Actress Emma Thompson says English actor-comedian Rowan Atkinson is our modern-day Charlie Chaplin.

The actors have worked together in

I've worked with him on and off for years, and I've admired him for years. I really do think he's a remarkable presence in our cultural pantheon. I've worked with him on and off for years, and I've admired him for years. I really do think he's a remarkable presence in our cultural pantheon films "The Tall Guy", "Love Actually" and most recently "Johnny English Strikes Again".

Speaking of Atkinson, Thompson said in a statement: "I've worked with him on and off for years, and I've admired him for years. I really do think he's a remarkable presence in our cultural pantheon."

"He's our Buster Keaton (late actor-comedian), our modern-day Charlie Chaplin really. You don't need to hear him speak, he's just funny," she added.

Thompson plays the role of a Prime Minister in "Johnny English Strikes Again".

"She's a real mix. She's (Margaret) Thatcher and (Theresa) May. She is the darkest version of those politicians who use their office because the power appeals. By the time we get to meet her, she is desperate," she said.

"She is making quite catastrophic decisions. Even though this is a comedy and is silly, it has been interesting to think, well what if you did hold that kind of power. This PM feels herself to be very important, and as she senses that slipping away, it makes her desperate, like a caged animal."

"Johnny English Strikes Again" is the third instalment of the "Johnny English" comedy series, with Atkinson returning as the accidental secret agent.

Ariana steps out with friends as she heals

IANS | New York

Singer Ariana Grande, who has kept a low profile following the death of her former boyfriend Mac Miller earlier this month, stepped out to enjoy a day out with friends a day after she chose not to attend the Emmy Awards.

The 25-year-old "No Tears Left to Cry" singer chose not to attend the Emmy Awards as planned to "take some much-needed time to heal".

She and her friends strolled through the streets of New York City and stopped for a coffee before getting caught in a heavy rainstorm sans umbrellas, reports people.com.

A preliminary seating chart for the 2018 Emmy Awards show, which took place on Monday, had indicated that the

Ariana Grande

"Sweetener" singer was expected to attend the show with her fiancé, "Saturday Night Live" star Pete Davidson.

Both of them did not attend the show in Los Angeles.

"Given the events of the past couple of years, Ariana is going to take some much needed time to heal and mend. She will be staying close to home and using this period to spend time with her loved ones and work on new music without deadline. She thanks her fans for their understanding," Grande's team told People.

The award show aired just 10 days after Miller's death from an apparent overdose. He was 26 years old.

Following his death, the Grammy-nominated singer shared her sadness on Instagram, first with an uncaptioned black-and-white photo of the rapper, and later with an emotional tribute alongside a video of Miller.

Kanye West moving back to Chicago

IANS | Chicago

Rapper Kanye West told a crowd at his hometown here that he plans to move to Chicago for good.

Addressing a crowd at OpenMike, an event for Chicago high schoolers hosted by Chance the Rapper, West said that he planned to return to make a permanent return to the windy city.

"I've got to let you all know, that I'm moving back to Chicago," he said in a video obtained by TMZ, reports people.com.

"And I'm never leaving again," he said as the audience erupted into a spontaneous cheer of "Kanye! Kanye! Kanye! Kanye!"

Seeger hangs up guitar after half-century career

AFP | Los Angeles

Heartland rocker Bob Seeger said Tuesday that he was retiring from touring, announcing final dates after a half-century career.

The 73-year-old songwriter -- best known for his hit "Old

Bob Seeger (R) performs with Jason Aldean (L) in 2014

Time Rock and Roll," his 1979 tribute to what then already seemed like a retro musical style -- will tour across North America starting in November with a final date on May 2 in Houston.

Seeger's representative said in a statement that the concerts would be his "final tour" but did not elaborate on the reasons.

But Seeger has repeatedly hinted at retirement and last year underwent surgery for a ruptured disc in his back.

"I hope this pain goes away, 'cause they can never really guarantee it -- and if it doesn't, then I'm done, dude," Seeger told the music site Loud-er earlier this year.
