Between 150 and 200 National Guard deployed to Washington, DC, to provide security for President Joe Biden's inauguration have tested positive for the coronavirus, a US official said yesterday.

The official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said the number of National Guard troops who tested positive could rise but was still a small fraction of the more than 25,000 troops deployed in the city over the past few days.

Nabih Saleh gets new BD3.5m water station

● Project costs BD3.5 million

● Station entirely powered by solar energy

● Upper tank has one million gallon capacity

TDI | Manama

Electricity and Water Authority has announced the completion of a BD 3.5 million Water Distribution Station in Nabih Saleh.

Work is currently underway to launch the solar panel system on the upper reservoir, which would power up the entire facility.

“702 solar panels are being installed, which could produce about 253 kilowatts (maximum) of clean electrical energy,” said EWA chief, Shaikh Nawaf bin Ibrahim Al Khalifa.

“Energy thus produced satisfies the needs of the station,” Shaikh Nawaf said adding, “surplus electricity will flow to Kingdom’s electricity distribution network.”

A one-million-gallon upper tank, with accompanying pipelines and valves, and a building for electrical devices, control devices and a water chlorination system were constructed, as part of the project.

The upper reservoir is covered with aluminium sheets, taking into account the urban character of the region.

The development came as Electricity and Water Affairs Minister, Wael bin Nasser Al-Mubarak, the CEO of the Electricity and Water Authority (EWA), Shaikh Nawaf bin Ibrahim Al Khalifa, and Capital Municipal Council Chairman, Saleh Tarrada, yesterday visited the Nabih Saleh Water Distribution Station.

The station is within EWA’s plans to develop and expand water distribution networks, in line with the directives of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister.

The project increases EWA’s storage capacity and strengthens the water distribution network in the Nabih Saleh region. It also meets the needs of housing and service projects there.

“EWA will continue to implement more development projects to enhance the quality of its services,” the minister said.

Nass Contracting Company constructed all of the station’s facilities and supplied it with the latest mechanical, electrical, control and communication equipment from leading companies.

Ahmed Mansoor Al-Aali covered the upper reservoir and installed solar energy cells. A UK consultancy firm, Mott MacDonald, oversaw the construction of the station.

CAPTAINS CORNER

Don't sleep while speeding

CAPT. MAHMOOD AL MAHMOOD

The news of a bus falling into the sea in Bahrain because of negligent driving and one person losing his life, is considered fairly unusual by readers in Bahrain. Yet, the key detail remains hidden in on small fact – the timing: the accident took place at dawn. Late night and dawn accidents are inevitably caused by the driver falling asleep at the wheel and this is even more common than drunk driving! Some studies show that 37 percent of drivers report having fallen asleep behind the wheel at some point in their lives. An estimated 21 percent of fatal crashes, 13 percent of crashes resulting in severe injury and 6 percent of all crashes, involve a drowsy driver.

The Bahrain roads are well laid-out and most busy roads have carefully-planned hard shoulders where drivers can pull over and either rest or call a friend for help if they feel they are losing concentration due to sleepiness.

In Bahrain such a problem is usually not common simply because we generally travel short distances compared to large countries – even cross border travel to neighbouring countries such as Saudi Arabia and Kuwait takes less time than interstate travel in Europe or the USA. However, we need to factor in other changes – cars today are faster and many more of them are on our roads, making even the slightest mistake a risk. Drivers need to stay more alert than even just ten years ago. Meanwhile, although drinking after consumption of alcohol is not such a big problem in this part of the world, a lifestyle change means that many people – especially youngsters – work or party into the wee hours of the night and sleep deprivation behind the wheel is as much a threat on the road as drunk driving.

The Traffic department must make people aware of this risk and ensure that drivers are well-rested especially during the “danger hours” of late night and early morning. The Bahrain roads are well laid-out and most busy roads have carefully-planned hard shoulders where drivers can pull over and either rest or call a friend for help if they feel they are losing concentration due to sleepiness. It will save their lives as well as the lives of many fellow-road users.

NICE to deliver secure, reliable and stable network, says BNET

BNET opens Network Intelligence Centre of Excellence

TDT | Manama

Bahrain's National Broadband Network (BNET) has opened a Network Intelligence Centre of Excellence (NICE) to deliver secure, reliable and stable network in the Kingdom.

Launched in October 2019, BNET is responsible for providing broadband network services across Bahrain.

BNET said NICE has been developed to provide 24/7 proactive monitoring and management of Bahrain's smart digital telecommunication infrastructure networks by addressing any issues in real-time.

Among the functions covered by NICE are 'Fault Management', to enable the timely resolution of network faults and interruptions, and 'Performance Management', to predict and prevent service interruptions through the proactive network monitoring which will ensure consistency in the performance level.

BNET CEO Mohamed Bubashait said, "We aim to ensure that Bahrain's Licensed Operators have access to seamless and efficient support for all their needs around the clock so that they can deliver the best quality of services to benefit the end-users, Bahrain's consumer and business customers across the Kingdom. Furthermore, we are focusing on adopting modern, world-class solutions to meet international standards."

BNET Acting Chief Technical Officer Mohamed Alkaabi said the criticality of BNET's network services and operations requires a world-class network operation monitoring centre, and the new NICE operation perfectly meets this requirement.

As part of Bahrain's fifth National Telecommunication Plan, BNET provides next-generation wholesale fibre broadband connectivity to all licensed telecom operators in Bahrain. It also provides broadband services to large enterprise customers in the Kingdom.

Capital takes action against owners of dilapidated fences

The Capital municipality has kick-started a campaign to identify properties with dilapidated fences - a violation by Bahraini law.

The Director-General of the Capital Municipality Al-Muhtadas Muhammad Saad Al-Sahli said the municipality had formed a team to identify all such violating properties in the capital.

The team has started notifying the owners of such properties in the capital to correct the violations.

The campaign, Al Sahli said, aims at preserving the general characteristics of the structures in the area.

He pointed out that the shabby state of the structures is mainly due to negligence. "It ruins the visual harmony and aesthetic appearance of the area."

"Such structures may also lead to catastrophic accidents endangering lives and property," he said.

Al Sahli made clear that if the owners fail to take up the work, the municipality will take over and charge the owners for the expenses incurred. "For this, the municipality will file civil lawsuits."

The Director-General said that Article (14) of the Public Road Works Law promulgated by Decree-Law No. (2) of 1996 authorises the municipality to remove violations by administrative methods at the expense of the violators.

Al Sahli called on property owners to renovate structures on their properties, including fencing, befitting the general appearance of the capital, and ensuring the safety of passers-by and visitors.

Investcorp launches inaugural “House View” on credit markets

Dear Investors and Friends,
Welcome to the inaugural Investcorp Credit Management House View. This quarterly note discusses the market and the past quarter and based on our insight into both the US and European credit markets and offers our views on the market operations we expect to see in Q1 2021.

TDT | Manama

Investcorp yesterday released its inaugural “House View” on the state of global credit markets.

The report analyzes the recent performance of US and European credit markets and provides an outlook for key expectations in 2021.

“Credit markets once again demonstrated their resiliency in 2020, staging an extraordinary recovery following the market rout last March and highlighting the need for disciplined and active portfolio management,” said Jeremy Ghose, Global Head of Investcorp Credit Management. “Overall, defaults have been focused on sectors most negatively impacted by COVID-19 and have been offset by significant fiscal and monetary support. Looking ahead, we expect there will continue to be significant volatility across markets, but we also believe that this will create opportunities for skilled active managers to capture value as portfolios are re-balanced amidst the recovery.”

Philip Yeates, Head of European Credit Funds at Investcorp commented, “While we are encouraged by the improving overall macro outlook and credit fundamentals entering 2021, we recognize the various challenges and uncertainties that could emerge and lead to periods of volatility.”

“We expect improving credit fundamentals and decreasing default rates in the US as the economy recovers from the pandemic resulting in credit spreads tightening further,” said David Moffitt, Co-Head of US Credit Management at Investcorp. “We further expect loan issuance to increase from depressed levels in 2020 driven by a significant recovery in M&A and LBO activity. Demand for loans will be driven by a strong anticipated recovery in CLO issuance and by high yield crossover buyers drawn to rela-

Key insights highlighted in the report, include:

- * Global economic momentum slowed during the fourth quarter of 2020 due to rising COVID-19 cases, but the impact has been more limited compared to the initial lock-down in the spring of 2020.
- * US and European markets have been significantly “risk-on” following the November vaccine news.
- * In US credit, high yield spreads tightened over 140 bps over the final two months of the year with yields recently sitting at an all-time low of 4.57%.
- * US high yield returned 5.48% in 2020. Leveraged loans returned 2.78% in 2020, an exceptional recovery from the (19.76%) YTD returns at the March nadir.
- * Credit fundamentals and loan market technicals remain strong in the US. The market technical continues to be supported by strong CLO formation, an increasing pace of prepayments, a restrained supply of new issue loans and expectations for continued Fed support and fiscal stimulus from the new administration.
- * European leveraged loans have extended their nine-year record of positive annual returns in 2020 and are poised to benefit from several technical tailwinds, including: a pronounced structural supply deficit, led by subdued primary issuance and continued new CLO issuance.
- * However, European market fundamentals are facing significant pressure and uncertainties from the COVID-19 pandemic and the related lockdown measures to contain the virus.
- * The report predicts European default rates will remain relatively elevated through 2021 and the over reliance of European markets on Central Bank stimulus poses significant medium-term risks as the support is eventually reduced or removed.

Police detain a man during a protest against the jailing of opposition leader Alexei Navalny in St. Petersburg, Russia

Police detained over 1,500 people and used force to break up rallies around Russia yesterday as tens of thousands of protesters demanded the release of Kremlin critic Alexei Navalny, whose wife was among those detained.

Navalny had called on his supporters to protest after being arrested last weekend as he returned to Russia from Germany for the first time since being poisoned with a nerve agent he says was applied to his underpants by state security agents in August.

The authorities had warned people to stay away from yesterday's protests, saying they risked catching COVID-19 as well as prosecution and possible jail time for attending an unauthorised event.

But protesters defied the ban and bitter cold, and turned out in force.

In central Moscow, where Reuters reporters estimated at least 40,000 people had gathered in one of the biggest unauthorised rallies for years, police were seen roughly detaining people, bundling them into nearby vans.

The authorities said just some 4,000 people had shown up. The foreign ministry questioned Reuters' crowd estimate, using sarcasm to suggest it was too high.

"Why not just immediately say 4 million?," it quipped on its official Telegram messenger channel.

Some protesters chanted "Putin is a thief", and "Disgrace" and "Freedom to Navalny!"

Navalny's wife Yulia said on social media she had been detained at the rally. She was later released.

Some of Navalny's political allies were detained in the days before the protest; others on the day itself.

The OVD-Info protest monitor group said that at least 1,614 people, including 513 in Moscow and 212 in St Petersburg, had been detained across Russia.

It reported arrests at rallies in nearly 70 towns and cities.

Navalny, a 44-year-old lawyer, is in a Moscow prison pending the outcome of four legal matters he describes as trumped up. He accuses President Vladimir Putin of ordering his attempted murder. Putin has dismissed that, alleging Navalny is part of a U.S.-backed

YOU KNOW WHAT

Navalny, who is President Vladimir Putin's most prominent and durable foe, was arrested on Jan. 17 when he returned to Moscow from Germany, where he had spent five months recovering from a severe nerve-agent poisoning that he blames on the Kremlin dirty tricks campaign to discredit him.

One Moscow protester, Sergei Radchenko, 53, said: "I'm tired of being afraid. I haven't just turned up for myself and Navalny, but for my son because there is no future in this country."

He added that he was frightened but felt strongly about what he called an out of control judicial system.

There was no immediate comment from the Kremlin, which had previously called the protests illegal and the work of "provocateurs".

Biden administration to review US-Taliban withdrawal deal

AFP | Washington

The Biden administration said it will review a landmark US deal with the Taliban, focusing on whether the insurgent group has reduced attacks in Afghanistan, in keeping with its side of the agreement.

Washington struck a deal with the Taliban in Qatar last year, to begin withdrawing its troops in return for security guarantees from the militants and a commitment to kickstart peace talks with the Afghan government.

But violence across Afghanistan has surged despite the two sides engaging in those talks since September.

President Joe Biden's newly appointed national security advisor, Jake Sullivan, spoke with his Afghan counterpart Hamdullah Mohib and "made clear the United States' intention to review" the deal, said National Security Council spokeswoman Emily Horne late Friday.

Johnson says UK virus strain more deadly

AFP | London

The coronavirus strain that has swept Britain and beyond in recent months could be more deadly as well as more transmissible, Prime Minister Boris Johnson said.

The sobering news came as the UK sees record deaths from Covid-19, following a surge in cases and hospitalisations since the variant was first identified in south-east England in September.

The strain has also spread to more than 60 nations -- including China, where the pandemic began more than a year ago -- according to the World Health Organization (WHO).

"In addition to spreading more quickly, it also now appears that there is some evidence that the new variant... may be associated with a higher degree of mortality," Johnson said at a news conference.

He blamed the variant for the grim situation engulfing Britain, where another 1,401 fatalities were announced Friday, taking the overall toll to 95,981 -- the highest in Europe.

Virus deaths have risen 16 percent over the past week, while the number of people hospitalised with Covid-19 is approaching double the number seen during the worst days of the first wave of the pandemic in April.

BORIS JOHNSON

Chief government scientist Patrick Vallance said the new variant could be 30-40 percent more deadly for some age groups, although he stressed the assessment relied on sparse data.

"There's a lot of uncertainty around these numbers and we need more work to get a precise handle on it, but it obviously is of concern," he said, flanking Johnson in Downing Street.

"You will see that across the different age groups as well, a similar sort of relative increase in the risk."

However Mike Ryan, executive director of the WHO's health emergencies programme, said it had not yet seen evidence that the variant is more lethal.

"What we are seeing is that if you infect more people, more people will get very sick, and if more people get very sick more people will die," he added.

"Increasing incidence leads to higher mortality."

Trump impeachment trial put off until early February

Democratic leader says the trial is set to begin during the week of Monday Feb. 8

● Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer urges 'truth and accountability' in the trial of the former president on 'incitement of insurrection' charge

Reuters | Washington

The leaders of the U.S. Senate agreed to push back former President Donald Trump's impeachment trial by two weeks, giving the chamber more time to focus on President Joe Biden's legislative agenda and Cabinet nominees before turning to the contentious showdown over Trump.

Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer, a Democrat, said the trial is set to begin during the week of Monday Feb. 8, an arrangement praised by the chamber's top Republican, Mitch McConnell.

The House of Representatives is due to formally deliver to the Senate on Monday the impeachment charge accusing Trump of inciting an insurrection, a move that ordinarily would have triggered the beginning of the trial within a day. The charge stems from Trump's incendiary speech to supporters before they stormed the Capitol on Jan. 6 in a rampage that delayed the formal congressional certification of Biden's election victory and left five people dead, including a police officer.

Schumer said the new timeline will allow the Senate to move quickly on key Biden appointees and other tasks while giving House lawmakers who will prosecute the case and Trump's team more time to prepare for the trial.

"During that period, the Senate will continue to do other business for the American people, such as Cabinet nominations and the COVID relief bill which would provide relief for millions of Americans who are suffering during this pandemic," Schumer said on the Senate floor.

The timeline was a compromise after McConnell had asked the Democratic-led House to delay sending the charge until next Thursday, and called on Schumer to postpone the trial until mid-February to give Trump more time to prepare a defense.

Doug Andres, a spokesman for McConnell, said the senator was pleased Democrats had given Trump's defense more time, and laid out a timeline that could have the trial begin as soon as Feb. 9.

"This is a win for due process and fairness," Andres said.

Under the timeline, House impeachment managers will file their pre-trial brief and Trump's defense team will file an answer to the impeachment charge on Feb. 2, and each side will respond to those filings on Feb. 8.

Trump on Jan. 13 became the first US president to have been impeached twice. The Senate acquitted him last year in the previous trial focused on Trump's request that Ukraine investigate Biden and his son. Trump's presidential term ended on Wednesday.

Conviction in the Senate would require a two-thirds vote — meaning 17 of Trump's fellow Republicans would have to vote against him. A conviction would clear the way for a second vote, requiring a simply majority, to bar Trump from holding office again.

A Reuters/Ipsos poll released on Friday found a slim majority of Americans believe Trump should be convicted and barred from holding public office. The responses were almost entirely along party lines, with nine out of 10 Democrats wanting Trump convicted and less than two in 10 Republicans agreeing.

Trump has said he may seek the presidency again in 2024. His fate could depend on McConnell, whose position is likely to influence other Republicans. McConnell said this week that the mob that attacked the Capitol was "fed lies" and "provoked by the president and other powerful people."

Biden's Agenda

White House spokeswoman Jen Psaki told reporters earlier in the day that the Senate should be able to move forward with both the trial and Biden's agenda, beginning with his call for $1.9 trillion of fresh COVID-19 assistance for Americans and the US economy.

"What cannot be delayed through this process is his proposal to get relief to the American people at this time of crisis," Psaki said.

Republican Senator Lindsey Graham, a close ally of Trump, said the agreement between Schumer and McConnell was "fair to all concerned."

"It allows the president's defense team adequate time to prepare and for the sake

Tropical cyclone Eloise makes landfall in Mozambique, loses strength

Fallen tree branches on a muddy street after cyclone Eloise

Reuters | Johannesburg

Tropical cyclone Eloise made landfall in Mozambique early yesterday, hitting the coastal city of Beira with huge gusts of wind and heavy rains, but was losing strength as it progressed, a South African weather official said.

"Eloise made landfall around 2:30 a.m. in the morning with wind speeds of 160 kilometres per hour (kph) (99 miles per hour)," said Mbazhi Maliage, a forecaster at South African Weather Service.

Cars were submerged in water, walls of some low lying buildings collapsed and swathes of land were flooded in the city of Beira, posts on Twitter showed. Reuters could not independently verify the authenticity of the posts.

Sri Lanka Minister who promoted 'Covid syrup' tests positive

Pavithra Wanniarachchi

BBC | Colombo

Sri Lanka's health minister, who endorsed herbal syrup to prevent Covid, has tested positive for the virus.

Pavithra Wanniarachchi tested positive on Friday, a media secretary at the Ministry of Health told the BBC.

She had promoted the syrup, manufactured by a shaman who claimed it worked as a life-long inoculation against the virus.

Sri Lanka recorded 56,076 cases and 276 deaths since the pandemic began, with cases surging in recent months.

Wanniarachchi is the fourth minister to test positive. A junior minister, who also took the potion, tested positive earlier this week.

And now, a reading from an email according to St. Paul

Reuters | London

If he were alive today, even St. Paul would be texting, Tweeting and firing off emails to get the news out, Pope Francis said yesterday in his message for the Roman Catholic Church's World Day of Social Communication.

St. Paul, who lived in the first century of the Christian era, spread the new faith into Europe and Asia Minor and is believed to have written a great part of the New Testament.

"Every tool has its value, and that great communicator who was Paul of Tarsus would certainly have made use of email and social messaging," the pope said in the message, titled "Come and See".

Still, Francis said Paul was at his best while preaching in per-

He said too often investigative reporting was being replaced by a "standard, often tendentious narrative" not capable of grasping problems and aspirations at the grassroots level.

"In communications, nothing can ever completely replace seeing things in person," he said.

"Thanks to their efforts, we now know, for example, about the hardships endured by persecuted minorities in various parts of the world, numerous cases of oppression and injustice inflicted on the poor and on the environment, and many wars that otherwise would be overlooked," he said.

Jennifer Lopez didn't feel she was 'loving myself' while in her 'late 30s'

Fox | Los Angeles

Jennifer Lopez is looking back on her life. The "Hustlers" actress recently sat down for an interview with Coach and discussed her past relationships and how she felt about herself while in them. "I remember when I was going through therapy at the beginning, you know, kind of in my late 30s and there was a lot of talk about loving yourself and I was like, 'I love myself,'" Lopez said. But, she later came to realize there was a deeper meaning to loving yourself. "But obviously I was doing all these things in like my personal relationships that didn't seem like I was loving myself, but I didn't even understand the concept of it," she admitted. "It took time and it's a journey and it's still a journey for me." It's unclear which "past relationships" she was referring to, but Lopez was 34 when she married singer Marc Anthony in 2004. The pair -- they share 12-year-old twins Max and Emme -- split in 2011 and finalized their divorce three years later. The star is now engaged to former baseball pro Alex Rodriguez. They were set to marry in 2020 but delayed their nuptials in response to the coronavirus pandemic. Lopez previously spoke to W Magazine about her split from Anthony and said it was one of the times in her life that she stopped and thought "this is too hard." "When my marriage ended, it was not easy to find forgiveness. It wasn't the dream that I had hoped for, and it would have been easier to fan the flames of resentment, disappointment and anger," she said, per E! News back in 2016. "But Marc is the father of my children, and that's never going away. So, I have to work to make things right. And that is, by far, the hardest work I do." Furthermore, Lopez admitted that though she was married for many years, she knew her marriage to Anthony, now 52, wouldn't last. "I hung in there for seven years," she said. "I knew very quickly that it wasn't the right thing."

Alison Brie recalls her major accent fail on 'Hannah Montana'

ANI | Washington

During an interview with Jimmy Fallon, Hollywood actor and producer Alison Brie shared a hilarious acting fail memory from her time on the hit show 'Hannah Montana'. According to E! News while appearing on an episode of 'The Tonight Show' starring Jimmy Fallon, Alison recalled the audition for her first on-screen role on 'Hannah Montana'.

While looking at a picture of herself she said, "What a face. You know, I was very excited. But the thing I remember most is that I decided to go in for my audition with, like, a very broad Long Island accent. Not requested!" The host of the show, Jimmy asked her about her role on the hit show, to which she replied that she played a "kooky hairdresser that is hired by the brother's nemesis." The 'Happiest Season' star then went into the acting mode and portrayed the hairdresser, shouting in a heavy L.I. accent, "Ya need a haircut? I'll do it! I'll do it! Gimme your hair!" Jimmy laughed on as Alison further shared, "Like--but then I book the part. I come in for the first rehearsal with the director and everybody and I'm doing my shtick, and the director's just like, 'Great. Just lose the accent. We'll go from there.'" Alison has come a long way from her Hannah Montana days. On the show she also briefly spoke about her latest project, 'Promising Young Women', which she said is "so unique" and "has a lot of surprises."

Gigi Hadid reveals name of baby daughter

Fox | Los Angeles

Gigi Hadid finally revealed the name of her baby daughter whom she shares with boyfriend Zayn Malik. The 25-year-old supermodel subtly changed her Instagram profile to read "Khai's mom."

The couple welcomed Khai in September and have kept her face off of social media. "Our baby girl is here, healthy & beautiful," Malik, 28, tweeted on Sept. 23. "To try put into words how I am feeling right now would be an impossible task."

The singer added, "The love I feel for this tiny human is beyond my understanding. Grateful to know her, proud to call her mine, & thankful for the life we will have together x."

George Clooney reveals he was once drunk on sets of 'One Fine Day'

ANI | Washington

American actor George Clooney and Michelle Pfeiffer discussed their time on the sets of 'One Fine Day' while appearing on Variety's 'Entertainers on Actors' show. The pair featured in the 1996 flick as outsiders who had a frenzied experience in New York City. "It's been for such a long time. I don't think I've seen you since the debut of 'One Fine Day,'" Pfeiffer said. Joking over the same, Clooney declared that it was Pfeiffer's "plan" from the start to avoid him for more than twenty years. The 'Painful Cruelty' star at that point opened up about arriving at work to film the movie after gulping down several drinks. "I was in New York, I was remaining at the Morgans Hotel, and my companion Rande Gerber, who is my accomplice now in the tequila organization - I had the free day. So I had a couple of beverages," he reviewed. "We kept awake and had a couple of vodkas or something. At that point, I got back home at one AM, and I'm similar to, 'Gracious st.' I was really pounded."

The following morning, the 'Cash Monster' star said that he woke up and felt "Alright." "At that point, I glanced in the mirror, and I resembled, 'Goodness, I'm actually tanked.' I got to the set, and we strolled to the trailer and I plunked down and you took a gander at me. You go, 'What?'" he proceeded. "What's more, I resembled, 'I didn't realise we planned to work today.'" During the conversation, Clooney said that the two recorded independently frequently, and there were "not many special cases" the point at which they were not dealing with what basically felt like "two different movies." Clooney proceeded with his story: "And you go, 'You're actually smashed.'"

It's a scene we did in an oner where you and I are arguing and forward to one another. I continued attempting to splash whatever mouth shower I could in light of the fact that I resembled a..." "A bottling works," Pfeiffer, who additionally filled in as a chief maker - and accordingly Clooney's chief - on the flick. "Like a refinery," the actor explained. In any case, that wasn't the lone time the star showed up on set following an unpleasant evening. Pfeiffer at that point reviewed her co-star showing up one day "with a wrecked face." "No doubt, I was playing b-ball with the team at noon, and I took an elbow in the face from one of the group individuals, and it broke my eye attachment," Clooney recollected. "Also, I resembled, 'I can in any case shoot.' I recollect that we really shot scenes where we obstructed portion of my face with a child."

Bahrain handed tough defeat to Qatar

Nationals unable to maintain strong start as Gulf rivals rally in second half in clash between Gulf rivals

● Bahrainis take narrow lead at the interval but lose control of the contest after conceding six straight goals early in second half

● Mohamed Ahmed scores five goals to pace Bahrain, while three others contribute three apiece

TDT | Manama

Bahrain missed out on a golden opportunity to claim their first win in the main round of the 27th IHF World Men's Handball Championship in Egypt last night following a 23-28 defeat to Qatar at Cairo Stadium Indoor Halls Complex.

It was a match-up between Asian powerhouses and the Bahrainis had a good start and they took a single-goal lead, 14-13, at the break.

But they then conceded six successive goals to start the second half, which helped the Qataris blow a close game wide open. The nationals never recovered from there and Qatar led by as many as seven the rest of the way.

Bahrain had one final push in the game's final minutes, but they could only get back to within four goals.

The result was the second successive loss for the national team in the competition's main stage, having previously bowed to European giants Croatia. They remained on zero points in the group table from four fixtures, as their losses from the preliminaries to defending world champions Denmark and Argentina have been carried over.

Bahrain's last match in the main round is tomorrow against Japan. The last time both teams met at the world championship was in 2019, when the Bahrainis earned their first preliminary round win in history, beating the Japanese in a thrilling game 23-22

Qatar won their first game in the current stage and they improved to four points.

Bahrain have one final match to play in this phase. It will be tomorrow against Japan, scheduled for a 5.30pm start, Bahrain time.

Bahrain faced a 5-8 deficit to begin yesterday's match, but gradually fought their way back and a fastbreak goal from Mahdi Saad tied the proceedings at 11-all.

Skipper Hussain Al Sayyad then scored with a penalty shot to give the Bahrainis their first lead of the contest at 13-12, before goals from Qatar's Yassine Sami and Bahrain's Mohamed Ahmed closed out the opening 30-minute period.

Starting the second half, Kmail Mahfoodh gave Bahrain a 15-13 advantage, but after Mohammed Mirza put Bahrain up 16-15, the Qataris made their game-changing rally as they powered ahead 21-16.

Qatar continued their strong play and goalkeeper Danijel Saric made a number of fine saves.

Hasan Alfardan was able to cut the deficit for Bahrain to 22-26 with just under three minutes to go, but that was as close as they could get.

Ahmed finished with five goals as Bahrain's top scorer, while Al Sayyad, Mahfoodh, and Jassim Al Salatna each contributed three. Saad, Ahmed Fadhul and Ali Mirza all scored twice, while also making it onto the score-sheet with a goal apiece were Alfardan, Mohammed Mirza, and Mohamed Abdulredha.

Cuban-born players Rafael Capote and Frankis Marzo paced the Qataris with nine and eight goals, respectively. Capote was named the man of the match.

Having already been eliminated from quarter-final contention, the Bahrainis are now playing to gain their best placing on the 32-team competition's final classification.

HOLDERS Arsenal crash out of FA Cup as West Ham cruise

Reuters | London

Southampton dumped holders Arsenal out of the FA Cup on Saturday as West Ham cruised into the fifth round with a comfortable 4-0 win against third-tier Doncaster.

The Gunners, who have won the competition a record 14 times, went down 1-0 on England's south coast courtesy of a Gabriel own goal.

Brighton edged past Blackpool and Sheffield United beat Plymouth as the other Premier League teams in action avoided embarrassment against lower-league opposition.

The 1976 FA Cup winners reaped the reward their positive approach deserved in the 24th minute.

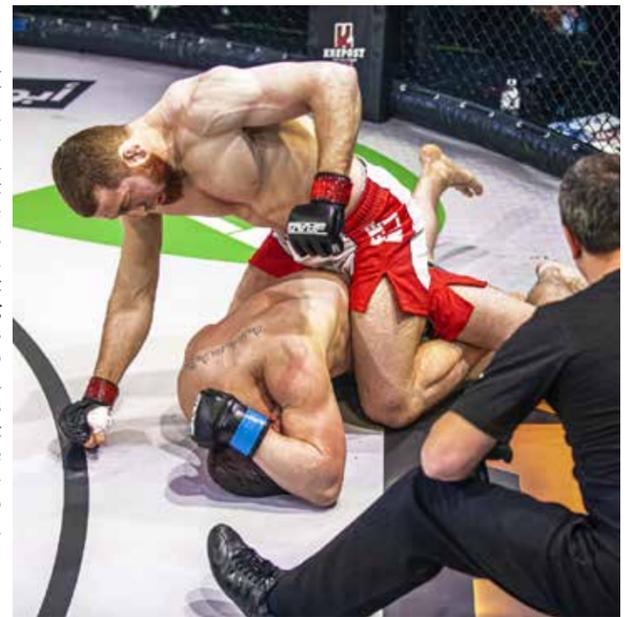

Mohamed Elneny gave away possession on the edge of his own box and the ball was worked to Kyle Walker-Peters on the right.

The defender drilled the ball across the six-yard area and it was turned in by Gabriel -- the first time rejuvenated Arsenal had conceded for 508 minutes.

BRAVE CF's Murtaza Talha: a superstar in the making

TDT | Manama

Bahrain's own Murtaza Talha is the prototype of the new generation of Mixed Martial Artists. While many of his predecessors had to migrate from different disciplines at adult age and learn new skills to be competitive inside the cages, Murtaza has been trained and shaped to MMA for the longest time, slowly but surely evolving in all disciplines throughout his young and formative years. Two bouts into his professional MMA career, Talha is already seen as the next big thing coming out of BRAVE CF. Like many before him, Murtaza will lead a generation of top young fighters who are sure to leave their mark in the sport.

Such a comprehensive background is clear when you look at Murtaza Talha's accomplishments even before making his professional MMA debut. A stellar member of the IMMAF ranks, Murtaza was ranked number one in the world in the Light Heavyweight Division, number six pound-for-pound, and won back-to-back World Championship titles as an amateur - the 2017 and 2019 titles could have easily been accompanied by a 2018 gold medal, but Talha suffered a serious hand injury which kept him out of competition for that year.

Making his professional debut, after wrapping up his amateur career with a perfect 12-0 record, he submitted Vadim Litvin in the second round back in November of 2020. But the best was still yet to come, and Talha delivered it in his second professional bout.

At BRAVE CF 46, in Sochi, Russia, Murtaza Talha completely obliterated Dmitriy Krivulets, winning via TKO in less than two minutes, quickly putting on notice the entire BRAVE Combat Federation Light Heavyweight and Middleweight divisions, the latter being the one he's already working on towards moving down to.

After delivering some of the most exciting prospects in the international scene and becoming the choice of the most coveted up-and-comers in Mixed Martial Arts, BRAVE Combat Federation once again delivers in the grassroots development department of the sport and reinforces its position as the hotbed for new talent in the international MMA scene.

Training with the world's best

UK-based trainer George Baker, founder of highly acclaimed George Baker Racing, is looking forward to making the most of their long-term partnership with Rashid Equestrian and Horseracing Club. In an exclusive interview, TDT talks to Baker about their plans and goals in establishing a permanent yard in Bahrain as he makes an official visit to the island

TDT | Manama

Renowned UK-based trainers George Baker Racing are excited about making their mark in Bahrain and tapping into the "limitless" potential of the Kingdom's thriving equine community.

This is according to George Baker Racing founder George Baker, who is currently on a visit to the island with his wife Candida.

George Baker Racing recently signed a long-term partnership agreement with Rashid Equestrian and Horseracing Club (REHC), which includes the establishment of a permanent training yard in Bahrain.

TDT caught up with Baker for an exclusive interview and spoke about the partnership, what they have to offer to local horse owners, and the future possibilities that await Bahraini-owned and trained horses.

TDT: How did the partnership between REHC and George Baker Racing come about?

GB: We were approached last summer to discuss the possibility of setting up a satellite racehorse training yard in the Kingdom. With a view to further expanding the racehorse ownership base, and to attract a wider audience to engage with the compelling sport of horseracing.

TDT: What was it about horseracing in Bahrain that made you confident about entering into a long-term partnership with REHC?

GB: We were immediately impressed by the tangible ambition and commitment of [REHC] Executive Director Shaikh Salman Rashed Al Khalifa and his excellent team. To be involved as this burgeoning racing jurisdiction continues to make an impression on the global stage is incredibly exciting, and a very real privilege. I know Clerk of the Course Neil Mackenzie-Ross from his time working within the sport in the UK, and his husbandry of the racecourse and associated facilities deserves the highest praise.

TDT: Tell us about the scope of this partnership.

GB: This is very much a long-term commitment to the Kingdom on behalf of George Baker Racing and my superb team. We will have permanent stabling based at the racecourse, and will have access to all training facilities, including the recently completed, state-of-the-art equine swimming pool. We will be starting with a handful of horses to run through next season, and we very much hope and plan for the number of horses under our care to increase in the coming years.

TDT: Will the difference in the climate year-round between Bahrain and the UK affect your training practices?

GB: Horses are swift to adapt to change of climate. The racehorses that we bring to the Kingdom will remain here to race on a permanent basis. There is much for me and my team to learn as we embark on this venture, and we will adapt our training regime for our horses accordingly. Everybody here has been incredibly supportive, and I will be seeking advice and wise counsel at every turn. There are some superb trainers here, and I will be listening to their advice!

TDT: How can members of Bahrain's equine community get involved with George Baker Racing?

GB: We are very keen to attract new owners to the sport. My wife Candida and I adopt an "open house" policy, and are always delighted to discuss ownership options with interested parties. We will be launching

Thrilling action at REHC

TDT: What potential do you see in Bahrain for globally renowned trainers like yourself?

GB: The potential here is limitless. The culture of the horse is endemic in the Kingdom, and the enthusiasm for the sport of horseracing is, as previously mentioned, tangible. As evidenced by the stellar fields that Shaikh Salman and his team have attracted for both runnings of The International Trophy, there is global acceptance that Bahrain is a burgeoning and progressive force on the international horseracing stage. We look forward to training in the years ahead for both established and new followers of the sport.

TDT: With your expertise and experience in training over 400 winners over the years, can we expect Bahrain-trained horses to excel abroad in the near future (if they aren't already)?

GB: Bahraini-trained horses will undoubtedly be a potent force on the international stage, and they have already made a considerable impression both in the region and further afield. There are some exceptionally talented racehorse trainers based in the Kingdom, and the standard of competition is already high. In recent years, the quality of horse bred locally and imported has risen, and I have no doubt that Bahraini-owned and trained horses will be competing at the highest level in the years ahead. I fervently hope that our commitment to this venture will enable my team and I to train many winners both here and elsewhere in the region. These are exciting times for the sport of horseracing in the Kingdom of Bahrain, and it is a privilege and an honour to be involved.

Luiz screamer lifts East Riffa to win over Manama

● Brazilian professional scores game-winner from 25 yards out with eight minutes remaining in regulation

● Al Najma strike twice in 12-minute span for come-from-behind win over Muharraq

TDT | Manama

Luiz Fernando Correa Sales scored a stunning winner last night for East Riffa in a 2-1 victory over Manama in the 2020/2021 Nasser bin Hamad Bahrain Premier Football League.

The Brazilian professional, more popularly known as "Luiz", fired in a rocket from 25 yards out with what could be the goal of the season.

Meanwhile, Al Najma found the net twice within a game-changing, 12-minute span in the second half to escape with a stunning 2-1 win over Muharraq.

Yesterday's matches capped the league's seventh week of action.

In East Riffa's victory, Bahrain national team star Mohammed Al Rumaihi put his team ahead with a 33rd-minute header that Manama goalkeeper Ammar Mohamed Abbas almost stopped but could not fully control. That was enough to give his team the single-goal advantage at the break.

In the second half, Manama equalised through Mahdi Abduljabbar in the 72nd minute. He took advantage of some poor East Riffa defending as he received a brilliant lob pass from Esraa Amer Alhamwiah and hit home from the edge of the six-yard box.

Manama's celebrations were shortlived, however, as just 10 minutes later Luiz scored his stunner. Unmarked from well outside the box, Luiz unleashed a powerful left-footed shot that flew straight into the top-left corner of the net, which Abbas had no chance of stopping.

The result earned East Riffa their fifth win in seven matches as they maintained their place on the standings three points behind leaders Riffa. Manama suffered their second loss but remained in the top half of the table.

In last night's other fixture, Bahrain international striker Ismael Abdullatif scored for Muharraq in the 40th minute with an opportunistic effort off a fine lead pass from Abdulwahab Al Malood.

Najma then stormed back into the contest in the final part of the game, and a goal from Luiz Junior in the 71st minute sparked their comeback. Junior fired in from an acute angle after some lax Muharraq defending.

Then, 12 minutes later, substitute Arthur Alves supplied the winner with a header in front of goal off a short cross from Rashed Al Hooti.

It was a well-deserved second win for Najma in seven matches as they rose to eight points, tied with Muharraq who were dealt their third defeat.
