AFP | Dubai

Dubai police yesterday urged residents to stay indoors unless it was “absolutely necessary” as heavy rainfall was expected in the emirates which saw record downpours last year. The warning came hours after rainfall in the Emirati city caused flooding in streets.

“For your safety, please remain cautious as unstable weather conditions are expected in the coming hours, and avoid going out unless it is absolutely necessary until midday on Friday,” said a police alert sent to residents’ phones.

The National Center of Meteorology (NCM) in the UAE warned of rainfall across the country from yesterday to today, including in Dubai and the capital Abu Dhabi.

Other Gulf states also experienced heavy rain yesterday, including Saudi Arabia and Qatar where the downpour caused an Arab Cup match to be cancelled.

Last year in April, record rains lashed the UAE, flooding homes and transforming streets into rivers.

Shura Council set to ratify milestone Bahrain-Kyrgyz air services agreement on Sunday

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A Bahrain-Kyrgyz air services deal signed in Manama on 21 April 2025 goes before the Shura Council on Sunday, with a vote due on the bill needed to bring it into force.

Members will consider a draft law to ratify the agreement between the Government of the Kingdom of Bahrain and the Council of Ministers of the Kyrgyz Republic on air services, attached to Decree No. 35 of 2025. The Shura Council's Foreign Affairs, Defence and National Security Committee has advised backing the bill.

It said the text does not conflict with the Constitution and must be issued by law to take effect in Bahrain under the second paragraph of Article 37.

Preamble

The draft law has a preamble and two articles. The first provides for ratification of the agreement; the second is an implementing provision.

The agreement itself runs to a preamble, 27 articles and an annex that lists the routes to be served by carriers named by both sides.

The committee said the text grants standard traffic rights, including overflight and the right to stop in the other party's territory for non-commercial purposes.

It gives each side the right to name air transport enterprises to operate the agreed services, and to grant operating authorisations under stated conditions.

Pricing is addressed through fare rules that allow designated airlines to set fares on commercial grounds, while reserving limited scope for intervention in defined cases.

Capacity rules provide for fair and equal chances for designated airlines, with services tied to public demand and with enough seats and space for passengers, cargo and mail.

Other provisions apply each country's laws and rules to designated airlines, passengers, crew, baggage, cargo and mail.

The agreement also deals with mutual recognition of airworthiness certificates and licences issued or validated by either side, and sets out cases where a party may refuse recognition, including where documents are issued for its own nationals by the other party or a third state for flights over its territory.

The text includes a clause allowing either side to restrict flights over its territory or landings at its airports on a temporary basis, with immediate effect, during emergencies or for reasons linked to public security.

Safety and security provisions allow either party to seek talks on safety standards relating to crew or aircraft, and describe follow-up steps after checks.

Tax

It also covers customs duty and tax exemptions in line with the Convention on International Civil Aviation, known as the Chicago Convention.

Safety and security provisions allow either party to seek talks on safety standards relating to crew or aircraft, and describe follow-up steps after checks.

The agreement also requires both parties to protect civil aviation from unlawful interference and to act under the treaties and protocols on aviation security to which they are parties, including providing help to prevent unlawful seizure of aircraft and other unlawful acts, and setting procedures for dealing with incidents or threats.

There are clauses on the security of passports and other travel documents, and on dealing with inadmissible, deported and undocumented passengers, with reference to recommended measures under the Chicago Convention.

The agreement also lists conduct that may be treated as unfair competition and sets out a process for aviation authorities to seek consultations and, if needed, take the matter into the dispute process.

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

More than 90,000 students in Bahrain's private schools are covered by a draft law due before the Shura Council on Sunday, after the Services Committee backed the text.

The bill, attached to Decree No. (60) of 2025, would replace the current rules for private educational institutions and separate them from the legal framework that still governs private training institutions.

In its report, the Services Committee said it was asked to study the draft and report back after the Shura Council Chairman, Ali bin Saleh Al Saleh, referred it for review.

The committee recommended approval in principle and supported the articles as submitted.

As described in the report, the draft runs to 36 articles and covers definitions and aims, licensing, management and operation, duties and bans linked to study programmes, the financial system.

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

Airtime for Bahraini culture is being expanded across Bahrain TV, official radio stations and the ministry's digital platforms, the Minister of Information, His Excellency Dr Ramzan Al Nuaimi, has told Parliament in a written reply to Dr Maryam Al Dhaen.

He cited television programmes including 'Shams Al Bahrain' and 'Masa Al Khair', and radio shows such as 'Sabah Al Khair Ya Bahrain', as regular outlets used to feature cultural

Focus on extending MPs' accounts deadline from one to three months

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

The Shura Council will vote on Sunday on a draft law that would give the Council of Representatives three months, instead of one, to submit its audited year-end accounts.

The proposal amends Article 219 of Decree-Law No. 54 of 2002 on the Council of Representatives' rules of procedure.

Under the new wording, the General Secretariat would prepare the Council's final account and submit it, audited, to the Speaker within three months of the end of the financial year.

The Speaker would then refer the audited account to

Dalal Al Zayed, Head of Shura's Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee

the Council's bureau to review it before it is put to the full chamber for discussion and approval.

Shura's Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee said the longer period is intended to match the three-month timeframe used for government bodies' final accounts.

Israel says approved $35 bn gas deal with Egypt

The agreement is with the American company Chevron

Deal raises volume of gas supplied to Egypt to 130 billion cubic metres

AFP | Jerusalem, Undefined

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu said he approved on Wednesday a major gas export deal with Egypt worth nearly $35 billion.

"Today, I approved the largest gas deal in Israel's history. The deal is worth 112 billion shekels ($34.7 billion). Of this total, 58 billion shekels ($18 billion) will go to the state coffers," Netanyahu said during a televised address.

"The agreement is with the American company Chevron, with Israeli partners who will supply gas to Egypt," Netanyahu added.

Energy Minister Eli Cohen, who was present during the address, said it was the "largest export deal in the state's history".

Netanyahu said the money would "strengthen education, healthcare, infrastructure, security, and the future of the next generations", as well as bolster "Israel's status as a regional energy power".

Israeli firm NewMed Energy announced in August the signing of a $35 billion deal to provide Egypt with natural gas.

The deal would increase the total volume of gas supplied to Egypt to 130 billion cubic metres, according to a report published by the firm.

In a statement issued late on Wednesday, NewMed CEO Yossi Abu said it was "a historic day for the natural gas sector, one that guarantees continued investment in Israel and creates regulatory stability for years to come".

But Israeli NGO Movement for Quality Government, which advocates for greater state transparency, said it was "deeply concerned about how the largest gas deal in the country's history was approved".

It called on the government to make the details of the agreement public, and to explain its implications for long-term reserves and consumer prices.

News in brief

yesterday stopped protesters from marching towards an Indian diplomatic mission, a day after India's foreign ministry conveyed its concerns over the "deteriorating" security environment in the country. Ties between the two countries have been frosty since former prime minister Sheikh Hasina fled to India following a student-led uprising last year. Dhaka has repeatedly asked for her extradition so that she could stand trial for her alleged crimes, with Delhi responding that it was examining the requests. On Thursday, dozens of demonstrators began marching towards the assistant Indian high commissioner office in Rajshahi district which borders India. Miftahul Jannat, one of the protesters, said the plan was to carry out a sit-in, demanding the "repatriation of all the killers including Sheikh Hasina". The protest was stalled by the police, who said they "listened to their demands and promised to forward them to the authorities".

Germany to take in more than 500 stranded Afghans from Pakistan

◆ The German government said yesterday it would take in 535 Afghans who had been promised refuge in Germany but have been stuck in limbo in Pakistan. Interior Minister Alexander Dobrindt told the RND media network Berlin wanted to complete the processing of the cases "in December, as far as possible" to allow them to enter Germany. The Afghans were accepted under a refugee scheme set up by the previous German government, but have been stuck in Pakistan since conservative Chancellor Friedrich Merz took office in May and froze the programme. Those on the scheme either worked with German armed forces in Afghanistan during the war against the Taliban, or were judged to be at particular risk from the Taliban after its return to power in 2021 -- for example, rights activists and journalists, as well as their families.

◆ Members of ousted Nepali prime minister KP Sharma Oli's political party voted for him to retain leadership of the organisation yesterday, meaning he will oversee its preparations for national elections next year. Members of the Communist Party of Nepal - Unified Marxist Leninist (CPN-UML) cast their ballots during a two-day general convention in the capital Kathmandu, which Oli won by a landslide. The 73-year-old political veteran's success comes after he stepped down as prime minister during a September youth-led uprising that toppled his government. Nepal will hold elections in March with a caretaker administration running the country in the meantime. Oli bagged nearly three times more votes than his nearest competitor, Ishwar Pokhrel, securing 1,663 votes compared to Pokhrel's 564, Rajendra Gautam, the head of the party's publicity department, told AFP.

Oscars to stream exclusively on YouTube from 2029

AFP | Los Angeles, United States

The Oscars will be shown only on YouTube from 2029, the Academy said Wednesday, in a radical gambit for a movie industry that remains wary of streaming platforms even as viewing habits shift online.

The new five-year deal means Hollywood's most prestigious awards ceremony will be viewable exclusively online for the first time, ending a decades-long relationship with US broadcaster ABC.

The decision will allow the Academy Awards to reach "the largest worldwide audience possible -- which will be beneficial for our Academy members and the film community," said Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences CEO Bill Kramer and President Lynette Howell Taylor in a statement.

The annual Oscars, which celebrate the year's top achievements in film and draw the world's biggest A-list stars, are regularly watched by around 20 million Americans, and millions more globally.

ABC's latest contract to broadcast the show had been due to end in 2028, with the 100th Academy Awards. The Disney-owned channel will continue to air the Oscars up until then.

But the new deal with Google-owned YouTube represents a bold new direction for the show at a time when audiences increasingly watch all types of content online.

Streamers owned by Silicon Valley firms have lured top talent away from traditional Hollywood studios with massive contracts -- despite filmmakers' concerns that they rarely show movies on the big screen in theaters for extended runs. Streamers have also gradually gained wider acceptance at the Academy Awards, where Apple won best picture for "CODA" in 2022.

The SAG Awards, another important Hollywood awards gala which recently rebranded as The Actors Awards, have already moved to Netflix.

Financial terms of the new Oscars deal were not disclosed.

Industry website Deadline said "the amount that YouTube was willing to pay didn't make sense for Disney," citing anonymous insiders.

Russian nuclear-capable missile Oreshnik deployed in Belarus

AFP | Moscow, Russia

Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko said on Thursday that a newly developed Russian hypersonic, nuclear-capable missile known as the "Oreshnik" had been deployed in Belarus.

Russia unveiled the weapon last year after using it to strike the Ukrainian city of Dnipro, in an escalation during the conflict, now nearing its fourth anniversary. Moscow had already deployed tactical nuclear weapons in Belarus in 2023 and said it could station Oreshnik there by the end of 2025. "Oreshnik has been in Belarus since yesterday. And it's going on combat duty," Lukashenko said in his annual speech.

Belarus, a former Soviet republic, is a key Russian ally. Moscow used Belarusian territory to launch its offensive against Ukraine in February 2022.

In August, Minsk said it would practice the deployment of Oreshnik missiles during the joint Zapad-2025 ("West-2025") drills close to the EU and NATO's eastern flank border.

US imposes sanctions on two more ICC judges for investigating Israel

US, Qatar, Turkey, Egypt to hold Gaza talks in Miami on Friday: official

Washington, United States

US President Donald Trump's global envoy Steve Witkoff will meet officials from Qatar, Egypt and Turkey in Miami today to discuss the next phase of the Gaza truce, a White House official told AFP.

Progress has so far been slow in moving to the second stage of October's deal, under which Israel is to withdraw from its positions, an interim authority is to govern Gaza instead of Hamas, and an international stabilization force is to be deployed.

German man jailed for life over carnival car-ramming

He had been suffering from a mental illness

Police have cordoned off the scene of car ramming attack in Mannheim, southwestern Germany on March 3, 2025.

AFP | Berlin, Germany

A German man received a life sentence and was ordered into psychiatric care yesterday for ploughing his car through a carnival market, killing two and injuring several more.

The attack in the southwestern city of Mannheim in March struck as visitors flocked to a pedestrian zone lined with food stalls, rides and games.

The defendant, partially named by German media as Alexander S., 40, was found guilty of two counts of murder and six counts of attempted murder, Joachim Bock, presiding judge at the Mannheim Regional Court, told AFP.

Prosecutors earlier said Alexander S. had been "suffering from a mental illness for many years" and called for him to be placed in a psychiatric facility.

They accused him of driving his black Ford at speeds of up to 80 kilometres per hour (50 mph) through the crowds with the intention of "killing an unspecified number of pedestrians".

Investigations had "not revealed any evidence of a political motive", they said.

An 83-year-old woman and a 54-year-old man were killed in the car rampage.

When a taxi driver blocked the driver's path, Alexander S. allegedly fired a shot into the air from a blank-firing pistol and fled on foot.

As police approached to arrest him, he then shot himself in the mouth with the apparent aim of suicide, prosecutors said.

The Mannheim attack was one of three car-rammings that shocked Germany in the space of a few months.

In 2025, vehicle-ramming incidents continued to occur worldwide, with at least 14 attacks recorded that year alone, causing 50 or more deaths and injuries in crowded public spaces -- and while some were linked to terrorism, most were driven by a mix of motives including personal grievances and mental health issues.

AFP | Colombo, Sri Lanka

Sri Lankan police arrested three men yesterday on charges of cruelty to animals after a viral video showed them setting a wild elephant on fire.

Police said the suspects, aged between 42 and 50, were taken into custody in the north-central district of Anuradhapura, about 200 kilometres (125 miles) north of Colombo.

They were placed on remand until December 24 pending further investigations into the incident, which sparked widespread revulsion after the footage was shared on social media.

Wildlife officials said the animal had first been shot and wounded before being set alight, and that veterinary surgeons' attempts to save its life failed. Elephants are considered sacred in Sri Lanka and are protected by law, but farmers and residents in remote villages sometimes attack wild elephants that destroy crops. Elephants are protected under Sri Lankan law and poachers can face the death penalty for killing one. However, the country has not carried out an execution since 1976 and the death penalty is automatically commuted to life imprisonment.

Escalating human-elephant conflict has claimed around 400 elephant and 200 human lives annually over the past five years.

Sri Lanka has an estimated 7,000 wild elephants, regarded as a national treasure in part because of their importance in Buddhist culture.

Have Iran's authorities given up on the mandatory hijab?

AFP | Paris, France

Women swaying to dance music at a DJ set, strolling without headscarves through cutting-edge art exhibitions and in coffee shops showing off trendy styles that could have come from the streets of Europe.

Until recently, such scenes would have been unthinkable in the Islamic Republic of Iran, whose strict dress code for women has required they wear the hijab in public since shortly after the 1979 revolution that ousted the pro-Western shah.

But while casually flouting the rule has become increasingly common, Iran's leadership insists the hijab is a legal obligation and is implementing a crackdown that has seen dissident figures who oppose the mandatory headscarf detained.

The tension has come at a critical moment for the clerical establishment, still recovering from the recent 12-day war with Israel and with supreme leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei now 86.

The 2022-2023 nationwide protests, sparked by the custody death of Mahsa Amini who was arrested over alleged improper hijab, are still a recent memory.

Analysts and activists say authorities in recent months have indeed slackened off on imposing the mandatory hijab in daily life, but are far from abandoning an ideological pillar of the Islamic republic, warning a new wave of repression to re-impose it could come at any time.

Roya Boroumand, cofounder and executive director of the US-based Abdorrahman Boroumand Center for Human Rights in Iran, said it was "heartwarming" to see images of women without the headscarf, calling it the result of social pressure from below rather than "a reform granted from above".

"What we see today is unquestionably the result of years of persistent civil disobedience by Iranian women and girls who have fought to carve out and defend a small space of freedom in public life," she told AFP.

Women sporting braids, curls and even bleach-blond locks have now become common sights in public, while more traditional women wear the hijab or chador.

The trend, which has grown more visible in recent months in Tehran and other major cities, now extends to all generations to varying degrees.

Some women are also sporting tighter clothing and outfits that expose their shoulders, legs and midriffs, much to the dismay of conservatives who decry such "nudity" in public.

Hard to 'put the genie back'

Boroumand

Iranian women Elham (2nd L), Leila and Mona, pose next to their instructor Maryam Ghelich (behind) as they sit on their motorbikes at a motorbike training center, in northern Tehran were bareheaded, brandishing scarves of the home team.

Even the office of Khamenei, in power since 1989, came under fire last month from some ultraconservatives after it published in its newspaper a photo of Iranian woman Niloufar Ghalehvand, a pilates instructor killed during the Israeli attacks, wearing a baseball cap rather than hijab.

A design week exhibition at Tehran University saw bareheaded women mingling freely amid boldly experimental art exhibits.

But it closed down early after objections from clerics in a sign of the authorities' readiness to hit back.

said enforcement of the mandatory hijab varied across the country and that authorities were still closing down businesses deemed to have failed to enforce the rule.

Authorities earlier this month arrested two people who organised a marathon event on Iran's Gulf island of Kish, viral images of which showed dozens of women running bareheaded through the streets. They also shut down a cafe that served as the start and finish point.

Arash Azizi, a postdoctoral associate and lecturer at Yale University, told AFP that "the regime has given up on harshly enforcing mandatory hijab but it has not at all given up on it as a principle yet".

"It would be a grand ideological concession that it is not prepared to make. We still see places closed down and even people fined and arrested due to lax hijab. But the regime knows that it will be very difficult to put the genie back in the bottle."

Other recent incidents have also gone viral on social media: the grand opening of a mall in Tehran, for instance, saw young people dancing and swinging their arms to a DJ's beats.

And a match this month in Iran's second football division was unusual not just for the presence of women -- albeit in a segregated area of the stadium -- but for the fact that many

Iran has a mandatory hijab law that requires women and girls to cover their hair and dress modestly in public, and although enforcement has fluctuated, the legal requirement remains in the country's penal code and authorities have increased penalties and surveillance to enforce compliance.

Israel to open embassy in Fiji next year

Jerusalem, Undefined

Israel said Thursday it plans to open an embassy in Fiji next year, after the Pacific island nation inaugurated its mission in Jerusalem in September.

"Just spoke with the PM and FM of Fiji... I informed the PM of my decision to open an Israeli embassy in Fiji in 2026," Israeli Foreign Minister Gideon Saar posted on X, referring to Fijian premier Sitiveni Rabuka.

"Opening the new embassy will tighten the relations between the two countries... at the same time, Israel's embassy in Fiji will strengthen Israel's presence in the entire Pacific region, which is friendly to Israel."

Rabuka inaugurated Fiji's mission in Jerusalem in September, joining a small group of nations that have opened their embassies in the city, alongside the United States, Guatemala, Honduras, Kosovo, Paraguay and Papua New Guinea.

EU kicks off crunch summit on Russian asset plan

Brussels, Belgium

EU leaders kicked off a make-or-break summit Thursday on using frozen Russian assets to fund Ukraine, with key player Belgium under pressure to drop its opposition.

The 27-nation bloc is scrambling to bolster its ally Ukraine, as US President Donald Trump pushes for a deal with President Vladimir Putin to end the fighting. Officials have insisted the talks will last as long as it takes to hammer out an agreement, saying both Ukraine's survival -- nearly four years into the war -- and Europe's credibility are at stake. "We will not leave the European summit without a solution for the funding of Ukraine," European Commission head Ursula von der Leyen said.

France catches second escapee in bedsheet prison break

AFP | Lyon, France

French police yesterday caught the second inmate who escaped from prison in late November by sawing through cell bars and using bedsheets, sources close to the case told AFP.

The 19-year-old escapee, suspected in a drug-linked attempted murder case, was found in the southern port city of Marseille after Interpol issued a red notice for him, two sources close to the case told AFP, speaking on condition of anonymity.

He and another detainee had fled an overcrowded jail in the eastern city of Dijon after sawing through their cell bars with blades that investigators suspect

A police officer from the BST 14 Brigade, specialised in drug trafficking, walks through Les Rosiers housing project, in the northern districts of Marseille, southern France were delivered by drone.

Police tracked down the Marseille native some 500 kilometres (310 miles) south of the prison to a run-down apartment complex in the north of the city, known to be a drug-dealing hotspot.

His fellow fugitive, a 32-year-old man accused of violence against a partner, was arrested a day after their escape, when police officers swooped down on a village bar where he was sipping coffee.

The Dijon public prosecutor's office confirmed Thursday's arrest to AFP, without offering further details.

'Old-fashioned' blades

Guards noticed the two men had fled from the Dijon prison before dawn.

The 32-year-old man had left a message in his cell, saying he had been held for "too long", according to Dijon's public prosecutor, Olivier Caracotch. It was not immediately clear for how long he had been held.

Union official Ahmed Saih, who represents prison officers at the jail, told AFP shortly after the breakout that the inmates used "old-fashioned, manual saw blades", and that several such blades had been found previously. The saws were likely delivered by drones, Caracotch said following the escape, with several individuals already sentenced over drone deliveries to the same jail.

KMCC Bahrain's 'Eid-ul-Watan' mega blood donation camp sets record participation

In a remarkable tribute to the Kingdom on its 54th National Day, KMCC Bahrain organized the 'Eid-ul-Watan' Mega Blood Donation Camp, achieving a historic turnout. Held at the Salmaniya Medical Complex under the theme "Life-giving Blood as a Gift to the Nation that Provides for Us," more than 200 people voluntarily donated blood, including a significant participation of over 25 women. ## Bahrain Fortuner Club marks National Day with "Dragon Rock" clean-up drive

The Bahrain Fortuner Club, a growing community of automotive enthusiasts, celebrated the kingdom's National Day through a meaningful environmental initiative at Dragon Rock. In a departure from traditional rallies, the club's members organized a dedicated clean-up campaign to restore the natural beauty of one of Bahrain's most scenic tourist destinations. During a recent morning drive to the site, club members observed a significant amount of litter affecting the landscape. In the spirit of national service, the team collect more than 30 bags of trash, ensuring the area remains pristine for future visitors. This environmental drive follows the club's previous community effort—a successful blood donation campaign at Salmaniya Medical Complex. Founded in September 2025, the Bahrain Fortuner Club has quickly expanded to 30 active members.

Premier League gallops back into action

Three title races set the Tone as NPL Returns

● Three matches today

Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

The Nasser bin Hamad Premier League returns today after a lengthy pause due to the national team's Arab Cup preparations and participation in Doha. With the last matchday on November 11, teams resume at a crucial stage, where every point counts and the table remains tightly contested. The round kicks off with three matches today. At 4:15pm, Al Hidd will face Al Khaldiya at Bahrain National Stadium. Al Hidd are seventh with 9 points and come off a 3-0 defeat to Muharraq, making a positive result vital. Al Khaldiya, second on 15 points, will look to build on their 2-1 win over Sitra, thanks to quickfire goals from Mehdi Abduljabbar and Gleison Moreira. At the same time, Sitra meet A'ali at Khalifa Sports City Stadium. Sitra sit 6th with 8 points and aim to consoli-

d a t e their place in the top half, while A'ali, 10th on 5 points, hope to bounce back after a heavy 4-1 loss to Al Riffa. Later today at 7 PM, Budaiya face defending champions Muharraq at Shaikh Ali Bin Mohammed Stadium. Budaiya have 9 points, while Muharraq are 3rd with 14, just 1 behind the leaders and with a game in hand. The champions arrive following an overseas training camp, including friendlies against Al Ain and Al Hilal, giving them valuable preparation. Tomorrow, Bahrain SC (bottom with 3 points) will host Al Shabab (5 points) at Bahrain National Stadium at 4:15 PM, followed by Al Riffa (4th with 12 points) facing Al Ahli (5th with 11 points) at Khalifa Sports City Stadium at 7 PM. The round concludes Sunday with Al Najma (9th with 6 points) taking on league leaders Al Malkiya (15 points) at Khalifa Sports City at 7 PM. In the race for individual honors, Juninho of Muharraq and Abdullah Al Hashash of Al Ahli top the scoring charts with 7 goals each. Bakay Walad of Al Hidd has 5, while Mohammed A l Faleh of Malkiya has 3.

Argentina and Spain to meet in Qatar for intercontinental 'Finalissima'

Argentina's forward #10 Lionel Messi celebrates after scoring during the 2026 FIFA World Cup South American qualifiers football match between Argentina and Bolivia at the Mas Monumental stadium in Buenos Aires

Asuncion, Paraguay

Spain, the European champions, and Argentina, the Copa America winners, will compete in the "Finalissima" international super final on March 27 in Qatar, the South American and European football confederations announced yesterday.

The match, which will take place less than three months before the kick-off of the 2026 World Cup in the United States, Mexico and Canada, will be a chance to gauge the form of Argentina, the reigning world champions, and Spain, one of the favourites for the North American tournament.

"The Finalissima celebrates football excellence by bringing together the best of European and South American national team football," said UEFA, the European governing body, on its website.

Argentina won the previous edition of the Finalissima, beating Italy 3-0 with goals from Lautaro Martinez, Angel Di Maria and Paulo Dybala in June 2022 at Wembley Stadium.

Spain currently top the FIFA world rankings ahead of Argentina in second.

One of the main attractions of the match will be the meeting between Argentina's Lionel Messi and Spanish prodigy Lamine Yamal -- the past and present of Barcelona.

The Lusail Stadium will also bring back fond memories for the Argentinians, as it is the stadium where their captain Messi lifted the World Cup trophy three years ago.

At the upcoming World Cup, Spain are in Group H alongside Uruguay, Saudi Arabia and Cape Verde.

Argentina have been drawn in Group J with Algeria, Austria and Jordan.

Australia all out for 371 in 3rd Ashes Test

Adelaide, Australia

Australia added a valuable 45 runs for their remaining two first innings wickets on day two of the third Ashes Test Thursday before being dismissed by England for 371.

The hosts resumed on 326-8 with Mitchell Starc not out 33 and Nathan Lyon yet to score with temperatures soaring towards a forecast 39 Celsius at Adelaide Oval.

Starc plundered five quick boundaries before being bowled by Jofra Archer for 54.

Lyon and Scott Boland then piled on more misery for the tourists in a 23-run last-wicket stand before Lyon was trapped lbw by Archer for nine.

Alex Carey top scored on 106 while a rejuvenated Usman Khawaja hit 82, with Jofra Archer the pick of the attack with 5-53.

Australia lead the five-Test series 2-0 and will retain the Ashes if they win or draw, after back-to-back eight-wicket thumpings in Perth and Brisbane.

Odermatt takes foggy downhill for 50th World Cup win

Val Gardena, Italy

Marco Odermatt secured his 50th World Cup win when he took a fog-hit men's downhill at Val Gardena, Italy yesterday.

The Swiss skier equals Italian Alberto Tomba's World Cup tally. The pair are level fourth in the all-time men's list behind Ingemar Stenmark (86), Marcel Hirscher (67) and Hermann Maier (54).

Mikaela Shiffrin holds the overall record with 105 World Cup wins.

"It's amazing to be on the same number as Alberto now," Odermatt said.

"And doing it here in Italy makes it even more special," he added.

The start of the competition was delayed for an hour and

Winner Switzerland's Marco Odermatt (top R) with Second-placed Switzerland's Franjo von Allmen celebrate with their team on the podium after the men's Downhill replacing Beaver Creek competition, during the FIS Alpine Ski World Cup in Val Gardena half and there was a further fog interruption after just 22 of the 67 competitors had completed their runs.

It took nearly four hours to complete the marathon event.

By that stage the 28-year-old, who won here last year, had already set the quickest time on a Saslong course that had been shortened to the super-G start gate due to tricky, warm conditions and was waiting for confirmation that he had equalled Tomba's tally.

Odermatt's victory comes less than two months from the start of the Milan-Cortina Winter Olympics on February 6.

Dominik Paris completed the podium, 0.19sec behind Odermatt. The Italian will have a chance to repeat his 2023 success in the Dolomites when he goes in Saturday's longer downhill.

Norway's Fredrik Moeller suffered a nasty crash and was evacuated by helicopter to hospital.

World Cup downhill champion for the past two season, Odermatt retains the lead in the discipline standings having won both races this season.

He also leads the overall standings, with more than twice as many points as Norway's Henrik Kristoffersen, as he bids for a fifth successive globe.

Val Gardena hosts a super-G on Friday before the full-length downhill on Saturday.

Thai queen wins SEA Games gold in sailing

Thailand's King Maha Vajiralongkorn presenting the gold medal to Queen Suthida after her victory in the mixed keelboat SSL47 sailing event during the 33rd Southeast Asian Games (SEA Games) at the Ocean marina yacht club in Chonburi province.

AFP | Bangkok, Thailand

The queen of Thailand yesterday won a gold medal in sailing at the Southeast Asian Games, a regional competition being held in her country this month.

Queen Suthida, the wife of King Maha Vajiralongkorn, competed in the mixed keelboat SSL47 category, on a 47-foot (14-metre) sailboat with nine other crew members.

The queen, 47, served as tactician and helmswoman to lead the Thai team to victory in the waters off Pattaya, ahead of Malaysia and Myanmar.

King Vajiralongkorn, 73, presented gold, silver and bronze medals to the winners Thursday evening -- including to Suthida, whom he married in 2019.

Her team, dressed in matching black sailing attire, celebrated earlier aboard their boat with cheers, while one sailor waved the Thai national flag. A communications graduate, Suthida worked as a flight attendant for Thai Airways before embarking on a career in the military.

A keen athlete, she ran a half marathon in 2:13:40 this month in the capital Bangkok alongside Kenyan running legend Eliud Kipchoge.

The queen led the Thai delegation at the opening ceremony of the SEA Games on December 9 in Bangkok.

Suthida is not the first member of the royal family to win gold in sailing.

King Bhumibol Adulyadej, the father of Vajiralongkorn, sailed in the fourth edition of the regional Games, held in Thailand in 1967.

Lions roar to glory

Morocco lift second Arab Cup title

● Frenzied Lusail final leaves Atlas Lions victorious and Jordan devastated

Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

After 18 days of glorious competition, Morocco and Jordan delivered an unforgettable climax in the FIFA Arab Cup 2025 final at Lusail Stadium — and what a spectacle it was. Packed with drama, sensational goals, and moments of pure footballing brilliance, the Atlas Lions came out 3-2 victors in a match that had everything, despite having fielded their second team for the entire tournament as they focused on the upcoming AFCON.

The contest exploded in the 3rd minute when Ousmane Tannane scored a mind-blowing strike from inside his own half, catching Jordan goalkeeper Yazeed Abulaila off his line and giving Morocco an early lead. The impact was immediate as Abulaila collided with the post but continued after treatment. Morocco then also suffered a setback in the 20th minute when El Berkou, their most reliable scorer, was forced off and replaced by Achraf El Mahdoui. Shortly after, Jordan nearly leveled when Mohannad Abu Taha's shot struck a Moroccan defender's arm, but the referee waved away the penalty appeal.

The second half saw a shift in momentum. Jordan equalized in the 47th minute as Ali Olwan powered a towering header from a quickly taken corner. Buoyed by the goal, Jordan pressed relentlessly, and Olwan struck again in the 64th minute to give Jordan a 2-1 lead, securing his Golden Boot for the tournament. Morocco responded in the 83rd minute when Hamed Allah scored from a rebound header following a corner, restoring parity at 2-2.

The dying minutes of regulation time delivered near-misses and controversy. Morocco were denied a late penalty after VAR ruled contact on Hamed Allah insufficient, and Jordan immediately countered, with Olwan narrowly missing a one-on-one chance. As the match entered extra time, Abu Taha unleashed a stunning outside-of-the-boot half-volley, a goal worthy of any occasion. However, after VAR intervention, it was cruelly ruled out for handball.

Morocco struck back in the 105th minute. A free kick from the wing caused chaos, and Marwane Sadane's overhead attempt fell to Hamed Allah, who redirected the ball past Abulaila to make it 3-2. Hamed Allah's brace ultimately decided the final, crowning Morocco champions. Reflecting on the win, Tarik Sektioui praised his players' professionalism, sincerity, and respect for the shirt, saying, "from the very first day, it was always in our eyes that we would lift the cup".

Earlier, the third-place match between Saudi Arabia and the UAE at Khalifa International Stadium was abandoned due to heavy rain after a tense goalless first half, leaving the contest officially 0-0. But it was the main event that truly stole the show. Like the 2022 World Cup final at the same Lusail Stadium, the Arab Cup final was gripping, with dramatic swings, sensational goals, and near-miss moments. Morocco celebrated their second Arab Cup title, while Jordan marked a historic first-ever Arab Cup final appearance.

59 injured in clashes after Colombia football final

Bogotá, Colombia

At least 59 people were injured in clashes between football fans during Colombia's cup final in the city of Medellín on Wednesday night, authorities said.

The unrest broke out at the end of the match which saw Atletico Nacional beat fellow Medellín side, Deportivo Independiente Medellín 1-0.

Images of the rioting shared on social media showed dozens of supporters from both sides invading the pitch in Atanasio Girardot stadium, hurling projectiles.

Riot police were deployed to restore order.

Medellín's security secretary Manuel Villa said 52 fans were treated for injuries.

The police said seven officers were also hurt.

No arrests were reported.

Villa said the authorities were reviewing CCTV images of the disturbances to try identify the perpetrators.

The violence marred celebrations among the 43,000-strong crowd gathered in the stadium.

The ceremony to award Atletico Nacional the Copa Colombia trophy and the players their medals was cancelled due to the unrest.

In Colombia, visiting fans are usually prohibited from attending matches between major teams to prevent incidents.

But Medellín city hall had decided to allow fans of Atletico Nacional -- the visitors in Wednesday's game -- to attend the match, to promote peace in football.

Mayor Federico Gutierrez called those involved in the violence "criminals" and "misfits."

Violence in Colombian football has left at least 150 fans dead since 2008, according to independent investigations.

There are no official figures on the issue.

Ecuadorean footballer Mario Pineida shot and killed

Quito, Ecuador

Ecuadoran footballer Mario Pineida was shot and killed in the port city of Guayaquil on Wednesday, his team said.

Guayaquil has become a hotspot for gang violence linked to drug trafficking and several football players in Ecuador have been targeted in recent months.

Pineida, 33, was part of Ecuador's national team for the 2018 and 2022 World Cup qualifiers, but was not selected for the squad for the 2022 finals in Qatar. He also played for Fluminense in 2022.

In a post on X, his club, Barcelona SC, said it "regrets to inform, with deep sorrow, that it has been officially notified of the death of our player Mario Pineida, an event that occurred following an attack against him" in Guayaquil.

Barcelona face potential El Clasico in Women's Champions League

AFP | Paris, France

Barcelona could face a Women's Champions League quarter-final with fierce rivals Real Madrid, while Chelsea could meet holders Arsenal after the knockout stage draw for the tournament was made yesterday.

Barca and English champions Chelsea finished in the top four in the league phase and qualified directly for the quarter-finals, alongside Bayern Munich and record eight-time winners Lyon.

To set up the mouthwatering encounters, Real Madrid must first beat Paris FC in the knockout play-offs, while Arsenal face a rematch with Belgians OH Leuven, who they beat 3-0 in the final league phase matchday on Wednesday.

In the other knockout ties, Manchester United will face Atletico Madrid with the victors set to meet Bayern Munich, and Wolfsburg take on Juventus for the right to play Lyon in the last eight.

The two-legged knockouts will take place between February 11-19, with the quarter-finals scheduled for March 24 to April 2.
