Bahrain powers peace through clean energy, global trade, and principled diplomacy

● $17B in Bahrain-US deals

● Direct flights to New York

● Fibre cable boosts digital ties

Framing energy as a pillar of peace and progress, His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, spotlighted Bahrain's commitment to peaceful nuclear cooperation as a gateway to sustainability, clean energy transition, and future-ready development - anchored in the Kingdom's long-term national vision.

This message, delivered during HRH's official visit to Washington, set the tone for a diplomatic engagement that positioned Bahrain not just as a partner, but as a shaper of regional policy.

During high-level talks at the White House, HRH Prince Salman met with US President Donald Trump to discuss deepening security and economic ties.

HRH Prince Salman holds talks with US President Trump.

President Trump hailed Bahrain as a "fantastic ally," praised His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa as a globally respected leader, and highlighted Bahrain's early role in the Abraham Accords. "We've had a tremendous relationship, I have personally, with Bahrain over the years, and it has been a fantastic ally," Trump said during the bilateral meeting.

Energy diplomacy

Earlier in the day, HRH underscored the strategic importance of peaceful nuclear cooperation - not only for Bahrain's energy roadmap but as a stabilising model for the wider region.

The focus on nuclear cooperation came alongside a flurry of high-value announcements reflecting the strength of Bahrain-US ties. A USD 17 billion package of private-sector agreements was unveiled during a business forum at the US Chamber of Commerce, spanning digital infrastructure, aviation, and industrial investment.

Economic vision

Among the flagship projects is an 800-kilometre undersea fibre-optic cable that will link Bahrain to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and Iraq - developed in partnership with US-based SubCom. Cisco, meanwhile, will deliver digital upgrades to Bahrain's government telecom infrastructure. Another key announcement was the launch of direct flights between Bahrain and New York, aimed at boosting business, tourism, and bilateral connectivity.

Strategic collaboration

Bahrain's sovereign wealth fund, Mumtalakat, unveiled USD 2 billion in strategic ventures with US aluminium-focused firms. Bahrain-based financial institutions will channel another USD 10.7 billion into American markets, reinforcing two-way capital flows.

Speaking on behalf of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa and HRH the Crown Prince, H.E. Shaikh Salman bin Khalifa Al Khalifa, Minister of Finance and National Economy, welcomed the opportunities for US businesses in Bahrain's open economy, underpinned by the Free Trade Agreement and the US Trade Zone in the Kingdom.

Regional security

HRH Prince Salman also spotlighted Bahrain's role in expanding the Comprehensive Security Integration and Prosperity Agreement (C-SIPA), which now includes the United Kingdom. HRH welcomed the UK's accession as a step toward deeper multilateral security integration, technological cooperation, and regional peace. His Royal Highness also expressed hope that more like-minded nations will join the initiative.

Shared values

HRH reaffirmed that the Bahrain-US relationship - spanning more than 130 years - is anchored in mutual respect, dialogue, and prosperity. His Royal Highness emphasised Bahrain's commitment to the principles of tolerance, coexistence, and intercultural understanding. True stability, HRH said, is built not through force but through economic empowerment and regional cooperation.

His Highness Shaikh Isa bin Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Minister of the Prime Minister's Court, and senior officials joined the meetings. The visit concluded with a lunch banquet hosted by President Trump in honour of HRH Prince Salman and the Bahraini delegation.

Beyond Horizons

MP Pushes Genetic Ethics

Calls for screening beyond HPLC

● IVF-based testing urged

● Genetic ethics spotlighted

● HPLC accuracy questioned

Mahir Haneef
TDT | Manama

A renewed push to reshape Bahrain's approach to hereditary disease prevention is gaining traction, with MP Dr. Mariam Al Dhaen calling for greater emphasis on genetic ethics, advanced screening, and informed reproductive decision-making in sickle cell care.

In her latest remarks, Dr. Al Dhaen urged the government to encourage couples at risk of passing on sickle cell anaemia or beta-thalassemia to undergo preimplantation genetic testing (PGT) as part of assisted reproductive treatments. The procedure, she said, offers a precise method to prevent the transmission of these conditions by selecting healthy embryos before pregnancy.

Diagnostic shift

Dr. Al Dhaen also raised concerns about the limitations of current premarital screening tools, particularly the High-Performance Liquid Chromatography (HPLC) test, which she said can sometimes yield inaccurate results. "There have been cases where individuals were told they carried a genetic mutation, but genetic testing proved they did not," she said, emphasising the need for more accurate diagnostic options.

In addition to PGT, Dr. Al Dhaen advocated for using embryo genetic testing and HLA typing to help families with affected children. She explained that selecting a healthy embryo whose tissue matches that of an existing child could pave the way for stem cell or bone marrow treatments using a compatible sibling donor.

Emergency reform

Diseases Center at Salmaniya Medical Complex - a move she described as a "qualitative leap" for the healthcare system - Dr. Al Dhaen positioned her new proposals as the next phase in national efforts to support patients with genetic blood disorders.

She reaffirmed her earlier proposal for dedicated emergency care pathways and specialist consultants for sickle cell patients, noting that swift and focused intervention is crucial given the severity and sudden onset of symptoms.

Policy vision

Dr. Al Dhaen stressed that genetic health is not only a medical challenge but also a policy responsibility requiring coordinated action among health authorities, lawmakers, and families. She framed her proposals as a call to action to keep Bahrain at the forefront of compassionate and science-driven healthcare.

The MP concluded by reiterating that citizens' health remains a top national priority, and that thoughtful, ethical approaches to genetics must play a central role in shaping the Kingdom's healthcare future.

Court clears man of boat theft and forgery

TDT | Manama

A man in his thirties has been cleared of forging a document and stealing a boat from a friend, after the High Criminal Court ruled there was too much doubt surrounding the charges.

The forged ownership form was confiscated, and the civil claim dismissed.

His lawyer, Basema Al Haddar, argued he had taken possession of the boat with the knowledge and consent of the victim's brother, who owed him money. She said the accused was given en a signed ownership transfer form and the brother's smart ID card, and was told the arrangement had the victim's approval.

The court accepted that account, noting he was able to complete the ownership transfer through the official process on that basis.

The recent $17 billion Bahrain-US private sector investment wave, announced during HRH the Crown Prince and Prime Minister's visit to Washington, is being hailed by national lawmakers as a milestone in Bahrain's global positioning.

Member of Parliament Basema Mubarak described the outcome as a "turning point" in bilateral ties and said it reflects

Bahrain's credibility as a base for regional and international business.

Legal reforms

She credited the surge in investor confidence to Bahrain's updated commercial regulations and improved legal framework, which she said had boosted the country's appeal to long-term investors.

"These agreements are the result of steady, deliberate reforms that make Bahrain a transparent and reliable destination for global partnerships," Basema said.

Bahrain was the first GCC country to sign a Free Trade Agreement with the United States, back in 2004.

Focus on follow-up

Basema, a member of the Financial and Economic Affairs Committee, noted that Parliament will support efforts to translate these deals into tangible public gains.

"Legislative support is essential to ensure these projects deliver on their promise to create jobs, build skills, and strengthen our economy," she said.

Her comments reflect growing political will to align national policy with the broader economic goals outlined through the latest high-level international partnerships.

It was part of ongoing efforts to combat irregular employment and uphold Bahrain's residency and labour regulations.

According to official figures, inspections were carried out on 98,428 individuals, resulting in the deportation of 6,988 violators who failed to comply with residency and labour laws.

Legal action was taken against all offenders in accordance with the Kingdom's regulations.

The NPRA reaffirmed its commitment to intensifying these joint campaigns in cooperation with partner authorities to enhance community security, uphold the rule of law, and promote labour market stability.

Extra lanes added to Al Fateh Highway

Road work in progress

● Near Salman Port Intersection

TDT | Manama

Widening works have begun on Al Fateh Highway, with machinery and barriers now lining both sides of the Salman Port Intersection where it meets Shaikh Isa bin Salman Highway.

Crews are adding lanes in both directions, on the eastern side near Ghuraifa (Block 324) for traffic heading towards Manama, and on the western side near Umm Al Hassam (Block 339) for vehicles travelling south.

Congestion

According to the Ministry of Works, the project aims to ease congestion.

The northbound stretch will be increased to three lanes, while the southbound side will carry four.

This extension runs from the Salman Port Intersection to just before the Dulab Junction at Al Juffair.

Scheme

The scheme includes shifting underground services to accommodate the expansion, along with the installation of road signs and markings to manage traffic and ensure safety.

This section forms the final phase of a broader set of improvements along Al Fateh Highway.

Previous works, stretching over three kilometres from Shaikh Hamad Bridge to Juffair, have already been completed and opened to traffic.

The Coast Guard confirmed that all necessary legal actions have been taken against the violators in accordance with national laws.

Authorities emphasized that monitoring and enforcement operations will continue in full force to prevent all forms of maritime violations.

Hamad Town walkway plan revived after space rejection

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A proposal to build a rubber-surfaced walkway stretching from Roundabout 4 to Roundabout 7 in Hamad Town is back on the table after earlier plans were turned down due to lack of space and the tangle of pipes and cables running beneath the site.

The path, which would run along the right-hand side of Block 1207 and span roughly 1.8 kilometres, was first pitched in 2020 but met a dead end.

The land earmarked for the track is only 11 metres wide.

Tree-planting

Part of it has already been given over to tree-planting as part of a greening drive and the rest sits on top of essential service lines.

This time, Abdulla Mubarak Bilal Al Qubaisi, the councillor for the area, took the matter back to the relevant bodies and

Those from the utility side said the pipes and cables might be moved, but much would

The ministry side, meanwhile, warned that the route would need to be fenced off given its closeness to a busy road.

A full technical report is expected before anything is cleared to proceed.

Al Qubaisi said there was little space in the area for walking and exercise despite it being one of the more densely packed parts of the town.

Many residents already use the same stretch to walk, he said, especially the elderly and the young.

'Summer Cooler Drive'

The Juniors Club Bahrain recently organized a heartwarming "Summer Cooler Drive," an initiative aimed at providing refreshing beverages and snacks to the hardworking laborer community in Bahrain. ## Huawei reclaims top spot in China's phone market: data

People look at a Huawei MateBook Fold (R) in a Huawei Store in Shanghai

AFP | Beijing, China

Tech giant Huawei topped China's smartphone market for the first time in over four years, outflanking US tech giant Apple as well as local competitors including Xiaomi, according to the US-based International Data Corporation. The Shenzhen device maker captured 18.1 percent of the local phone market in the second quarter of this year, shipping 12.5 million units, an IDC report published on Tuesday showed.

Huawei's domestic rebound comes after the company has faced a smattering of US export controls, Western bans and a China probe in Belgium.

China's overall smartphone market shrank after six quarters of growth, according to the IDC data, with shipments totalling 69 million units, down four percent on-year.

"Despite the recent US-China trade truce, the broader economic environment presents ongoing challenges, with consumer confidence remaining subdued," Arthur Guo, a senior research analyst at IDC, said in the report.

"This suggests that a significant uplift in smartphone demand is unlikely in the immediate term, and the market will navigate a more complex landscape in the second half of the year."

Trump says not firing Fed chair -- but not ruling out

Washington, United States

US President Donald Trump said yesterday that he was not currently planning to fire Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell, but added that he did not rule it out.

Trump's mixed messaging, after months of escalating attacks on the independent central bank chief, sent the yield on the 30-year US Treasury bond surging above five percent.

Asked about whether he would eject Powell, Trump said he is "doing a lousy job but no, I'm not talking about that." "I don't rule out anything, but I think it's highly unlikely," he added.

Trump noted that he would in any case be able to make a change at the top of the Fed when Powell's term ends next year.

"We'll pick somebody that's good," Trump said. "We want to see lower interest rates."

Powell's term at the helm of the US central bank does not conclude until May 2026, and his term as a Fed governor is up at a later date. The Fed chair has said that he did not plan to step down early, and considers the central bank's independence over monetary policy to be a matter of law.

Ithra tracks signal shift in Youth Policy

New 15-16 bracket unveiled

● Structured age-based programming

● Skills for future readiness

● Youth-centred development model

Mahir Haneef
TDT | Manama

A quiet revolution is taking shape in Bahrain's youth education scene - and it begins at age 15. The AlMabarrah AlKhalifia Foundation has introduced a new age track in its flagship Ithra programme, targeting 15- to 16-year-olds with structured, skills-based learning designed to bridge adolescence and early adulthood.

While the announcement may seem like another summer launch, the implications go much deeper - Bahrain is gradually rewriting how it prepares its young people for the future, one age group at a time.

Shifting the model

Titled 'Ithra Youth', the new segment is part of a broader progression model now embedded in MKF's summer programming. Starting with 'Ithra Buds' (ages 10-12), which develops essential life skills through playful learning, and continuing through 'Ithra Juniors' (ages 13-14), which introduces scientific foundations and hands-on activities, the new Youth track completes a pipeline that follows a child's developmental arc.

With over 30 participants per season in each track, the curriculum is far from textbook-based. Field visits, practical workshops, creative arts, thematic challenges and sports are all part of the mix - each tailored to the cognitive and emotional needs of the specific age group.

Designing the future

This approach, rooted in experiential learning and continuous self-assessment, reflects a deeper institutional shift. Rather than treat youth development as a broad-brush activity, MKF is building an infrastructure of age-relevant interventions. It signals a move from generalised summer engagement to a layered system where each year of adolescence is mapped to a meaningful learning experience.

Her Highness Shaikha Zain bint Khalid Al Khalifa, Chairperson of the Board of Trustees, affirmed this direction, noting that the Foundation's investment in young people reflects a belief in their capacity to lead, grow and shape society. "This programme is about more than summer," she said. "It's about building readiness, resilience, and a sense of purpose - starting early and evolving with each year."

Nation-building through youth

Since its establishment in 2011, MKF has focused on education as its primary social mandate. But the 2025 edition of the Ithra initiative marks a notable pivot - one that aligns more closely with national ambitions under Bahrain Vision 2030. By recognising that a 13-year-old and a 16-year-old need fundamentally different tools to succeed, the Foundation is challenging others in the sector to rethink how youth engagement is designed.

What may appear at first glance as a seasonal programme launch is, in reality, part of a much more strategic reimagining of Bahrain's youth ecosystem.

UNESCO has reported that age-specific, skills-based learning programmes dramatically increase a young person's confidence and community engagement, especially in the 13-16 age bracket.

King Faisal Specialist Hospital & Research Centre (KFSHRC) has been awarded Global Healthcare Accreditation (GHA) for Medical Travel Services, earning a 95 percent score that cements its role as a leader in Saudi Arabia's transformation into a global medical destination.

The recognition reflects the Kingdom's shift from a historically outbound medical travel market to one now attracting international patients. In 2024 alone, KFSHRC treated individuals from 17 different countries, reinforcing its reputation as a trusted centre for complex, cross-border care.

Trusted care

Saudi Arabia aims to become one of the top five global destinations for medical tourism by 2030, targeting a 5% share of patients who currently travel abroad for treatment.

The GHA certification, granted by a US-based body, evaluates hospitals on international standards that prioritise patient-centred care, cultural competence, care coordination, and post-treatment follow-up. KFSHRC's high score confirms its ability to deliver on all fronts.

"This accreditation affirms our commitment to providing international patients with exceptional care," said Dr. Amaal AlDakheel, Director of International Healthcare Services at KFSHRC. "The GHA process was more than a compliance exercise. It offered us deep reflection, professional exchange, and valuable learning that strengthened our readiness to serve the world."

Vision-driven shift

Saudi Arabia's Vision 2030 calls for developing the country as a world-class hub for healthcare and medical tourism. KFSHRC is taking a lead in this goal by aiming to attract at least 5 percent of patients who would otherwise seek treatment abroad.

Renée-Marie Stephano, CEO of Global Healthcare Accreditation, said KFSHRC reflects the bold ambition of this vision. "Their commitment to excellence and global best practices exemplifies the future of safe, patient-centred international healthcare."

Cutting-edge capabilities

To prepare for the accreditation, KFSHRC trained staff in GHA's methodology and standards. Several team members earned the Advanced Certified Medical Travel Professional designation, enhancing the hospital's ability to support diverse patient needs and expectations.

KFSHRC also offers specialised care across eight Centres of Excellence covering cancer, transplant, neuroscience, heart, genome, surgery, paediatrics and women's health. Equipped with advanced technologies like CAR T-cell therapy and robotic surgery, it stands as one of the few institutions in the region offering such high-level treatments.

The hospital was recently ranked 15th globally and first in the Middle East and Africa among the world's top 250 academic medical centres. It was also named the most valuable healthcare brand in the region by Brand Finance and included in Newsweek's list of the World's Best Smart Hospitals.

Global network

GHA is creating a broader international healthcare ecosystem by connecting accredited hospitals with insurers, referral partners, and travel providers. KFSHRC's inclusion in this network enhances its access to new markets, improves patient trust, and supports Saudi Arabia's ambition to become a preferred destination for medical travel.

As one of the first in the region to achieve such a high standard, King Faisal Specialist Hospital is not only raising the bar for healthcare at home but also helping shape the Middle East's future as a trusted destination for advanced international treatment.

EU unveils blueprint for boosted 2-trillion-euro budget

AFP | Brussels, Belgium

The EU executive proposed yesterday a long-term budget boosted to two trillion euros ($2.3 trillion) as Europe confronts complex challenges, from overseas competition to Russian aggression at its borders.

Presenting the 2028-2034 budget blueprint to reporters in Brussels, EU chief Ursula von der Leyen said it "will be the most ambitious ever proposed. It is more strategic, more flexible, more transparent".

In drawing up the plans, von der Leyen had to balance bolstering the bloc's security, ramping up Europe's competitiveness to keep up with US and Chinese rivals, countering climate change and paying debts due from 2028.

And all of this was against a backdrop of soaring trade tensions with the European Union's biggest commercial partner, the United States.

The European Commission announced a 451-billion-euro competitiveness fund to support the EU's investment efforts in clean tech, digital, defence and food security and innovation.

As Europe pushes to re-arm, the amounts dedicated to defence and space will increase five-fold -- to 131 billion euros.

And the spending plan proposed earmarking up to 100 billion euros to support war-torn Ukraine over its seven-year period.

"This is a long-term commitment to Ukraine's recovery and reconstruction," budget chief Piotr Serafin said.

Hungary, Russia's closest ally in Europe, slammed the money for Kyiv.

"Ukraine would get a massive funding boost, while European farmers lose out," Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orban said before the official announcement by the commission.

The large farming subsidies that make up the biggest share of the budget, known as the common agricultural policy (CAP), are a subject of fierce debate.

Serafin, however, said that under the commission's plans, 300 billion euros would be ring-fenced to support farmers, who have been worried about potential cuts to their slice of the pie.

In the current seven-year budget, the CAP accounted for almost a third of funding -- around 387 billion euros, of which 270 billion euros are directly paid to farmers.

UK fines Barclays bank £42 million for crime risk failings

AFP | London, United Kingdom

Britain's financial watchdog yesterday said it had fined Barclays bank £42 million ($56 million) for "poor handling of financial crime risks".

The Financial Conduct Authority said in a statement that the fine was "for separate instances of failings in its financial crime risk management" between 2015 and 2023.

A Barclays spokesperson said the British bank is "deeply committed to the fight against financial crime and fraud", after its third FCA fine for failings in financial crime controls since 2015.

They added in a statement that "Barclays fully cooperated with both investigations and has further strengthened its financial crime and other control

US drug raids net $10 mn in crypto linked to Sinaloa cartel

AFP | Washington, United States

US drug enforcement agents seized more than $10 million in cryptocurrency linked to Mexico's Sinaloa cartel during raids that netted massive quantities of fentanyl and other drugs, officials said Tuesday.

The Sinaloa cartel is one of six Mexican drug trafficking groups that President Donald Trump has designated as global "terrorist" organizations.

The cryptocurrency seizure in Miami, Florida was part of countrywide operations that netted 44 million fentanyl pills, 4,500 pounds (2,000 kilograms) of fentanyl powder and nearly 65,000 pounds of methamphetamine since January, the US Department of Justice said in a statement.

The Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), in coordination with its FBI partners, "seized over $10 million dollars in cryptocurrency, directly linked to the Sinaloa cartel," it added.

It comes days after Ovidio Guzman Lopez, a son of Mexican drug kingpin Joaquin "El Chapo" Guzman, pleaded guilty to drug charges in Chicago in a deal struck with prosecutors in return for a reduced sentence.

His father was convicted in a high-profile trial in 2019 and is serving a life sentence in prison.

"DEA is hitting the cartels where it hurts -- with arrests, with seizures, and with relentless pressure," DEA Acting Administrator Robert Murphy said. The cryptocurrency haul was among several major seizures across the country in recent weeks, including in California, Texas, Georgia and other states that netted thousands of pounds of drugs and dozens of arrests.

In Galveston, Texas, agents uncovered more than 1,700 pounds of methamphetamine worth more than $15 million hidden inside a vehicle.

Other raids yielded drugs hidden in produce shipments, including 705 pounds of methamphetamine concealed in cucumbers in Georgia and 783 pounds found in a refrigerated truck carrying blueberries in Texas.

◆ The former Communist Party head of Tibet was handed a suspended death sentence on Wednesday for taking bribes worth almost $50 million, a court in China said. Wu Yingjie, who served as party secretary of the Tibet Autonomous Region from 2016 to 2021, illegally accepted bribes totalling more than 343 million yuan ($47.8 million), an intermediate court in Beijing said in a statement on WeChat. The court said his crimes were “particularly serious, the social impact particularly vile” and caused “particularly heavy losses” for the country and people. President Xi Jinping has overseen a wide-ranging campaign against official corruption since coming to power more than a decade ago, with critics saying it also serves as a way to purge political rivals. The court said Wu used his official positions in the region stretching back to 2006 to give companies and individuals help on contracts and business operations.

The Chancellor of Justice said it had received two. Finnish media revealed in June that he had won the appointment over more experienced candidates. Public broadcaster Yle reported Wednesday that of the last 11 interns appointed to FIIA since 2020, he was one of only two who were undergraduates. Newspaper Ilta-Sanomat has earlier reported that the other candidates in the top five for this year's internship all had more work experience than Stubb.

No magic fix: 'Harry Potter' stars banned from driving

AFP | London, United Kingdom

Two stars of the “Harry Potter” films, including actress Emma Watson, were each banned from driving for six months Wednesday after being caught speeding in separate incidents.

Watson, 35, who played Hermione Granger, the friend of boy wizard Potter in the hugely popular movie franchise, was banned for driving at 38 miles (61 km) an hour in a 30-mile zone in southeastern Banbury last July.

Zoe Wanamaker, 76, who played Quidditch teacher Madame Hooch in “Harry Potter And The Philosopher's Stone”, was banned for six months for her offence.

She had been caught driving at 46 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone of the M4 motorway in southeastern Berkshire last August.

The cases were dealt with separately by a lower magistrates court in the town of High Wycombe.

Neither of the stars attended the hearings, at which they were each fined £1,044 ($1,400).

Watson, who was stopped while driving her blue Audi, has been studying at Oxford University. Her lawyer told the court that although she was a student “she is in a position to pay the fine”.

Israel bombs Syria army HQ

Members of Syria's Druze community walk through tear gas fumes released by Israeli forces to disperse them, as they gather along the dividing line to attempt to cross the barbed-wire fence with the Israeli-annexed Golan Heights near Majdal Shams

Warns Damascus to leave Druze alone

● Israel has presented itself as a defender of the Druze

● Sectarian clashes have killed nearly 250 people

● Syrian government forces entered the majority-Druze city of Sweida

● Israel's Katz called on Damascus to “leave the Druze in Sweida alone”

AFP | Damascus, Syria

Israel bombed the Syrian army headquarters in Damascus yesterday after warning the Islamist-led government to leave the Druze minority alone in its Sweida heartland, where a war monitor says sectarian clashes have killed nearly 300 people.

Syrian government forces on Tuesday entered the majority-Druze city of Sweida, in the country's south, with the stated aim of overseeing a ceasefire agreed with Druze community leaders after clashes with local Bedouin tribes left dozens dead.

However, witnesses reported that the government forces joined with the Bedouin in attacking Druze fighters and civilians in a bloody rampage through the city.

The fighting marks the most serious outbreak of violence in Syria since government forces battled Druze fighters in Sweida province and near Damascus in April and May leaving more than 100 people dead.

The Islamist-led authorities have had strained relations with Syria's patchwork of religious and ethnic minorities since they toppled longtime leader Bashar al-Assad in December.

Israel has presented itself as a defender of the Druze, although some analysts say that is a pretext for pursuing its own military goal of keeping Syrian government forces as far from the border as possible.

Syrian state TV reported several Israeli strikes on Wednesday near the army and defence ministry headquarters in central Damascus, and Israel's military said it had “struck the entrance of the Syrian regime's military headquarters”.

The Syrian health ministry said in a preliminary toll that nine people were wounded in the strikes.

‘Existential battle’

Israeli Defence Minister Israel Katz called on Damascus to “leave the Druze in Sweida alone”, later threatening in a statement to unleash “painful blows” to “eliminate the forces that attacked the Druze until their full withdrawal” from Syria's south.

Israel, home to tens of thousands of Druze, said it was sending more troops to the arstice line between the occupied Golan Heights and Syrian-controlled territory.

Dozens of people were trying to cross the heavily fortified frontier, according to AFP correspondent in Majdal Shams, a mainly Druze town in the Israeli-annexed Golan.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu urged Druze not to cross, warning of a “very serious” situation in Sweida.

A military statement said Israeli forces were “operating to prevent the infiltration” from Syrian territory and to “safely return the civilians who crossed the border” from the Israeli-controlled side.

Netanyahu said in February that southern Syria must be completely demilitarised, warning that Israel would not accept the presence of forces of the Islamist-led government near territory it controls.

The head of the Druze

Syrian security forces deploy amid clashes in the southern Sweida city community in Israel, Sheikh Mowafaq Tarif, called the situation “an existential battle for the Druze community”.

The Syrian presidency condemned in a statement the “heinous acts” in Sweida, expressing “full commitment to investigating all related incidents and punishing all those proven to be involved”.

Sporadic gunfire continued to ring out in Sweida on Wednesday, an AFP correspondent reported.

Columns of smoke were seen rising from several areas amid the sound of shelling.

The correspondent counted the bodies of around 30 combatants, some in plain clothes and some in military uniform.

20 people killed in aid point crush in southern Gaza

At least 20 people were killed in a chaotic crush at an aid centre in southern Gaza yesterday, with the site's operator blaming “agitators” within the crowd and the territory's civil defence agency attributing the panic to Israeli gunfire.

It was the US- and Israeli-backed Gaza Humanitarian Foundation's (GHF) first acknowledgement of deaths at one of its aid centres after weeks of chaotic scenes and near-daily reports of Palestinians being killed nearby while waiting to collect rations.

Hamas is seeking a full Israeli withdrawal from Gaza in the truce negotiations, and last week rejected an Israeli proposal that it said would have kept troops in more than 40 percent of the territory.

US 'very concerned' about Israel strikes in Syria

Washington, United States

Washington is talking with both Israel and Syria after the Israelis bombed the Syrian army headquarters in Damascus, the top US diplomat said yesterday, expressing concern at the attack.

"We're talking to both sides, all the relevant sides on this and hopefully we can bring it to a conclusion, but we're very concerned," US Secretary of State Marco Rubio said.

Death toll in south Syria violence tops 300: monitor

Damascus, Syria

More than 300 people have been killed in days of violence in southern Syria's Sweida province, a war monitor said Wednesday, raising an earlier toll of 248 dead.

The Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said that since clashes erupted on Sunday, 69 Druze fighters were killed as well as 40 civilians, 27 of whom in "summary executions... by members of the defence and interior ministries", while 165 government forces and 18 Bedouin fighters were also killed, along with 10 members of the government's security forces in Israeli strikes.

US deports 5 migrants convicted of crimes to Eswatini

Mbabane, Eswatini

The United States has deported five migrants convicted of crimes to the small African kingdom of Eswatini, ruled by an absolute monarch accused of human rights abuses, officials have said.

The deported migrants are nationals of Cuba, Jamaica, Laos, Vietnam and Yemen.

The deportation of migrants to countries which are not their own is part of US President Donald Trump's campaign promise to expel millions of undocumented migrants from the United States.

His administration has defended so-called third-country deportations as necessary, since the home nations of some of those targeted for removal sometimes refuse to accept them.

Palestinian statehood summit planned for September

Postponed at the last minute after Israel's military campaign against Iran

AFP | Paris, France

International envoys will discuss a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict at UN headquarters in New York this month, before national leaders meet in September, a French diplomatic source said Wednesday.

The conference, co-chaired by France and Saudi Arabia, was originally planned for mid-June to revive work on the long-standing diplomatic effort to find a way for Israeli and Palestinian states to live side-by-side in peace.

It was postponed at the last minute after Israel's military campaign against Iran.

Last week, diplomatic sources said last week the conference had been rescheduled for July 28 and 29, but did not say who would attend.

The French source said Wednesday that the meeting would be at ministerial level.

It would seek to "advance the recognition of a Palestinian state for a certain number of states who have not yet recognised it, including France," the source said.

But it would also work "on normalisation and Israel's regional integration with Arab and Muslim countries."

Heads of state and government would then meet in either Paris or New York, before the UN General Assembly, which will be attended by world leaders on September 22, the source added.

France's foreign ministry said Foreign Minister Jean-Noel Barrot would attend the meeting.

Last week, French President Emmanuel Macron called for joint recognition by France and Britain of a Palestinian state.

Before the initial conference was postponed, Barrot said France would not recognise a Palestinian state alone, in a possible reference to the eagerness of Paris to see any French recognition matched by Gulf Arab allies -- notably regional kingpin Saudi Arabia -- recognising Israel.

US President Donald Trump near the end of his first term led promoted the "Abraham Accords" in which the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain and Morocco became the first Arab countries in decades to normalise with Israel.

Iceland volcano erupts for ninth time since 2023

AFP | Reykjavik, Iceland

A volcano erupted on Wednesday in Iceland's Reykjanes peninsula in the southwest, weather authorities said, the ninth eruption to hit the region since the end of 2023.

Live video feeds showed lava spewing out of a fissure in the ground, with the Icelandic Met Office saying that it began just before 4:00 am (0400 GMT).

The weather agency later in the day reported that the main fissure was estimated to be 2.4 kilometres (1.5 miles) long, and that a second smaller fissure, about 500 metres long, had opened up nearby.

Due to high levels of gas pollution in the air, residents were advised to stay indoors.

Broadcaster RUV reported that the nearby fishing village Grindavik had been evacuated, as had the Blue Lagoon, Iceland's famed tourist spot.

Lava and smoke erupting from a volcano near Grindavik on the Icelandic peninsula of Reykjanes

Police Commissioner Margret Kristin Palsdottir, told the broadcaster that the evacuation of the some 100 people staying in the village had gone smoothly.

Palsdottir also said they had prevented some tourists from entering the area.

"Of course, we understand that this is a fascinating event, especially for tourists who are not as accustomed to it as we are," Palsdottir said.

Geophysicist Benedikt Ofeigsson told RUV that the eruption didn't seem as big as earlier ones and was in a good location as it wasn't near any infrastructure.

Iraq PM reopens Mosul airport years after IS devastation

The airport has not been operational since the Islamic State group seized Mosul

AFP | Mosul, Iraq

Iraqi Prime Minister Mohammed Shia al-Sudani inaugurated yesterday the city of Mosul's newly restored airport, years after it was destroyed in the battle to dislodge the Islamic State group.

Sudani's flight landed at the airport, which is expected to become fully operational for domestic and international flights in two months.

"The airport will serve as an additional link between Mosul and other Iraqi cities and regional destinations," the media office of the PM said in a statement.

In June 2014, the Islamic State group seized Mosul, declaring its "caliphate" from the city after capturing large swathes of Iraq and neighbouring Syria.

After years of fierce battles, Iraqi forces backed by a US-led international coalition dislodged

A view of Mosul International Airport in northern Iraq

the group from the city in July 2017, before declaring its defeat across the country at the end of that year.

The airport, which was heavily damaged in the battle, has not been operational since the jihads seized Mosul.

In August 2022, then-prime minister Mustafa al-Kadhimi laid the foundation stone for the airport's reconstruction.

Airport director Amar al-Bayati told AFP that the "air-

Prime Minister Mohammed Shia al-Sudani being received by officials during the re-opening of Mosul International Airport in northern Iraq port is now ready for domestic and international flights," but no date has been announced for their resumption.

He added that the airport previously offered international flights, mostly to Turkey and Jordan.

The airport now includes a main terminal, a VIP lounge and an advanced radar surveillance system, Sudani's office said.

Its expected to handle 630,000 passengers annually.

At its peak in 2014-2015, the Islamic State controlled a territory roughly the size of the United Kingdom, spanning large parts of Syria and Iraq, and ruled over an estimated 8 million people. It even had its own currency (gold, silver, and copper coins), issued official passports, and ran schools and courts – all part of its attempt to function like a state.

Astronomers observe birth of a solar system for first time

AFP | Paris, France

Astronomers said yesterday they had observed the moment when planets start forming around a distant star for the first time, revealing a process that sheds light on the birth of our own solar system.

The new planetary system is forming around the baby star HOPS-315 -- which resembles our own Sun in its youth -- 1,300 light years from Earth in the Orion Nebula.

Young stars are surrounded by massive rings of gas and dust called protoplanetary discs, which is where planets form.

Inside these swirling discs, crystalline minerals that contain the chemical silicon monoxide can clump together.

This process can snowball into kilometre-sized "planetesimals", which one day grow into full planets.

In our home Solar System, the crystalline minerals that were the starter dough for Earth and

The minerals around the star were first spotted by the James Webb Space Telescope.

Then the astronomers used the European Southern Observatory's ALMA telescope in Chile to find out exactly where the chemical signals were coming from.

They discovered that these minerals are in a small portion of the disc which is similar to the asteroid belt that surrounds our Sun.

This will allow scientists to watch the process that may have birthed our home planet.

"We're seeing a system that looks like what our Solar System looked like when it was just beginning to form," said study co-author Merel van 't Hoff of Purdue University in the US.

Russia seizes $150 mn cocaine haul hidden in banana shipment

Moscow, Russia

Russia said Wednesday it had seized 820 kilograms (1,800 pounds) of cocaine hidden under a shipment of bananas, calling it its largest bust of drugs from Latin America this year.

Cocaine smuggling into Russia has surged over the past two years, according to Russia's Izvestia newspaper.

Drug traffickers are increasingly looking to the country as a transit hub, in part because the Ukrainian port of Odesa has become inaccessible due to Russia's offensive, the paper said.

Russia's customs service, working jointly with the FSB security service, said it had uncovered a batch worth "more than 12 billion rubles ($153 million)" stashed in banana containers.

The cocaine packages -- disguised in briquettes bearing the label of a French luxury fashion brand -- were discovered in a "hidden cavity" under the bananas, it added.

It carried out the bust after a tip-off from "foreign colleagues about the intention of a South American criminal group to organise a smuggling channel for cocaine supplies to Russia".

Britain lifts ban on Pakistani airlines

Islamabad, Pakistan

Britain has lifted restrictions on Pakistani airlines, the UK embassy in Islamabad said on Wednesday, ending a five-year ban on the country's beleaguered national carrier.

Flag carrier Pakistan International Airlines was barred from flying to Britain in June 2020, a month after one of its aircraft plunged into a Karachi street, killing nearly 100 people.

The disaster was attributed to human error by the pilots and air traffic control, and was followed by allegations that nearly a third of the licences for its pilots were fake or dubious.

The UK Air Safety Committee had decided to lift the ban following aviation safety improvements in Pakistan, the British High Commission in Islamabad said, adding that decisions on de-listing states and air carriers were made "through an independent aviation safety process".

"Based on this independent and technically-driven process, it has decided to remove Pakistan and its air carriers from the (UK Air Safety) List," it said in a statement.

The move comes after European regulators lifted a four-year ban on PIA, with the Pakistani state-owned carrier resuming flights to Europe in January.

Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif welcomed the lifting of the ban as "an important milestone for the country".

"The lifting of the ban on Pakistani flights by the UK is a source of relief for Pakistanis residing in Britain," he added.

The 27-year-old star found fame through her role as Alex Dunphy on the sitcom Modern Family and has revealed how she had to deal with the unwanted attention of "male predators" from an early age. Speaking to DailyMail.com, Ariel said: "I am familiar with male predators because I worked in Hollywood at a young age. I started at age four. I don't wanna say too much about it, but by the time I was on a laptop and cell phone, I was Ariel featured for the duration of Modern Family's 11-season run and admits that she found it difficult to come to terms with show ending in 2020. She said earlier this year: "It was hard. We were like a real family. It was weird knowing it would just be over, and I wouldn't get to see everybody all the time anymore. It was like, wait, yeah, wait, we're not going to be together on Monday? So on the one hand, I didn't want it to end, but at the same time, I was ready to start something new as an adult." Ariel was just 11 years of age when Modern Family began and she did not suspect that the programme would go on to become so popular. She said: "I was 11 when it started. West Asia Volleyball Championship kicks off Saturday

- Bahrain face Lebanon on Saturday
- Two friendly wins vs Saudi Arabia

TDT | Manama

The West Asia Men's Volleyball Championship kicks off Saturday at Isa Bin Rashid Arena, and hosts Bahrain look more than ready. On Tuesday, the national team put in a strong showing, winning straight sets over Saudi Arabia. It was their second friendly win over the same opponents in the lead-up to the tournament. The set scores were 27-29, 25-19, 25-19. The win served as Bahrain's final tune-up under head coach Arnaud Gosserand, and it capped off a short but sharp preparation window for a squad aiming for their second title of the summer "When you win an Asian cup, the only goal is to win the next competition", said an ambitious Gosserand. Bahrain, with its recent rise in Asian volleyball, has positioned itself at the heart of that vision. Carrying Momentum Bahrain won the 23rd Arab Volleyball Championship in November last year, and just last month, they lifted their first AVC Men's Volleyball Nations Cup title. Both achievements were on home soil. With chemistry intact and confidence high, Bahrain enter this tournament as favorites. They open their campaign Saturday against Lebanon, followed by group matches against Jordan on Sunday, and UAE on Monday. All matches are set for 7PM and will be played at Isa Bin Rashid Arena in front of a home crowd hoping to see another title-winning run.

‘Incredible’ Stokes put body on line for England: Root

● Stokes ignored rest requests from coach, teammates

● Root: “You can’t stop him”

AFP | London

England captain Ben Stokes put his body on the line to inspire his side’s dramatic victory over India at Lord’s, according to teammate Joe Root.

Stokes took five wickets, scored 77 runs and delivered a crucial run-out of Rishabh Pant in two innings of relentless effort from the all-rounder.

Driven on by Stokes, England won the third Test by 22 runs on a pulsating final day to take a 2-1 lead in the five-match series.

Most remarkable of all was the workload that the injury-prone Stokes put his body through as he bowled 44 overs in total, including gruelling spells of 9.2 and 10 overs on the decisive final day.

It was the most the 34-year-old has bowled in over six years and came after two severe hamstring injuries in the past 12 months.

Root watched on in awe, remembering his own attempts to stop Stokes pushing himself past the limit during his own captaincy.

“You can try, but it doesn’t make any difference. I tried for five years,” Root said.

“I mentioned it but he doesn’t always listen to me. He didn’t listen to me when I was captain!

“That’s his call now. It was an incredible effort to be able to do that, but that’s just how he’s built, I guess. He’s just desperate to be the man and make things happen.

“It’s a great sign for us moving forward, it really is, because that’s back to his best. He’s got that mentality and that desire to win games and we’re lucky to have him as our leader.”

At one stage in the first innings, England head coach Brendon McCullum sent a message via bowling consultant Tim Southee instructing his skipper

” You can try, but it doesn’t make any difference. I tried for five years. I mentioned it but he doesn’t always listen to me. He didn’t listen to me when I was captain!

to take a breather.

Root admits he was also concerned that Stokes might hit breaking point but now accepts that there is only one man who truly knows how far he can go.

“I was just panicking that he wasn’t going to make it through the game after a couple of bad injuries but he clearly trusts his body now,” he said.

“He knows what he’s doing and he’s got a good handle on where he’s at physically.”

After the match, Stokes admitted his tiredness, telling reporters that he could not wait to “just lie on my bed for four days and then be raring to go for (next week’s fourth Test at) Manchester”.

The Old Trafford Test starts on July 23.

Modric at AC Milan to ‘stay competitive and in Europe’ at 40

AFP | Milan

Croatia captain Luka Modric said yesterday he had penned a one-year contract with AC Milan to “stay competitive and in Europe”.

“I’m happy to be here and I look forward to a new adventure,” the 2018 Ballon d’Or winner told AC Milan’s TV channel after joining from Real Madrid.

Modric, who turns 40 in September, joined the Spanish giants from Tottenham in 2012, going on to win six Champions Leagues, four La Liga titles and two Copa del Rey trophies.

“I wanted to stay in Europe, to continue playing competitive football. I had some other offers but when Milan showed up for me it was clear from the first moment,” he said.

Milan finished a disappointing eighth in Serie A last season and will not play in European competition.

“Milan cannot be satisfied with average and needs to have the biggest goals possible, to win titles, to compete with the best teams in the world, that’s why I am here.”

Modric signed a one-year contract, with an option for an additional season with the seven-time Champions League and 19-time Serie A winners.

“I’m never satisfied, I always want more,” he warned. “When you’ve experienced that feeling (of winning), you want to feel it even more. I still have hunger, desire, still wanting more.”

To explain his longevity, Modric said “the most important thing is the love for the game, for football”.

Bahrain dodge UAE scare to hold lead

After dropping 106 points on Australia the day before, Bahrain had to find a different gear against UAE, and they did just that. With the game on the line, Bahrain outlasted their Gulf rivals 77-71 to stay unbeaten in the William Jones Cup. Now 5-0, the Kingdom sit firmly atop the standings with three more matches remaining.

Quick start

This is Bahrain’s lowest winning margin in the tournament so far (6 points)

He bailed Bahrain out of multiple tough possessions and created breathing room with a timely three in the fourth.

Jakarr Sampson didn’t have the most efficient night (7-22 FG), but his 18 points and 14 rebounds were vital. Devon Chism nearly posted a triple-double: 8 points, 18 rebounds, 4 assists, and 4 blocks.

Bahrain’s size wore UAE down over four quarters. They grabbed 24 offensive rebounds and totaled 9 blocks, which is one of their best rim-protecting performances to date.

Bahrain will get a lighter assignment today at 10PM against Qatar B, followed by games against Chinese Taipei A and Strong Group Athletics (PHI).

Abrahamsen wins Tour de France stage as Pogacar survives scare

AFP | Toulouse

Norway’s Jonas Abrahamsen won stage 11 of the Tour de France at Toulouse yesterday while defending champion Tadej Pogacar crashed 4km from the line. Pogacar fell after hitting the back wheel of another rider but his rivals Jonas Vingegaard and Remco Evenepoel sportingly waited for the Slovenian. The UAE rider Pogacar struggled to put his chain on after sliding across several metres of tarmac and had looked as if he would lose 30 to 40 seconds. Healy will lead the peloton into the Pyrenees on Thursday where the first real mountains will test his and everyone’s legs on the legendary beyond category Hautacam climb.

Abrahamsen contested a two-way cat-and-mouse war of nerves down the home straight with Swiss Mauro Schmid as the cunning Mathieu van der Poel crept up on them and finished third at 7sec. Healy retained the overall lead on his first day in the fabled yellow jersey, while Pogacar remains second and Evenepoel third. Following Tuesday’s rest day, yesterday’s run was billed as a likely sprint finish with 70 points at stake in the sprint points standings at Toulouse. Stage 11 did however feature five small climbs along a 156.8km route making sure it was constantly fast and nerve-wracking.

Real Madrid’s Bellingham set to miss 12 weeks after shoulder surgery

Paris Saint-Germain’s Georgian forward #07 Khvicha Kvaratskhelia and Real Madrid’s English midfielder #05 Jude Bellingham fight for the ball

AFP | Madrid

Real Madrid midfielder Jude Bellingham is expected to miss up to 12 weeks recovering from a shoulder operation after the Spanish giants said yesterday he had successfully undergone surgery. “Our player Jude Bellingham has undergone successful surgery for a recurrent left shoulder dislocation,” said Real Madrid in a statement. “Bellingham will now begin a period of rehabilitation prior to his return to recovery work.” While Madrid did not specify the expected length of his recovery time, Spanish media have reported it will take around 12 weeks for him to return to action. Bellingham has been struggling with shoulder discomfort after dislocating it in a La Liga match in November 2023, and playing with a brace under his shirt since then. The England midfielder held off on the operation until after Madrid’s participation in the Club World Cup this summer, with Xabi Alonso’s side reaching the semi-finals. Bellingham is set to miss the La Liga visit to face rivals Atletico Madrid in late September, as well as the club’s first two Champions League matches. The 22-year-old midfielder should be back in action by the time Madrid host Barcelona in the first Clasico of the season in late October.

Real Madrid confirm Vazquez departure

AFP | Madrid

Real Madrid defender Lucas Vazquez will leave the club, the Spanish giants confirmed yesterday. After his deal expired at the end of the season Los Blancos had agreed a short-term contract extension for the Spaniard to keep him for the Club World Cup, which they competed in this summer in the United States.

“Vazquez exemplarily represents the values of Real Madrid, which has made him one of the most beloved players by our fans,” said Madrid president Florentino Perez in a statement. “(He) symbolises the hard work, perseverance, humility, and winning spirit essential to succeed in this shirt.” Originally a winger, the 34-year-old won 23 trophies at the club including five Champions Leagues and four La Liga titles, largely as a squad player. “I leave Real Madrid but Real Madrid will never leave me,” said Vazquez in a goodbye video. The Spaniard came through the Madrid youth system and spent his whole career at the club, with the exception of a loan to Espanyol in the 2014-15 season, playing 402 times across all competitions for Los Blancos.
