Bahrain enters Guinness World Records for religious diversity

Ashen Tharaka
TDT | Manama

The Kingdom of Bahrain has officially entered the Guinness World Records, not through size or spectacle, but through a powerful global message of unity, tolerance, and peaceful coexistence.

The announcement was made at the King Hamad Global Center for Coexistence and Tolerance in Manama, during an event marking the International Day of Peaceful Coexistence.

Following a detailed verification process, Guinness World Records confirmed that Bahrain now holds the title for the highest density of houses of worship in a country.

To qualify for the record, a minimum density of 2,300 houses of worship per square kilometre was required.

Benchmark

Bahrain exceeded this benchmark, achieving an official density of 2,577 houses of worship per square kilometre, based on data verified on January 28, 2026.

The Kingdom is home to 2,123 houses of worship, serving a population of over 1.5 million.

These include mosques, churches, temples, and other places of worship representing both Abrahamic and non-Abrahamic faiths. The figures highlight a society where religious diversity is not unusual, but part of everyday life.

During the announcement, the Guinness World Records adjudicator stressed that the achievement is not just about statistics, but about what those numbers represent – a living model where different faiths coexist openly, respectfully, and confidently.

Coexistence

Speaking at the event, His Excellency Dr. Shaikh Abdulla bin Ahmed Al Khalifa, Minister of Transportation and Telecommunications and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the King Hamad Global Center for Coexistence and Tolerance, said Bahrain is celebrating coexistence as a lived reality, not a slogan.

He noted that coexistence in Bahrain is sustained through leadership and has been advanced as a national value and public policy, guided by the vision of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa and supported by His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, the Crown Prince and Prime Minister.

He also announced the introduction of a postgraduate diploma in coexistence, aimed at developing trained practitioners who can embed coexistence principles into institutions and daily practice.

Achievement

Highlighting the global significance of the achievement, Khaled El Mekwad, United Nations Resident Coordinator in Bahrain, praised the leadership of HM King Hamad for advancing peace through vision and action.

He said peace is more than the absence of conflict, and that Bahrain’s achievement reflects the true spirit of the United Nations’ Sustainable Development Goals, particularly those linked to peace, justice, and strong institutions.

This Guinness World Record is not just a global first for Bahrain, but a reflection of the Kingdom’s enduring values of tolerance, harmony, and unity in diversity – values that continue to shape its society and inspire international recognition.

New secured transactions law issued, implementation set for next year

TDT | Manama

A new law governing secured transactions has been issued in Bahrain, with its implementation scheduled to begin next year following a phased rollout.

Law (3) of 2026, establishing the Secured Transactions Law, was ratified and promulgated by His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa yesterday, after receiving approval from the Shura Council and the Council of Representatives. Under the law, its provisions will come into force from the first day of the month following twelve months from the date of its publication in the Official Gazette. Before that, the minister concerned with commerce, or another minister assigned by decree, is required to issue the executive regulations needed to implement the law, after Cabinet approval, within eight months from the day following publication.

For matters related to the right of security that are not specifically addressed in the new law, existing legislation will continue to apply, provided there is no conflict. These include the Commercial Companies Law, the Civil Code, and the Central Bank of Bahrain and Financial Institutions Law.

As outlined during the Shura Council's approval of the bill last year, the Secured Transactions Law is intended to create a unified legal framework allowing businesses to use movable assets such as receivables, inventory, stock, and other non-real-estate assets as collateral for financing.

The legislation was presented to legislators as a way to widen access to credit, particularly for small and medium-sized enterprises, by giving lenders clearer security rights and allowing companies to keep using pledged assets in their operations. Central to the system is an electronic notice register designed to record security rights, clarify priorities between creditors, and support enforcement.

During earlier debates, legislators also noted that much of the law's practical impact would depend on the executive regulations, including rules governing transparency, creditor priorities, and enforcement procedures, with calls for sufficient transition time to allow banks and businesses to adjust.

The Prime Minister and the ministers, each within their respective capacities, will implement the provisions of the law once it enters into force.

academic programmes alongside practical training, field skills, computer skills and best practices in dealing with the public, ensuring their full readiness.

In his address at the ceremony, he added that the graduation of the seventh batch of Community Policing represents an important step in strengthening community partnerships and in building bridges of trust and cooperation with citizens and residents.

180 kitchen fires linked to 'cooking negligence'

Ghadeer Alkumaish
TDT | Manama

Kitchen fires remain one of the most common causes of home accidents worldwide. Statistics show that 49% of all fires start in the kitchen.

In Bahrain, authorities recorded 180 fires in 2024 and 2025 caused by unattended cooking pots, often resulting in entire kitchens burning down, fires spreading through the house, or people suffering burns from hot oil, some of which were moderate.

Speaking on the Interior Ministry's Al Aman social media programme, Hidd Police Station Head, Colonel Dr. Osama Bahar, highlighted the importance of kitchen safety and preventive measures.

He stressed that many of these accidents can be avoided by simple awareness and precautions, saying: "To avoid these dangerous situations, teach your children and those who work for you not to leave a frying pan with oil on the stove unattended. You might be distracted or forgetful, but constant supervision can save lives."

Colonel Dr. Bahar offered practical advice for households, emphasizing the importance of never leaving cooking unattended, ensuring proper ventilation,

Private schools given one year to comply under new education law

TDT | Manama

Private educational institutions in Bahrain will have one year to regularise their status once a new law governing the sector comes into effect, following its ratification by His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa yesterday.

Law (4) of 2026, issuing the Law on Private Educational Institutions, was ratified and promulgated after receiving approval from both the Shura Council and the Council of Representatives.

The law will come into force from the day following its publication in the Official Gazette.

Under its provisions, private educational institutions that are operating at the time the law enters into force must align their status with the new requirements within one year from the date of implementation.

The Minister of Education has been tasked with issuing the executive regulations and decisions necessary to implement the law.

Existing decisions related to private educational institutions will remain in effect, provided they do not conflict with the new law, until the required implementing regulations are issued.

The law also repeals provisions related to private educational institutions contained in Decree-Law (25) of 1998 on Private Educational and Training Institutions, as well as any other provisions that conflict with the new legislation.

For matters not specifically addressed in the new law, the provisions of the Education Law (27) of 2005 will continue to apply, as long as they do not conflict with the new framework.

The Prime Minister and the ministers, each within their respective responsibilities, will oversee the implementation of the law once it comes into effect.

Classroom balance

IQ and behaviour checks required for public school inclusion programme

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

An IQ score between 50 and 75, an age range of six to 15, and no history of severe behavioural or emotional problems are among the requirements the Education Ministry says it uses before a child is placed in its public school inclusion programme.

The details came in a written response to Shura Council member Abdullah Al Nuaimi, who asked how the ministry decides which pupils join mainstream classes, which remain in specialist classes, and what steps are taken to keep classrooms safe for everyone.

The ministry said pupils are placed either through full inclusion in mainstream classes or through partial inclusion via specialist classes, depending on academic assessment, medical reports and classroom behaviour.

Limit

It also confirmed a limit of two fully included pupils per classroom, saying the cap is meant to support teaching quality and keep classes orderly.

The ministry also provided figures on the size of the programmes.

It said mild intellectual disability and Down syndrome programmes operate in 67 schools, covering 382 students under the supervision of 125 teachers.

Autism

Autism programmes, it said, operate in 51 schools across 52 classes, covering 286 students in autism classes and 154 pupils fully included in mainstream classes under the supervision of 126 teachers.

Pupils with sensory and physical disabilities, it said, are included across public schools, numbering 264 students with physical disabilities, 321 with hearing disabilities and 93 with visual disabilities.

It referred to the constitution and the Education Law as the basis for its approach, saying the law requires educational opportunities for all and teaching that is adjusted for different needs.

Line

It also drew a line between the catch-all phrase 'persons with special needs' and the smaller group covered by the inclusion programme it was asked about.

The ministry said the wider term can include pupils with learning difficulties, speech and language disorders, behavioural problems, cancer, sickle-cell anaemia and gifted pupils. But it said its inclusion programme, in full or partial form, applies only to mild intellectual disability and Down syndrome, autism spectrum disorder, and sensory or physical disabilities.

For pupils with mild intellectual disability and Down syndrome, the ministry said placements can range from specialist classes to full placement in mainstream classes, depending on an assessment of ability.

Rehabilitation

Pupils with autism start in specialist classes and follow intensive rehabilitation programmes before any gradual move into mainstream lessons.

Pupils with hearing, visual or physical disabilities are placed in mainstream classes, with assistive devices, access support and other services where needed.

The ministry described two routes. Under partial inclusion, a student studies in a specialist class using a programme suited to their needs, backed by an individual learning plan.

Ability

The student can join main-

H.E. Mohammed bin Mubarak Juma

Abdullah Al Nuaimi

stream classmates for lessons such as physical education, art and technology, and, depending on ability, for some lessons in main subjects including Arabic, mathematics, Islamic education, English and science.

It said students are also included in school events and competitions inside and outside Bahrain.

A move from partial to full inclusion can follow if a student shows academic and behavioural progress and can manage in a mainstream class.

60,635 medical emergencies

Ambulances on standby for emergency response

TDT | Manama

The Ministry of Interior announced that the National Ambulance Centre recorded 60,635 reports of various medical emergencies during 2025.

Ambulance crews provided first aid and primary healthcare services through ambulance vehicles deployed at centres across all governorates of the Kingdom of Bahrain, in addition to the motorcycle first-responder ambulance service.

This comes one year after the launch of this advanced service, which has contributed to faster access to emergency cases and more efficient patient preparation compared with traditional ambulances, particularly in narrow streets and during traffic congestion.

The National Ambulance Centre explained that the incidents handled were classified across a range of cases, including resuscitation, traffic accidents, fires, childbirth, as well as other medical conditions.

This reflects the advanced level achieved by the centre in managing emergency medical calls and underscores the International Accreditation of Excellence it has received for the Medical Priority Dispatch System (ProQA) from the International Academies of Emergency Dispatch (IAED), in recognition of its high quality and efficiency in handling and accurately classifying medical cases in line with approved standards.

The centre noted that these statistical indicators reflect the ongoing strategic development plan adopted year after year within the Government Action Programme, under close follow-up by the Ministry of Interior and in coordination with relevant health authorities, with the aim of enhancing ambulance and primary healthcare services as a core component of Bahrain's comprehensive healthcare system.

The National Ambulance Centre further stated that 2025 witnessed geographic expansion of ambulance centres and response points across all governorates, helping to cover a wider segment of society and handle a greater number of emergency medical reports with high efficiency and quality, while ensuring safe and rapid response in accordance with internationally approved medical standards and protocols, and in coordination with emergency departments at government hospitals and relevant security agencies.

As part of its community partnership, the National Ambulance Centre also contributed to securing and supporting various national events and activities through broad participation, embodying its national mission and raising awareness of its vital role, continuous efforts, and services provided to the community, thereby strengthening the concept of partnership and social responsibility.

'Economic laws need more time for review'

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

The head and members of the Shura Council's Financial and Economic Affairs Committee said laws with an economic or trade focus must be handled with care, arguing that any text put forward needs time in committee so it can balance economic growth with sustainable development.

In a statement yesterday, the committee said this is the yardstick it uses when weighing draft laws and proposals.

It said that taking time and exercising full care during review helps ensure any law, if issued, is well made, lasts, and meets the aims it was written for.

The committee said its work follows a set process laid down

Financial and Economic Affairs Committee in the Shura Council's Rules of Procedure.

Before issuing any recommendation, it said it completes the steps needed to study each draft in a detailed and full way.

That includes checking a draft's constitutional and legal soundness through the Council's Legislative and Legal Affairs Committee.

Review

It also said it reviews the views and proposals of relevant bodies, and takes account of the views of Shura Council members if a draft is raised during a sitting.

The committee said it understands that views and statements can be made about laws being discussed, and it welcomed MPs' interest in tracking the progress of draft texts.

But it said review and checking are carried out according to the approved rules, to give full assurance that any recommendation sent up on a draft law is sound, serves the public interest, and builds trust in legislation issued by the Council.

Doubt

It added that it would not accept attempts to cast doubt on its work, and repeated its view that laws should not be rushed.

Each draft, it said, should be given enough time for study and analysis.

Lawyer ordered to pay BD1,000 to MP over social media defamation

Mohammed Darwish
TDT | Manama

A court has ordered a lawyer to pay BD1,000 to a sitting MP after finding he defamed him in an Instagram video.

The High Civil Court said the sum was compensation for moral harm.

It also ordered the lawyer to pay court costs and BD100 in lawyers' fees.

The dispute centres on a recorded clip posted on Instagram in 2025, in which the lawyer spoke about the MP and claimed he had attended an unlawful gathering.

Court documents said the account had about 25,000 followers. The MP filed a criminal complaint and the matter was sent to the Public Prosecution.

Woman hurt in rear-end crash awarded BD9,000

Compensation

A woman who suffered a head injury in a rear-end crash has won BD9,000 dinars in damages after a civil court ruled that the driver at fault and his insurer must pay up.

The High Civil Court also held the pair jointly liable for court costs, a contribution towards her legal fees, and 90 dinars to cover the medical committee's fees.

The woman sued the insurance company as first defendant and the motorist as second defendant, asking to be referred to medical committees to assess the lasting harm she said the crash had caused.

She also sought compensation for material and moral damage, plus statutory interest from the date of the injury until full payment. Her lawyer, Mohammed Al Mahdi, said she was travelling with her grandson when another car, insured with the first defendant, drove into the back of their vehicle.

The claim said the second defendant failed to keep a safe distance and did not take proper care and attention, leaving the woman with various injuries and causing damage to the car.

The driver had already faced criminal proceedings in the Minor Criminal Court on charges linked to causing harm through his fault by failing to take the required care while driving. He was fined 100 dinars, paid it, and did not appeal, making that ruling final.

The High Civil Court ruled that the driver was at fault for reckless driving and his insurer must pay up.

In the civil case, the court appointed medical committees to examine the woman and report on her condition.

Injury

They said she suffered a head injury involving a fracture and a small haemorrhage that was treated.

The report noted pain at the site of the injury, dizziness and reduced vision, and put her permanent disability at 20 per cent.

In its reasoning, the court cited Article 158 of the Civil Code, which states that anyone whose fault causes harm to another must compensate the injured party.

New measures reviewed to regulate food truck operations

Hasan Barakat
TDT | Manama

The Capital Municipal Council discussed, during its tenth session, the latest developments related to the regulation of food truck gatherings across Bahrain, amid increasing concerns over unregulated practices and their impact on public order, safety and fair competition.

During the session, the Director General of the Capital Municipality, engineer Mohammed Al Sahli, delivered a detailed briefing on recent changes observed in the food truck sector, particularly following the Covid 19 pandemic.

He noted that a number of food truck operators had adopted undesirable commercial practices, including relocating trucks without authorisation and operating outside approved locations.

Operators

Al Sahli explained that some operators attempted to monopolise busy areas or expand their operations even though licensed businesses were already present nearby to dominate high traffic areas or expand their operating spaces despite the presence of licensed commercial establishments nearby.

He said such practices resembled informal street vending and resulted in unfair competition, undermining regulated businesses and disrupting the urban environment.

He also drew attention to organisational and safety issues, including the installation of unauthorised power generators, air conditioning units and lighting systems, which pose potential health and safety risks. He confirmed that the municipality has received multiple complaints from shop owners regarding these practices.

While health oversight does not fall directly within the municipality's remit, coordination has taken place to address the reported violations.

Experiences

The Director General referred to experiences in other Gulf countries, where food trucks operate within clearly designated zones.

By contrast, the current framework allows food trucks to operate with landowner approval, a situation that has led to misuse of spaces and monopolisation of locations.

Enforcement measures have been taken in cases involving encroachment and exclusion.

He confirmed that work is ongoing to introduce a structured regulatory mechanism, covering both supervisory and enforcement aspects, which will be presented in the near future and evaluated following implementation.

Eng. Mohammed Al Sahli

Safety

Municipal Council member Maytham Al Hayki emphasised the importance of allocating designated sites and visual zones for food trucks to support entrepreneurs while preserving public safety and Bahrain's urban character.

He noted that all four municipalities have nominated municipal owned sites and called for clear identification through detailed mapping, stressing the need for full compliance with licensing requirements issued by the authorities.

Projects planned under Eskan Bank's new housing programme feature a 168-flat complex in Seef, a second Seef scheme due to start in March, and new residential blocks in East Sitra and Nabih Saleh.

The bank laid out the package in a briefing to the Capital Trustees Board, describing work under way and other schemes still in preparation across the Capital.

It said the programme centres on large housing projects and mixed-use buildings that pair homes with service and retail space.

Project

In Seef, the bank said the 'Al Seef Greens' project will consist of four buildings containing 168 apartments, with shops in the same complex. The site is opposite La Chocola.

The briefing also referred to a future idea tied to the project: a study into building a bridge that would link the Al Seef Greens complex to Seef Mall.

A separate housing project in Seef remains under study, with the bank expecting work to begin in March.

In East Sitra, the bank said an approved project calls for six residential buildings.

Service

Three are due to start next month and are planned to include service outlets and a supermarket.

The other three are still being designed, with construction expected to begin in the third quarter of this year.

In Nabih Saleh, the bank said a housing project that includes service outlets remains at the design stage, though a building permit has been issued. Work is due to begin in March.

efforts to improve traffic management and service accessibility.

The proposal was submitted by Municipal Council member engineer Mohammed Tawfiq Al Abbas, who clarified that the objective is to secure land for organised parking to support facilities that experience sustained daily use and significant seasonal demand.

He said the area had benefited from open spaces used informally for parking.

◆ A South Korean judge handed the country's former first lady Kim Keon Hee 20 months in jail yesterday for accepting lavish gifts from a cult-like church, but acquitted her of alleged stock manipulation and other charges. Controversy has long followed 53-year-old Kim, while accusations of graft, influence peddling and even academic fraud have dominated her husband Yoon Suk Yeol's time in office. Both are now in custody -- Yoon for actions taken during his disastrous declaration of martial law in December 2024 and Kim for corruption. On Wednesday, Judge Woo In-sung of the Seoul Central District Court found Kim guilty of corruption and sentenced her to 20 months in prison. She was found to have accepted lavish bribes from the cult-like Unification Church -- including a Chanel bag and a Graff necklace. Prosecutors requested 15 years, but Kim was acquitted of stock manipulation and violations of campaign financing laws on Wednesday, and received a far lighter sentence.

Nearly 2 million military casualties in Ukraine war: study

◆ Russia's grinding invasion of Ukraine has caused nearly two million military casualties -- killed, wounded or missing -- between the two countries, according to a study published Tuesday by a US think tank. Moscow's forces have borne the brunt of the losses, suffering as many as 325,000 killed out of an estimated total of 1.2 million casualties since invading Ukraine nearly four years ago, the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) found. "No major power has suffered anywhere near these numbers of casualties or fatalities in any war since World War II," CSIS said, noting that "Russian forces are advancing remarkably slowly on the battlefield." Ukrainian forces have also suffered major losses -- between 500,000 and 600,000 casualties, of which between 100,000 and 140,000 were killed -- from February 2022 to December 2025, the think tank said. "Combined Russian and Ukrainian casualties may be as high as 1.8 million and could reach two million total casualties by the spring of 2026," CSIS said.

Trump warns US to end support for Iraq if Maliki returns

◆ President Donald Trump on Tuesday threatened to end all US support for Iraq if Nouri al-Maliki, a former prime minister with ties to Iran, returns to the post. Trump, in his latest blatant intervention in another country's politics, said that Iraq would make a "very bad choice" with Maliki, who has been nominated as prime minister by the largest Shiite bloc. "Last time Maliki was in power, the Country descended into poverty and total chaos. That should not be allowed to happen again," Trump wrote on his Truth Social platform. "Because of his insane policies and ideologies, if elected, the United States of America will no longer help Iraq," he said.

Brazil declares acai a national fruit to ward off 'biopiracy'

Farmer Jose Santos Diogo climbs an acai palm tree to pull out its fruit bunches to harvest berries at his plantation in Abaetetuba, Para State, in the Brazilian Amazon Forest

AFP | Rio De Janeiro, Brazil

Brazil has declared the acai berry a national fruit, a move to stamp its ownership on the popular "superfood" as concerns grow about foreign companies staking claims to the Amazon's biological riches. Acai has been a savory staple in the Amazon for centuries, eaten as a thick paste alongside fish and manioc flour. The dark purple berry went global in the early 2000s after it was reinvented as a sweet sorbet, often topped with granola and fruit, and marketed for its antioxidant-rich properties. Acai's active ingredients piqued the interest of food and cosmetic companies worldwide. In one case cited in parliamentary debates, a Japanese company trademarked the use of the name acai in 2003. It took Brazil four years to cancel the registration. Cases like these drove the law declaring acai a national fruit, first introduced in 2011 and signed earlier this month. Brazil's agriculture ministry told AFP the measure helps showcase acai as a "genuinely Brazilian product" that generates income for thousands of Amazonian families. However, experts say the law is largely symbolic and aimed at highlighting the challenge of growing international interest in a wide range of fruits native to the Amazon.

Trump says 'time running out' as Iran rejects talks amid 'threats'

Iran rejects negotiations with US in 'atmosphere of threats': foreign minister

● "Armada" led by USS Abraham Lincoln is in Middle East

● Trump said Iran needed to negotiate a deal over its nuclear programme

● The next attack will be far worse! Don't make that happen again"

AFP | Paris, France

President Donald Trump yesterday warned Iran that time was running out for the Islamic republic to prevent American military intervention as Tehran rejected holding negotiations against a backdrop of threats.

Trump has never ruled out a new attack on Iran in the wake of its deadly crackdown on protests this month, to follow the 12-day June war between the Islamic republic and Israel which the US backed and joined.

A US naval strike group that Trump described as an "armada" led by aircraft carrier the USS Abraham Lincoln is now lurking in Middle East waters.

In his latest post on Truth Social, Trump did not mention the protests but said Iran needed to negotiate a deal over its nuclear programme, which the West believes is aimed at making an atomic bomb.

"Hopefully Iran will quickly 'Come to the Table' and negotiate a fair and equitable deal - NO NUCLEAR WEAPONS -- one that is good for all parties. Time is running out, it is truly of the essence!" said Trump.

Referring to American strikes against Iranian nuclear targets during the June war which he said resulted in "major destruction of Iran", he added: "The next attack will be far worse! Don't make that happen again".

Analysts say options include strikes on military facilities or targeted hits against the leadership under Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, in a full-scale bid to bring down the system that has ruled Iran since the 1979 Islamic revolution.

Iran will 'respond like never before' if US attacks: Iranian mission to UN

United Nations, United States

Iran will deliver an unprecedented retaliation to any US attack, its mission to the United Nations said Wednesday, in response to a military threat from President Donald Trump.

"Iran stands ready for dialogue based on mutual respect and interests -- BUT IF PUSHED, IT WILL DEFEND ITSELF AND RESPOND LIKE NEVER BEFORE!" the mission wrote on X alongside a screenshot of Trump's social media threat early Wednesday that a "massive Armada" was heading towards the Islamic Republic.

The Iranian mission, warning against US intervention, also referenced the United States' casualties and expenditures in its past two wars. "Last time the US blundered into wars in Afghanistan and Iraq, it squandered over $7 trillion and lost more than 7,000 American lives," the mission said.

lution that ousted the shah.

'Severe damage'

But Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi said before Trump's comments were published that "conducting diplomacy through military threat cannot be effective or useful".

"If they want negotiations to take shape, they must certainly set aside threats, excessive demands and raising illogical issues," he said in televised comments.

Araghchi said he had "no contact" with US Middle East envoy Steve Witkoff in recent days and that "Iran has not sought negotiations".

Iranian armed forces chief of staff Habibollah Sayyari warned the US against any "miscalculation", saying that "they too would suffer damage".

New billboards have meanwhile appeared in Tehran, including one showing Iran striking an American aircraft carrier, according to AFP journalists.

'Ease tensions'

Following a call on Tuesday between Iranian President Masoud Pezeshkian and de facto Saudi leader Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman, Iran reached out to other US allies in the region, in an apparent bid to rally support.

The Secretary of Iran's Supreme National Security Council Ali Larijani spoke with Qatari Prime Minister Sheikh Mohammed bin Abdulrahman Al Thani, who is also foreign minister, both sides said.

ed as part of the US-sponsored ceasefire agreement which came into effect on October 10.

It is charged with managing the day-to-day governance of post-war Gaza and will work under the supervision of the "Board of Peace", which US President Donald Trump will chair.

The NCAG, headed by former Palestinian Authority deputy minister Ali Shaath, is expected to enter the Gaza Strip once the territory's Rafah crossing, on its border with Egypt, reopens.

Hamas spokesman Qassem added that the Rafah crossing "must be opened in both directions, with full freedom of exit and entry to the Gaza Strip, without any Israeli obstacles".

Starmmer in China to defend 'pragmatic' partnership

British PM will later make a brief stop in Japan

Britain's Prime Minister Keir Starmer is welcomed upon his arrival at an airport in Beijing

Starmer will meet with Xi for lunch today

AFP | Beijing, China

British Prime Minister Keir Starmer arrived in Beijing on Wednesday to meet with Chinese leader Xi Jinping, hoping to restore long fraught relations.

It is the first visit to China by a UK prime minister since 2018 and follows a string of Western leaders courting Beijing in recent weeks, pivoting from a mercurial United States.

Starmer, who is also expected to visit Shanghai on Friday, will later make a brief stop in Japan to meet with Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi.

For Xi, the trip is an opportunity to show Beijing can be a reliable partner at a time when President Donald Trump's policies have rattled historic ties between Washington and its Western allies.

Starmer is battling record low popularity polls and hopes the visit can boost Britain's beleaguered economy.

The trip has been lauded by Downing Street as a chance to boost trade and investment ties while raising thorny issues such as national security and human rights. Starmer will meet with Xi for lunch on Thursday, followed by a meeting with Premier Li Qiang.

The British leader said on Wednesday this visit to China was "going to be a really important trip for us", vowing to make "some real progress".

There are "opportunities" to deepen bilateral relations, Starmer told reporters travelling with him on the plane to China.

"It doesn't make sense to stick our head in the ground and bury in the sand when it comes to China, it's in our interests to engage and not compromise on national security," he added.

China, for its part, "is willing to take this visit as an opportunity to enhance political mutual trust", foreign ministry spokesman Guo Jiakun reiterated Wednesday during a news briefing.

Starmer is the latest Western leader to be hosted by Beijing in recent months, following visits by Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney and French President Emmanuel Macron.

Faced with Trump's threats to impose tariffs on Canada for signing a trade agreement with China, and the US president's attempts to create a new international institution with his "Board of Peace", Beijing has been affirming its support for the United Nations to visiting leaders.

Syrian leader meets Putin, Russia eyes deal on military bases

AFP | Moscow, Russia

Syrian President Ahmed al-Sharaa met Russian counterpart Vladimir Putin for talks in Moscow yesterday, as the Kremlin seeks to secure the future of military bases vital for its operations in the Middle East.

Russia was a key ally of Sharaa's predecessor Bashar al-Assad during the bloody 14-year Syrian civil war.

Putin has been working to build relations with Sharaa since, though Russia's continued sheltering of Assad and his wife in Moscow remains a major obstacle to improving ties.

"Much has been accomplished in terms of restoring our interstate relations," Putin said in a televised meeting with Sharaa. "We have closely mon-

'Pride of the entire nation': Israel holds funeral for last Gaza hostage

Mourners attend the funeral of Israeli hostage Ran Gvili, whose remains were finally brought back to Israel

AFP | Meitar, Israel

Hundreds of tearful mourners packed a stadium in southern Israel yesterday for the funeral of Ran Gvili, the last Gaza hostage whose burial marks the end of a painful national saga triggered by Hamas's 2023 attack.

Israeli forces on Monday brought home the remains of Gvili, who was killed in action and whose body Palestinian militants took into Gaza during their October 7 attack, which triggered a devastating two-year war.

A large banner bearing the portrait of Gvili hung in a stadium in the town of Meitar, the 24-year-old police officer's hometown and where he will be laid to rest.

In front of the sombre crowd, which included tearful family members, Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and President Isaac Herzog, Gvili's coffin lay draped in an Israeli flag.

"I hoped you would come back on your own two feet, and that gave me strength," said his mother Talik Gvili, who described her son as "the first to leave, last to return."

"For two years and four months, we talked about you constantly, and you became everyone's child," she added.

"Rani, you are with me all the time."

Herzog hailed the return of his remains but said he could only regret not having known Gvili while he was alive.

"Gvili family, I ask you, as president, for forgiveness that we were not there for him... an entire nation mourns with you today," he said during the ceremony.

An officer in the elite Yassam unit, Gvili was on medical leave ahead of shoulder surgery when Hamas launched its deadly attack in southern Israel, but grabbed his gun and raced towards the area.

Of the 251 hostages taken, Gvili's were the last remains held in the Palestinian territory.

The return of the hostages held in Gaza dragged on over the course of the war between Israel and Hamas in a series of ceasefire and prisoner-swap deals as well as efforts to rescue them militarily.

The most recent set of hostage handovers was part of the US-backed Gaza ceasefire deal that took effect on October 10.

India says two Nipah virus cases, but situation contained

AFP | Mumbai, India

Indian authorities said they had ensured "timely containment" of the deadly Nipah virus after two cases were confirmed in West Bengal state.

Nipah, spreads from animals to humans, has no vaccine and a fatality rate ranging from 40 to 75 percent, according to the World Health Organization.

"Enhanced surveillance, laboratory testing, and field investigations were undertaken... which ensured timely containment of the cases," India's health ministry said in a statement late Tuesday.

It did not give further details on the two infected patients.

"The situation is under constant monitoring, and all necessary public health measures are in place", it added, saying 196 contacts linked to the cases had been traced, and all were negative.

Nipah was first identified in 1998 after it spread among pig farmers in Malaysia.

In India, the first Nipah outbreak was reported in West Bengal in 2001.

In 2018, at least 17 people died from Nipah in Kerala, and in 2023, two people died from the virus, also in the southern state.

Symptoms include intense fever, vomiting and a respiratory infection, but severe cases can involve seizures and brain inflammation that results in a coma.

Nipah virus is a zoonotic virus first identified in 1998 in Malaysia, and it is naturally carried by fruit bats (Pteropus species). It can spread to humans through contaminated food, infected animals, or direct human-to-human transmission, and outbreaks have shown a high fatality rate, often between 40% and 75%.

Indian deputy state leader killed in plane crash

● The plane carrying Ajit Pawar, Maharashtra's deputy chief minister, crashed in an open field

● Pawar's personal security officer and an assistant as well as two crew members were also on board

AFP | Mumbai, India

An Indian state's deputy leader was killed along with four other people yesterday after their chartered aircraft crashed in the country's west, officials said.

The plane carrying Ajit Pawar, Maharashtra's deputy chief minister, crashed in an open field at about 8:44 am (0314 GMT) while landing at the state's Baramati airport, the civil aviation ministry said in a statement.

The 66-year-old, a key political figure in Maharashtra which is home to India's financial hub Mumbai, was travelling in a Bombardier Learjet 45 aircraft, operated by private firm VSR Aviation.

Pawar's personal security officer and an assistant as well as two crew members were also on board at the time of the crash, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation said in a statement.

VSR Aviation owner V.K. Singh said the aircraft was "very well maintained", ruling out any technical failure.

"There was absolutely no problem in the aircraft. There was no technical failure as far as we know," he told reporters in New Delhi where the company is based.

India's Prime Minister Narendra Modi described Pawar as a "leader of the people" in a post on X following the crash.

Modi said Pawar's death was "shocking and saddening", calling him a "widely respected" and "hardworking" political stalwart.

"His understanding of administrative matters and passion for empowering the poor and downtrodden were also noteworthy."

UK proposes to let websites refuse Google AI search

AFP | London, United Kingdom

Britain's competition watchdog proposed Wednesday that websites be allowed to opt out of having content used by Google's "AI Overviews" feature as it tackles the technology giant's dominance in online search.

The Competition and Markets Authority (CMA) in October paved the way for tougher regulation on the matter, under new targeted measures focused on technology giants.

Last year it designated Google with "strategic market status" (SMS), subjecting it to special requirements, following a nine-month investigation.

CMA chief executive Sarah Cardell said Wednesday that the regulator's proposal, which is out for consultation until February 25, "would give UK businesses and consumers more choice and control over how they interact with Google's search services".

She added in a statement that it "would also provide a fairer deal for content publishers, particularly news organisations, over how their content is used in Google's AI Overviews".

The CMA proposed that publishers "be able to opt out of their content being used to power AI features such as AI Overviews or to train AI models outside of Google search".

"Google will also be required to take practical steps to ensure publisher content is properly attributed in AI results," it added.

Website publishers, particularly media outlets, say that AI pilfers their content without compensation to feed its models.

They also argue that the AI-generated summaries discourage clicks to publishers' original pages, reducing traffic to their sites and in turn cutting their advertising revenue.

"Google is able to extract valuable data without reward, harming publishers and giving the company an unfair advantage over competitors in the AI model market," said Owen Meredith, chief executive of industry group, News Media Association.

Google AI powers products used by billions of people daily – including Search, Maps, Gmail and Photos – and its DeepMind division created AlphaFold, an AI system that has predicted the structure of over 200 million proteins, transforming biological research worldwide.

Trump issues fierce warning to Minneapolis mayor over immigration

A group of anti-US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) protesters hold signs and shout slogans in downtown Minneapolis, Minnesota

AFP | Minneapolis, United States

President Donald Trump yesterday warned the mayor of Minneapolis -- where the brutal killings of two US protesters by immigration agents sparked nationwide outrage -- that he is "playing with fire."

Trump told Mayor Jacob Frey that his refusal to cooperate with federal authorities on rooting out suspected illegal immigrants was "a very serious violation of the law."

The statement on Trump's Truth Social platform contradicted the 79-year-old Republican president's earlier statement that he wanted to "de-escalate."

A top hard-line White House official retreated late Tuesday on his initial attempt to justify the shooting of a protester Saturday. And Trump shuffled the leadership of immigration agents deployed in Minneapolis, putting a less confrontational figure in charge.

But the Minnesota city remains the focal point for national tensions over the immigration crackdown.

While the White House insists that it is targeting hardened criminals, the use of masked, heavily armed men to snatch people from streets, homes and workplaces has caused widespread shock.

That turned to fury this month after immigration agents shot dead two Minneapolis protesters at point-blank range. The latest, intensive care unit nurse Alex Pretti, was shot multiple times after being forced to the ground by camouflaged officers.

Rubio expects US diplomatic presence to return in Venezuela soon

AFP | Washington, United States

Secretary of State Marco Rubio said Wednesday he expected a US diplomatic presence to return soon to Venezuela following the US attack that toppled Nicolas Maduro.

"We think very quickly we'll be able to open a US diplomatic presence on the ground," Rubio told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The restored US mission "will allow us to have real-time information" and improve interaction with Venezuelan authorities as well as "members of civil society, the opposition," Rubio said.

The United States last week named Laura Dogu, a former ambassador to Nicaragua and Honduras, as the top US diplomat in Venezuela and it earlier sent a mission to assess the embassy.

The United States shuttered its embassy in 2019 shortly after Washington and other major powers declared Maduro to be illegitimate following an election marred by reports of irregularities.

HH Shaikh Nasser attends opening ceremony of Bapco Energies Bahrain Golf Championship

Manama

His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa delegated His Highness Shaikh Nasser bin Hamad Al Khalifa, His Majesty's Representative for Humanitarian Works and Youth Affairs, to attend the official opening ceremony of the Bapco Energies Bahrain Golf Championship, which will be held at the Royal Golf Club from January 29 to February 1.

Upon his arrival, His Highness was received by His Highness Shaikh Khalid bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Chairman of the General Authority for Sports and President of the Bahrain Olympic Committee.

The opening ceremony was also attended by His Excellency Lieutenant General Shaikh Rashid bin Abdullah Al Khalifa, Minister of Interior, and a number of Their Highnesses, Excellencies, and other high-ranking officials.

On this occasion, His Highness Shaikh Nasser bin Hamad Al Khalifa expressed his profound gratitude and appreciation to His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa for his generous patronage of the tournament, which reflects His Majesty's great interest in Bahraini sports and his continuous support for hosting international sporting events. He also commended the ongoing support of His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Crown Prince and Prime Minister, and his commitment to creating the ideal environment for hosting world-class championships.

His Highness noted that the Bapco Energies Bahrain Golf Championship is a prominent event on the international golf calendar, distinguished by its exceptional organization and high level of competition. He added that it also provides an opportunity to showcase Bahrain's advanced sporting and tourism capabilities to the world, and wished all participants every success.

The opening ceremony began with the playing of the national anthem, followed by a speech from His Highness Shaikh Khalid bin Hamad Al Khalifa, who expressed his gratitude and appreciation to His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, may God protect him, for His Majesty's continued support of the sports movement in general and golf in particular, and to His Royal Highness Prince Salman bin Hamad Al Khalifa, Crown Prince and Prime Minister for his ongoing support of the sports sector.

His Highness also expressed his thanks to His Highness Shaikh Nasser bin Hamad Al Khalifa for his care and attention to the development of Bahraini sports.

His Highness noted that this year's tournament features a selection of the world's top golfers, including three Bahraini players, along with a comprehensive program of entertainment events. He commended the efforts of all those involved in organizing the tournament, including Bapco Energies, the sponsors, partners, working committees, and volunteers.

Riffa Stay Firm in Title Hunt

Hussain Almaskati
TDT | Manama

Matchday 13 of the Nassr Bin Hamad Premier League wrapped up yesterday with decisive victories for Riffa and A'ali, shaking up both the top and mid-table standings.

At Khalifa Sports City, Riffa defeated Sitra 3-1 to move level on points with leaders Al Khaldiya and second-placed Muharrarq. Mohammed Mashaan's side started brightly and were rewarded in the 25th minute. Ali Madan delivered a precise long-range free kick that Samuel Toscas met with a low header, beating goalkeeper Youssef Habib. On the stroke of halftime, Riffa thought they had doubled their advantage through Yacouba Diarra, but VAR ruled the goal out due to a handball in the build-up, leaving the score 1-0 at the break.

The second half saw Riffa pull away. Madan struck a superb goal in the 67th minute, skipping past his marker to slot into the near post. Just three minutes later, Wellington's cross found Toscas, who squared the ball for Gabryel de Andrade to score. The Brazilian's first-time finish into the top corner left Sitra

Joy for Riffa players as they keep the pressure on the league leaders helpless. A late penalty rebound gave Sitra a consolation, with Carlos Cavafe heading home after Abdulkarim Fardan saved the initial strike from Juda da Silva. Meanwhile, A'ali overcame

Al Najma 2-0 at Shaikh Ali bin Mohammed Al Khalifa Stadium. Captain Faisal Ghazi's sensational delivery from the wing led to Diego Cardoso rising to head home in the 53rd minute.

Seven minutes later, a midfield scramble ended with Riad Id-bouguiguine finding Englishman Layton Nduwku, who fired emphatically into the top-right corner.

With these results, Riffa join Al Khaldiya and Muharrarq on 30 points at the summit. Sitra are in ninth on 15 points, A'ali sit fifth on 16, and Al Najma occupy 10th with 12 points.

Bapco Energies Bahrain Championship tees off

The 2026 Bapco Energies Bahrain Championship tees off today at Royal Golf Club, marking the start of four days of competition as the DP World Tour returns to the kingdom for its third successive edition. Following yesterday's Pro-Am, attention now turns fully to tournament play, with a strong international field chasing early-season momentum on a course that has already proven demanding.

This year's championship features a stellar lineup, led by Major champions Patrick Reed and Sergio Garcia, alongside former Bahrain winner Dylan Frittelli. Reed arrives in top form after lifting the Hero Dubai Desert Classic last week, adding further intrigue to a field packed with pedigree.

The Royal Golf Club is expected to test every aspect of a player's game, rewarding accuracy and patience over four competitive rounds. With conditions familiar to many in the field, margins are likely to be tight as the tournament unfolds.

Bahrain's flag is paraded during Tuesday's opening ceremony at Royal Golf Club

Among those teeing it up this week are three Bahraini golfers who earned their places through the national qualifying pathway, gaining invaluable exposure alongside the world's best. Ali Alkowari returns for a second consecutive year and is eager to build on last season's experience.

"I cannot describe the feeling of playing here again – it's really nice," Alkowari said. "Last year was tough, but we trained very well to qualify. It was a four-day qualifier and very demanding. This year I feel more confident, and the course looks great. We've been playing it every day, so we know it well."

Sharing the fairways with global stars is an added motivation. "Players like Sergio Garcia and Patrick Reed are here, and it's really special to compete in the same tournament as them," he added.

Ahmed Alzayed is also representing Bahrain for the second time and believes last year's debut has better prepared him for this week's challenge. "I'm very proud to represent Bahrain again," he said. "Last year I was nervous because it was my first time at this level. This year I trust myself more."

Alzayed noted that experience has shaped his strategy. "I learned that patience is key here. You don't need to be aggressive. The last four holes are tricky, so you have to be smart and safe."

Khalifa Almaraisi completes the Bahraini trio, highlighting the continued growth of golf in the kingdom.

The championship was officially launched on Tuesday with an opening ceremony at Royal Golf Club, where a landmark 10-year agreement was announced securing the event's place on the DP World Tour calendar until at least 2036. Also unveiled was the Nasser Golf Academy, a new initiative aimed at nurturing future talent in the kingdom. Now, however, the focus is firmly on the competition, as Bahrain once again firmly positions itself at the heart of international golf.

Canter excited to defend Bapco Energies Bahrain Championship title in the Kingdom

Manama

Laurie Canter will be aiming to replicate his winning ways at Royal Golf Club this week when he defends his title at the Bapco Energies Bahrain Championship.

Last year's event saw the Englishman secure the second DP World Tour win of his career, claiming victory in a three-way play-off over compatriot Daniel Brown and Spain's Pablo Larrazabal.

Twelve months on, Canter is hoping his knowledge of the impressive course, mixed with fond memories of a successful week, sets him up well for a strong finish aftront of local fans in the Kingdom of Bahrain.

"It's great to be back. There are obviously a lot of good memories," said Canter. "It's the first time I've been able to defend a tournament on the DP World Tour, so it was great to get out and play the front nine in the Pro-Am today."

"It's a big buzz to come back, I think you sort of get a natural lift. You obviously know the golf course and getting to grips with it, but you do really have your memories within what we did. It took me over 150 events to win my first one, so those kind of emotions are always going to be around when you're back at a venue that that has happened.

"It was the beginning of a really good run of golf. A couple of weeks later, I had a good result in South Africa, lost in a play-off there, so that got me into the Masters and the Players' Championship, and a few cool things at the beginning of the year. It's cool to think it kickstarted that period of really good play for me. Hopefully I can get myself going again this year early in the season."

On course changes and conditions, Canter added: "They've made a change to 17, slightly changed where the rough and the fairway line goes there, and I think the 11th hole is about 40 yards longer as well. Other than that, it's the same but I would say it's in fantastic condition. They've done a really good job here."

One player who will be aiming to stand in his way is Patrick Reed.

The American registered his first Rolex Series win at the Hero Dubai Desert Classic last week, which saw him move to the top of the International Swing rankings, to second on the Race to Dubai leaderboard and become the World Number 29.

Reed, whose off-season focus centred around consistency in his ball strike, is looking to build on the confidence gained in Dubai, for what will be his second appearance in Bahrain.

"The game feels really solid and we're looking forward to getting right back at it and getting playing here this week, and just trying to take that confidence in the way I was playing last week into this week," said Reed.

"The first couple of weeks out on the road, at the start of the season after an off-season, is really to kind of see if what you worked on during the off-season actually worked, and to come out and play the way we did, especially to go out and get a win at such a demanding golf course last week, definitely allows me to have the confidence and hopefully jumpstart to having a really good year."

On his off-season work, Reed explained: "The biggest thing was obviously hitting fairways – drive the ball a little better, get the irons a little sharper, just allow the short game to continue being short game. This year, the focus was let's hit the ball a little better, let's get the ball striking back, so then we can go out and shoot lower numbers and just be more consistent off the tee and on the approaches, so that I can allow the short game to be a weapon rather than a saviour."

The pair join Major champions Padraig Harrington and Sergio Garcia in this week's field, alongside a host of international stars, including Larrazabal, 2024 winner Dylan Frittelli and current Race to Dubai leader Jayden Schaper. Dubai Invitational winner Nacho Elvira and France's Julien Guerrier, who has recorded back-to-back top-three finishes, will also tee it up at Royal Golf Club.

Harrington, making his latest appearance in the Kingdom, spoke highly of the venue's evolution: "The golf course has matured over the years, it has grown into a good tournament venue. When we first came here in 2011, they had to manage it a lot. Now the players are bigger, stronger and hit it further, and we can be let loose on this golf course. It's definitely matured into a really good tournament."

"Out here in Bahrain, they're really putting the effort in to grow the game. You've got a lot of people new to the game here, there's a lot of locals, not necessarily ex-pats. It is important that we have a good tournament and a good show. I think this course lends itself to that; the last couple of holes are very dramatic, plenty of water, so if you can get a tight finish, there will be some drama for sure."

Larrazabal, who narrowly missed out on victory last year, returns with determination: "I have great memories from this place, from the people of Bahrain, and it's great to be back. Today I had the pleasure to play with his Highness, and it was a beautiful experience, and hopefully I play the same way for 71 holes, and I manage to finish on top this time."

The $2.75 million DP World Tour tournament, held under the patronage of His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa, was officially launched on Tuesday night, with an Opening Ceremony held at Royal Golf Club.

The prestigious event, attended by His Highness Sheikh Nasser Al Khalifa and His Highness Sheikh Khalid bin Hamad Al Khalifa, also saw the announcement of a new multi-year partnership with the DP World Tour and the Bahrain Olympic Committee, which will secure the Bapco Energies Bahrain Championship on the Tour's schedule until at least 2036.

The extended agreement reinforces the Tour's commitment to delivering world-class sporting experiences, driving innovation and sustainability, and further strengthening Bahrain's position as a leading destination for international sport, tourism and business.
