Online symposium on management of water associated with oil

TDI | Manama

The Gulf Water Science and Technology Society is organising a virtual specialised symposium on "Management of Water Associated with Oil" on October 25.

It will review the most important challenges facing the management of water, the opportunities available to benefit from it, and the best practices in managing water in the GCC countries.

The symposium will have five lecturers from Saudi Arabia, Oman and Bahrain.

The Chairman of the Scientific Committee of the Society, Prof. Dr. Walid Khalil Zubari, said that it is organising the symposium in cooperation with the Omani Water Society.

A number of specialists from different countries of the Council will review modern management methods for water associated with oil, the most important challenges facing its management, and the opportunities available for maximum benefit from them based on global experiences and local best practices in this field. Prof. Zubari added that huge quantities of oil-accompanied water are produced daily in the GCC states, and they are increasing with the age of the oil fields.

This water contains many undesirable substances, which are suspended or dissolved organic and inorganic substances, heavy metals, greases and some chemical additives that it is used during the production process.

They must be treated before disposal, which represents a high environmental and technical challenge.

Also, under the conditions of water scarcity in the GCC countries, this water, if it is treated and managed properly, represents a high opportunity to contribute to facing water scarcity and reduce costs associated with the increasing water requirements.

Some experiences in the GCC countries have clearly shown this. Therefore, the symposium is organised to consider and benefit from these experiences.

News in brief

◆ Russian President Vladimir Putin will not attend the G20 summit in Rome in person this month due to concerns about the COVID-19 pandemic, but will take part in it via video link, the Kremlin said yesterday. The Kremlin said Putin informed Italian Prime Minister Mario Draghi about his plans in a telephone call during which they also discussed the situation in Afghanistan and bilateral issues. Separately, the RIA news agency quoted Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov as saying that Putin's decision was driven by the epidemiological situation. Putin briefly self-isolated last month after dozens of people in his entourage were diagnosed with COVID-19. Last week, after coughing repeatedly at a government meeting, Putin said he had caught a cold.

It was the first time Japan has confirmed the passage of Chinese and Russian naval vessels sailing together through the Tsugaru Strait, which separates the Sea of Japan from the Pacific. While the strait is regarded as international waters, Japan's ties with China have long been plagued by conflicting claims over a group of tiny East China Sea islets. Tokyo has a territorial dispute with Moscow, as well. "The government is closely watching Chinese and Russian naval vessels' activities around Japan like this one with high interest," Deputy Chief Cabinet Secretary Yoshihiko Isozaki told a regular news conference on Tuesday.

EU warns Poland it will pay for challenging common law

- Polish prime minister warns of EU mission creep
- A 'direct challenge to EU's legal order', von der Leyen says
- Three options: legal, financial, suspending voting rights

Reuters | Brussels

The European Commission's chief executive warned Poland yesterday that its challenge to the supremacy of European Union law called into question the very foundations of the 27-nation bloc and could not go unpunished.

Poland's Constitutional Tribunal ruled last week that parts of EU law are incompatible with the Polish constitution, undermining the legal pillar on which the union stands and raising fears that Poland

Polish Prime Minister Mateusz Morawiecki delivers a speech during a debate on Poland's challenge to the supremacy of EU laws at the European Parliament in Strasbourg, France could eventually leave the bloc. Poland's ruling nationalist Law and Justice party says it has no plans for a "Polxit" and - unlike Britain before its Brexit referendum in 2016 - popular support for membership of the EU remains high in Poland. Nevertheless, other member states have been dismayed by Warsaw's defiance of the EU, including Prime Minister Mateusz Morawiecki's complaint in a letter on Monday of mission creep that he warned would lead to a "centrally managed organism, governed by institutions deprived of democratic control".

15 dead as heavy rains batter northern India

AFP | Dehradun, India

At least 15 people died and a dozen were missing after landslides and flash floods triggered by several days of heavy rain hit northern India, officials said yesterday.

Forecasters have also warned of more heavy rains in the coming days in the southern state of Kerala where floods have already killed at least 27 people since Friday.

Officials in the Himalayan state of Uttarakhand said 10 people were killed in fresh landslides on Tuesday after five died in similar incidents on Monday.

Five of the deceased were killed after a cloudburst -- an ultra-intense deluge of rain -- triggered a landslide, completely burying a house along with its inhabitants in the town of Nainital early Tuesday.

"We have recovered five bodies from the disaster site and a further search is on," local official Prateek Jain told AFP.

Another landslide in the northern Almora district left five people dead after huge rocks and a wall of mud demolished and engulfed their home.

The Indian Meteorological Department extended and widened its weather alert on Tuesday, predicting "heavy" to "very heavy" rainfall in the region for the next two days. The weather office said several areas were drenched by more than 400 mm (16 inches) of rainfall on Monday, causing landslides and flooding.

Authorities ordered the closure of schools and banned all religious and tourist activities in the state. Television footage and social media videos showed residents wading through knee-deep water near Nainital lake, a tourist hotspot, and the Ganges bursting its banks in Rishikesh.

More than 100 tourists were also stuck inside a resort in Ramgarh after the overflowing Kosi river deluged several localities. Landslides are a regular danger in India's Himalayan north, but experts say they are becoming more common as rains become increasingly erratic and glaciers melt. Experts also blame construction work on hydroelectric dams and deforestation. In February, a ferocious flash flood hurtled down a remote valley in Uttarakhand, killing around 200 people. At least 5,700 people perished there in 2013.

North Korea launched

North Korea fired a submarine-launched ballistic missile off its east coast yesterday, South Korea's military said, pulling Japan's new prime minister off the campaign trail and overshadowing the opening of a major arms fair in Seoul.

The US military's Indo-Pacific Command condemned the launch as destabilising, but judged it did not pose an immediate threat to the United States or its allies.

South Korean and US officials were investigating if the missile was a smaller, previously unseen version displayed last week at an exhibit in Pyongyang, a South Korean military source told Reuters, citing ongoing analysis.

Israel approves West Bank residency for 4,000

Reuters | Jerusalem

Israel announced yesterday that it approved registration as West Bank residents for some 4,000 Palestinians who have been living for years in the Israeli-occupied territory without official status.

The decision affects 2,800 former inhabitants of the Gaza Strip who left the enclave after Hamas Islamist militants seized it in internal Palestinian fighting in 2007, Israel's COGAT liaison office to the Palestinians said.

Some 1,200 other Palestinians, among them undocumented spouses and children of West Bank residents, will also receive official standing.

Inclusion in the Palestinian

Population Registry, which Israel controls, will enable the group to receive identification cards. The documentation will enable passage through Israeli military checkpoints in the West Bank, an area captured in a 1967 war.

Israel describes the roadblocks, condemned by Palestinians and rights groups as restricting freedom of movement, as a security necessity. On Twitter, Israeli Defence Minister Benny Gantz said he approved the 4,000 residency registrations as a humanitarian gesture and "as part of my policy to strengthen the economy and improve the lives of Palestinians" in the West Bank.

North Korea test-fires submarine-launched ballistic missile: S.Korea

People watch a TV broadcasting file footage of a news report on North Korea firing a ballistic missile off its east coast, in Seoul, South Korea from North Korea's experimental Gora-class submarine, he added, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The launch, reported by officials in South Korea and Japan, came after US and South Korean envoys met in Washington on Monday to discuss the nuclear standoff with the North.

The launch is the latest weapons test by North Korea, which has persisted with military development despite international sanctions over its nuclear weapons and missile programmes.

"Our military is closely monitoring the situation and maintaining readiness posture in close cooperation with the United States, to prepare for possible additional launches," South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff said in a statement.

They said the missile was launched at about 10:17 a.m. from the sea in the vicinity of Sinpo, where North Korea keeps submarines as well as equipment for test firing SLBMs.

It was not immediately clear if the missile was fired from a submarine or from a submersible test barge, as in most previous tests. A military source said it flew about 430 km to 450 km (267 to 280 miles) to a maximum altitude of 60 km (37 miles).

North Korea's last SLBM test was in October 2019, when a Pukguksong-3 missile was fired from an underwater platform, flying 450 km to a maximum altitude of 910 km.

Kim Dong-yup, a former South Korea Navy officer who is a professor at Seoul's Kyungnam University, said the latest test probably involved an SLBM recently unveiled by North Korea.

The North displayed new Pukguksong-4 and Pukguksong-5 SLBMs during military parades in October and January respectively, and a previously unseen, smaller missile was spotted at last week's defence fair in Pyongyang.

North Korea has also been working on what would be its first operational submarine capable of launching an SLBM, South Korean officials say.

The Washington-based Nuclear Threat Initiative has said SLBM capability could provide North Korea with additional options for nuclear launch, and a hedge against destruction of land-based nuclear systems.

South Korea successfully tested an SLBM, becoming the first country with a submarine-launched ballistic missile launched from a submarine on the same day.

South Korea is also preparing to test fire its first homegrown space launch vehicle on Thursday.

The North displayed new Pukguksong-4 and Pukguksong-5 SLBMs during its military parades in October and January, respectively, and a previously unseen, smaller missile was spotted at last week's defence fair in Pyongyang.

Suspect, 96, who went on the run goes on trial

Irmgard Furchner, a 96-year-old former secretary to the SS commander of the Stutthof concentration camp pulled low over her eyes. Security was heavy as the judge and legal staff made their way into the court.

Between 1939 and 1945 some 65,000 people died of starvation and disease or in the gas chamber at the concentration camp near Gdansk, in today's Poland. They included prisoners of war and Jews caught up in the Nazis' extermination campaign.

The trial was postponed after Furchner left her home early on Sept. 30 and went on the run for several hours before being detained later that day.

Charges could not be read until Furchner, who faces trial in an adolescent court because of her young age at the time of the alleged crimes, was present in court.

She is the latest nonagenarian to have been charged with Holocaust crimes in what is seen as a rush by prosecutors to seize the final opportunity to enact justice for the victims of some of the worst mass killings in history.

Although prosecutors convicted major perpetrators - those who issued orders or pulled triggers - in the 1960s "Frankfurt Auschwitz Trials", the practice until the 2000s was to leave lower-level suspects alone.

100 undocumented Palestinians

official of the Palestinian Authority (PA) that exercises limited self-rule in the West Bank, said on Twitter that the 4,000 "obtained their right to citizenship" and would receive identification cards. Under interim Israeli-Palestinian peace deals that established the PA, Israel committed to approve the residency in the West Bank and Gaza of some 4,000 new spouses of local residents each year under a family reunification programme.

Israel suspended the approvals when the Palestinian uprising erupted in 2000. It granted some 32,000 reunification permits in 2008 and 2009, but largely froze the process, save for a smattering of humanitarian cases, since then. Gantz gave the new approvals some seven weeks after holding talks with Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas in the West Bank city of Ramallah. It was the highest-level meeting between Abbas and an Israeli minister to be made public since Israel's new government was formed in June.

How science fiction predicts future technology

JOEL INDRUPATI

Two main characters in the 1989 Sci Fi comedy movie "Back to the Future - Part II" travel through time, to 21 October 2015.

Now, that date is already 'back in the past' by 6 years.

Back in 2015, marking that date's momentous movie-occasion, BBC had broadcast a radio programme, and TIME magazine had published an article too - on whether some of those futuristic predictions, in the movie, had come true.

Surprisingly, TIME had listed out ten! And thereby reaffirming that sci-fi writers' imagination often propels the growth of technology.

Shown in the movie were flying drones (which we know are already doing a host of things now), electronic wireless payments (which is here now), fingerprint recognition by devices to unlock doors (biometric devices), video games with only gestures (Kinect devices with motion sensing input), and futuristic eyeglasses to watch TV (Google glass is already here, and Facebook-Ray-Ban glasses too). Of course, many predictions didn't come true. But I am not writing about those now.

It was in 1968 that Arthur C Clarke's book '2001: A Space Odyssey' was made into a movie.

And I was shocked to see Flat Screen Video Monitors in that iconic movie. It was made at a time when the scientific world was barely coming to grips with the Cathode Ray Tubes (CRT) for projecting images. Somehow, fiction writers and movie directors seem to have thought of Plasma or LCD or LED displays, much ahead of their time. We even have UHD and OLED tech now.

Watching a Whatsapp forward of Prof. Michio Kaku talking about the future of the digital economy, I remembered how Arthur C Clarke had imagined the Internet, data centres, and even customized online searches way back in the 1960s and 1970s.

Electronically operated robots appeared in fiction during the 1930s. A decade before ENIAC, the first electronic computer, appeared.

And Isaac Asimov, arguably the best science fiction writer in the twentieth century, came out with the "Laws of Robotics" as early as 1942.

Of course, not all fiction can become real. So, I don't grudge the scientists who rubbish Asimov's laws. Two of them, Barthelme and Furbach, in MIT Technological Review argue that our fears over robots' potential to destroy us are unfounded. And that Asimov's laws aren't needed.

So what? That was fiction. Robots may or may not harm their creator. But did it not inspire greater research into Artificial Intelligence and Robotics?

For that matter, Mary Shelly's story 'Frankenstein', of 1818, was a precursor to robotic fiction by over a century. A monster made from human body parts - as a scientific experiment - turns against Frankenstein, its creator, because he refuses to make a mate for the monster.

In Jules Verne's story '20,000 Leagues under the Sea', is Captain Nemo's submarine 'Nautilus'. A submarine powered by 'electricity' which, in 1870, was completely unimaginable.

When the US made its first nuclear-powered submarine, it called it 'USS Nautilus', in his honour.

In fact, Jules Verne had also imagined man's attempt "From the Earth to the Moon" in 1869, one hundred years before the moon landing happened.

Of course, the method he had adopted in the book to reach the moon would seem preposterous today. And I do not think that his dream of a "Journey to the Centre of the Earth" will ever be realized in the next 1000 years. But, we cannot imagine everything. Bob Gale, screenwriter and co-producer of 'Back to the Future' trilogy says that, in 1989, he never imagined a 'smartphone'. But...

"It's the Swiss Army Knife of today. The fact that everyone can have one device that's a computer, that's a camera, that's a recording device, that's a calculator, that's a flashlight ... we didn't think of that."

Ezra Miller to play 'The Flash' in movie slated for Nov 2022 release

IAN S | Los Angeles

After being a super-success on television and OTT platforms, 'The Flash' from the 'Extended Universe' of DC Comics, creators of Batman and Superman, will return to movie theatres on November 4, 2022, as a full-length feature film.

On Saturday night at the DC FanDome virtual fan event, DC Films unveiled the movie trailer featuring Ezra Miller playing the 'Scarlet Speedster'. The Flash is the superhero persona of Barry Allen, a police forensic investigator from Central City and member of the Justice League who can move at superhuman speeds.

Barry's timeline-hopping abilities allow him to shift from his cinematic universe — in which Batman is played by Ben Affleck — into an alternative universe where Batman is played by Michael Keaton.

Kanye West's name change to 'Ye' official after judge signs off on petition

Fox | Los Angeles

Kanye Omari West is officially no more.

Ye is the new moniker of the "Graduation" emcee after a judge in a Los Angeles Superior Court granted the 44-year-old performer's petition for a name change, which was first filed on Aug. 24.

The name change was approved with no middle or last name.

"There being no objections, the petition for change of name is granted," Judge Michelle Williams Court said in court documents.

Ye previously opened up in a 2018 interview about his reasoning for petitioning the name change, telling radio host Big Boy that he did it as a reference to the most commonly used word in the Bible.

Per Deadline, Merriam-Webster's etymological history delineation of the word sees it appear frequently in the religious scribe as a plural form of "you." Merriam-Webster also notes that it more commonly appears as an archaic form of "the."

Ye has been the music and fashion mogul's Twitter handle for a while and he even released his eighth studio album titled "Ye" in June 2018.

Despite an impending clean-cut divorce from Ye, Kim Kardashian was spotted with her estranged husband on Oct. 9 as they were exiting the Ritz Carlton hotel in New York City ahead of the reality star's hosting duties on "Saturday Night Live."

The Skims founder filed for divorce from the rapper in February after reports surfaced claiming the two had separated. She has elected to hang onto her last name of Kardashian West as of now. The couple's four children also have his former last name.

John Cena gets into action in just his underwear in 'Peacemaker' trailer

IAN S | Los Angeles

WE wrestler-turned-actor John Cena strips down to his bare essentials, dancing and fighting in his underwear, as he plays a homicidally misguided costume vigilante in the first trailer for the television series 'Peacemaker'.

The trailer debuted on Saturday as part of the virtual fan event, DC Fandome. It opens with the Canadian actor Rizwan Manji, whom audiences will remember from the comedy drama series 'Outsourced'. Manji plays the recurring character Jamil in 'Peacemaker'.

A spin-off from the feature film 'The Suicide Squad', 'Peacemaker' will premiere on the streaming service HBO Max in the U.S. on January 13. The series has been created and written by the film's director, James Gunn.

It follows Cena's Christopher Smith after the events of 'The Suicide Squad', in which Smith, aka Peacemaker, was nearly killed after betraying his team for what he believed to be the greater good.

Meghan's father pleads to see grandchildren

AFP | London

Meghan Markle's estranged father on Tuesday pleaded with his daughter to let him see his grandchildren.

Thomas Markle told ITV's Good Morning Britain programme that "we're at a point where I think both of us, we should grow up, talk, make up for the sake of the children."

"This is ridiculous, almost four years, it's crazy," he said.

He is yet to meet grandson Archie, born in 2019, or granddaughter Lilibet, who was born in June.

"My message for the kids is that they have two loving families," he said.

"Their great grandmother is the Queen of England, and I think it's important for them to know that they have two families and eventually they're going to grow up and they're going to want to know more about them."

The 77-year-old Emmy-winning former lighting director was interviewed from his home in Mexico.

He claimed that Meghan, who became the Duchess of Sussex on marrying Prince Harry, had wanted him to stop talking to her step-sister and step-brother, "and I couldn't".

"She's never been that way before. And once she hooked up with Harry, she changed," he added.

Raglan was at her wedding at Windsor Castle and has had tea with Queen Elizabeth II.

Thomas Markle declined to attend the wedding after he took part in staged paparazzi photos. He also cited forthcoming heart surgery. Meghan dropped contact with him soon after the wedding.

Harry and Meghan stunned the royal family last year when they announced they were stepping back from frontline royal duties.

Amateur career inspires “Shorty” Torres to pursue historic BRAVE CF victory in enemy territory

● Torres is scheduled to face Ali Bagautinov in the last semi-final bout of the Flyweight World Title Tournament at BRAVE CF 55

TDT | Manama

The writing has been on the wall in a positive way for Jose “Shorty” Torres ever since he first stepped inside the cage as a mixed martial artist.

The Chicago, Illinois native embraced the winning culture during his run in the amateur ranks, where he amassed an impressive 25-1 standing - lost only his first amateur fight. He capped off his stint in the amateurs by winning the 135-pound category at the 2015 MMAF World Championships. “Shorty” carried over the same kind of success at the professional level, compiling a 10-1 record with four victories by knockout and two via submission. He won 8 of his first professional fights building a winning streak of 33 fights.

Torres also captured belts in both the flyweight and bantamweight divisions of a North American promotion before getting a chance to strut his wares on the global stage of the sport.

Now, he has the opportunity to become BRAVE Combat Federation’s first-ever Flyweight

Jose “Shorty” Torres

World Champion. To move an inch closer to that historic moment, he will have to enter enemy territory.

Torres is scheduled to face Ali “The King Puncher” Bagautinov in the last semi-final bout of the Flyweight World Title Tournament at BRAVE CF 55, which emanates from Rostov-on-Don, Russia on November 6 in association with Pro FC.

If he overcomes a stern test in the form of Bagautinov, Torres will earn a seat in the tournament finals to square off with the highly-touted Velimurad Alkhasov at a yet-to-be-announced event.

Having an intricately-crafted belt draped over his shoulder will certainly elevate his name closer to greatness, and Torres surely knows what to do when he stands opposite Bagautinov on November 6.

Lukaku is ‘mentally tired’, says Chelsea boss Tuchel

Thomas Tuchel said his players were still adjusting to having Romelu Lukaku in the team

● Romelu Lukaku rejoined Chelsea from Inter Milan in August

AFP | London

Romelu Lukaku is mentally tired after being “overplayed”, Chelsea boss Thomas Tuchel said yesterday, as the club’s record signing seeks to end his frustrating goal drought.

The Belgium forward rejoined Chelsea from Inter Milan in August for a fee of around £97 million ($134 million), seven years after his first spell at Stamford Bridge ended.

The 28-year-old impressed in the early weeks of the season but his form has dipped and he has not scored for Chelsea since mid-September.

Tuchel, speaking ahead of Wednesday’s Champions League match against Swedish side Malmo, said his players were still adjusting to having Lukaku in the team.

“This will increase every day because we are in the process of adapting to each other,” he said. “In the moment, in my opinion, I feel Romelu is a bit overplayed.

“I think he played too many competitions over the summer, too many competitions with the national team. Now he plays the Nations League (Belgium finished fourth at the finals earlier this month).”

“It means a lot for him to play for his country so he takes it really seriously,” he added.

“If that does not work well he always puts it on his shoulders, he thinks about it, he reflects about it and I feel he is a bit mentally tired, not like hugely that we have a concern.”

Player workload

Tuchel said other players in his squad also had a tough schedule for club and country, including England’s Mason

Mount and Jorginho, who won Euro 2020 with Italy.

“They struggle,” he said. “They have a lot of weight to carry for their countries. They take it and they love it and they are competitors and if you like it or not if you play 1,000 matches a year it can feel heavy.”

Chelsea, the defending European champions, are second in Group H of the Champions League after two games following defeat to Juventus last month.

They remain top of the Premier League after eight matches but Tuchel admitted their form had dipped, with one major reason being a surfeit of games for top players.

but we lack a bit of form, we lack a bit of freshness, we lack a bit of joy,” he said.

The German boss also admitted that Kai Havertz, who scored Chelsea’s winner in the Champions League final against Manchester City in May, had not shown his peak form this season.

“The story has not changed but he lacks the statistics of decisive things, of goals and assists and he needs to fight his way back into the team when he gets minutes and this can happen any time,” he said.

Five fights that could steal the show at BRAVE CF 55

TDT | Manama

With a ticket to the finals of the prestigious Flyweight World Title Tournament up for grabs in the main event, BRAVE CF 55 on November 6 has plenty of prestige and excitement in store at the top of the bill.

The Bahrain-based promotion’s return trip to Russia is bannered by the tourney’s semi-final duel between hometown favorite Ali “The King Puncher” Bagautinov and Jose “Shorty” Torres of the United States—with the winner moving on to face the highly-touted Velimurad Alkhasov.

However, the supporting card is also plenty capable of providing fireworks. From fearless strikers to crafty submission specialists, here are five bouts that could end up stealing the spotlight from the headlining showdown.

Mochamed Machaev vs. Kasum Kasumov

Mochamed “The Beast” Machaev of Austria seeks vindication at 135 pounds when he faces Russia’s very own Kasum Kasumov at BRAVE CF 55.

Machaev fell short in his bantamweight debut at BRAVE CF 52: Bad Blood this past August, succumbing to a jaw-dropping 54-second knockout defeat at the hands of Kasumov’s compatriot Gamzat Magomedov.

Prior to the heartbreaking setback, “The Beast” was riding high on a ten-fight unbeaten streak. Now, he looks to redeem himself by going up against Kasumov, a grappling maestro who owns an impressive 13-1 win-loss slate with seven victories by way of submission.

Kasumov turned heads in his first two assignments under the organization’s banner, forcing Rany Saadeh to tap with the rare Von Flue choke in the second round of their November 2019 clash before strangling Dimitar Kostov with a first-round arm-triangle choke in October 2020.

A decisive win by either man could land a shot at the vacant BRAVE CF Bantamweight World Championship.

Rustam Chsiev vs. Daniel Pereira

Mohammad “The Latest” Fakhreddine could meet the next challenger for his BRAVE CF Middleweight World Title at the organization’s next extravaganza in Rostov-on-Don as Rustam “The Russian Bear” Chsiev battles former division kingpin Daniel “Gaucho” Pereira.

Chsiev has firmly established himself as one of the top-tier athletes at 185 pounds, possessing a superb wrestling pedigree that he honed in his hometown of North Ossetia, Russia.

His bread-and-butter has produced three consecutive victories inside the cage, prevailing over the likes of Tarek Suleiman, Brendan Lesar and Enrico Cortese.

Meanwhile, Pereira is one of the top middleweights to emerge from Brazil in recent history. He has steamrolled through the competition in his home country, with a knack for winning by stoppage.

The 30-year-old is equally adept in finishing his opponents by strikes or by submission. He looks to showcase his multifaceted skill set in Rostov-on-Don and will face a tough challenge when he takes on a hometown hero like Chsiev.

Kamal Magomedov vs. Luis Felipe Dias

Undefeated Russian stalwart Kamal Magomedov will make his maiden appearance under the Bahrain-based outfit’s banner against fellow debutant Luis

Mochamed Machaev and Kasum Kasumov will aim for a shot at the vacant BRAVE CF Bantamweight World Championship

Felipe Dias of Brazil at BRAVE CF 55.

Magomedov owns a perfect professional record of 8-0 and has gone the distance in his career, winning five fights by way of submission and three via knockout.

The 30-year-old Russian knows how to have gold fastened around his waist, submitting his opponent with a rear-naked choke in the first round.

Like Magomedov, Dias has won a couple of hardwares during his stint at the regional level, amassing a win-loss slate of 14-3. With an impressive victory, either man could find himself a step closer to the available BRAVE CF Super Welterweight World Championship.

Gadzhimusa Gaziev vs. Issa Isakov

Another Russian who will be proudly donning the nation’s colors on November 6th is Gadzhimusa “Deadshot” Gadzhiev, who locks horns with Belgian standout Issa Isakov.

Gadzhiev has been part of the organization’s roster since its inaugural event in 2016, winning four of his last eight outings—with all victories coming by way of stoppage.

Fresh from a third-round knockout triumph against Geraldo Neto at BRAVE CF 49: Super Fights, another victory could put him in line for a shot at Eldar Eldarov’s BRAVE CF Super Lightweight World Championship.

However, it will not be a walk in the park as Isakov presents a stern test for the Russian hard-hitter. The Belgian—who holds a professional record 8-3, possesses an 88-percent finishing rate.

Kamil Magomedov vs. Sam Patterson

Sam “The Future” Patterson looks to sustain his winning groove that he established since 2018 by taking on Kamil Magomedov at BRAVE CF 55.

Patterson is riding high on a six-fight win streak—three of those victories took place inside the BRAVE CF cage.

Most recently, the Englishman elevated himself to a potential contender by outpointing Ylies “Tupek” Djiroun at BRAVE CF 51 last June.

Patterson believes that he has a business to settle with BRAVE CF Lightweight World Champion Ahmed “The Butcher” Amir as their first encounter in April 2019 ended in an anticlimactic draw.

However, Patterson must get past Magomedov first. The Russian possesses a 14-1 slate and has not tasted defeat since 2017.

Magomedov poses to be a tall order for Patterson, and a victory over the red-hot English fighter could put him in pole position to face Amir.

Bahrain's senior men's national football team will play two international friendly matches in the middle of next month as part of their final preparations for the FIFA Arab Cup 2021.

The Bahrainis will first take on Morocco on November 12 and then go against Kyrgyzstan on November 16. Both fixtures will be played at the National Stadium in Riffa.

The tune-up games will be a part of their next training gathering under head coach Helio Sousa, which will be held from November 8 to 16.

The Bahrainis fly to the Qatari capital on November 26.

Morocco and Kyrgyzstan will give the national team a solid test ahead of their Arab Cup campaign.

Morocco are the 33rd-ranked team in the world and are fourth-best in the Confederation of African football. Kyrgyzstan, on the other hand, are just a few places behind Bahrain on the FIFA World Ranking in 98th position and 15th in the Asian Football Confederation (AFC).

Coach Sousa is expected to announce his squad list for training soon.

The Portuguese tactician noted recently the importance of the upcoming Arab Cup to Bahrain's preparations for the start of the next round of qualifying for the AFC Asian Cup 2023. That will be early next year, just a little over a month after their campaign in Doha.

The FIFA Arab Cup 2021 will see the participation of 16 national teams. It will continue until December 18. Bahrain are in Group A alongside hosts Qatar, Iraq and Oman.

After the tournament's opening stage, which comprises four groups of four teams each, the top two from each group move on to the knockout quarter-finals.

The nationals have yet to learn of their qualification group. The draw is scheduled to be held in the coming weeks.

The competing teams will be divided into six groups of four to play home-and-away matches. The group winners and the best five runners-up across all groups will qualify for the Asian Cup, where they are joined by tournament hosts China and by the 12 teams which have already qualified directly from the second round.

Muharraq set for AFC Cup Zonal Final against Kuwait SC

Bahrain's Muharraq Club are set to take on Kuwait SC of Kuwait tonight in the Zonal Final of the AFC Cup 2021.

The match is scheduled for a 7pm kick-off and it will be played at the Shaikh Ali bin Mohammed Al Khalifa Stadium in Arad.

The winner of tonight's game will play for the title in the AFC Cup 2021 Final, currently set for November 5.

Muharraq head coach Isa Sadoon Al Hamdani named a 22-player squad for the tie. The team list includes goalkeepers Sayed Mohammed Jaafar, Ashraf Waheed and Omar Sa-

Muharraq qualified for the Zonal Final with an emphatic 3-0 victory over Al Ahed of Lebanon last month. The Bahraini representatives scored all three of their goals in the second half of the semi-final contest, with Atede, Ahmed Al Sherooqi and Al Hayki all on target.

The AFC Cup Final will be played over one leg, between the winners of the West Asia Zonal Final and the winners of the Inter-Zone Play-off Final, which is also set to be held today between FC Nasaf Qarshi of Uzbekistan and Lee Man FC of Hong Kong.

Should Muharraq make it through to the title match, the game will be played in Bahrain.

Muharraq have won the AFC Cup title once in the past—in 2008 when they defeated Safa of Lebanon 10-5 on aggregate. They had also finished runners-up in 2006, losing to Al Faisaly of Jordan 4-5 in the final.

Berrington's 70 helps Scotland beat PNG at T20 World Cup

AFP | Muscat

Richie Berrington smashed 70 to set up Scotland's second successive win at the Twenty20 World Cup as they beat Papua New Guinea by 17 runs yesterday.

Scotland, who shocked Bangladesh in their tournament opener on Sunday, are now on the verge of making the Super 12 stage.

Scotland rode on a crucial 92-run third-wicket stand between Berrington and Matthew Cross, who hit 45, to post 165 for nine after electing to bat first in the round-one match.

Fast bowler Josh Davey returned career-best figures of 4-18 to help bowl out Papua New Guinea, who have lost two in two, for 148 in 19.3 overs despite a valiant 37-ball 47 from Norman Vanua.

"You need to try and find one or two partnerships in a T20 to really give yourself a chance to post a decent score. Richie Berrington and Matt Cross played outstandingly well today," Scotland skipper Kyle Coetzer told reporters.

"Richie was obviously the man of the match and he has been doing that consistently for us over the last month or so."

The seventh-wicket partnership between Vanua and Kiplin Doriga, who hit 18, of 53 off 29 balls gave Scotland a scare in the last few overs, but Davey sent back Vanua to dim PNG's chances of a chase.

"Getting exposure, playing more games and testing ourselves against quality opposition would be good. If we can get more exposure we might be able to express ourselves better," PNG skipper Assad Vala said.

"Scotland are a really good bowling team and they put us under pressure and we crumbled. The lower order brought us back into it."

Berrington stood out with his attacking batting to lift Scotland from 26-2 and a stunning one-handed catch off Davey to get rid of Simon Atai.

Berrington hit three sixes including one which was measured at 97 metres -- the longest in the tournament so far -- and six fours in his 49-ball knock.

He raised his sixth T20 half-century with a boundary straight down the ground after he lost wicketkeeper-batsman Cross, playing his 50th T20 international.

Papua New Guinea took six wickets in the last two overs including Berrington's key scalp and gave away just 15 runs but Scotland posted their highest total in the T20 World Cup, surpassing their previous best of 156 v Afghanistan in 2016.
