as a way to disarm him. It only made the abuse stop temporarily. At that point I was desperate to stop the abuse and I was too terrified to leave," Rachel Wood tweeted, alongside a picture of herself with scars on her arm.

The 31-year-old actor also shared photographs from a shoot which she attended during her time in the relationship, adding she fell into a pool of tears on the job and had to go home.

"The day of this photoshoot, I was so weakened by an abusive relationship. I was emaciated, severely depressed, and could barely stand. I fell into a pool of tears and was sent home for the day," she said.

Rachel Wood recently opened up about her experience with domestic abuse during an interview with Dax Shepard for his podcast.

Nick gifts Maybach to Priyanka

IAN S | Los Angeles

With "Sucker" reaching top spot on the US Billboard, pop singer Nick Jonas gifted his actress-wife Priyanka Chopra Jonas a luxurious black Maybach.

Priyanka posted two photographs of herself along with Nick.

In the first image, the couple are seen sharing a kiss in front of the car.

In the second one the couple is holding champagne flutes in one hand and Priyanka is holding her dog

Diana, in her other arm.

"When the hubby goes number one.. the wifey gets a Maybach! Introducing... Extra Chopra Jonas. haha. I love you baby! Yay! Best husband ever -- Nick Jonas," she captioned.

According to billboard.com, The trio (Nick, Kevin and Joe) had previously reached a number 5 high with "Burnin' Up" in 2008.

The "Sucker" video was unveiled earlier this month and the couple featured in it along with the extended Jonas clan.

It also features Kevin and his spouse Danielle, as well as Joe and his fiancée and "Game Of Thrones" star Sophie Turner in the over three-minute video.

Jonas Brothers' band was formed in 2005. The band has created hits like "Burnin' up", "Hold on" and "Fly with me".

Morgan Freeman joins 'The Hitman's Bodyguard' sequel

PTI | Los Angeles

Morgan Freeman is set to star in Ryan Reynolds' 'The Hitman's Wife's Bodyguard', the sequel to 'The Hitman's Bodyguard'.

The veteran actor has joined Frank Grillo, who was last cast in the film.

No details are as yet available about Freeman's character.

Samuel L Jackson and Salma Hayek are set to return for the second installment.

Patrick Hughes is returning to direct and Tom O'Connor has penned the script.

The sequel follows bodyguard Michael Bryce (Reynolds), who is enlisted by Jackson and Hayek's characters to join them on a mission along the Amalfi Coast.

Production is expected to start this month.

Freeman's last cinematic outing was Disney's 'The Nutcracker and the Four Realms', which released months after multiple women accused him of sexual misconduct on production sets or on promotional tours over his career spanning more than five decades.

He next stars in 'Angel Has Fallen'.

Gwyneth Paltrow: I've never said that I am quitting acting

PTI | Los Angeles

Gwyneth Paltrow said she has not bid adieu to acting.

The actor, who was last seen in 'Avengers: Infinity War' in a cameo, said she is currently focused on her lifestyle brand, Goop.

"I've never said that I am quitting acting. What I say is Goop is my full-time passion, and being the founder and CEO over here is what I do all day every day, and occasionally when something is the right thing and it works out around my children and my company life, I'm able to participate.

"I think I'm just not focused on full-time acting right now," Paltrow said in an appearance on a show.

The actor's comments come months after her admission that she does not miss acting.

She will next be seen reprising her role of Pepper Potts in the upcoming 'Avengers: Endgame', which will mark her seventh and last appearance in the Marvel Cinematic Universe.

Last month, Paltrow said she believes it is time for her to say goodbye to her character.
