Iran says it forced US sub to surface

AFP | Tehran

Iran said yesterday it had "forced" a US submarine to surface as it was crossing the strategic Strait of Hormuz in the Gulf, a claim the Americans promptly denied.

Admiral Shahram Irani, the commander of Iran's navy, told state TV the USS Florida nuclear submarine was "approaching and passing in complete silence" when it partly entered Iranian waters.

In a Twitter statement, the US Navy's Bahrain-based 5th Fleet said the claim was "absolutely false" and "represents more Iranian disinformation".

Three people were detained over the stampede in Sanaa, Yemen's rebel-held capital, after large crowds gathered at a school to receive gifts of 5,000 rial (about $8) for the end of Ramadan, the Muslim holy month.

Harrowing footage screened by the Huthi Al Masirah TV showed a tightly packed crowd screaming and shoving, unable to move, while others attempted to haul stricken people out of the crush.

Other shots showed dead bodies on the ground as the panic continued. Afterwards, piles of abandoned sandals, clothing and a crutch littered the scene, while an investigator in white protective gear collected evidence.

"It was a huge crowd. They fell on me, and I got hurt," an injured child told Al Masirah from his hospital bed.

Hoard of 1,000-year-old Viking coins unearthed in Denmark

Nearly 300 silver coins believed to be more than 1,000 years old have been discovered near a Viking fortress site in northwestern Denmark, a museum said yesterday.

The rare trove -- lying in two spots not far apart -- was unearthed by a young girl who was metal detecting in a cornfield last autumn.

"A hoard like this is very rare," Lars Christian Norbach, director of the North Jutland museum where the artefacts will go on display, told AFP.

The silver coins were found about eight kilometres (five miles) from the Fyrkat Viking ringfort near the town of Hobro.

From their inscriptions, they are believed to date back to the 980s.

The trove includes Danish, Arab and Germanic coins as well as pieces of jewellery originating from Scotland or Ireland, according to archaeologists.

Norbach said the finds were from the same period as the fort, built by king Harald Bluetooth, and would offer more insight into the history of the Vikings.

The girl who made the discovery is due to receive financial compensation, the amount of which has not been made public.

National Space Science Authority joins Space4Water initiative

TDT | Manama

The Space4Water initiative has gained a new member in the form of the National Space Science Authority (NSSA), which was nominated by the United Nations Office for Outer Space Affairs (UNOOSA).

Dr Mohammed Ibrahim Al Asiri, CEO of NSSA, chaired meetings between the initiative's leaders and NSSA's team and discussed the efforts of the Kingdom in utilising space technologies to support water conservation.

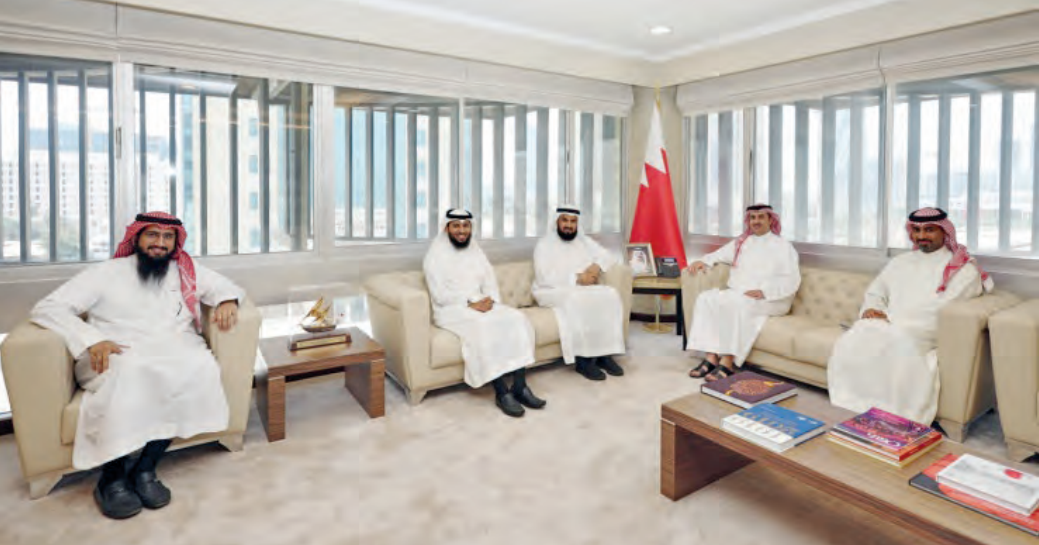

UNOOSA acknowledged

NSSA's involvement as a stakeholder in this global initiative, which aims to facilitate the access and exchange of data and knowledge to promote sustainable management and conservation of water resources.

Al Asiri emphasised that water conservation and resource management are critical environmental concerns, and space technologies and applications play a vital role in understanding the water cycle, mapping water flow, and monitoring environmental impacts caused by changes in water levels.

In a meeting between Wael bin Nasser Al Mubarak, the Minister of Municipalities Affairs and Agriculture, and Yasser Al Abbasi, CEO of Gulf Petrochemical Industries Company (GPIC), discussions were held regarding cooperation in the landscaping sector. During the meeting, the Minister emphasized the significance of the current partnership with the private sector to enhance agriculture and promote awareness of environmental conservation. He lauded GPIC's efforts to support afforestation projects and contribute to environmental preservation. Al Mubarak also expressed the Ministry's eagerness to collaborate with GPIC in exchanging knowledge and executing projects aimed at safeguarding the environment.

Nawaf bin Mohammed Al-Maawda, the Minister of Justice, Islamic Affairs, and Endowments, and Dr. Shaikh Rashid bin Futtais Al-Hajeri, the Chairman of the Sunni Endowments Council, yesterday welcomed with Holy Quran memorisers and reciters. During the meeting, the minister congratulated Hamza Muath Al-Abdulrazzaq and Salman Abdulaziz Al-Nefaie, who recently participated in the Taraweeh Prayers at mosques and Islamic centres in Germany.

Defence Affairs Minister Lieutenant General Abdullah bin Hassan Al Nuaimi yesterday received Housing and Urban Planning Minister Amena bint Ahmed Al Rumaihi. They reviewed relations of cooperation and coordination between the BDF and the ministry. The ministers also discussed issues of mutual concern.

The Council of Guardianship on the Money of the Minors and their Equivalents held its routine meeting yesterday, chaired by Nawaf bin Mohammed Al-Maawda, the Minister of Justice, Islamic Affairs, and Endowments. The minister welcomed the newly-appointed members and emphasised the importance of enhancing the Directorate's effectiveness. He highlighted that the current priority is to improve the minors' funds by identifying suitable investment opportunities that increase profits through partnerships and collaborations with the private sector.

Eyewitnesses said gunfire sparked the stampede

- People were packed in a narrow street leading to the school’s back entrance
- Three people had been detained on suspicion

A Huthi security official speaking on condition of anonymity told AFP that at least 85 people were killed and “more than 322” injured, 50 of them seriously.

“Women and children were among the dead,” the official said. A health official confirmed the toll.

The tragedy comes just ahead of Eid al-Fitr, a major Muslim festival, and punctures a buoyant mood over the war in the Arabian Peninsula’s poorest country, wounded people in hospital following a stampede at a charity distribution event in Yemen’s capital Sanaa following peace talks and an exchange of nearly 1,000 prisoners last week. Eyewitnesses said gunfire sparked a stampede after crowds gathered at the school, in Sanaa’s historic Bab Al-Yemen district, to receive the handouts from a businessman. AFP could not verify the reports of gunfire.

The head of the Huthis’ Supreme Revolutionary Committee, Mohamed Ali al-Huthi, blamed “overcrowding”, saying people were packed in a narrow street leading to the school’s back entrance.

Once the gates opened, the crowd streamed into a tight staircase leading to the courtyard where the distribution was taking place.

“Citizens were informed a week ago that sums of money would be disbursed without ID verification,” said one witness.

“People flocked in a huge way, the gate opened, and with the large numbers, the stampede happened.”

The Huthis’ political chief Mahdi al-Mashat said a committee had been formed to investigate, and a Huthi security official said three people had been detained on suspicion of involvement. After the stampede, families converged on hospitals but many were not allowed to enter as senior officials were also visiting the dead and wounded.

At the school, heavily deployed security forces were seen blocking relatives from entering the facility to locate family members.

Footage from one hospital showed dazed and bandaged survivors recovering in a ward, some with visible wounds on their limbs and heads.

Yemen is no stranger to tragedy, most stemming from its brutal war.

In 2016, a coalition air strike killed more than 140 people attending a funeral, and dozens of children died in a strike on a bus in 2018.

At least 70 people died in an air strike on a prison in Saada, the Huthis’ home city, in January 2022, and in March 2021, 45 people were killed in a blaze at a Sanaa migrant centre caused by Huthi forces firing teargas canisters.

Eid Al Fitr begins celebrating love, faith and tradition

Julia Cassano
TDT | Manama

As Eid-al-Fitr - the Festival of Breaking the Fast - kicks off, signalling the end of Ramadan, the time has also come forth for Bahrainis and over 2 billion Muslims around the world to immerse themselves in the joy of love, faith, brotherhood, and harmony.

This occasion holds a special place in Bahrain as it combines centuries-old traditions with modern festivities here on this Island nations.

Believed to have been established by the Prophet Muhammad (Peace Be Upon Him), the three-days of festivities is a time for families and friends gather to exchange greetings, share meals, and exchange gifts.

According to Islamic traditions, it was during the month of Ramadan that the first revelation was received by the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), and this month is considered to be the most sacred month in the Islamic calendar.

The first day of Eid is typically the most significant and is marked by special prayers, which are held in mosques or open-air locations, followed by a day of feasting and socialising with family and friends.

It is a time for forgiveness, generosity, and charitable acts.

The second and third days of Eid are also observed with much fervour and are spent in visiting friends and family, sharing meals, and exchanging gifts.

For Bahrainis, the significance of Eid lies not only in its religious importance but also in its ability to unite community and foster a sense of brotherhood and goodwill amongst all.

Families in Bahrain told The Daily Tribune that they usually kick-start the festivities by gathering at Al Bait Al Oud (family house) after Eid prayer.

Welcoming them will be a specially prepared table filled to the brim with Eid dishes, where some of the popular delicacies include ghoozi, machboos, and baklava.

When asked around, several people also told us that will wake up early to go to their family house or their grandparents' house to spend quality time with relatives and friends.

"Eid is an exceptional occasion when families can come together to celebrate our cultures, traditions, and enjoy the food prepared as well," several said.

Some others mentioned that Eid is also synonymous with gift-giving, with grandparents and parents often spoiling their children and grandchildren with presents during the celebrations.

During Eid festivities, families will visit at least up to five family homes and bring everyone together for a sumptuous lunch.

Interestingly, a few individuals

The translation of "Eid al-Fitr" from Arabic sums up the holiday as it means "festival of breaking the fast." Eid al-Fitr is celebrated during the first three days of Shawwal, which is the tenth month in the Muslim (lunar) calendar. This means that the timing of Eid al-Fitr (and Ramadan) is different every year as it is based on the lunar cycle.

als also shared that it is a customary practice for them to take a nap after lunch to energise themselves for the late night festivities.

According to them, Eid is a time filled with festivities and celebrations. "So, it is very common for families to take a nap and relax in the afternoon, before the night festivities."

The younger generation is inclined to enjoy a night out with their peers at cafes and restaurants, while the elders spend time in the family house.

While there are numerous ways to commemorate Eid, being with their loved ones is the most cherished and significant for many.

GCC countries declare Eid Al-Fitr holidays amid debate over Moon sightings

● The debates were sparked by a tweet from the International Astronomy Centre, stating that it would not be possible to see the crescent on Thursday with the naked eye from anywhere in the Arab and Islamic world

● Astronomers have explained that it is not possible to sight the crescent because of a super-rare hybrid solar eclipse

TDT | Manama

The declaration of Eid Al Fitr holidays in several Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) countries came yesterday amid ongoing debates over the possible sighting of the crescent moon on Thursday or Friday.

A boy uses a telescope to sight the new moon ahead of Eid al-Fitr which marks the end of the Islamic holy fasting month of Ramadan, on Lhoknga beach in Aceh province

Sparking this debate was a cautionary statement from the International Astronomy Centre, which warned that a rare hybrid solar eclipse could make it difficult to see the crescent with the naked eye on Thursday.

Despite this, countries such as UAE, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Oman, and Kuwait have stepped ahead, declaring holidays for their public and private sector employees.

Although some parts of West Africa were exempted from the prediction, the Centre had said that observing the crescent would require exceptional weather conditions, a professional observer, and an accurate telescope.

Regardless of the situation, the Supreme Council for Islamic Affairs here has called on people with testimony or news of sighting the crescent to contact the Sharia Vision Authority, while Saudi Arabia's authority has also appealed to people to report sightings to the nearest court.

Astronomers had also said that it is not possible to sight the crescent because of a super-rare hybrid solar eclipse, which will include both a total eclipse and an annular eclipse, also known as a "ring of fire" effect.

"Since the Moon is close to the Earth, it completely obscures the Sun, and therefore will not be visible in the sky all night," astronomers said. Solar eclipses occur when the Sun, the Moon, and Earth line up, either fully or partially.

Meanwhile, Dr Muhammad Shawkat Odeh, Director of the International Astronomy Center, announced that Friday, April 21, will be the first day of Eid Al-Fitr 2023 in most Arab countries, except for a few, such as Morocco and Oman, where Eid is expected to be on Saturday.

The Australian Fatwa Council also said that Saturday will be the first day of Eid al-Fitr in the country, as astronomical calculations confirm that it is not possible to see the crescent of the month of Shawwal on Thursday evening, according to the International Astronomy Centre.

Eid holidays

In UAE, private sector employees, effective yesterday, until Sunday, will enjoy a four-day weekend for Eid. Saudi Arabia also announced a four-day weekend. Qatar has declared an 11-day holiday starting from Wednesday with employees returning to work on April 30, 2023. Oman and Kuwait will have a five-day weekend, starting on April 20 and April 21, respectively.

Employees in Oman will resume work on April 25, while those in Kuwait will return to work on April 26.

What happens when Friday prayer and Eid coincide?

According to a statement issued by the Fatwa Council of the UAE, if Eid falls on Friday, then Eid and Friday prayers will be performed separately. "The issue of performing Friday prayer if Eid Al Fitr falls on Friday is a controversial matter among Muslim scholars, however the Council rules that each sermon is to be held separately on its time as per its sunnah," the council said in a statement.

Reports say those who perform Eid prayers on Friday are allowed to not attend Friday prayers and can perform Zuhur (noon) prayers instead. They are, however, encouraged to perform both Eid and Friday prayers. Those who do not perform Eid prayers are not exempt from attending Friday prayers.

US imposes $300mn penalty on Seagate over Huawei shipments

Washington, United States

US authorities on Wednesday imposed a $300 million penalty on Seagate Technology, to resolve alleged violations of export controls related to selling hard disk drives to Huawei Technologies, the Commerce Department said.

The manufacturer was involved in the shipment of hard disk drives valued over $1.1 billion to Huawei entities despite US controls.

The violations, according to the Commerce Department, took place between August 2020 and September 2021.

In 2019, the US added Huawei and some of its affiliates to a trade blacklist that imposed licensing requirements on exports, re-exports and transfers of goods.

The Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS) also introduced controls in 2020 over certain foreign-made items.

"Seagate did so despite the fact that its only two competitors had stopped selling HDDs (hard disk drives) to Huawei, resulting in Seagate becoming Huawei's sole source provider," the department added.

According to the bureau's investigation, Seagate was involved in the shipment of more than 7.4 million hard disk drives without authorization.

EU approves sweeping cryptocurrency rules

● EU member states have already backed the legislation covering cryptoassets

● Include cryptocurrencies such as bitcoin and ethereum and other tradable tokens

AFP | Strasbourg

The European Parliament approved the world's first comprehensive rules to regulate the "Wild West" world of cryptocurrencies on Thursday, hoping to protect investors against abuse and manipulation.

EU member states have already backed the legislation covering cryptoassets, which include cryptocurrencies such as bitcoin and ethereum and other tradable tokens whose value is secured using blockchain technology, such as NFTs.

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen (R) greets European Union foreign policy chief Josep Borrell

The rules, now approved by a large majority of European lawmakers, hope to whip into shape an industry that has been beset by scandals and failures.

One of the most recent cryptocurrency exchange failures came in November when the FTX platform and its sister trading house Alameda Research went bankrupt, dissolving a virtual trading business that at one point had a market value of $32 billion.

The EU commissioner for financial services, Mairead McGuinness, said during a parliamentary debate on Wednesday that the rules would have regulated FTX's activities and perhaps prevented its collapse at great cost to some investors.

Under the regulation known as Markets in Crypto Assets (MiCA), cryptoasset service providers (CASPs) must protect customers' digital wallets and will be liable if they lose investors' cryptoassets.

"We believe that had FTX, for example, been captured under EU jurisdiction, many of its practices would not have been permissible under MiCA," McGuinness said in Strasbourg.

Large providers will also have to disclose their energy consumption as part of the EU's efforts to reduce cryptocurrencies' high carbon footprint.

A second regulation on fund transfers will lead to greater oversight of cryptoassets trades, bringing it more closely into line with practices traditional finance.

The EU says this will make it harder for criminals to use cryptocurrencies for illegal activity such as money laundering.

The regulations "mark the end of the Wild West era for the unregulated world of cryptoassets", Ernest Urtasun, one of the EU lawmakers spearheading the legislation through parliament, said during the debate.

"For over a decade, the lack of regulation has resulted in massive losses to many first-time investors and provided a safe haven for fraudsters and international criminal networks," he added.

Creating 'safer environment'

Some have, however, criticised the draft legislation for not going far enough.

"In line with the principle of proportionality, significant CASPs should be subject to both stricter requirements and enhanced supervision: neither of the two is catered for by MiCA," Elizabeth McCaul, European Central Bank supervisory board member, wrote in a blog post this month.

There have also been claims that the regulation would block innovation but McGuinness dismissed the suggestion.

"What we believe is that having a regulatory framework allows the industry to evolve in a more cohesive and safer environment," she said.

She added that she hoped the rules would become a model for other countries.

The rules will progressively come into force from July 2024 after EU member states formally nod them into law.

The EU is also preparing to introduce proposals for a digital euro later this year.

Russia releases first

The first feature film shot in space premiered in Russian cinemas yesterday, as Moscow exulted in beating a rival Hollywood project amid a confrontation with the West. "The Challenge" is about a surgeon dispatched to the International Space Station (ISS) to save an injured cosmonaut. Russia sent an actress and a film director for a 12-day stint on the ISS in October 2021 to film scenes aboard the orbiting laboratory.

The Russian crew beat a Hollywood project announced in 2020 by "Mission Impossible" star Tom Cruise together with NASA and Elon Musk's SpaceX. Russian President Vladimir Putin has lauded the film, saying: "We are the first to have shot a feature film in orbit, aboard a spacecraft. Once again the first". The Soviet Union pioneered space travel and the film crew's mission added to a long list of firsts for Russia's space industry after several setbacks, including botched launches. In "The Challenge" a surgeon played by 38-year-old Yulia Peresild -- one of Russia's most glamorous actresses -- is sent to the ISS to save a cosmonaut injured during a spacewalk. Director Klim Shipenko, 39, who was in charge of camera, lighting and sound, brought back 30 hours of footage, 50 minutes of which were used in the final cut.

plea for stay on conviction

An Indian court yesterday rejected a plea by top opposition figure Rahul Gandhi for a stay on a defamation conviction that prompted his expulsion from parliament last month.

Gandhi, 52, who was sentenced to two years imprisonment for remarks he made in 2019 seen as insulting to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and those sharing his surname, had been looking to overturn the conviction before national elections due next year.

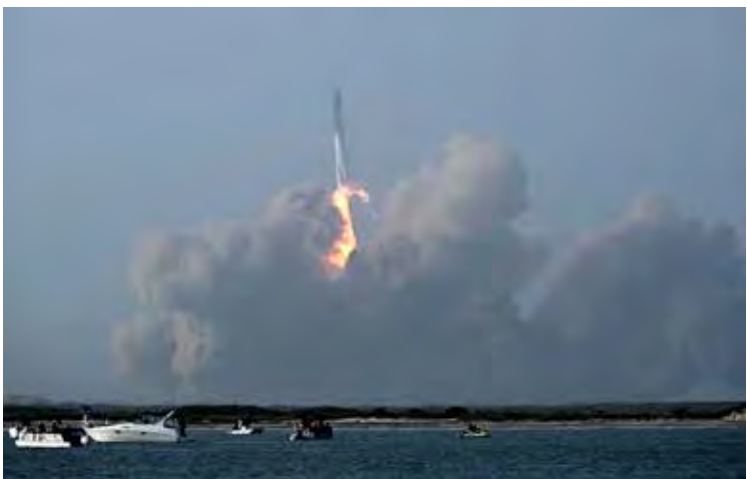

The case in the premier's home state of Gujarat is one of several lodged in recent years against Gandhi, who is Modi's chief opponent and the foremost member of the opposition Congress party.

The SpaceX Starship lifts off from the launchpad

the full 90-minute flight test and reach orbit, SpaceX and Musk, the founder and CEO of the private space company, declared it a success.

"Congrats SpaceX team on an exciting test launch of Starship!" Musk tweeted. "Learned a lot for next test launch in a few months."

SpaceX said that "with a test like this, success comes from what we learn, and today's test will help us improve Starship's reliability as SpaceX seeks to make life multi-planetary." "We cleared the tower which was our only hope," said Kate Tice, a SpaceX quality systems engineer.

The US space agency NASA has picked the Starship spacecraft to ferry astronauts to the Moon in late 2025 -- a mission known as Artemis III -- for the first time since the Apollo program ended in 1972.

NASA chief Bill Nelson congratulated SpaceX, saying "every Starship consists of a 164-foot (50-meter) tall spacecraft designed to carry crew and cargo that sits atop a 230-foot tall first-stage Super Heavy booster rocket. SpaceX conducted a successful test-firing of the 33 massive Raptor engines on the first-stage booster in February but the Starship spacecraft and the Super Heavy rocket were being flown together for the first time.

The integrated test flight was intended to assess their performance in combination.

Musk had warned ahead of the test that technical issues were likely and sought to play down expectations for the inaugural flight.

Sudan deaths mount as army chief rules out talks to end fighting

AFP | Khartoum

Explosions and gunfire resounded in Sudan's capital yesterday as fighting between the forces of two rival generals showed no signs of abating ahead of festivities marking the end of Ramadan.

Over 300 people have been killed since the fighting erupted Saturday between forces loyal to Sudan's army chief Abdel Fattah al-Burhan and his deputy, Mohamed Hamdan Daglo, who commands the paramilitary Rapid Support Forces (RSF).

Some of the fiercest battles have taken place in the capital Khartoum, a city home to five million people, most of whom have been cloistered in their homes without electricity, food and water.

As battles raged for a sixth day, Burhan dismissed any prospects for negotiations with Daglo, telling Al Jazeera yesterday he sees no option but "decisive military" action.

"I do not think there is any room for talks over politics again with the Rapid Support Forces," he told the Qatar-based broadcaster, but said he was open for mediation.

Another truce unravelled yesterday morning, with the crackle of gunfire heard and columns of thick black smoke seen rising from buildings around Khartoum International Airport and the army headquarters in the capital.

"We were awoken... to the roar-

Missing Indian climber rescued from Nepal peak

AFP | Kathmandu

An Indian climber was rescued alive yesterday from one of the world's most treacherous mountains in Nepal, three days after he went missing down a crevasse.

Anurag Maloo, 34, was descending from a camp on Annapurna on Monday when he fell down a deep crevasse at an altitude of around 5,600 metres.

Chhang Dawa Sherpa of Seven Summit Treks told AFP that Maloo had fallen 300 metres down a crevasse on the 8,091-metre (26,545-foot) mountain and had been lifted out by a team of eight people.

"His condition was critical and he has been airlifted to a Pokhara hospital for treatment," he added, referring to a nearby city. Annapurna, the world's tenth highest mountain, is avalanche-prone, technically difficult and has a higher death rate than Everest.

On Monday, renowned Northern Irish climber Noel Hanna, 56, died at Camp 4 after successfully summiting the peak.

A day later, record-holding Indian climber Baljeet Kaur, 28, and compatriot Arjun Vajpai, 30, were both rescued after a search lasting hours.

The spring Himalayan climbing season had a tragic start last week with the death of three Nepali climbers on Everest.

The trio were crossing the treacherous Khumbu icefall as part of a supply mission when a block of glacial ice fell and swept them into a deep crevasse.

Nepal is home to eight of the world's 10 highest peaks and welcomes hundreds of adventurers each spring climbing season, when temperatures are warm and winds are typically calm.

Pacific solar eclipse dazzles stargazers

AFP | Jakarta

Professional astronomers and amateur cosmologists across the southern Pacific donned protective glasses yesterday to witness a solar eclipse as the moon blocked out the sun for about a minute, in some cases totally.

Parts of Australia, Indonesia and East Timor were plunged into daytime darkness, delighting curious onlookers.

On Australia's northwest tip, the eclipse was total.

In the town of Exmouth, stargazers parked their caravans, pitched telescopes and donned protective glasses to watch the moon seemingly creep across the sun's surface before the totality hit at 11:29:48 local time.

"Many people become addicted to that minute or so of eerie otherworldliness," John Lattanzio of the Astronomical Society of Australia said.

"They become 'eclipse chasers' and they travel all over the world for repeat experiences."

When the darkness hit, it brought a spectral calm, according to witnesses.

Less than a minute later, the dusty outback was again bathed in light.

A little later, thousands waited in line at a planetarium in Jakarta, to see partial coverage

Flash over Kyiv believed to be meteorite

AFP | Kyiv

A bright flash seen over Kyiv was probably a meteorite, Ukraine's space agency said yesterday, after officials denied it was a satellite or a Russian missile attack.

The head of the city's military administration had said that the flash was caused by a NASA satellite returning to Earth.

But a NASA spokesman told AFP that this was not the case as the satellite in question was "still in orbit".

"We cannot identify what it was exactly, but our assumption is that it was a meteorite," Igor Korniyenko, the deputy head of a control centre at Ukraine's national space agency said yesterday.

But he said there was not sufficient data to determine "the exact nature" of what might have caused the flash.

"Our observation devices showed it was a powerful explosion. We recorded it and determined where it took place," he said.

The US space agency had announced earlier this week that a retired 660-pound (300-kilogram) satellite would re-enter the atmosphere some time on Wednesday.

"What exactly it was -- only experts can find out," the military administration's chief Sergiy Popko said yesterday.

Vivian Dsena attends Bahrain’s Ramadan food distribution drive and Iftar

ETimes

Vivian Dsena is back in his favourite country in the Middle East, this time Vivian attends Bahrain’s Ramadan food distribution drive and iftar with the government officials.

Vivian Dsena has been religiously following Ramadan and keeping rozas. The actor embraced Islam in 2019. Vivian is currently in Bahrain where he attended the country’s Ramadan food distribution drive with government officials.

The actor posed with the team and distributed food boxes for Iftar and packets of groceries to the Bahraini workers and the needy. This has been a ritual in Bahrain that every year the government hosts a drive to help the poor.

This isn’t the first time Vivian has visited Bahrain. Earlier he had been to the country for a vacation and enjoyed its water sports and hospitality. Vivian has been living in the Middle East. The actor had shared pictures from his Taraweeh from Abu Dhabi as he was praying right behind the Sheikh Zayed Mosque and now he is in Bahrain.

While talking about embracing Islam since 2019, Vivian shared with BT, “Nothing much has changed in my life. I was born Christian, and I follow Islam now. I started following Islam during the holy month of Ramadan in 2019. I find a lot of peace and solace in praying five times a day. So, here I put all the unsought speculations to rest.”

He had also wished all his fans Ramadan Kareem and wrote a message, which read, “Almighty. On this blessed first Friday in #Ramadan make us among those who fast sincerely for your sake. May you accept our fasts and nights in the prayer which we do in full submission. Keep us away from heedlessness and forgive all our sins. Amen.”

Millions of Indonesians travel in annual Eid exodus

AFF | Jakarta

On motorcycles, cars, buses, planes or by boat, millions of Indonesians were travelling to their hometowns in the annual Eid holiday exodus that peaked yesterday.

Major seaports and toll roads were packed, while airports and bus terminals are also full of travellers looking forward to reuniting with their families.

This year marks the first “mudik”, as the annual exodus is known, since Covid-19 restrictions were removed at the end of 2022 in the world’s most populous Muslim-majority country.

Indonesia’s transport ministry has predicted up to 123 million people will travel for Eid this year, up from 85 million estimated to have made the trip last year.

Some 18 million people were forecast to leave the Greater Jakarta area alone, enduring hours of traffic or congested airports and seaports to celebrate the end of the Muslim holy month of Ramadan with families.

Authorities have temporarily made some highways leaving the capital one way to ease congestion.

“I’m happy to meet my parents after quite a while and to be able to perform Eid prayer together,” Muhammad Naufal Vadina said.

He was taking a break during a trip that involves driving more than 350 kilometres (220 miles) from Tangerang on Jakarta’s western outskirts to his wife’s hometown in Central Java.

Some 500 travellers had a rare chance to sail aboard an Indonesian Navy warship, which left Jakarta on Tuesday on a trip that included stops in Semarang in Central Java and Surabaya in the island’s east.

“We found out on Instagram that the Navy has a free ‘mudik’ programme using a warship. It was our first time having such a journey,” said 33-year-old passenger Nurul Febryanti.

“It is enjoyable for us because we are provided with a room as we brought our children. The Navy officers are kind and friendly,” Febryanti said.

Hours spent in traffic did not deter others from making the annual trip because they were looking forward to reuniting with loved ones after the pandemic.

“For me, ‘mudik’ and the Eid al-Fitr is why I work to earn money. So it feels less meaningful if I don’t celebrate Eid in my hometown,” said 29-year-old Rahayu Agustini, who was travelling with her relatives to her hometown in West Java.

“Although it is exhausting, I’m still grateful as not all people can have the chance to experience ‘mudik’.”

Ramadan Recipe

Green shakshuka

Servings: 4 Time: 10 mins

Ingredients

- 3 tbsp olive oil
- 2 leeks, washed and sliced
- 200g bag baby spinach
- 250g frozen peas
- 2 fat garlic cloves, finely chopped
- 1 tbsp cumin seeds
- small pack parsley, roughly chopped
- small pack coriander, roughly chopped
- small pack mint, leaves picked and roughly chopped, reserving a few leaves to garnish
- 8 medium eggs
- 150g pot natural yogurt
- 1 tbsp harissa
- flatbread or crusty sourdough, to serve

Method:

1. Heat the oil in a wide, shallow frying pan over a medium heat. Add the leeks with a pinch of salt and cook for 4 mins until softened. Add handfuls of spinach to the pan, stirring until wilted.
2. Stir in the peas, garlic, cumin, herbs and some seasoning. Cook for a few mins until it smells fragrant, then create four gaps and crack two eggs into each. Cover and cook for 10 mins or until the whites are set but the yolks are runny – they will carry on cooking slightly as you take them to the table.
3. Season the eggs with flaky sea salt, dollop spoonfuls of the yogurt interspersed with the harissa, and scatter over a few mint leaves. Serve with a pile of flatbread for scooping.

Man City hit their stride for tilt at Man Utd's treasured treble

Manchester City continues to dominate Champions League, Premier League, and FA Cup

● City continues to challenge current league leaders Arsenal for Premier League title

AFP | Manchester

Manchester United remain the only English club to have won the prized treble of Champions League, Premier League and FA Cup, but Manchester City are closing in on the same feat. City stormed into the Champions League semi-finals for the third consecutive season on Wednesday, completing a 4-1 aggregate triumph over Bayern Munich. Mighty Real Madrid, who eliminated Pep Guardiola's men in the last four last season, await in the semi-finals. If City can slay the defending champions, they would be huge favourites to finally end their quest to conquer Europe, with AC Milan or Inter Milan waiting in the final in Istanbul on June 10. Domestically, City are already the dominant force as they go in search of a fifth Premier League title in six seasons. Long-time pacesetters Arsenal hold a four-point lead at the top of the table but are showing signs of nerves after costly draws against Liverpool and West Ham. City have a game in hand and home advantage next week when the Gunners visit the Etihad for a potential title decider. Before then, Guardiola's men make the trip to Wembley on Saturday for what should be a routine passage to the FA Cup final. Sheffield United are on the brink of securing a return to the Premier League next season, but it would be a huge surprise if the Championship side end City's 15-game unbeaten run, which stretches back to February. Despite the arrival of Erling Haaland, who scored the 48th goal of his debut season in a 1-1 draw in Munich on Wednesday, there were plenty of doubts about City just a few months ago.

BETTER YOU KNOW

Despite early season doubts, City has bounced back strongly, with a 15-game unbeaten run that stretches back to February. Guardiola has restored his trusted starting line-up, including the young Erling Haaland, who has already scored 48 goals in his debut season

“We struggled until February because we couldn't get in that usual run of the past years of winning 10, 15, 20 games in a row. Now the team is very consistent the way we are playing, we feel we have a chance in every competition and we are going for them” beat them -- City's most recent defeat -- with Kevin De Bruyne, Ilkay Gundogan and Ruben Dias among those left on the bench. All three have since been restored to Guardiola's most trusted starting line-up and City have achieved defensive solidity without blunting the effectiveness of Haaland. “We're very confident, in a very good moment, the best moment of the season for the team,” said midfielder Bernardo Silva.

BERNARDO SILVA

The odds on City matching Alex Ferguson's greatest achievement of his 26 years in charge of United have been slashed, with the club now the bookmakers' favourites for all three competitions they are in the hunt for. But Guardiola has warned in recent weeks of the tight-rope City must walk player. We're going to work very hard to bring some titles back home.”

Kings' Brown unanimous NBA coach of the year

AFP | New York

Sacramento's Mike Brown was named the NBA Coach of the Year on Wednesday, becoming the first unanimous winner of the award after guiding the Kings back to the playoffs. Brown also won the award in 2009 with the Cleveland Cavaliers, guiding a team that won 66 games as LeBron James was named the league's Most Valuable Player. He was sacked by the Cavs one year later, eventually landing briefly with the Los Angeles Lakers. In his first year at the helm in Sacramento he turned around a franchise whose 17-year playoff drought was the longest in NBA history and the longest active drought in major US pro sports. The 53-year-old received 100 out of 100 possible first-placed votes, a first in balloting for the award.

Long known for prioritizing defense, Brown developed the young Kings team into an offensive force. The Kings led the league in scoring with an average of 120.7 points per game in the regular season

Brown arrived in Sacramento after six seasons as an assistant to Steve Kerr with the Golden State Warriors -- just up the road in San Francisco. “These honors don't come around often, so you're very appreciative of them,” Brown said during an interview on broadcaster TNT's programme announcing the award. “Inside The NBA” after being named the winner of the award. ## Grizzlies, Bucks bounce back as Nuggets see off Wolves

AFP | Los Angeles

The Milwaukee Bucks and Memphis Grizzlies bounced back to level their respective NBA playoff series' with crucial victories Wednesday, as Jamal Murray delivered a 40-point masterpiece to give the Denver Nuggets a commanding 2-0 lead over the Minnesota Timberwolves. Top seeds Milwaukee shrugged off the injury absence of Giannis Antetokounmpo to thrash the Miami Heat 138-122 to tie their best-of-seven Eastern Conference series at 1-1. In the Western Conference playoffs, Memphis also overcame the loss of a star player -- Ja Morant -- before grinding out an attritional 103-93 win over LeBron James and the Los Angeles Lakers. Arguably the performance of the night however came in Denver, as the Nuggets' Murray poured in 40 points in a 122-113 victory over the Timberwolves.

Memphis's Jaren Jackson Jr battles with the Los Angeles Lakers Anthony Davis

Denver, the No.1 seeds in the West, now lead the series 2-0. It was the latest milestone in Murray's long road back from a serious knee injury. The 26-year-old point guard missed the entirety of the 2021-2022 campaign after undergoing surgery to repair torn knee ligaments in April 2021. Denver looked to be cruising to victory after leading 64-49 at half-time before a 40-point Minnesota third quarter turned the game on its head to leave the Timberwolves up by two. But Murray and Michael Porter Jr. combined for 23 fourth-quarter points to seal Denver's victory. “It was a passionate, heartfelt performance,” Denver coach Michael Malone said of Murray's display. “Just the fact that he's missed the last two post-seasons, just to have him back, and playing at that level -- Jamal overall was terrific.” Murray was almost outshone by Minnesota's Anthony Edwards, who finished with 41 points in a losing effort. In other games, Xavier Tillman scored 22 points and pulled down 18 rebounds in the Grizzlies' win over the Lakers.

US score late to draw 1-1 with Mexico in friendly

AFP | Arizona

Jesus Ferreira scored a late equalizer to salvage a 1-1 draw for the United States against Mexico on Wednesday in a friendly international match in Arizona. Both teams fielded under-strength sides with few Europe-based players released for the fixture because it was outside of FIFA's recognized international calendar. Ferreira coolly tucked away a low finish in the 81st minute to secure a draw for the Americans, who had fallen behind to a 55th-minute effort from Mexico's Uriel Antuna. Antuna gave Mexico the lead after a defensive blunder by US central defender Aaron Long, who miscued a first-time pass near halfway that sent Antuna racing through on goal. The Mexico midfielder took his time before finishing past US goalkeeper Sean Johnson.

Nadal pulls out of Madrid in worrying French Open blow

Rafael Nadal admits hip injury may rule him out of French Open

● Muscle injury sustained in Australia has been slow to heal

AFP | Madrid

Rafael Nadal said yesterday he will miss next week's Madrid Masters as he continues to struggle to recover from a hip injury, dealing a significant blow to his French Open preparations.

"For the moment I've missed Monte Carlo and Barcelona. And unfortunately I won't be able to be in Madrid either," Nadal said on Instagram.

"The injury still hasn't healed," he added.

The 36-year-old Spaniard has not played since losing in the second round of the Australian Open in January.

Nadal is hoping for a record-extending 15th French Open title at Roland Garros in May, but his hip flexor problem he suffered in Melbourne has badly disrupted his run up to the tournament.

The 22-time Grand Slam champion -- he shares the men's record with Novak Djokovic -- had originally thought he would be out for up to two months.

He pulled out of hard-court tournaments at Indian Wells and Miami, with his sights set on a return at the start of the clay-court season, but it did not come to fruition.

"In principle it was supposed to be a recovery period of six to eight weeks and now we're around 14," said Nadal.

"The reality is that the situation is not what we would have hoped for. All medical indications have been followed, but the healing has not gone as they told us initially."

"I can't work on what I need to compete. I was training but a few days ago we decided to change course a bit, to try another treatment and see if things improve to try to get to what comes next."

"I can't give deadlines because if I knew I would tell you, but I don't know," he added. "This is how things are now."

Nadal's fitness problems have become an increasing issue since he won his 14th French Open crown last year.

Last month he dropped out of the top 10 for the first time since 2005, and is currently ranked 14th.

The French Open starts on May 28, with Nadal now in a race against time to be fit for the Rome Masters -- the last major tune-up event before Roland Garros.

Inter's Skriniar faces long lay-off after back surgery

Milan Skriniar
AFP | Milan

Milan Skriniar is set for a long period on the sidelines after Inter Milan announced yesterday that the Slovakia centre-back had undergone spinal surgery.

In a statement, Inter said that Skriniar underwent "endoscopic surgery on his lumbar spine" on Wednesday in France.

"The Inter defender will follow a rehabilitation program in the coming weeks," the statement added.

Skriniar risks missing the rest of Inter's season as the Italian club try to win the Champions League for the first time since 2010.

Inter take on local rivals AC Milan in a mouth-watering semi-final to decide who will contest June's final in Istanbul.

Skriniar, 28, is out of contract with Inter at the end of the season and is expected to sign for Paris Saint-Germain as a free agent in the summer.

‘No difference in class between Bayern and City’, says Tuchel

AFP | Munich

Bayern Munich coach Thomas Tuchel insisted on Wednesday there was "no difference in class" between his side and Manchester City despite the English club's comfortable victory in their Champions League quarter-final tie.

Pep Guardiola's City eased into the semi-finals with a 4-1 aggregate success, following up last week's 3-0 first-leg win with a 1-1 draw at the Allianz Arena.

"There's no difference in class. It looks like that from the results, but it's actually a difference in self-confidence and in form," Tuchel said.

"For the little we allowed (City) to do, we were brutally punished."

Tuchel took over from the sacked Julian Nagelsmann as Bayern boss earlier this month, despite the Bavarians boasting a perfect record in this season's Champions League.

"We played against the best team in Europe today, the most in-form team in Europe," the former Borussia Dortmund and

Bayern Munich's German head coach Thomas Tuchel argues with the fourth official before getting a red card

Chelsea coach said.

"We played completely on the same level, (but) in either game we didn't have even a tiny bit of luck."

Bayern had more possession than City in both legs and created a number of chances, but only scored once -- a late consolation through Joshua Kimmich's second-leg penalty.

Despite missing a spot-kick on Wednesday, striker Erling Haaland scored two and set up another of City's four goals across the two legs.

"To beat the best teams, not just to measure up against them but to beat them, you need to not only use 100 percent of your chances, but you need luck, you need decisions to go your way and maybe even a deflection," added the Bayern coach.

Tuchel, who was sent to the stands late in the match when shown a second yellow card, gave referee Clement Turpin "a grade F, from his first to his last decision".

Since Tuchel took over, Bayern have been eliminated from the Champions League and the German Cup, with only a chance at the Bundesliga title remaining.

Bayern sit two points clear of Dortmund in the Bundesliga with six matches to play and face in-form Mainz away on Saturday as they continue to chase a record-extending 11th title.

Schumacher family plans legal action over fake AI quotes: ESPN

Michael Schumacher's family is planning legal action against German magazine Die Aktuelle for using an artificial intelligence programme to generate fake quotes from the seven-time Formula One champion, sports broadcaster ESPN said yesterday.

The magazine had claimed it had an interview with the motorsport legend -- the first since he suffered a serious brain injury in a 2013 skiing accident in the French Alps.

On Wednesday, the magazine published the "interview", revealing afterwards it had been generated by artificial intelligence.

The article included quotes attributed to Schumacher, discussing his family life since the accident and his medical condition.

A spokesperson for the Schumacher family confirmed plans of legal action. The fam-

Arsenal can rediscover title-chasing swagger, says Arteta

AFP | London

Mikel Arteta is confident Arsenal can return to winning ways after damaging draws against Liverpool and West Ham cost them momentum in the Premier League title race.

The Gunners let two-goal leads slip in both games and the leaders are now just four points ahead of defending champions Manchester City, who have a game in hand.

The two title-chasing teams

Arsenal's manager Mikel Arteta (L) speaks with Granit Xhaka meet at the Etihad Stadium next week in a match that could prove pivotal.

Arteta said his team had reacted well after their setbacks as he prepares them to face bottom side Southampton on Friday.

"I'm very confident," he said yesterday. "Twists and turns are part of anything you do, especially in football."

"Whatever the aim or the target is, it is not going to go in a linear progression. You have to know that and prepare for that and the way the team reacted this week is incredibly positive and we want to see that tomorrow night."

The Spaniard admitted his team had to be more ruthless as they chase their first English top-flight title for 19 years.

"Maybe we got too comfortable at some stage in the (West Ham) game," he said. "It's different. They know. I don't have to coach them because they said it straight away."

"They know, it's in their system, it's in the gut and tomorrow we have to show it."

Kane can win a trophy at Tottenham, says Levy

AFP | London

Tottenham chairman Daniel Levy says Harry Kane can still fulfil his ambition of winning a trophy with the club but believes being a “legend” is also important.

The England captain has scored 23 Premier League goals this season -- behind only Manchester City’s Erling Haaland -- but is approaching the final 12 months of his contract at managerless Spurs.

The 29-year-old forward, who has been linked with a move to Manchester United or Paris Saint-Germain at the end of the season, has spent his whole senior career at Tottenham but is yet to win a trophy.

Spurs’ record goalscorer has often made clear his desire to win silverware at his boyhood club but discussions over a new deal are yet to take place.

“The fact that he’s the top scorer for Tottenham Hotspur, he’s making history. I hope one day there is a statue of Harry Kane outside our stadium

DANIEL LEVY

Levy said during a discussion at the Cambridge Union Society: “He (Kane) can absolutely win a trophy at Spurs, but being a legend is also important.

“The fact that he’s the top scorer for Tottenham Hotspur, he’s making history. I hope one day there is a statue of Harry Kane outside our stadium.”

Long-serving chairman Levy is known for his reluctance to take part in media activities and has rarely given interviews during his 22 years at Spurs since ENIC bought the club.

Manama win playoff opener

Defending champions take one step forward to Golden Square semi-finals of 2022/2023 Zain Bahrain Basketball League

● Lamont Jones scores 23 points to spearhead Manama

TDI | Manama

Defending champions Manama took one step forward last night to securing their place in the Golden Square semi-finals of the 2022/2023 Zain Bahrain Basketball League.

Manama outclassed Bahrain Club 106-79 in game one of their best-of-three playoff series, being played at Zain Basketball Arena in Um Al Hassam.

Manama used a strong second-quarter performance to build a double-digit lead against their opponents, which they did well to hold on to over the game’s final two quarters.

Manama will now be looking to secure their final four berth and sweep this match-up in

Manama’s Mustafa Hussain looks to make a play off a screen from teammate Ahmed Najaf against Bahrain Club last night game two, scheduled for Thursday next week. Game three, if needed, will be on May 4.

The winner of Manama’s series with Bahrain Club will next face off with Al Ahli in the Golden Square.

All 11 Manama players that took to the hardwood scored in the game.

For Bahrain Club, Damonte Dodd had 21 points to pace Bahrain Club while also grabbing 17 rebounds. Ali Abbas chipped in with 16 while Said Shukrallah had 11 in the loss.

In Manama’s win, they held a slim 22-17 edge at the end of the first but extended their lead to 51-39 at the half. A lopsided third quarter where they outscored Bahrain Club 32-16 saw Manama take a commanding 83-55 lead into the final canto, where they enjoyed their biggest lead of 37 points.

Meanwhile, the other Golden Square semi-final clash between Muharraq and Al Ettihad will get underway with game one on May 8. Game two is scheduled for May 11, and then game three, if needed, will be on May 14.

Muharraq and Ahli gained automatic berths in the semis as the top two seeds from the regular season.

BRAVE CF returns to Latin America

● BRAVE CF to make history with Pan American Combat Week and Colombia event

TDI | Manama

Under the vision of His Highness Shaikh Khalid bin Hamad Al Khalifa, BRAVE Combat Federation is set to take the flag of the Kingdom of Bahrain to the highest of places in Mixed Martial Arts and uplift the Latin American combat sports scene in the same manner it did the Balkan region when the BRAVE Pan-American Combat Week is rolled out in Bogota, Colombia, between August 8 and August 12.

Governed by the International Mixed Martial Arts Federation (IMMAF) in partnership with BRAVE CF, the Colombian Association of Mixed Martial Arts (OCAMM), and in co-promotion with Latin Fighter Championship (LFC), the Pan-American Championships will kick off on August 8th with amateur athletes from North, Central, and South America, all competing for honors and rankings under the IMMAF banner.

The week-long event will then culminate with BRAVE Colombia on August 12, as some of the finest Latin and international professional mixed martial artists will showcase their skills and fight on the fastest-growing MMA platform as BRAVE

CF aims to connect Colombia and surrounding nations to the world with a truly global show in Bogota.

In February, the jewel of Bahraini sports, BRAVE CF, and various stakeholders, including IMMAF, and the Serbian MMA Federation (SMMAF), helped transcend the Balkan region’s combat sports scene. The BRAVE Serbia International Week saw more than 550 athletes from 60-plus nations descend upon Belgrade, Serbia, to compete in the IMMAF World Championships before the epic BRAVE CF 69 event blew the roof off of the sold-out Stark Arena as some of the world’s best international stars stepped into the BRAVE CF cage closing out Europe’s largest combat sports festival yet.

The event had such a positive impact on the Serbian industry that the Serbian Minister of Sports officially endorsed mixed martial arts as a sport and announced the inclusion of MMA as part of the sports development initiative of Serbia.

Later this year, BRAVE CF will aim to make the same impact in Latin America by boosting the region’s economy, galvanizing the MMA industry, and connecting the region’s talent and infrastructure to the world through

BRAVE CF’s huge market share.

BRAVE Colombia will be the biggest Middle East sports media company’s third show in the Republic, following BRAVE CF 15 (Bucaramanga, 2018) and BRAVE CF 26 (Bogota, 2019). The last two events have highlighted the potential in the region as Colombia proved to be a key strategic market for the growth of BRAVE CF.

With the help of the Colombian MMA Association, the Sport Institute of Bogota, and LFC Colombia, the promotion also started a program focused on empowering the local MMA scene giving rise to some of BRAVE CF’s most exciting stars, including Road to BRAVE CF winner Eduardo Mora.

Later this year, BRAVE CF aims to unearth new talent and build on its success within Colombia with the much-anticipated BRAVE Pan-American Combat Week.

Du Plessis, Siraj help Bangalore down Punjab in IPL

Faf du Plessis of Royal Challengers Bangalore plays a shot

AFP | Mohali

An attacking 84 by Faf du Plessis and four wickets by Mohammed Siraj led Royal Challengers Bangalore to a comfortable 24-run win over Punjab Kings in the Indian Premier League yesterday.

Du Plessis and Virat Kohli, who made 59, put together an opening stand of 137 to lay the foundations of Bangalore’s 174-4 after being sent in to bat in the opening match of the day at Mohali.

Siraj then returned impressive figures of 4-21 and forced a run out to dismiss Punjab for 150 in 18.2 overs for Bangalore’s third victory in six matches.

Kohli stood in as captain for du Plessis, who made the team as a batsman due to a rib injury he picked in the previous match and was later substituted under the new impact player rule.

The South African had lived up to the designation with a 56-ball knock laced with five sixes. He tops the tournament’s batting chart with 343 runs, including four half-centuries.

Kohli has a total of 279 runs

Scorecard

Royal Challengers Bangalore 174 for 4 (Du Plessis 84, Kohli 59, Brar 2-31) beat Punjab Kings 150 (Prabhsimran 46, Jitesh 41, Siraj 4-21) by 24 runs but yesterday’s knock lacked his usual aggression.

Harpreet Brar broke the marathon stand to have Kohli caught behind and then snared Glenn Maxwell, who attempted to hit out on his first ball but was caught for a duck.

Du Plessis departed in the next over and the Punjab bowlers came back well to keep down Bangalore’s score despite a solid foundation that had raised hopes of a 200-plus total.

Punjab lost wickets regularly in their reply and only Prabhsimran Singh, with a valiant 46 off 30 deliveries, and Jitesh Sharma’s late blitz of 41 represented any real fight.

Siraj got two breakthroughs at the start, including the dangerous England import Liam Livingstone for two, and leg-spinner Wanindu Hasaranga bowled Australia’s Matthew Short for eight.
