Iran remains 'biggest threat' to regional security, stability

General Michael "Erik" Kurilla highlights the role of Task Force 59 in partnership with Royal Bahrain Naval Force

Staff Reporter
TDT | Manama

The US Central Command is constantly monitoring the threat streams in the region and continues to see Iran as the biggest threat to regional security and stability, said General Michael "Erik" Kurilla, US CENTCOM Commander.

In an exclusive interview with The Daily Tribune, General Kurilla said Tehran furnishes weapons, supports, and offers direction to proxies across the region who engage in acts of terror and undermine local governments, all advancing Iranian interests. "We remain in constant contact with our partners in the region, to include the Bahrain Defense Force. When appropriate, we will not hesitate to take action to defend our forces or partners in the region. CENTCOM's commitment to the region is ironclad."

"Additionally, CENTCOM's unmanned systems and artificial intelligence task force, Task Force 59, is critical to advancing shared interests and introducing new unmanned systems. Task Force 59 employs a variety of advanced unmanned surface vessels, aerial platforms, and AI systems in partnership with the Royal Bahrain Naval Force."

"The task force works closely with members of industry and academia, as well as other experts, to provide operator feedback and help drive the innovation process forward. Some AI-based systems are currently contributing to daily operations enhancing maritime surveillance."

When asked about the recent horrifying blast in Turkey and Ankara's allegations against the US, the CENTCOM Commander referred to the US State Department stance on the matter. "The United States urges an immedi-

Improved credit rating big boost for Kingdom

TDT | Manama

The Standard & Poor's raise of Bahrain's outlook from stable to positive contributes to boosting the Kingdom's financial reputation and lowering the cost of public debt, as well as increasing investor confidence in the attractive environment for the national economy.

This was affirmed by the Bahrain Association of Banks (BAB), which predicted that the rest of the international credit rating agencies would follow suit in the near future.

The financial sector and banks in the Kingdom reacted positively to the news of Bahrain's credit rating improvement, BAB Chairman Adnan Yousif said, especially since this improvement will soon be reflected in the classification of financial and banking institutions themselves.

"With the increase in oil prices, the success of the fiscal balance program, and the resumption of economic growth, particularly in the non-oil sectors, all signs unequivocally show that the financial and economic conditions in the Kingdom of Bahrain are beginning to improve," he said.

"The credit situation and domestic liquidity both benefit from all of this."

Yousif added that the increase in Bahrain's credit rating also highlights the significance of the substantial economic reforms that the government has been implementing lately.

They have led to fruitful outcomes despite the challenging economic circumstances that the world is experiencing, and once again demonstrates Bahrain's ability to achieve financial and monetary stability through its prudent policies, he said.

Al Asfoor, deputised by His Majesty King Hamad bin Isa Al Khalifa to participate in the event, reviewed the experience of the Kingdom of Bahrain in the field of social protection, and the precautionary measures taken by the government, under HM the King's directives.

The Minister cited the launch of a financial package worth more than $12 billion, devoted to supporting the national economy, and to enhancing the efficiency of the health sector in providing free treatment services to citizens and residents, without discrimination.

He also highlighted the numerous measures taken to support citizens with electricity and water bills, raise the volume of monthly amounts allocated to sponsored orphans and widows by 20%, fulfil the payment of dues of beneficiaries with limited income on the date of their disbursement, and ensure that the government pays the salaries of insured citizens in the most affected private sector facilities.

Five acquitted of shrimp fishing during ban period

TDT | Manama

The Minor Criminal Court acquitted five defendants accused of shrimp fishing during the ban period, while convicting one of them for engaging in unlicensed commercial fishing.

Lawyer Hamad Abdullah Bushlaibi said that his client and four others were accused of bottom trawling in the territorial waters of the Kingdom of Bahrain and sailing in a restricted area during the ban period.

The Public Prosecution also charged the first and second defendants with non-compliance with public officials regarding inspection, as they refused to obey the orders of the coast guard patrol and failed to switch on the ship identification device.

They also practised commercial fishing without obtaining licence from the competent authority.

The court indicated that the lawsuit papers were devoid of definitive evidence to convict the defendants, adding that after examining the case and taking note of facts and circumstances, it concluded that the existing evidence was dubious. The court is incapable of convicting and penalising the defendants beyond reasonable doubt.

In a criminal trial, any doubt regarding soundness of the attributed charge is sufficient cause for the court to acquit the defendant, as long as the case has been studied with insight.

Justice is less harmed by a criminal evading punishment than when individuals' rights and freedoms are encroached.

Accordingly, the court decided to fine the second defendant BD500 for unlicensed commercial fishing, since his boat is licensed for pleasure only.

The board of Abu Dhabi's ADNOC endorsed plans yesterday to bring forward the company's five million barrel per day oil production capacity expansion to 2027 from a previous target of 2030, the state oil firm said in a statement.

The new date will provide ADNOC with the flexibility to meet rising global energy demand, it said.

The United Arab Emirates' hydrocarbon reserves increased by 2 bn stock tank barrels (STB) of oil and 1 trillion standard cubic feet (TSCF) of natural gas in 2022.

The additional reserves increase the UAE's reserve base to 113 bn STB of oil and 290 TSCF of natural gas, ADNOC said.

A gas processing and marketing entity to be effective from January, the company will combine the operations, maintenance and marketing of ADNOC Gas Processing and ADNOC LNG into one consolidated entity.

ADNOC said it plans to float a minority stake in the new company on the Abu Dhabi Securities Exchange (ADX) in 2023.

A five-year business plan and capital expenditure of 550 bn dirhams ($150 bn) for the period 2023-2027 was also approved by the board to enable the company's growth strategy.

Television Ltd (NDTV) (NDTV.NS) said yesterday an entity backed by its founders had issued shares to a unit of Adani Group, taking the billionaire Gautam Adani-led conglomerate a step closer to taking over the media firm.

The transfer of shares will give Adani control over a 29.18% stake in the news group. Adani is also conducting an open offer running between Nov. 22 and Dec. 5 for a 26% stake in NDTV.

The open offer drew bids for 5.3 million shares as of Monday's close, or around 32% the 16.8 million shares on offer, exchange data showed.

The ports-to-energy conglomerate run by Asia's richest man unveiled plans late in August to acquire a majority stake in the popular news network, seen as a bastion of independent media.

Rolls-Royce successfully tests hydrogen-powered jet engine

● Engine used green hydrogen created by wind and tidal power

Reuters | London

Britain's Rolls-Royce (RR.L) said it has successfully run an aircraft engine on hydrogen, a world aviation first that marks a major step towards proving the gas could be key to decarbonising air travel.

The ground test, using a converted Rolls-Royce AE 2100-A regional aircraft engine, used green hydrogen created by wind and tidal power, the British company said yesterday.

Rolls and its testing programme partner easyJet (EZJ.L) are seeking to prove that hydrogen can safely and efficiently deliver power for civil aero engines.

They said they were already planning a second set of tests, with a longer-term ambition to carry out flight tests.

Hydrogen is one of a number of competing technologies that could help the aviation industry achieve its goal of becoming net zero by 2050.

Planemaker Airbus is working with French-U.S. engine maker CFM International to test hydrogen propulsion technology.

It said in February it planned to fit a specially adapted version of a current generation engine near the back of an A380 super-jumbo test plane.

The aircraft manufacturer

however told the European Union in 2021 that most airliners will rely on traditional jet engines until at least 2050.

A switch to hydrogen-powered engines would require a complete redesign of airframes and infrastructure at airports.

Eric Schulz, chief executive of SHZ Consulting, said in July that the changes in design are so massive it would take more than one generation of aircraft to get there.

Other technologies backed by companies such as Rolls-Royce include electric engines, which would be initially suitable for short flights, and sustainable aviation fuel (SAF).

Engines that are already in service can use a mixture of SAF and conventional fuels, but it is only currently produced in minuscule levels.

It could eventually be produced by combining carbon captured from the air with green hydrogen, but the process is energy intensive and not yet available on a large scale.

◆ Fine particle air pollution led to 238,000 premature deaths in the European Union in 2020, the bloc's environmental watchdog said Thursday, a slight rise from the previous year. At the same time, the overall rate for EU countries in 2020 was 45 percent lower than in 2005, the agency said, noting that "if this rate of decline is maintained, the EU will reach [its] zero pollution action plan target before 2030." Across the 27-nation bloc that year, "exposure to concentrations of fine particulate matter above the 2021 World Health Organization guideline level resulted in 238,000 premature deaths," the European Environment Agency said in a new report.

◆ The US Transportation Security Administration (TSA) said it screened 2.56 million air passengers on Sunday, the highest number since December 2019 and the busiest day since the start of the COVID-19 pandemic. The number was, however, below the 2.88 million screened on the same day in 2019 at the end of the busy US Thanksgiving travel period. US airlines reported very few cancellations over the holiday travel period, including 177 on Sunday and 36 yesterday. US Transportation Secretary Pete Buttigieg said

◆ Monkeypox is to be renamed mpxo, the World Health Organization announced yesterday, in a bid to avoid stigmatisation stemming from the existing name. Monkeypox received its name because the virus was originally identified in monkeys kept for research in Denmark in 1958, but the disease is found in a number of animals, and most frequently in rodents. A surge in monkeypox infections has been reported since early May among men who have sex with men, outside the African countries where it has long been endemic. "When the outbreak of monkeypox expanded earlier this year, racist and stigmatising language online, in other settings and in some communities was observed and reported to WHO," the UN health agency said in a statement.

◆ Police yesterday stopped and searched people at the sites of weekend protests in Shanghai and Beijing, after crowds there and in other Chinese cities demonstrated against stringent COVID-19 measures disrupting lives three years into the pandemic. From the streets of several Chinese cities to dozens of university campuses, protesters made a show of civil disobedience unprecedented since leader Xi Jinping assumed power a decade ago. During his tenure, Xi has overseen the quashing of dissent and expansion of a high-tech social surveillance system that has made protest more difficult, and riskier. There was no sign of new protests yesterday in Beijing or Shanghai, but dozens of police were in the areas where the demonstrations took place. Police have been asking people for their phones to check if they had virtual private networks (VPNs) and the Telegram app, which has been used by weekend protesters, residents and social media users said. VPNs are illegal for most people in China, while the Telegram app is blocked from China's internet.

Potatoes can help you lose weight, scientists say

Daily Mail

Those looking to lose weight have long been told to avoid carb-heavy foods.

But though it may seem counter-intuitive, scientists now believe starchy potatoes could be the secret to shedding pounds.

This is because, at meal-times, people tend to eat the same weight of food in order to feel full, regardless of how many calories the meal contains. According to researchers, those who add potatoes - which are carb-rich and dense - to their plate become full faster, therefore preventing them from trying to fill up on more calorific foods after.

Potatoes contain around 80 calories per 100g - more than twice as much as other vegetables, such as carrots and broccoli.

But they also contain up to half the calories of bread, pasta and rice, when eaten in the same quantities.

But researchers were quick to point out that the method of cooking and preparing the potatoes is important - and that eating chips and crisps should be avoided, since frying lowers the nutritional value.

Study co-author Professor Candida Rebello, a dietitian at Pennington Biomedical Research Centre in Baton Rouge, Louisiana in the US, said: "People tend to eat the same weight of food regardless of calorie content in order to feel full."

"By eating foods with a heavier weight that are low in calories, you can easily reduce the number of calories you consume."

"The key aspect of our study is that we did not reduce the portion size of meals but lowered their caloric content by including potatoes."

"Each participant's meal was tailored to their personalised caloric needs, yet by replacing some meat content with potato, participants found themselves fuller, quicker, and often did not even finish their meal."

"In effect, you can lose weight with little effort."

US weighs sending 100 strike weapon to Ukraine

● US and allied military inventories are shrinking, and Ukraine faces an increasing need for more sophisticated weapons

● GLSDB could be delivered as early as spring 2023

Reuters | Washington

The Pentagon is considering a Boeing proposal to supply Ukraine with cheap, small precision bombs fitted onto abundantly available rockets, allowing Kyiv to strike far behind Russian lines as the West struggles to meet the demand for more arms.

US and allied military inventories are shrinking, and Ukraine faces an increasing need for more sophisticated weapons as the war drags on. Boeing's proposed system, dubbed Ground-Launched Small Diameter Bomb (GLSDB), is one of about a half-dozen plans for getting new munitions into production for Ukraine and America's Eastern European allies, industry sources said.

Although the United States has rebuffed requests for the 185-mile (297km) range ATACMS missile, the GLSDB's 94-mile (150km) range would allow Ukraine to hit valuable military targets that have been out of reach and help it continue pressing its counterattacks by disrupting Russian rear areas.

GLSDB could be delivered as early as spring 2023, according to a document reviewed by Reuters and three people familiar with the plan. It combines the GBU-39 Small Diameter Bomb (SDB) with the M26 rocket motor, both of which are common in U.S. inventories.

Doug Bush, the US Army's chief weapons buyer, told reporters at the Pentagon last week the Army was also looking at accelerating production of 155-millimeter artillery shells - currently only manufactured at government facilities - by allowing defence contractors to build them.

The invasion of Ukraine drove up demand for American-made weapons and ammunition, while US allies in Eastern Europe are "putting a lot of orders," in for a range of arms as they supply Ukraine, Bush added.

"It's about getting quantity at a cheap cost," said Tom Karako, a weapons and security expert at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. He said falling US inventories help explain the rush to get more arms now,

Food of the future: London air raid shelter to undergo

Reuters | London

In an underground World War Two air raid shelter where London tube trains can be heard rattling overhead, aromatic coriander leaves tilt towards the pink glow of LED bulbs - a vision of how farms could look in the future.

Zero Carbon Farms grows herbs and salads in Clapham, south London, a densely populated area with no room for conventional agriculture. But 30 metres below ground there is a kilometre of tunnels, and technology has made farming here a reality.

Seven years after its first harvest, the company will soon double its growing space, responding to strong demand for its pea shoots, rocket and watercress from major British retailers like Marks & Spencer (MKS.L) and local restaurants.

Buyers like the freshness of the produce, which can make it onto a diner's plate within two hours of harvesting, as well as its arrival into the city without racking up

"The future is very, very bright for this industry and I think that what really is going to be the fundamental pivot point is the right application of technology," said the farm's head grower Tommaso Vermeir. Vertical farming, the name given to the production of crops in a series of stacked levels, often in a controlled environment, is a fast-growing industry with billions of dollars being pumped into projects across the globe.

It is seen as part of the solution to the food security challenge posed by population expansion at a time when climate change and geopolitics threaten supply.

But growing by artificial light is more energy intensive than conventional farming and the high costs of production have been a challenge for vertical farms across the world.

"What makes this industry so exciting and challenging is that no one's quite cracked it," said Zero Carbon Farm's business development director Olivia O'Brien.

The farm's subterranean location provides inbuilt insulation from the cold. The company has what it calls "virtual private wiring" bringing in energy from renewable sources.

Police bust cocaine 'super-cartel' in Europe and Dubai

● The crackdown in Dubai netted a "big fish" from the Netherlands

● The Dutch suspect had allegedly formed an alliance in Dubai with the leaders of Irish and Italian drug gangs

● Europol said Dubai had arrested two "high-value" suspects who are linked to France, two connected to the Netherlands and another two linked to Spain

● The head of the smuggling operation, a British national, fled to Dubai after an attempted arrest in Spain and was continuing to direct operations from there

News Wires

Police have smashed a huge drugs "super-cartel" that controlled around a third of Europe's cocaine trade, arresting 49 people in various countries, including six chief suspects in Dubai, Europol said yesterday.

The international operation codenamed "Desert Light" seized 30 tonnes of the drug and led to arrests in Belgium, France, the Netherlands and Spain, the European Union's police agency said in a statement.

The crackdown in Dubai netted a "big fish" from the Netherlands, who reportedly had links to alleged Dutch crime boss Ridouan Taghi, himself seized in the Gulf emirate in 2019.

"The druggins, considered as high-value targets by Europol, had come together to form what was known as a 'super cartel' which controlled around one third of the cocaine trade in Europe," Europol said.

"The scale of cocaine importation into Europe under the suspects' control and command was massive and over 30 tonnes of drugs were seized by law enforcement over the course of the investigations."

The Dutch suspect had allegedly formed an alliance in Dubai with the leaders of Irish and Italian drug gangs who had also been arrested, Dutch public broadcaster NOS said.

A video released by Europol showed agents including some from the US Drug Enforcement Administration and Spanish Guardia Civil arresting suspects and seizing luxury cars and hidden stashes of cash.

'Extremely big fish'

Europol said Dubai had arrested two "high-value" suspects who are linked to France, two connected to the Netherlands and another two linked to Spain. Ten people were arrested in Belgium, six in France and 13 in Spain. Another 14 people were arrested in 2021 in the Netherlands as part of the same operation, the Hague-based organisation said.

"One of the Dutch suspects is an extremely big fish," a Europol source said on condition

The cartel was also involved in money laundering, according to Europol, which coordinated the operation of anonymity. "He was just as important as Taghi, if not more important."

The arrests from November 8 to 19 were the latest in a series around Europe that followed a police hack of sophisticated encrypted telephones used by organised crime networks last year, Europol said.

Police secretly used the SKY ECC phone platform to listen in on what were supposed to be secure communications between drug traffickers.

Most of the drugs targeted cocaine coming from South America through the ports of Rotterdam and Antwerp, although some had passed through South Africa.

Dutch prosecutors said they would request the extradition of the two suspects from the United Arab Emirates.

One was a 40-year-old dual Dutch-Bosnian national, suspected of smuggling 1.8 tonnes of cocaine via the German port of Hamburg in 2020, and of preparing to import 8 tonnes of raw materials for producing amphetamines via Antwerp in Belgium. Dutch media named him as Edin G. and said he was wanted by the US DEA for his links to alleged drug kingpin Ridouan Taghi.

Moroccan-born Taghi was arrested in Dubai in 2019. He is now on trial in the Netherlands on charges of murder and running a huge Amsterdam-based cocaine smuggling group.

'Serious criminal offences'

The other suspect is a 37-year-old dual Dutch and Moroccan national, whom Dutch media named as Zouhair B. and said had allegedly smuggled three tonnes of cocaine to the Netherlands worth more than 200 million euros. He was also suspected of money laundering and firearms possession.

The investigation into both men was launched on the basis of decrypted messages from SKY phones, the Dutch prosecution service said in a statement.

"These are serious criminal offences pertaining to international drug trafficking, mainly from South America via the ports of Antwerp and Rotterdam," it said.

Spain's Guardia Civil said a total of 13 people had been arrested in Barcelona, Madrid and Malaga on November 8 after 698 kilograms (1,539 pounds) of cocaine were found in a container in the port of Valencia.

The head of the smuggling operation, a British national, fled to Dubai after an attempted arrest in Spain and was continuing to direct operations from there, it said in a statement.

The cocaine was imported from Panama in central America and his supplier, a Panamanian, also lived in Dubai, it said.

Hawaii's Mauna Loa volcano erupts for first time in nearly 40 years

Reuters

Hawaii's Mauna Loa, the world's largest active volcano, began erupting on Sunday for the first time since 1984, ending its longest quiet period in recorded history.

The night sky above Hawaii's largest island glowed a hellish red as bright, hot lava sprang forth at the volcano's summit at around 11:30 p.m. local time on Sunday (0930 GMT Monday).

The lava is contained within the summit and does not threaten Hawaiians living downslope for now, the US Geological Ser-

The service warned residents on Monday that volcanic gases and fine ash may drift their way.

Mauna Loa rises 13,679 feet (4,169 meters) above the Pacific Ocean, part of the chain of volcanoes that formed the islands of Hawaii. It last erupted in March and April of 1984, sending a flow of lava within 5 miles (8.05 km) of Hilo, the island's largest city.

Hawaii's Emergency Management Agency said it had opened two shelters on the island as a precaution but also emphasized that there are no signs that lava will threaten populated areas and that it had not issued any evacuation orders.

Kate Hudson is 'not religious' about her beauty routine

Celebretainment | Los Angeles

Kate Hudson is "not religious" about her beauty routine.

The 43-year-old actress - who is also the founder of wellness brand InBloom - explained that she has started to "enjoy" having a skincare regime as she gets older but doesn't stick to it every single day and doesn't take her makeup off every night.

She said: "I've always had some kind of routine, and I enjoy it more now that I'm older. [Though] I'm not religious about it which I know a lot of people would be like 'You have to take your makeup off every night' and I'm not gonna lie, I have nights where I do not do that."

The 'Almost Famous' star went on to explain that she loves a variety of products but named "sleep, hydration and supplements" as the key components to her skincare regime.

Speaking in a video for Vogue, she added: "I think because I love products so much, that keeps me playing with my skincare routine and I change it all the time. So, like, what I'm using today is not what I'll be using next week. I do like to do eye masks though before I put on before I put on makeup."

"Everyone always asks me like 'Skincare, skincare, what do you do?' Three things. Sleep, hydration, supplements. I created a supplement with InBloom called Beauty Aura and I take this every day. For me, for skin, fine line, hair and nails, this is my dream product."

Meditation is probably the most important self-care that I do. I know it sounds silly but when you have your eye mask is a really good time to do it. I can thank my mom for that because she's been doing that since the '70s!"

Late Casemiro strike sends Brazil into last 16

Casemiro's late goal was enough to see off the Swiss and send Brazil through to the knockout stage

● Casemiro scored in the final 10 minutes

AFP

A Brazil side lacking spark without the injured Neymar needed a late strike from Casemiro to edge out Switzerland 1-0 yesterday as the five-time winners secured their place in the World Cup last 16 with one game to spare.

The Brazilians had been frustrated by an obdurate Swiss side and it looked as if they would have to settle for a point after a Vinicius Junior strike in the second half was disallowed for offside following a VAR check.

But then, with seven minutes remaining, Bruno Guimarães flicked the ball on to Casemiro just inside the box and the Manchester United midfielder's volley flew into the net with the help of a slight but significant deflection off Manuel Akanji.

Tite's side are just the second team to qualify for the last 16 after France and the only side apart from the holders to have won both group matches so far.

With six points they will be tempted to rest players for their final Group G game against Cameroon on Friday, when a draw will secure them top spot. Switzerland, meanwhile, failed to muster a shot on target but remain on course to qualify too, with the 3-3 draw between Serbia and Cameroon earlier meaning a win against the Serbians will take Murat Yakin's side through and a draw may also suffice.

They have made a habit of making at least the first knock-out round at major tournaments, while Brazil are playing to win a sixth World Cup and nothing less will do.

The Selecao were always going to miss Neymar, although coach Tite has said he is confident the Paris Saint-Germain superstar will recover from his ankle injury to play a part again at the finals.

The result extended Brazil's unbeaten run in the group stage to 17 matches, with 14 wins and three draws. It has lost only one of its last 29 group games, with the last defeat coming against Norway in 1998 in France

After the class of Richarlison made the difference in their opening win over Serbia, this was a reminder for the Brazilians of the strength in depth in the European game.

Four years ago, before being dumped out by Belgium in the quarter-finals, they were also held by Switzerland in the group stage.

Yakin's side therefore had no reason to fear Brazil, who introduced Manchester United midfielder Fred into their lineup in place of Neymar.

Fernandes double sends Portugal into knock-outs

Portugal's Cristiano Ronaldo scores the opening goal

AFP

Bruno Fernandes scored twice to give Portugal a 2-0 victory over Uruguay yesterday and send them into the knock-out stages of the World Cup alongside France and Brazil.

The Manchester United midfielder scored a cross-cum-shot nine minutes into the second half and then added an injury-time penalty following a handball by Jose Maria Gimenez.

The match also featured the first pitch invader of the tournament -- the man carried messages of support for Ukraine and Iranian women and had a rainbow flag.

With Portugal already through, Uruguay must now beat Ghana in their final Group H match to stand any chance of also progressing.

Both sides made three changes from their opening matches, with Portugal bringing in veteran Pepe for the injured Danilo Pereira, who suffered cracked ribs in training. Pepe became the third-oldest

As the ball nestled in the goal, Ronaldo wheeled away in celebration but FIFA decided he had not touched the ball, thus denying him a ninth World Cup goal, which would have put him level with Portuguese great Eusebio outfield player in World Cup history.

Portugal dominated the first half, hogging the ball and creating several chances, but without ever testing Uruguay goalkeeper Sergio Rochet.

Uruguay's forwards, Edinson Cavani and Darwin Nunez were starved of the ball but the South Americans still had the best opportunity of the first period.

Rodrigo Bentancur picked the ball up in his own half and surged forwards, slipping between two defenders to find himself one-on-one with goalkeeper Diogo Costa, who spread himself well to save the midfielder's shot.

Kudus double for Ghana sinks South Korea

Ghana's Mohammed Kudus in action with South Korea's Jeong Woo-yeong and Jung Woo-young

Mohammed Kudus scored twice as Ghana beat South Korea 3-2 in a pulsating World Cup encounter yesterday to keep their World Cup hopes alive and leave Paulo Bento's side facing an early exit.

Mohammed Salisu opened the scoring against the run of play midway through the first half and Ajax midfielder Kudus doubled the Black Stars' lead.

But the Asian side, who looked toothless in the first half, roared back after the break, pulling level through a quickfire double from forward Cho Gue-sung either side of the hour mark.

Ghana became the third African nation to make it to the World Cup quarter-finals at the 2010 tournament. Black Stars captain Andre Ayew was also on that squad. No African team has reached the World Cup semifinals

Ghana looked shell-shocked as the Korean fans celebrated wildly but they were back in front in the 68th minute when Kudus finished calmly at the back post after Inaki Williams failed to connect with a cross from the left.

Cameroon fight back to draw thriller with Serbia

AFP

Cameroon kept their hopes of making the last 16 of the World Cup alive yesterday after fighting back from two goals down to draw a thrilling Group G encounter with Serbia 3-3.

Rigobert Song's team looked almost dead and buried after goals from Strahinja Pavlovic, Sergej Milinkovic-Savic and Aleksandar Mitrovic gave Serbia a 3-1 lead early in the second half.

But substitute Vincent Aboubakar and Eric Maxim Choupo-Moting snatched a draw with two quick-fire strikes just after the hour mark to leave both Cameroon and Serbia on a single point, two behind group leaders Brazil and Switzerland.

Had they lost, Cameroon would have been relying on the Swiss beating Brazil in order to not be eliminated with a game to spare, but instead the west Africans still have a chance of getting out of the group stage for the first time since 1990.

Cameroon's Vincent Aboubakar scores their second goal

Cameroon have a tough task ahead as they play Brazil in their final match, which according to reports they will play without first-choice goalkeeper Andre Onana who was dropped from the matchday squad just hours before kick-off following an unspecified disciplinary issue.

Media reports suggest that Onana has been sent home from the World Cup after a disagreement with Song, but that pre-match turmoil didn't stop Cameroon putting in a fighting display against a Serbia team who probably deserved to win on the balance of play.

Mitrovic was almost invisible in Serbia's defeat to Brazil but here he was involved from kick-off, the Fulham forward

The thrilling draw was the first game at the World Cup in which both teams gave up a lead unlucky not to give Serbia the lead in the 11th minute when he crashed a shot off the post from a tight angle following a neat exchange of passes with Dusan Tadic.

But Mitrovic only had himself to blame for not opening the scoring six minutes later, shanking an awful first-time finish wide when, after a mix up in the Cameroon defence, the ball dropped at his feet with only Onana's replacement Devis Epassy to beat.

FIFA charges Germany for no player at news conference

Germany was charged in a disciplinary case by FIFA yesterday, though not for its players' "hands covering mouths" protest before playing a World Cup game last week.

FIFA said it opened a case against the German soccer fed-

Coach Hansi Flick appeared alone Saturday to meet international media ahead of the team playing Spain. He said he did not want to burden players ahead of such an important game, which Germany drew 1-1.

Germany chose a training camp furthest away from the host city, were most of the 32 teams are staying. The squad's camp is located in a resort hotel on the northern tip of the peninsula about 110 kilometres (70 miles) from the capital.

Silver lining for Taylor-Brown in Abu Dhabi

TDT | Manama

Bahrain Victorious 13 athletes were out in full force at the World Triathlon Championship Series Grand Final in Abu Dhabi, with Georgia Taylor-Brown scoring silver overall and the rest of the team making strong finishes.

The Olympic silver and gold medalist and 2020 world champion from Great Britain raced shoulder-to-shoulder with Flora Duffy, with whom she was in a dead heat for the top spot in the world rankings and the world title. After emerging from the 1.5-kilometre swim in 5th place, she stayed in the lead group on the 40-kilometre bike ride steering clear of bike crashes behind them whittling down the podium contenders to the three athletes who would eventually be on it. The 10-kilometre run decided not only who would win the race but also the series, with Taylor-Brown crossing the finish line one minute down to earn the runner-up position.

She said post-race, “It's just been a hard few months personally and I've just tried to put everything in a box and forget about it all and concentrate on the race. Cassandre Beaugrand finished in 10th for a year-end rank of 5th in the world.

In the men's race, Vincent Luis took 7th place on the day after logging the second-fastest swim and riding strong in the lead pack. This takes him up two spots to the #5 world ranking.
