Wendy Williams and Kevin Hunter are officially divorced

ANI | Los Angeles

merican television Apresenter Wendy Williams' and producer Kevin Hunter's divorce is official.

Wendy Williams who is an American television and radio host has finally finalized her divorce with producer Kevin Hunter.

According to the documents obtained by E! News, this week a judge signed off on the finalization of the couple's divorce. As a part of their legal settlement agreement, neither of them will receive alimony.

The documents stated that Wendy will remain the sole owner of their previous shared production company, Wendy Inc., and Kevin's remaining business shares will go to her.

The two have even agreed to evenly split the profits from their New Jersey home once that sells. In addition, they will each be responsible for paying their own legal fees. The 55-year-old television host filed for divorce in April 2019, citing irreconcilable differences.

Sarah Hyland fires back at Instagram critic who ridiculed her tan at the 2020 SAG
