Historic pledge

Saudi Arabia to invest $1 trillion in US as Trump hosts HRH Prince Mohammed at White House

TDT | Washington

US President Donald Trump hailed His Royal Highness Prince Mohammed bin Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, as well as Saudi Arabia's $1 trillion investment pledge, yesterday while hosting a lavish welcome at the White House.

Trump gave HRH Prince Mohammed a parade of soldiers on horseback and a military flypast featuring F-35 jets that he said Washington would soon sell to Riyadh.

The Saudi prince announced that he was increasing the $600 billion Saudi investment he promised Trump when the US president visited the country in May.

Increase

"We can announce that we are going to increase that $600 billion to almost $1 trillion for investment," HRH Prince Mohammed said in the Oval Office.

"Now, you're saying to me now that the $600 billion will be $1 trillion?" a grinning Trump asked him to confirm the figure, to which the Saudi royal replied: "Definitely."

Trump pulled out all the stops for the Saudi prince, giving him treatment normally reserved for a state visit to the White House, despite the fact that he is not a head of state.

He welcomed HRH Prince Mohammed on the South Lawn of the White House as cannon fire boomed out, before they watched the noisy flypast by US military jets.

Later in the day, First Lady Melania Trump was to hold a gala dinner.

The 79-year-old Republican president has made a priority of boosting ties with the kingdom, particularly as he seeks to turn the ceasefire between Israel and Hamas in Gaza into a longer-lasting regional peace.

Relations

Trump said he had pushed the prince to normalise relations with Israel as part of the Abraham Accords that he launched in his first term.

HRH Prince Mohammed said he was working to do so.

Open Opportunities

No limit on jobseekers' applications, says Labour Ministry

Mohammed Darwish

TDT | Manama

The Labour Ministry has confirmed that jobseekers face no limit on how many times they may put themselves forward for vacancies through the National Employment Platform.

The ministry also stated that it has no plans to cut the number of people entitled to unemployment benefit, emphasising that it remains bound by the Unemployment Insurance Law.

In a written reply to MP Khalid Buanaq, the ministry said that the number of people receiving unemployment payments, whether as an allowance or as compensation, moves up and down all the time.

Based on data for October 2025, 11,452 jobseekers were drawing the unemployment allowance. Of these, 3,479 had been unemployed for less than a year, 6,258 for more than a year and up to five years, and 1,715 for more than five years.

Ceiling

The ministry explained that there is no ceiling on the number of times a jobseeker may nominate themselves for vacancies on the platform.

It said it does not itself place job offers in front of jobseekers. Employers enter their vacancies into the system, after which the ministry checks the post, the salary, qualification, specialisation and other details. Once the vacancy passes this check, it appears on the platform for jobseekers to view.

Jobseekers are the ones who choose the roles they want.

Candidates

The ministry said it does not nominate candidates or call them to push them towards specific vacancies.

Robots Walk Strategy

Students turn strategy into action

● Students engineer AI robot

● Innovation plan meets reality

● Labs show talent pipeline

Hasan Barakat
TDT | Manama

Bahrain's innovation drive has taken a visible step forward at the American University of Bahrain (AUBH), where students unveiled AUBHi, a locally engineered AI-powered robot that walks, waves and talks back.

The machine demonstrates how the goals of the National Innovation Strategy 2025 to 2035 are already turning into real outcomes on campus, built by the Kingdom's own emerging talent.

What makes the achievement stand out is that AUBHi was created from scratch in Bahrain.

Students from mechanical engineering, computer engineering, computer science, AI and data science worked together to design and build the robot rather than assembling it from pre-made kits.

Their work shows how a new generation of Bahraini innovators is gaining hands-on experience with advanced technologies.

Robotics Breakthrough

During a demonstration at the AUBH Theatre following the National Innovation Strategy conference, lecturer Herbert Azuela presented a series of student-built robots capable of complex movements.

AUBHi can recognise faces and respond with human-like gestures such as waving, capabilities demonstrated by the student teams who built the robot through interdisciplinary work across engineering and computing programmes.

AUBHi can walk, climb stairs, avoid obstacles, keep its balance and stand back up if pushed.

It navigates crowded spaces confidently and recognises when someone is looking at it, responding with gestures such as waving.

Its communication abilities are equally noteworthy.

AUBHi responds to voice com-

The robot also recognises colours, making it suitable for educational, public service and smart environment applications.

Innovation in Practice

AUBH officials highlighted that the project reflects the university's interdisciplinary approach to preparing future engineers and technology specialists.

By combining mechanical design, software engineering and artificial intelligence, students demonstrated how theoretical learning can be transformed into practical, real-world solutions.

Their work also supports Bahrain's ambition to strengthen its scientific research capacity and develop high-skilled talent that contributes to national priorities.

The robotics initiative at AUBH aligns with the wider push to build a knowledge-based economy.

Minister's Lab Tour

Earlier in the event, H.E. Abdullah bin Adel Fakhro, Minister of Industry and Commerce, addressed the audience on the National Innovation Strategy, emphasising the vision of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa and the directives of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister.

H.E. the Minister highlighted the collaborative effort across government, academia and the private sector to position Bahrain as a regional innovation hub.

Following his address, H.E. the Minister toured AUBH's laboratories, where students and lecturers showcased their inventions.

AUBHi stood out as a clear example of how the strategy is already being realised in Bahrain's classrooms and labs.

AUBHi's reveal offered a message in motion. As the robot walked, reacted and replied, it underscored that innovation.

Bahrain's first-ever Global Food Show, organized by Global Connections in collaboration with the SME Society, officially opened its doors this week at Exhibition World, marking a milestone for the Kingdom's growing food and beverage sector.

The event is designed to foster innovation, collaboration, and sustainable growth, as the global food market approaches an estimated $9 trillion by 2025.

Under the guidance of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, and the leadership of Dr. Abdelhassan Al Dairi, Chairman of Bahrain Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs), the Kingdom continues to cement its position as a regional hub for food exports, re-exports, manufacturing, and culinary development.

"The inaugural Global Food Show is more than a showcase of products," Dr. Al Dairi said in his welcome address. "It is a platform for innovation, collaboration, and knowledge sharing, bringing together manufacturers, distributors, retailers, academics, investors, and policymakers under one roof. This event highlights the strength of Bahrain's food industry."

Bahraini scaleup growth

The Labour Fund (Tamkeen) held a special event attended by His Excellency Abdullah bin Adel Fakhro, Minister of Industry and Commerce, Maha Abdulhameed Mofeez, Chief Executive of Tamkeen, Dalal Al Ghais, Chief Executive of the Bahrain Development Bank Group, a number of Tamkeen Board members, and officials from the public and private sectors. New measures aim to combat
financial crimes

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Social Development Minister, His Excellence Osama Al Alawi, has issued Decision No. 78 of 2025, laying down detailed procedures to combat money laundering, terrorist financing and the illicit cross-border transfer of funds in the work of entities licensed to raise money for public purposes.

The decision applies to any legal person licensed to collect funds, or notified of the ministry's consent to receive donations, for public charitable, social, educational or cultural aims.

It requires each licensee to appoint a compliance officer, tasked with monitoring observance of the relevant laws and ministerial decisions.

The compliance officer must ensure that all procedures and controls required under the law and related decisions are applied, that the proceeds of donations are spent on the purpose for which the ministry granted the licence, and that the sanctions list and national terrorism lists are observed.

This screening covers members of the board of directors, founding members, employees.

Hiring expansion

MPs approve law raising disability jobs quota from 2% to 4% to strengthen workplace

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A push to double the disability jobs quota cleared Parliament yesterday, raising the rate from 2 to 4 per cent despite government warnings about pressure on hiring and budgets.

Under the law, based on a Shura Council proposal amending Law No. (74) of 2006, establishments with 50 workers or more must now employ persons with disabilities at a rate of at least 4 per cent of their workforce.

The text also requires the Labour Minister, in coordination with the Social Development Minister and the Head of the Civil Service Bureau, to issue a decision naming government jobs in which qualified candidates with disabilities have priority in appointment.

Change

Parliament's Services Committee said the change is meant to give fuller effect to rights granted under the Constitution and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

Committee chairman Mamdouh Al Saleh reminded MPs that the elected chamber had already tried to raise the quota in the previous term, when a similar proposal fell in the Shura Council.

"Today the very same text comes from Shura," he told the chamber, adding that MPs were looking at the issue "from the perspective of the interests of persons with disabilities, not out of stubbornness".

Legal duty

MP Ahmed Al Salloom pointed to Labour Ministry data as grounds for tightening the legal duty on employers.

He said more than 300 jobseekers with disabilities are registered with the Ministry and told MPs: "These numbers call for a legislative move to absorb this group."

He also drew comparisons with the region, noting that Saudi Arabia and Kuwait apply a 4 per cent quota, Oman has raised its rate from 1 to 2 per cent and Qatar has a floor of 2 per cent in the private sector.

H.E. Osama Al Alawi

Mamdouh Al Saleh

Establishments with 50 workers or more must now employ persons with disabilities at a rate of at least 4 per cent of their workforce.

Claims

Social Development Minister Osama Al Alawi used the debate to address claims that there are 15,000 jobseekers with disabilities.

He told MPs: "The figure of 15,000 is the total number of registered persons with disabilities across all age groups and categories. Those actually looking for work are far fewer than that and number just over 300."

He said the ministry is moving ahead with a national strategy for persons with disabilities, expanding online services such as registration, reclassification and disability benefit certificates, and preparing to open a new integrated disability centre in A'ali.

According to the ministry, the new facility in A'ali will group several services for persons with disabilities on one site.

Consultations

The minister said it has been designed after consultations with groups working in the field and is part of a wider plan to improve support, including services for people on the autism spectrum and other needs through partnerships with civil society.

The government had asked Parliament to reconsider the bill.

In a written opinion, it argued that the aims of the proposal are already being achieved under the existing law and the National Strategy for Persons with Disabilities (2023-2027), which covers rehabilitation and access to work.

Warning

It warned that fixing a 4 per cent quota in the public sector and issuing a binding list of reserved posts would run across Civil Service Law No. (48) of 2010, reduce room for judgement in hiring and leave some posts unfilled if there are not enough candidates with disabilities, to the detriment of other jobseekers.

The Civil Service Bureau told MPs that it already works with the Social Development Ministry to identify job titles suitable for persons with disabilities.

It said 282 employees with disabilities currently work in government posts.

55 fake jobs scam under court review

● Hearing set Nov. 24

Rehab Mohammad
TDT | Manama

The High Criminal Court of Appeal has scheduled November 24 for hearings in the appeal of an employment-fraud case in which the first appellant was sentenced to five years in prison and fined BD10,000, while the second appellant received a three-year prison sentence and a BD5,000 fine.

The third to fifth female defendants were each sentenced to three months in jail and fined BD1,000, with the court ordering a three-year full suspension of the fifth defendant's sentence.

The Court of Appeal also ordered the temporary suspension of the sentences of the third and fourth appellants pending the outcome of the appeal, after they settled the amounts owed to the Social Insurance Organization (SIO).

According to the testimony of a court supervisor at the SIO's Legal Affairs Directorate, the Inspection Department detected a criminal suspicion involving two companies subject to the Social Insurance Law.

The authorized system user submitted requests through the SIO's electronic platform to add and remove 55 workers as insured employees of the two companies, filling in wage details and employment dates, and attaching forged employment contracts.

Housing surge

Ministry expands schemes and financing options to meet rising demand for citizens

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Housing and Urban Planning Minister, Her Excellency Amna Al Rumaihi, told Parliament yesterday that the rise in housing applications since 2022 is a 'natural' outcome of new requests entering the system each year, saying the ministry is widening eligibility rules and expanding housing schemes and finance in cooperation with the private sector to meet demand.

She said many applications have been served, yet new ones are coming in faster than before, particularly after the ministry, working with MPs, eased rules on 'wife's inheritance' cases and adjusted income calculations so annual increments do not lead to changes or cancellations of files.

Criteria

“Extended loan schemes have enabled more than 10,000 citizens to obtain housing services from 2022 to today.”

- H.E. AMNA AL RUMAIHI, HOUSING AND URBAN PLANNING MINISTER

The Minister added that any widening of criteria brings in more families than earlier estimates.

Al Rumaihi said traditional projects remain central to housing provision.

In Sitra Housing City, 500 homes are due to be handed over in December alongside 1,200 more under construction, while work is under way in Al Hidd and 372 units are being built in Khalifa Town, with roads and sewerage works carried out in parallel.

Loan schemes

On housing finance, she said extended loan schemes have enabled more than 10,000 citizens to obtain housing services from 2022 to today, a total she compared to two housing towns delivered within three years, supported by joint projects with developers.

These include 231 units in the Suhail project in Al Louzi, 76 units in the Al Wadi scheme in Wadi Al Buhair and 133 units in Madinat Salman, all priced to match state-backed housing finance and subsidised by the ministry.

Optional programme

She added that the second batch of the optional 'Land and Loan' programme is now being distributed, covering 804 residential plots with BD40,000 in subsidised finance based on application seniority, along with directives from His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister, to offer an extra BD10,000 on the BD70,000 full loan and BD3,000 grants linked to certain apartment schemes.

Requests dating back to 2002 remain under review, she said, but cannot all be handled through this programme alone.

Plan approved to limit gym licences to four, five-star hotels

● MPs approve proposal

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

An urgent proposal to confine licences for gyms in the First Constituency of the Capital Governorate to four- and five-star hotels was approved by the Parliament yesterday.

The proposal was tabled by MP Mohammed Janahi, Second Deputy Speaker Ahmed Qarata, Speaker Ahmed Al Musallam, First Deputy Speaker Abdalnabi Salman and MP Ahmed Al Salloom.

Janahi said the proposal calls on the government to reorganise gym licences so that these activities are limited to four- and five-star hotels within the constituency.

He stated that the area has become crowded with a large number of salons and outlets providing the same type of service, which, in his view, has added to traffic on the main roads in this part of the capital.

He added that allowing small shops to run gym activities affects the tourism sector. According to Janahi, restricting these activities to higher-grade hotels would raise service standards, support tourism and bring the sector under a framework that prevents improper practices.

Fairer shifts and pay for 24-hour clinic doctors

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Parliament yesterday approved an urgent proposal to change the 24-hour shift system in primary healthcare centres and improve contracts for Bahraini doctors who hold master's degrees from the Arabian Gulf University.

The motion calls for fairer shift patterns, extra financial and compensatory incentives, and employment terms that match the doctors' academic qualifications and duties.

Under the proposal, the Health Ministry is urged to review the rota in centres that operate round the clock so that morning, evening and night duties are shared out more evenly among doctors, with extra pay for those on continuous shifts.

The text also seeks revised contracts for family medicine master's graduates from the Arabian Gulf University so that their grades, pay and tasks are brought into line with the higher level of training they have completed.

The motion was submitted by MPs Jaleela Alawi and Hesham Al Ashiri. Ms Alawi said the move responds to complaints from doctors who work in 24-hour primary care centres.

She said: "Doctors are bound by an inflexible shift pattern that has disrupted their personal lives and made it harder to meet family responsibilities."

MPs support BD100,000 legal check on government contracts

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A proposed requirement for all government contracts worth more than BD100,000 to be reviewed by the Legislation and Legal Opinion Commission has secured MPs' backing, after Parliament approved a draft law on Tuesday despite objections from the government and the Shura Council.

The bill amends Article 2 of Law No 60 of 2006, cutting the review threshold from BD300,000 to BD100,000.

Second Deputy Speaker Ahmed Qarata told the chamber that the current rule has been in place since 2010 and said the Commission now examines around 450 contracts a year

Criteria

He argued that the criteria should be adjusted to match the volume of work and the level of legal review expected.

Under the draft, the Commission must examine all acts and contracts concluded by ministries, institutions, public authorities and entities covered by the Law on the Regulation of Government Tenders, Bids, Purchases and Sales whenever their value exceeds BD100,000, and no such contract may be signed without its prior legal

Problem

"If checks begin at 25,000 and 50,000 dinars," he asked, "where is the problem in reviewing contracts from 100,000 dinars upwards?"

According to the Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee, the aim is to widen legal oversight of major government contracts and bring firmer control over public spending, in line with the Fiscal Balance Programme's call for administrative acts and contracts to be examined from a legal angle.

The second article of the bill is executive in nature, requiring the Prime Minister and ministers to apply the law from the day after its publication in the Official Gazette.

Appeal set for BD500,000 embezzlement scandal

● Hearing on Nov. 24

Rehab Mohammad
TDT | Manama

The High Criminal Court of Appeal has set November 24 for pleadings in the appeal of a social center director who was sentenced to 15 years in prison, fined, and ordered to repay and forfeit over BD500,000 in connection with illegal fundraising, embezzlement, and money laundering.

A second defendant received a one-year sentence.

The lower court found that the director collected cash and in-kind donations — including coupons and Ramadan food baskets — without a license, then diverted the funds for personal gain.

He used part of the money for himself, distributed some as advances to individuals, and spent the rest on unauthorized bonuses, gifts, and center activities.

Auditors also uncovered irregularities in service contracts, including a cleaning contract in which the worker received only BD140 of the BD520 monthly payment, with the director pocketing the difference.

MI5 issues Chinese spying 'alert' to UK MPs: minister

London, United Kingdom

Britain's domestic intelligence agency MI5 Tuesday warned that China was trying to recruit parliamentarians through spies disguised as headhunters, amid concern over Beijing's activities in the UK.

There have been heightened fears about Chinese espionage in the UK after a politically sensitive case against two alleged spies was dropped, and as the government mulls a request from Beijing to build a controversial new embassy building in London.

"Earlier today, MI5 issued an espionage alert" to parliament and parliamentary staff "to warn them about ongoing targeting of our democratic institutions by Chinese actors", security minister Dan Jarvis told the House of Commons. "Our intelligence agencies have warned that China is attempting to recruit and cultivate individuals with access to sensitive information about parliament and the UK government," said Jarvis.

According to the MI5 alert, the activity was being carried out by "Chinese intelligence officers, often masked through the use of cover companies or external headhunters", said Jarvis.

MI5 named two online profiles that are "believed to be legitimate headhunters working for Chinese intelligence officials" and building relationships with targets through platforms such as LinkedIn.

The espionage alert, which the government said was issued to disrupt the spying activity, comes weeks after prosecutors dropped charges against two men, including a parliamentary researcher, accused of spying for Beijing.

New research shines light on New Zealand's growing ties with Middle East's Gulf states

Manama

As Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman visits Washington, a new study is putting the spotlight on New Zealand's own ties with major players in the Middle East's Gulf region. The just-completed PhD research by Geoffrey Miller at the University of Otago looks at New Zealand's relationship with the six countries of the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) – Bahrain, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates (UAE). The PhD thesis puts a generation of ties between New Zealand and the Gulf under the microscope, beginning with a visit by then New Zealand foreign minister Phil Goff to the region in January 2001 and ending with current trade minister Todd McClay's stepped-up engagement with the Gulf.

Geoffrey Miller, the geopolitical analyst behind the study, says New Zealand's ties with the Gulf region are growing rapidly and are becoming more diverse.

Geoffrey Miller, the geopolitical analyst behind the study, says New Zealand's ties with the Gulf region are growing rapidly and are becoming more diverse. Trade remains the bedrock of relations – the GCC bloc is now New Zealand's sixth-biggest export market. Exports from New Zealand to the Gulf states passed the $NZ3 billion mark for the first time in the year to June 2025, according to Statistics New Zealand data.

Geoffrey Miller says: "New Zealand's high-quality food exports are popular in the Gulf states, which have an appetite for luxury and the wealth to pay for it. "Dairy products, meat and fruit from New Zealand often command premium prices in supermarkets in major cities across the region, such as Dubai, Doha and Riyadh. "Food security is a major concern across the Gulf, which has no permanent rivers but houses a growing population of more than 60 million people in a hot, desert climate."

Geoffrey Miller says new free trade deals look set to increase the export boom even further. A new Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) with the UAE entered into force in August, while New Zealand has also concluded negotiations on a wider free trade agreement (FTA) with the six-country Gulf Cooperation Council grouping. "The CEPA deal with the United Arab Emirates is significant in its own right, because it gives New Zealand exporters virtually unlimited access to hotels and restaurants in the UAE's key tourist and business hubs of Dubai and Abu Dhabi. "The broader GCC FTA will expand this reach to the entire Gulf market. This includes lucrative Saudi Arabia, which has more than 35 million people and is embarking on ambitious economic growth plans under Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman's 'Vision 2030' blueprint. Beyond trade, the study also found that New Zealand's links with the Gulf are deepening in other areas such as aviation, education and defence.

New Delhi has vowed to end the decades-long insurgency entirely by March 31, 2026, with Tuesday's killing marking the latest in a series of reported victories against the shrinking rebel force. Senior police officer Mahesh Chandra Laddha told reporters that Madvi Hidma, a top Maoist commander, his wife Raje, and four other fighters were "killed in an encounter with police" in Andhra Pradesh state. Laddha called Hidma the "most dreaded Maoist commander", who had a bounty of 10 million rupees (around $110,000) on his head. Police also seized assault rifles, pistols and explosives. Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) hailed the operation, noting that Hidma had masterminded the April 2010 ambush in Dantewada, Chhattisgarh, that killed 76 security personnel -- one of the worst massacres in India's recent history.

US lawmakers set for explosive vote on Epstein files

AFP | Washington, United States

US lawmakers are expected to vote Tuesday for the release of government records on sex offender Jeffrey Epstein, in defiance of President Donald Trump's attempts to keep a lid on one of the country's most notorious scandals. After months of resistance, behind-the-scenes pressure and frenzied lobbying against making the material public, Trump threw in the towel on Sunday as it became clear that much of the Republican Party in Congress was poised to defy him.

The House of Representatives now looks all but certain to approve -- perhaps even unanimously -- the Epstein Files Transparency Act compelling publication of unclassified documents detailing the investigation into the disgraced financier's operations and 2019 death in custody, ruled a suicide.

Lawmakers say the public deserves answers in a case with over 1,000 alleged victims.

Trump says the files will expose powerful Democrats' connections to Epstein, but the Republican president himself faces uncomfortable scrutiny over his years-long friendship with the man alleged to have supplied rich and influential men with underage women.

Killing the bill in the Senate after a lopsided House vote would be awkward to defend, and Trump has pledged not to veto the legislation if it reaches his desk.

But expectations of damning new revelations could prove premature.

The Justice Department has wide latitude hold back any information if release "would jeopardize an active federal investigation" and Trump ordered officials in a widely criticized intervention last week to probe Epstein's ties with high-profile Democrats.

The saga has exposed rare fissures in support for the Republican leader, who campaigned on releasing the files but changed course after taking office, accusing Democrats of pushing a "hoax."

After multiple attempts by Republican leaders to block the vote, all Democrats and four Republicans signed a "discharge petition" -- an extraordinary procedure forcing the bill to the House floor.

Israel yesterday hailed Donald Trump's Gaza peace plan after its endorsement by the UN Security Council, as Hamas rejected the resolution which calls for the deployment of an international force in the Palestinian territory.

The United Nations Security Council voted Monday in favour of a US-drafted resolution bolstering President Trump's plan for the Gaza Strip -- which has allowed a fragile ceasefire to hold between Israel and Hamas since October 10.

The peace plan notably authorises the creation of an international force that would work with Israel and Egypt and newly-trained Palestinian police to help secure border areas and demilitarise Gaza.

Following the vote, Palestinians living in Gaza embraced a chance for life to improve, but had little faith that Israel would comply.

Trump posted on social media that the vote "acknowledging and endorsing the BOARD OF PEACE, which will be chaired by me...will go down as one of the biggest approvals in the History of the United Nations, (and) will lead to further Peace all over the World."

Hamas says UN Gaza resolution does not meet Palestinians' rights

Gaza City, Palestinian Territories

Gaza's Hamas rulers said they rejected Monday's UN resolution which calls for an international force to be deployed in the territory, saying it fails to respect the "demands and rights" of the Palestinians. "This resolution does not meet the level of our Palestinian people's political and humanitarian demands and rights," the Islamist militant group said in a statement.

The statement also decried the establishment of an international force whose "mission includes the disarmament" of Palestinian groups in Gaza.

"The resolution imposes an international trusteeship on the Gaza Strip, which our people, its forces, and its constituent groups reject," the statement continued.

"Any international decision that benefits the Palestinians now is welcome. The important thing is that the war ends," said

39-year-old Saeb Al-Hassanat, who lives in a school sheltering displaced people in central Gaza. "It doesn't matter who rules us. We welcome international administration of Gaza," he told AFP, but added that "without strong pressure from the US, Israel will not comply with any decision, and the Security Council resolution will remain worthless."

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's office hailed Trump's plan on Tuesday, saying it would lead to "peace and prosperity because it insists upon full demilitarisation, disarmament and the deradicalisation of Gaza."

On X, Netanyahu's office said the plan would also "lead to further integration of Israel and its neighbours as well as expansion of Abraham Accords," under which a few Arab countries have normalised ties with Israel.

There were 13 votes in favour of the text and none against, with Russia and China both abstaining but not deploying their veto as permanent members.

"Peace all over the world"

Trump posted on social media that the vote would lead to "further peace all over the world."

But Hamas, which is excluded by the resolution from any governance role in Gaza, said it did not meet Palestinians' "political and humanitarian demands and rights".

In a statement, the Islamist militant group decried the establishment of an international force and said the resolution imposes "an international trusteeship on the Gaza Strip, which our people, its forces, and its constituent groups reject".

The peace plan authorises the creation of an International Stabilisation Force that is mandated to work on the "permanent decommissioning of weapons from non-state armed groups", protecting civilians and securing humanitarian aid corridors.

Saudi Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman received a red carpet welcome from President Donald Trump yesterday.

Trump laid on a noisy military flypast featuring F-35 stealth fighters that Washington will sell to Riyadh as the de facto Saudi ruler arrived at the White House.

Trump said he would sell coveted F-35 stealth fighters to Saudi Arabia, calling it a "great ally."

The move comes despite concerns from Israel and warnings from US officials that China could steal technological knowledge about the jets.

In another area of past contention, Trump will sign a deal on a framework for civilian nuclear cooperation, a US official and a source familiar with the negotiations said.

'Honoring Saudi Arabia'

The 40-year-old prince has fostered close ties with Trump and his family over the years -- a relationship burnished by a lavish welcome and $600 billion in investment pledges when the president visited Saudi Arabia

Saudi Arabia is also expected to announce a "multi-billion dollar investment" in AI infrastructure in the United States on Tuesday, the US official added.

"We're more than meeting," Trump told reporters on Air Force One on Friday when asked about the visit. "We're honoring Saudi Arabia, the Crown Prince."

Trump will host the prince in the Oval Office, while later in the day First Lady Melania will hold a gala dinner.

Along with the F-35 jets, Riyadh is seeking to buy advanced air and missile defense systems. It will also push hard for access to the high-tech chips it needs to fuel its AI ambitions, experts said.

First draft of climate pact lands at COP30 in Brazil

- The draft includes a sweep of options on the most difficult issues, reflecting the gulf between the nearly 200 nations
- The text leaves open a wide range of possibilities on the flashpoint issues in Belem

AFP | Belem, Brazil

COP30 hosts Brazil yesterday produced a first draft of an agreement between nations at the UN climate talks after negotiations on the sticking points stretched late into the night.

The draft includes a sweep of options on the most difficult issues, reflecting the gulf between the nearly 200 nations in Belem and the work still ahead to refine a final compromise.

The nine-page "Global Mutirao" document -- a reference to an Indigenous concept of uniting toward a common goal -- came after Brazil on Monday urged delegates to work day and night to produce an agreement by midweek.

The text leaves open a wide range of possibilities on the flashpoint issues in Belem --

People walk past an installation by Brazilian artist Mundano, made for Greenpeace with ashes from Amazon forest fires, during the COP30 UN Climate Change Conference in Belem, Para state, Brazil, trade measures, finance for poorer nations, and the global inadequacy of carbon-cutting goals.

But the quick turnaround of a draft on these thorny points suggested the COP30 presidency was confident it could soon have an outcome, observers said.

"It represents a steady progression from the previous iteration and is likely one of the earliest releases of such a clean text in recent COP history," said Li Shuo, a climate analyst at the Asia Society Policy Institute.

The draft reflects the stark division between a coalition wanting a "roadmap" on a fossil fuel phaseout, and a bloc led by oil-producing countries opposing any such effort.

It proposes an optional "workshop" to discuss "low carbon solutions," or a high-level ministerial roundtable on pathways to help countries "progressively overcome their dependency on fossil fuels." A third option proposes no text at all.

The draft also raises the possibility of assessing national climate pledges annually, instead of every five years, to assess global progress in reducing greenhouse gas emissions more frequently.

It also suggested financial assistance from wealthy countries to developing ones for adaptation to climate change should be tripled by 2030 or 2035 -- a key demand from poorer nations.

Proposals to address concerns over trade were also included, as China leads a push in Belem against "unilateral" measures and the EU's carbon price on imports in particular.

On this sensitive issue, four proposals were outlined in the draft, including the creation of a summit under the UN Secretary-General on climate trade disputes.

The marathon climate talks are supposed to end Friday after close to two weeks of negotiation, but they frequently run into overtime.

What are the pitfalls for UK's asylum system overhaul

AFP | London, United Kingdom

The UK government has unveiled unprecedented changes to its asylum system in a bid to deter irregular migration and make deportations easier.

How long will it take to implement the measures, will there be any obstacles, and could the proposals be effective in discouraging small boat crossings, which successive governments have failed to curb?

What is the timeline?

The policy paper titled "Restoring Order and Control" was announced on Monday by interior minister Shabana Mahmood, who told lawmakers the reforms would discourage migrants from crossing the Channel from France on small boats.

Many of the changes will need to be introduced as new legislation and be approved by parliament, where Prime Minister Keir Starmer's Labour party holds a significant majority.

The interior ministry has said it will end its legal obligation to provide support to asylum seekers "in the coming months".

Other changes -- including increasing the time refugees must wait before applying for permanent residency from five to 20 years -- will be subject to a public consultation before the legislation applying them is drafted, meaning they could take longer to implement.

A consultation will also be launched on plans to deport families, including children, who are refused asylum.

"For a lot of these important details, the government has said they will consult in the future, or they will announce next year exactly what's going to happen," Mihnea Cuibus, researcher at the University of Oxford's Migration Observatory, told AFP.

"Some things are still very much in the air," said Cuibus.

What hurdles could it face?

One of the most contentious proposals -- modelled on Denmark's strict asylum system -- is making refugee status temporary.

Refugees will have their status reviewed every 30 months, and be forced to leave if their home country is deemed "safe".

Critics have said this could be costly and slow down the interior ministry, known as the Home Office, which is already struggling to process a backlog of asylum applications and appeals.

The government will also have to balance its stricter policies with constitutional safeguards.

It has said it will introduce other legal pathways for asylum seekers, including for vulnerable groups like unaccompanied children and families with children.

But it will face questions about plans to deport families and children who are deemed ineligible for asylum or once their home countries are considered safe, as well as moves to end automatic family reunions.

There are also concerns that ending guaranteed benefits for asylum seekers could clash with core legal obligations to support children in need.

Cuibus said it was still "early" to understand how vulnerable groups will be affected.

"Often times, even in policies that are quite strict, we do tend to see potential exemptions for vulnerable groups."

Policies could face legal challenges, and they will be debated in parliament, where some left-wing Labour MPs and the leftist Greens have expressed discontent.

But the centre-right Conservative opposition indicated it could back the proposals, while the head of policy of the hard-right Reform UK party said "rhetorically, we would agree with a lot of what the home secretary said."

Will it be effective?

Charities have warned the policy revamp will not deter people, many fleeing conflict, from making the crossings, with rising numbers risking the perilous journey.

The government insists it will make the UK less desirable for migrants, and policies like allowing asylum claimants only one appeal will fast-track deportations of those whose claims are rejected.

It will also legislate to require courts to only consider "immediate family" when deportations are challenged under the right to family life.

However, commentators point out that this is already largely the case.

The interior ministry threatened to stop granting visas to nationals from Angola, Namibia and the Democratic Republic of Congo unless they accepted the returns of "their criminals and illegal immigrants".

"The imposition of visa penalties on one country will send a message to all," the policy paper states.

According to analysis by the PA news agency, only 14 nationals from the targeted countries entered the UK illegally in the year to June 2025 -- around 0.02 percent of the total number of irregular migrants who arrived.

Bahrain storm into handball semis

Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

Bahrain's men's handball team bounced back in emphatic fashion yesterday, claiming a 33-21 win over Iraq at the Olympic Complex's Green Hall to secure a place in the semi-finals of the sixth Islamic Solidarity Games. After their opening loss to Saudi Arabia, Bahrain showed no signs of rust, delivering a disciplined and high-tempo performance from the first whistle.

The match started evenly, with Iraq opening the scoring through Ali Haddawee before Jaffar Farsan responded for Bahrain. The teams traded goals in the early minutes, but Salman Alshowaikh quickly took command for the Bahrainis, scoring four of the side's first seven goals. Ahmed Kadhem and Mohamed Rabia added precision finishing from the 6m line, while Hasan Ali and Hasan Alsamahiji contributed key strikes to maintain a steady lead.

By halftime, Bahrain had established a comfortable 17-12 advantage, built on fast-break efficiency and patient set-play execution. Alshowaikh's finishing from the wing, combined with Kadhem's clinical penalties, allowed Bahrain to control the pace and momentum. Goalkeeper contributions were critical as well, with the Bahrainis converting turnovers into points while limiting Iraq's scoring opportunities.

The second half saw Bahrain extend their lead decisively. Mohamed Mohamed turned in a dominant display, scoring four times to break the game open, while Jasim Khamis and Abdulla Abdulkarim added timely goals to keep Iraq at bay. Despite a late flurry from Iraq's Bader-aldeen Naser and Al-tameemi duo, Bahrain's composure never wavered, finishing 33-21 in a dominant performance.

Alshowaikh topped the scoring with eight goals, Kadhem added seven, and Mohamed Rabia contributed three. Hasan Ali and Hasan Alsamahiji chipped in with crucial support, while the team's defensive structure and fast-break execution made the difference.

With this win, Bahrain set up a semi-final match against Qatar today at 3:30 PM, aiming to maintain momentum and book a spot in the final. In the other semi-final, hosts Saudi Arabia face the UAE at 6:15 PM. The women's bronze medal match is scheduled for tomorrow at 12 PM, followed by the men's at 2:45 PM. Friday will feature the gold medal finals, with the women's at 1:30 PM and the men's at 4 PM. All matches will be held at the Olympic Complex's Green Hall.

A Golden Moment for Track Titans

Adekoya, Yavi, Balew and Odiong Fire Bahrain to Quadruple Athletics Gold

Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

Bahrain enjoyed a golden evening on the track last night as Oluwakemi Adekoya, Winfred Yavi, Birhanu Balew, and Edidiong Odiong each stormed to victory. Adekoya claimed gold in the women's 400m hurdles, Yavi dominated the 3000m steeplechase, Balew powered through to win the men's 10,000m, and Odiong sprinted to triumph in the women's 100m at Prince Faisal bin Fahad Stadium as the sixth Islamic Solidarity Games athletics programme built toward its climax.

Adekoya struck first, producing a masterclass in control and execution to win the 400m hurdles in 56.33. Ranked No. 17 in the world and one of Asia's most decorated hurdlers, she ran with total authority: smooth over the early barriers, composed through the back straight, and extending her lead with every stride. By the final hurdle, the race belonged entirely to her. Her gold adds to an illustrious career that includes a World Indoor Championships title, six Asian Games crowns, an Asian Championships victory, and a

Balew runs with Abdikani Hamid in 10,000m pack

World Championships top-eight finish. At 32, Adekoya continues to represent Bahrain with podium consistency.

Minutes later, Yavi, already an Olympic champion, world champion, Diamond League winner, and currently ranked No. 2 globally in the steeplechase, delivered an equally dominant performance. The 25-year-old surged to the front early and never relinquished control, storming to gold in 9:40.65 with a display that showed both her strength over the barriers and her ability to accelerate through the final laps. Turkey's Tugba Guvenc Yenigun claimed silver in 9:57.05, while Morocco's Ikram Ouazziz secured bronze in 10:00.55. Uzbekistan's Dilshoda Usmonova followed in fourth.

Closing the evening's distance events, 29-year-old Birhanu Balew powered to gold in the men's 10,000m, crossing the line in a photo-finish 29:06.58 ahead of Uganda's Samuel Simba Cherop, who recorded the same time. Fellow Ugandan Abel Chebet claimed bronze in 29:07.63, while Bahrain's Abdikani Hamid ran strongly to sixth in 29:17.35.

Bahrain's Rooba Alomari delivered a composed, six-round series to win gold in the Para Women's F55/56 shot put final yesterday at the sixth Islamic Solidarity Games in Riyadh.

Competing in the morning session at Prince Faisal bin Fahad Stadium, Alomari steadily built her rhythm before producing the decisive throw of 7.39 metres in the fifth round. The mark proved just enough to hold off Nigeria's Ogochukwu Modesta Ogili, who closed the gap with a 7.35m effort in the third round but could not surpass the Bahraini in the final attempts.

Saudi Arabia's Nadha Alhumaydani claimed bronze with a best of 6.13m, followed by Kyrgyzstan's Adina Samyibek Kyzy in fourth with 5.38m. Algeria's Nadia Medjemedj and Ouafaa Rouabhia did not start the event.

Alomari's victory adds another medal to Bahrain's growing tally in Riyadh, reinforcing their presence across the athletics and para athletics programme as the Games enter their final days.

Excitement was renewed at the Rashid Equestrian and Horse Racing Club on Friday, November 21st, for the fourth race meeting of the 2025/2026 season. Following the successful running of the seventh edition of the Bahrain International Cup, this meeting promised special thrills, highlighted by the continued sponsorship of the Bahrain Bourse Cups for the second consecutive season.

The event witnessed the largest participation so far this season, with 104 horses submitting final entries across the card. This high volume of competition was spread across nine races, with most of the contests centered on securing the prestigious Bahrain Stock Exchange Cups.

The first race was the Bahrain Stock Exchange Cup for Purebred Arabian Horses (WAHO) over 1200 meters, featuring a field of 12 runners, including notable names such as Al-Ma'naqi 1923 and Kuhailan Weld Umm Zurair 1959. This was immediately followed by the BHB Opening Bell Cup for locally bred horses over 1400 meters, featuring 11 contenders including Shard and Azz Al Bahrain.

Attention then shifted to the imported field in the third race, the Capital Markets Cup, a 1400-meter contest for Class 4 and maiden horses, featuring 11 runners. The speedsters vied for the Bahrain Stock Exchange Sprint Cup, a fiercely contested 1000-meter dash for locally bred horses, which saw 12 entrants including The Blue Lady and Bat Mobile.

Mid-card featured two key middle-distance contests for imported horses: the Bahrain Stock Exchange Handicap Cup over 2000 meters and the Bahrain Stock Exchange Mile Cup over 1600 meters. Later, the seventh race, the Bahrain Stock Exchange Cup for locally bred Class 4 and maiden horses, was heavily subscribed with 17 participants over 1600 meters.

The penultimate race was the Bahrain Stock Exchange Apprentice Jockeys Cup for locally bred horses, also over 1600 meters. The meeting then culminated with the BHB Closing Bell Cup, the ninth and final race of the day, contested by locally bred horses over the demanding distance of 2200 meters.

The women’s 400 metres took centre stage at the sixth Islamic Solidarity Games in Riyadh as athletics continued at Prince Faisal bin Fahad Stadium. Bahrain’s Salwa Eid Naser comfortably advanced through the opening round, securing her place in tonight’s final.

Naser, the reigning Asian record holder and one of the event’s most decorated athletes with a world title, an Olympic silver, and multiple Diamond League crowns, controlled Heat 1 from the gun. She crossed in 52.13 seconds, establishing a clear lead over Nigeria’s Patience Okon George (52.91) and Morocco’s Salma Lehlali (53.26), both of whom also advanced.

The second heat produced similarly quick times, led by Uganda’s Leni Shida in 52.47 and Morocco’s Houda Nouiri, who posted a personal best of 52.72. Bahrain’s Zenab Mahamat finished in 53.85, outside the qualification spots in a tightly contested field.

With the preliminary round completed, attention now turns to tonight’s final, where Naser will start from lane six. She will face Shida, Nouiri, Okon George, Guyana’s Aliyah Abrams and the rest of the qualifiers in what is expected to be one of the marquee races of the athletics programme.
