Demi Lovato

Demi Lovato's Snapchat account hacked

Los Angeles

Seems like singer Demi Lovato has become the latest victim of cyber-hacking as her Snapchat has reportedly been hacked. The same became evident with alleged nude pictures being posted from her account on social media on Thursday, reported Daily Beats, as cited by Page Six. "Join this discord server for my nudes," read the message on the 'Echame La Culpa' singer's Snapchat. And an additional link took followers to a collection of some more pictures. As of now, those offensive images have been taken off the profile. Lovato's fans even took to Twitter to voice their concerns about the singer and her mental health. "Respect demi lovato respect demi lovato respect demi lovato respect demi lovato no one deserves to have their private pictures leaked and i don't care if you don't like her, this behavior is DISGUSTING so do NOT tweet and share. thank you," the official account for her New York fans tweeted. Recently, the singer hogged headlines after she apologised fans for offending their sentiments. Almost a fortnight earlier, the 27-year-old singer took to Instagram to share pictures from her "absolutely magical" trip to Israel. But her spiritual experience turned sour when critics accused her of taking a political stance amid the country's ongoing conflict with Palestine.

Margaret Qualley, Pete Davidson split after 'whirlwind romance'

Los Angeles

"Once Upon a Time in Hollywood" star Margaret Qualley and actor-comedian Pete Davidson are no longer dating. According to Us Weekly, the couple have called it quits after a "whirlwind romance" that started in August this year. "They remain friends," a source close to them told the outlet. The news of their relationship was first reported in August when Qualley was accompanied by the "SNL" star at the Venice Film Festival red carpet. Qualley, 24, most recently featured in Kristen Stewart-starrer "Seberg". Earlier this year, she received critical acclaim for her performance in Quentin Tarantino's "Once Upon a Time in Hollywood", opposite Brad Pitt and Leonardo DiCaprio. Davidson, 25, is currently working on James Gunn's "The Suicide Squad".

Lady Gaga and fan fall off stage in Las Vegas

Las Vegas

Lady Gaga suffered a nasty fall during a concert here after a fan with whom she was dancing with slipped off the stage - taking the singer along. It all happened when the "Born this way" singer invited a fan up on stage at Enigma Las Vegas residency on Thursday. In a video captured by a fan, which has gone viral on the net, Gaga can be seen messing around with the man who lifts her up. They are seen dancing until they lose balance and fall off the stage. They are helped to their feet by security. "I can't believe I got that on camera," the fan wrote while sharing the video of the incident on Instagram. "Wait for her to fall!" While it is not clear if Gaga was injured in the accident, she immediately made her way back to the stage alongside the fan, insisting that it was not his fault. "Everything's okay. We need some stairs by the damn stage so I can get back up," Gaga said. After asking the fan if he was okay, Gaga said: "It's not your fault That was a fall. Can you promise yourself, can you just forgive yourself right now for that happening?" Sitting by a piano for her next song, Gaga asked the fan, named Jack, to accompany her.

Conflicting reports continue on Big B's health

Mumbai

While the latest position on Bollywood megastar Amitabh Bachchan's health continues to be unclear, sources at "Kaun Banega Crorepati" have said the megastar is expected to resume shooting for the popular quiz show on Tuesday. Although unconfirmed reports state Big B is yet to be discharged from hospital, fresh information shared by our source reveals the veteran actor is fine and his hospital visit was meant for regular check-up. "He has been admitted to a hospital and he is doing fine now. We don't know when he will be discharged from the hospital but he is expected to start shooting for KBC from Tuesday," a source told IANS. Speculations over Big B's health were triggered off when earlier reports in sections of the media claimed, the Bollywood megastar has been in a Mumbai hospital since Tuesday. A timesofindia.com report on Thursday had stated the 77-year-old actor has been in hospital since October 15 after he was rushed to Nanavati at 2 am on that day. The report added that the veteran actor is receiving medical attention for his liver problem, and that at the hospital, Big B has been put up in a special cabin over the past three days, with only close relatives being allowed to visit.
